Clean-Up Work Is Aided By Neighbors

The clean-up work, the tedious and tiresome task of raking up and digging out debris, trying to sort out salvagable items and burn off trash, began last Sunday morning by crews of local volunteers. Local crews continued the work on Monday, also.

Tuesday morning a crew of workmen, complete with equipment and food, arrived from Fort Stockton to continue the block-by-block job.

Wednesday morning a crew of workmen and equipment from

Cemetery Work Ready for 'Labor'

The big task of bringing in dirt and leveling off the cemetery has now been completed and the site is ready for the work of individuals in restoring each of the graves, according to Ervin Grigsby, president of the Sanderson Cemetery Association.

Large trucks and maintainers began work on Saturday, June 12, in bringing in dirt and filling in the channel cut by the overflowing Sanderson Canyon. They also filled in grave cavities that had settled because of the weight of water and also filled in where some minor washing had taken place.

A large portion of the Santa Rita Cemetery was completely washed away and over 90 per cent of the headstones or markers destroyed by the high waters. Curbing and monuments in Cedar Grove Cemetery were washed out of place or even completely washed away by the swift water.

Mr. Grigsby stated that work now needed in the cemetery is for lot owners or those responsible for their upkeep to go in and do what can be done in shaping up a plot or grave where the location is known. He stated that as soon as possible surveying would be done to ascertain the location of unmarked plots so that repair work could be done there.

The Cemetery Association is planning to do all that is possible to completely restore the site as soon as possible. Mr. Grigsby stated, "But it is going to take time, work, and money; and what we need mostly now is work."

"There are many plots and graves that need monuments replaced and some work done in clearing some of the silt or debris from the plot. This is hand work, but it needs to be done badly. There is also the task of replacing monuments, which is a job that must be taken care of by the family or friends," Mr. Grigsby concluded.

He expressed deep appreciation to those men who worked so hard restoring dirt to the cemetery site, and also to those who have expressed so much interest in the work that was necessary for restoration of the burial plot.

People Asked To Help In Salvage Work

Local people who have lost or found property are asked to report it to the sheriff's office, according to Sheriff Bill C. Cooksey. This is a vital part of the cleaning up process, he stated.

It cannot be emphasized too strongly that people are asked to turn in any article that they may have picked up so that proper ownership might be established. Failure to do so, if it is discovered, may lead to arrest and charges of looting.

If property is recovered and brought to the courthouse, every effort will be made to ascertain the proper owner, Cooksey said. Local officers have had very few reports of theft and looting and expressed appreciation to all local people for their cooperation in the tremendous job that has been theirs during the past two weeks.

Miss Jodie Tronson

Mrs. Carlos Dunn took her daughter, Carla, and Jodie Tronson to Del Rio Tuesday of last week and the girls went by bus to San Antonio to spend the night with relatives before going on to Austin last Wednesday to attend Bluebonnet Girls State for the next 10 days. Over 400 girls are in attendance.

Carla was elected county treasurer of Now County. Jodie was a nominee for railroad commissioner.

Miss Carla Dunn

Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Tronson with Ross Dunn and Dwight Tronson, went to Austin to attend the closing exercise of Girls' State Friday. Jodie stopped in San Antonio where Pam Stavley and Patricia Dishman joined her for the trip to Corpus Christi to attend twirling school. Vickey Rogers, who is attending a school of cosmetology there, will also attend the twirling school with them.

Important Notice

All persons having anything of value at the elementary school are asked to have it out of the building by 5:00 p.m. on Friday.

Brewster County took over, on Thursday, Val Verde County people were here for the task. Friday, Upton County workmen did clean-up chores; Saturday, Ector County furnished the crews; Monday of next week, Crane has promised to bring over a group of workmen and on Tuesday of next week Ozona workmen will be on hand to do what they can in cleaning up.

The local supervision is directing that work proceed block by block and that the effort is not to see how much ground can be covered, or uncovered, but how thorough a job can be done.

Registration Ends Monday For Flood Relief

Registration for Red Cross assistance in meeting the flood-caused recovery needs of individual families will close on Monday, June 28. Judge R. S. Wilkinson, disaster chairman of the Terrell County Red Cross Chapter, announced today.

He urged all victims of the recent flood who are unable to meet some or all of their needs to apply immediately for this assistance if they have not already done so.

