LISTEN TO LUKE

Ranchmen in all West Texas have been doing their best to rid the country of coyotes, wolves, eagles, and other predators in an effort to protect their stock. This has been going on since the beginning of recorded history.

Now comes the Audubon Society to try to stop eagle killing, and now even coyotes.

One rancher — "Tex" Smith — who is on the Fred Turner place near here, has a way of his own in dealing with coyotes. He told us this week of a run-in with a mother coyote and seven pups. Tex first noticed a lot of killing going on and in his efforts to stop the offender, had succeeded in driving the predator to another pasture, where other efforts to trap or kill were fruitless. While tracking the animal, he came upon a den where the mother coyote had hidden her litter in a crevice in the rocks. Tex carried large flat stones and completely covered the only entrance so the mother could not dig them out. He set traps all around the cave but the shrewd animal simply deserted the pups and left the area.

Texas returned after several days and uncovered the cave, and taking a rabbit he had killed, used it as a lure to lift up the pups, one by one, and put them all in a sack. He used one of the pups as a lure to try to entice the mother into a trap. This, too, failed. And when that pup was returned to the other pups, they killed it.

There is no other end to this story, except that the mother is still free.

And the best way to rid your country of predators is: DON'T HANG THEM ON THE FENCE!

We read interesting editorials in a national magazine last week about some of the things that are happening nationally. There is so much, really, that we can't keep up with it all. But there has been an all-knowing attitude taken to reflect demands on the part of the administration in what looks like their efforts to "take care of the poor, ignorant people they lead." We don't like the attitude or the action.

In the recent wheat referendum question, the powers that be said: "Either go along with us on this, or else." The "or else" is a rock-bottom wheat price. In the request for additional postal funds, or no reduction in the allotment for the post office department, it was said: "Okay, no money, no service." When the money in question was not for postal service now, but for research and development of better ways of service. But the edict would cut down on certain deliveries, and curtailing existing services, in an effort to seek public support for the money. In the

Band Concert Heard Friday

Historic Building Medallions Are Placed At Two Sites

Texas Historical Building Medallions, designating structures worthy of historical significance and preservation, were placed on two buildings here Tuesday evening.

The medallion program arranged by Mrs. N. M. Mitchell, Texas Heritage chairman of the Sanderson Culture Club, began with a ceremony at El Buen Pastor Church at 6:30 p.m. Since the medallions were provided by the Terrell County Chamber of Commerce, N. M. Mitchell, president, made the preliminary remarks and introduced Mrs. Mitchell who told of the selection of the buildings by the State Historical Survey Committee headed by John Ben Sheppard.

Nicolas Flores, one of the surviving charter members of the church, received the medallion from Mrs. Mitchell and gave a brief history of the church with his granddaughter, Mrs. Martha Benavidez, serving as interpreter. Rev. Enrique Herrera, pastor, closed the ceremony there with a prayer.

Early in the century, Vicente Rodriguez and Juan Zepeda conceived the idea of starting a Methodist Church among the Latin-American people of the community. As early as 1902 there are records of three other families joining the Rodriguez and Zepeda families for worship services in their homes. The church was built in 1908. It is of adobe and stucco with red brick trim at the corners. The building, in constant use since that time, is in its original state with the exception of minor repairs to plaster and paint on the inside.

The first pastor of the church was Rev. Miguel Bustamante of Chihuahua City, Mex. he was followed by Rev. Melchor Chaparro of Roswell, N.M. The church is a member of the Rio Grande Conference.

There is now a membership of 80 and a full-time pastor, Rev. Enrique Herrera. It is yet the only Protestant Church for the Latin-Americans in the community. Mr. Flores became a member when the church was built and has been an active member, holding many offices in the church. His brother-in-law, Marcos de la Cerda, is another charter member residing in Sanderson.

The group then went to the old Sanderson State Bank building which was the other selection of the survey committee since it is not only one of the older buildings in the community in excellent state of repair, but also represents an institution in operation for many years, the first bank which was opened by Joe Kerr Sr., in his store which is now the Kerr Mercantile Co. The building erected by Mr. Kerr in 1909, served as the bank building until recent years when it was moved next door to the present location which was the former office building for Mr. Kerr's various enterprises. The old bank building has served as doctor's offices, highway department engineer's offices, and the offices of County Attorney Jack Hayre and Troy Druse, insurance agent, since the bank moved out. It is currently being re-incorporated into the bank's offices.

Joe Kerr Jr. of Del Rio, representing the Kerr family, receiving the medallion from Mrs. Mitchell and gave a brief history of the building.

The medallions are 14 inches in diameter. Red, white, and blue stars are across the bottom and "State Historical Survey Committee" encircles a raised map of Texas.

Col. Schwartz also announced that local boards will send 1,000 men for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in June. Local board quotas for June call already have been figured and sent to the state's 137 local boards.

The June quota will be filled with men who are at least 22 years old June 1, except volunteers and those legally termed delinquent under the draft law, who may be younger.

Livestock Report Due By Ranchers

Postmaster Ray Hodgkins reminds rural patrons of the Sanderson post office to be on the lookout for June Livestock Survey cards. Next week survey cards will be placed in a sample of boxes belonging to farmers and ranchmen.

"USDA bases livestock and poultry estimates on replies to this survey," Hodgkins explains. "It is important for everyone who gets a card to fill it out and return it to the letter drop. This way, USDA gets a true sample of the area's livestock and poultry holdings."

Survey cards will be forwarded to Cary D. Palmer, State Agricultural Statistician in Austin. After adding and analyzing these cards, USDA statisticians are able to estimate the state's milk production, calf and pig crops, lamb and wool crops, and the number of hens and pullets.