Judge Wilkinson reminded local disaster victims that they may qualify for assistance in the rebuilding or repair of homes and essential buildings, replacement of furnishings, tools, food, and clothing destroyed by the flood, but it was pointed out that there can be no help to those who do not apply. To date 98 families have registered for this kind of assistance, which is given as an outright grant, and not as a loan.

Utilities, Trains Back in Operation

All public utilities are back in pre-flood operation, according to all officials contacted. Jimmy Caroline stated Monday that water and electric service is now available to every house in Sanderson who had applied for such service. The work of restoring these two utilities began as soon as it was possible to get to work on them and it was accomplished in as short a time as possible.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. employees swarmed into Sanderson last Sunday morning to begin a house-to-house canvass of telephone troubles and all of that company's systems are now in full operation. There has been no interruption of telephone service since the flood, but availability of trunk lines because of so many people calling in and out that long distance calling has, at times, been delayed until a circuit is available.

Train service was restored last week over temporary tracks while work went on in restoring trestles and bridges and washed out roadbeds and tracks. The railroad crews have been working every day since the flood in restoring their lines and communications and signal systems and have set up their own kitchen facilities for feeding their employees.

The railroad donated workmen and equipment for clean-up work in Sanderson on Saturday and Sunday.

Allison Wildcat Try Is Said To Be Dry

The Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. of Midland's No. 1 W. W. Allison was reported abandoned and said to be dry. The hole was 60 feet from the north and west lines of section 3, of block A-4 in the P. L. Kinsman survey and eight miles south of Sheffield.

The hole was drilled to 4,002 feet.

Important Notice

Volunteer working are moving donated clothing and household items out of the schools to the VFW Hall this week.

Food, clothing, and household items will be distributed from this location until further notice of the following schedule:

4:00 to 6:00 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday
4:00 to 7:00 p.m. Saturday

Lions Furnish Refreshments For Volunteer Workmen

Beginning Wednesday the Sanderson Lions Club took on a project of furnishing refreshments for the out-of-town volunteer workmen who are assisting in the clean-up here through Tuesday of next week.

In the mornings, coffee and doughnuts are being served and in the afternoon, sandwiches, cookies and soft drinks. Explorer Scouts have been doing the serving from pickups making the rounds of the area where the workmen are.

Three More Bodies Found; Total Is 20

Three more bodies have been found to bring Sanderson's total known dead to 20 as a result of the flood that hit this community shortly after 7:00 a.m. Friday, June 11.

Two bodies were found Thursday of last week: Frank Falcon

1, and Alfred Floyd Scott, 50, of San Antonio.

The Falcon infant was recovered from the Rio Grande on the Mexican side of the river at Nuevo Laredo Monday of last week and it was buried immediately in that city. The fact that the body may have come from Sanderson — 300 miles distant — was so far fetched that no effort was made to connect the two incidents, according to officials. A newsman at Laredo sent Sheriff Bill C. Cooksey a newspaper with a picture and story of finding the body and tentative identification was made. It was stated that positive identification would be impossible since the infant was so young and had no scars or positive identifying features or characteristics.

The body of Scott, one of two Negro porters thought to have been swept into the canyon on a railroad car, was found 18 miles upstream from Eagle Pass at Quemado.

The other porter, also presumed to be missing turned up alive in El Paso, according to the sheriff.

Sunday a group of men from Odessa, working Sanderson Canyon on foot and in jeeps, found the body of Eloisa Falcon, 41, in Sanderson Canyon east of the railroad overpass east of Sanderson. The body was not in the main channel of the canyon but appeared to have been washed under very heavy debris by the water. Identification was made Monday and burial was in the local cemetery under the arrangements of the Janes Funeral Home of Ozona. Rev. N. Femenia conducted the graveside services.

Still listed among the missing are John Wesley Johnson, father of the family of eight, all of whom lost their lives but one, a son, Michael; Nicolas Flores, 83; Mrs. Martha Lopez, 33; Jesus Marquez, 35; Jose Falcon, 8; and Mario Falcon, 11, both sons of Eloisa Falcon.

Memorial Services For Nicolas Flores Held Last Sunday

Memorial services were held Sunday morning in El Buen Pastor Methodist Church for Nicolas Flores, a charter member of the church, who was a victim of the flood. His body has not yet been recovered.

Rev. Moises Yanez, pastor, officiated at the rites and he was assisted by Danny Garcia of Houston. Mrs. L. G. Hinkle was pianist for the service.

Mr. Flores was the only local surviving charter member of the church, having held continuous membership in the church since it was organized, helping to construct the building which is still in use, and also served as local preacher for many years.

Mr. Flores is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ramona Flores, and a son, Lolo Flores of Odessa. After the death of Mrs. Rebecca Flores, the wife of Lolo Flores, Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Flores reared their six grandchildren, Mrs. Betty Halsey now in Germany, Mrs. Isabel McAfee now in Puerto Rico, Mrs. Martha Benavidez and David Flores of Sanderson, Mrs. Rebecca Ochoa of El Paso and Raul Flores of San Angelo. Another granddaughter, Mrs. Esperanza Andrade, also resides in Sanderson.

Numerous out-of-town relatives and friends were here for the service.

Small Business Administration Opens Offices in Court House

The Small Business Administration has opened offices on the second floor of the court house.

Business people who have any inquiries about rehabilitation or re-establishment loans are urged to contact this office for their information and not to rely on information given others, as each case is handled separately and on its own merits, according to Cecil F. Flynn, loan specialist, in the local office.

The office phone number is DI 5-2118.

Ector Sheriff Plans Rebuilding Little League Field

Ector County Sheriff "Slim" Gabrel contacted Sheriff Bill C. Cooksey Monday night and, after learning of his schedule of work on Saturday of this week, promised to bring material and means of rebuilding the Little League diamond on the Legion ground.

Sheriff Gabrel stated that this would be in addition to his regular clean-up work detail.

The Ector County sheriff stated that he had the men and could get the material to rebuild the baseball facilities and wanted to do a little more than just "clean-up."

It was stated that local team managers planned to have the local Little Leaguers on hand to take care of whatever chores they could in the rebuilding of the park.

Hazards Hung By Thread In High Waters

Several hazards existed during and after the high water of the recent flood that most people did not realize.

Several thousand gallons of gasoline were loosed in the water from storage tanks on the west end of Downie Street, and many drums of oil were washed into the current and carried down Downie Street, some lodging in debris in town. There were also several butane tanks and a diesel oil tank that were torn loose from connections, permitting the gas and liquid to flow free.

The smell of gasoline and butane were strong for a long period after the water receded and the hazard of a large fire continued for some time.

About 8:30 Friday morning a large butane tank that had washed against a fence at the home of W. D. O'Bryant, began spewing gas, sending the vapor cloud out over the top of the water near U.S. 90 where many cars were driving to view the flood damage.

A spark or light at the wrong time during this existing hazard might have caused a widespread blaze along the course of the water, possibly trapping many people in their homes.

Another potential hazard that escaped the notice of many people was the vast amount of water trapped in the football field by debris clogging up the drains. A continuous overflow of the water over the dike on the south side could have caused a break that would have added another danger to the situation.

Ambulance Service Is Available For Any Emergencies

Ambulance service is available for emergency use for anyone in Sanderson who needs it, according to local officers. This information is given for the benefit of all who might not know of the availability of the facility.

The Terrell County Ambulance was in high water during the flood and has been under repair and renovation since then. The station wagon belonging to Deputy Sheriff Dalton Hogg has been available and used for emergencies during the time the regular ambulance was out of commission.

People desiring ambulance service are asked to call 225.