"Information from this survey will guide livestock and poultry producers in making important decisions," Mr. Hodgkins concluded.

'Fly Drops' Is Not Complete Answer To Worm Control

A word of warning on the screwworm control program has been issued by Texas and the U. S. Department of Agriculture officials: "Don't rely entirely on the sterile male fly program to eradicate the screwworm!"

The release of sterile male flies has been remarkably effective in Texas and the Southwest, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White noted. However, officials are concerned about reports that some livestock producers are not examining livestock regularly or treating animal wounds.

Already this season, screwworms have been found in northern Texas and close to Louisiana and Arkansas borders. It is imperative that stockmen use proven measures for preventing and treating screwworm infestations in livestock instead of relying completely on the sterile fly program, White said.

Eradication measures and cold temperatures have drastically lowered the pest numbers. A few winter infestations occurred in the extreme southern tip of Texas. Most recently, isolated infestations have occurred as far north as Andrews and Fisher Counties and as far east as Shelby County.

"Some producers apparently believe we are so close to eradication of the insect that they can relax their vigilance," one official stated. "This is a mistaken notion that could extend the time necessary to get rid of the pest. "Sterile flies will take care of screwworm cases that occur in animals that are inaccessible, such as wildlife, but they are not a substitute for control measures by individual ranchers."

Dr. Donald L. Williams, chief officer of the USDA Agriculture Research Service, pointed out that victory hinges on producers doing their part in the fight. Most outbreaks occurring now involve very few animals and small numbers of screwworms. They can be quickly controlled if discovered and reported promptly. Control measures being used include intensive livestock inspection, spraying of nearby livestock, and increased release of sterile screwworm flies.

Approximately 100 million sterile flies are being released each week over areas where the insect normally survives the winter. Particular attention is being given to rivers, streams, and other waterways which are attractive to the pest.

Mrs. Tom Herring and her granddaughter, Barbara Lusk, visited in Del Rio Sunday with Mrs. Herring's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Carta, and other relatives.

Points Given On Resuscitation By Mouth-to-Mouth

There are many physical conditions that can cause breathing to come to an abrupt halt, but the most common of these is drowning. The real tragedy of the many deaths from drowning each summer is that many could have been saved if someone nearby had known how to apply artificial respiration.

The cardinal rules of artificial respiration are simple -

1 Start immediately. Don't wait for anything. Send someone for help, but don't wait for the ambulance. It will probably be too late.

2 Keep it up. There are cases on record of breathing starting again after a lapse of many minutes, when the rescuer kept steadily at work forcing air in and out of the lungs.

Special courses in lifesaving including artificial respiration, are offered by the American Red Cross and other groups each spring. The trained rescuer is better equipped to save a life but the untrained amateur may save a life.

Most first aid experts today favor the mouth-to-mouth method of artificial respiration. First clear the air passages by drawing the tongue forward with your fingers. Place the victim half-way between a face-up and side position, tilt the head well back to insure a clear air passageway. Take a deep breath, place your mouth over the victim's mouth, and breathe into his lungs until you see his chest rise and feel the lungs expand. In mouth-to-mouth breathing pinch the victim's nostrils shut while breathing into his lungs. Remove your mouth and let the victim exhale, applying slight hand pressure between the ribs and navel to expel all air. Repeat the cycle 15 times a minute. You may cover the victim's mouth with a single layer of a clean handkerchief.

Remember: start immediately. Check the mouth for obstruction. Loosen clothing and keep the victim warm, but don't delay artificial respiration to do this. After the victim revives, be ready to resume respiration if breathing halts again. Don't give up.

unless you're positive the victim is dead.

If you're called on to help in a rescue, keep calm and move rapidly to try to get the victim breathing again as soon as possible.

President's request to keep a cut from occurring in some of his budget, he threatens higher unemployment than ever before if his requests are not granted.

These ultimatums to the people are ridiculous and dangerous. Like the edict on news: "When it is for the best interest of the nation, it's alright to lie about it or suppress it completely."

How far must we go along with such ideas before we come to the realization of where it is leading us? Must we face another "brink" before we see the chasm?

But certainly the powers that are able to withhold are the powers that are able to give. Just notice that the Ozona radar unit and the Pyote radar unit, even in the face of contracted improvements, are soon being closed down to slap the hands of West Texans for the heinous crime of "losing their sanity in the election of a Congressman in this district" who would dare to oppose the government's paying for the eradication of salt cedar on the Pecos River.

People who go along with a candidate or an idea for "what it will do for me" practices selfishness in its purest form.

People who withhold or hand out favors in return for votes are the most brazen demagogues and the most potential dictators.

We don't practice such things as individuals, as businesses, and should not as a nation!

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

IF YOU KNEW WHAT TINY LUND KNOWS ABOUT FORD DURABILITY... YOU'D BE OUT ENJOYING A '63 FORD

Ask Tiny Lund about Ford durability: He'll tell you how it helped him win America's toughest stock-car competition, the Daytona 500. Lund placed first in a Ford, with four other Fords right behind him for an unprecedented sweep of the first five places. Only the Fords were tough enough to stand the pace.

Greater durability is the reason Ford is able to offer a total-car warranty. Only a true total-performance car could offer as complete a warranty as this—with no strings attached.

Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers, in turn, warrant to owners as follows: That for 24 months or for 24,000 miles*, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by the tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades, brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items.

You can't put a long-term warranty like ours on a short-term car. The '63 Fords have a better warranty because they're built better than any Fords in history. You see evidence of this extra toughness in Ford's outstanding competitive wins this year. '63 Fords won the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500's, and the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only cars with total performance could roll up so many big wins.

Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember: If it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance.

*30 days or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, for the 427 C.I.D. V8 or 391 and 289 C.I.D. V6 engines and related power train components.