LISTEN TO LUKE

Albert —
I don't know how wide the idea has gone, nor do I know how much people are aware of it, but we would like to record to back up the people of Sanderson and all that have done since Friday two weeks ago.
At that time, when we spent days out of our business, since that time when we had any time to spend out of our business, we have noticed the only way some Sanderson people could have done more for the day or for them to us.
We would like to make this paper any where — at the time of the greatest need, it is the people of Sanderson who need the need because it is only Sanderson people who can furnish the need.
Before anybody's shoes were by the elementary school, a LARGE supply of food and clothing contributed by local people, and local people were serving hot meals at noon Friday and Saturday morning for homeless, mopping floors, making beds, aiding in giving medical help, taking information, and doing all that was possible.
Sanderson people couldn't do all that had to be done — we want the world to know we weren't sitting here doing nothing.
People were stunned, and because they were stunned they were able to go beyond themselves in enduring the weariness of body, heart, and mind while they were doing the things needed.
We do not say this to belittle the help that came, nor do we want to appear ungrateful for any bit of help that was and is given. We just don't like to be pictured as being helpless. The news media that covered the flood covered the early stages of their reporting as best they could, maybe, and we, being in business can appreciate the fact that their job was rushing to their sources few. We can appreciate the fact that anyone should show some loyalty to the person who is signing a paycheck, but completely regarding the humanity of people carries things a little too far.
As we said before, and as we always say, our neighboring friends — and we had forgotten yesterday that Van Horn had been added to the neighborhood friends and neighbors, the Army, Air Force, Salvation Army and Red Cross all came in and did what they could to help us.
We appreciate it from the bottom of our hearts.
But we, too, were helping and speaking of help, the work is going on this week is a matter of untold value. There is a lot about it in other parts of the paper. And it, too, is greatly appreciated.
And while we are handing out requests, let us not overlook the fact that much of the work that is being done now is being done by our ranchmen neighbors.
This, then, brings on this request. Anyone who has time to spare and spend half a day quaffing their favorite beverage, might to have enough concern to the efforts of their fellow citizens to not do their loafing in their sight.
It makes the work of cleaning up a whole lot harder.

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

By C. WILSON HARDER

It seems probable now that if there is ever a coat of arms designed for the Great Society, it will be composed of a shield quartered in four fields to depict acres of rotting strawberries, plowed up asparagus, fields of rotting lettuce and unplanted tomato acreage. On each side will be shown a housewife rampant.

This then will fitly memorialize the hassle created in California agriculture, first by Congress and then accelerated by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz. Inasmuch as California normally produces 25% of the table food of the nation, the situation furnishes an excellent clinical study.

Bureaucrats toil not, neither do they spin, yet they hesitate not telling others how they shall produce. For many years California normally produces 25% of the table food of the nation, the situation furnishes an excellent clinical study.

But due to the pressure of labor leaders and uninformed "do gooders" this labor source was denied this year. Secretary Wirtz, who could have alleviated this situation, took the position that if the growers guaranteed $1.49 an hour, there was ample domestic help to do the job, so the basic wage guarantee was raised to $1.60 an hour, but would not get domestic workers off relief rolls to work.

As a result, millions of pounds of strawberries rotted on the vines, millions of pounds of asparagus were plowed under, lettuce harvests were curtailed, and tomato planting reduced, as no one knows how they will ever get picked.

This means that long before Autumn the American housewife will find she is paying substantially higher prices for many products, even including such common household items as strawberry jam.

The whole sorry episode illustrates how slap happy bureaucrats become when given some power, and it does seem quite absurd to let a labor secretary determine the welfare of the farmer.

When the sour odor of rotting strawberries was wafted into Washington, Secretary Wirtz reversed himself to the extent of permitting 1,500 Mexican workers to come in.

Now comes the particular problem. On many items there will be a shortage, which means higher prices.

Now that everybody with great authority and equally great ignorance has had their fun in experimenting, who makes up the difference in cost to the housewife? Of course, these facts are beyond the consideration of bureaucrats. Any time one of their Great Experiments fails, they just wash their hands and let the public pay the bill.

Bill, introduced early in the session, has been buried in a subcommittee.

House members voted to remove requirement that jurors in capital cases not be opposed to death penalty.

House state affairs committee recommended passage of resolution calling on congress not to repeal state right to work laws.

Tabulation of the activities of the Texas Legislature reveals that the current body has produced more new laws than any of its predecessors.

This is a remarkable achievement in view of the pressing time-taking demands of redistricting and increased spending, as well as the controversy on raising the pay of teachers and increasing taxes.

Budget Bill To Comptroller

A record $3,600,000,000 state budget bill, major business of the session, finally is in the hands of the State Comptroller for certification, after agreement on corrections and last-minute additions by resolution.

Independent estimates calculate the $623,400,000 general fund appropriation would leave a surplus of $700,000.00 if no other spending measures are passed.

But other spending bills are almost certain to be passed. Tax bill authors are taking that into consideration in writing a revenue-raising measure which will pay for the $70,000,000 (state share) teachers' salary boosts and other pending requests for funds.

Loan Bill Stymied

Rep. W. R. Quilliam Jr. of Lubbock tried without success to spring his bill to reduce interest rates on "small-small" loans of less than $100. Currently it runs about 320 per cent, according to Quilliam. His bill would permit approximately 120 per cent.
