Returned this weekend from the annual Texas Press Association summer convention in Fort Worth, filled with a new determination to "get in there and fight, fight, fight."

We heard some inspiring speeches. Also saw the sights at Six Flags Over Texas, our first visit there. Would heartily recommend that attraction to everyone who has a chance to be in the Fort Worth-Dallas area. Better yet, make a special trip to see "Six Flags" -- it's worth it.

The Star received honors in the annual Texas Newspaper Contest (See story, this issue). We received a second place in our division for news pictures, and a third place in column en-

This may not be as good as a first place, but two awards are better than the Star has done in the past several years. And --we're inspired to work harder for a higher finish next year, which we hope ultimately will result in getting the "general excellence" award, tops in the division.

Congrats to the Olton Enterprise for claiming the award for West Texas this year.

Several of the speeches and presentations brought home the fact that offset printing is coming to the fore--with daily advancements making it the "method of the future" as far this ZIP Code on all their coras the printing business is concerned.

Thus, we were proud to be associated with a newspaper which Clements said, has been a "pioneer" in the offset field. Made us feel more like a leader toward the mod- system of improved mail disern trend.

Being as near home as Lubbock, we thought that we had it made, and that the last 100 in addresses." miles would be "child's play." Were we in for a surprise?

Going on our theory, we rested up, visited a while, then started home Sunday afternoon. We had noticed a cloud back in the northwest, but it was clear farther west, and it looked as partment to short-cut repeated though we might be able to "go around the edge" of the cloud.

It didn't work out exactly that way. By the time we got as far as Shallowater, the wind was getting strong. Black, ragged clouds began to close in on us, and the sand began to whip,

We still had hopes of missing the storm. Upon reaching Littlefield, we found the streets flooded. "Maybe the storm has already passed," we thought.

Just outside of Littlefield, U. S. Highway 84 was under water for almost a quarter of a mile, running board deep. A couple of small cars surveyed the scene, thought better of it and turned around to head back toward Littlefield.

Still thinking maybe the storm had passed, we drove through the miniature lake, and were hardly in road gear when the "bottom fell out" up above. For the next 20 miles or so we drove through rain, torrential rain, hail and whipping winds, through which we could proceed at only about 20-30 miles per hour.

After what seemed an eternity, we reached Sudan, Cars were crowded under a gin's driveway to avoid the hail. Two service stations which had protected driveways were crowded, but the cars weren't customers -- they were just waiting it out.

The Sudan police chief was flagging down cars from toward Muleshoe, The road from there to Littlefield had become a river in the last few minutes. We pulled over and parked under a tree for a minute to survey the situation.

Still looking at the clearing sky to the west, we decided to re-embark. An east-bound motorist stopping for instructions told us the road to the west

Crain stated that the Highway Department was attempting to get permission from Santa Fe Railway to dig a channel which would drain rainwater from the highway crossing area at a faster rate. "This would alleviate the problem to some extent," he said.

The engineer went on to say that it would perhaps be more practical to extend the highway northward from the curve south of town, with the possibility of an overpass over the railroad. The highway would then intersect Highway 60 at a different

"You might pose the question as to whether the City of Friona would provide right of way north of the current highway for such a project," Crain said.

Highway 214 has never been widened from its original farmto-market road width since being designated a state highway a few years ago. The traffic volume on the road is from 800 to 1,000 vehicles per day.

"This is sufficient traffic to warrant widening the road, although we still run into the money and priority problem," Crain said. "We just don't have the money available to do what is needed today. Projects have to be placed on a priority list, and just wait," he said.

Other newspapers printed at Plains Publishers' plant in Friona also won awards. The

is research leading toward control of the midge - a pesky little microscopic orange insect which did millions of dollars of damage last year to. Texas grain sorghum.

Ernesto L. Montoya, a research entomologist with Texas A&M College arrived in the High Plains to initiate the study. The program is being implemented by a $5,000 emergency grant to Texas A&M College from the Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture which was requested by the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. Members of the Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers Association have joined with the producer group in assuring continuation of the research as long as needed to obtain information on adequate midge control measures.

Montoya is a graduate of New Mexico State University and is currently working toward a at Texas A&M. The midge ecology and control study which is under the general supervision of Dr. J. C. Gaines, head of the Department of Entomology, will serve as part of the requirements for Montoya's advanced degree.

C. E. Fisher, Superintendent of Agricultural Experiment Station #8 at Lubbock, and Elbert Harp, President of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association in making the joint announcement of the initiating of the new research program which will be headquartered at the #8 Station, praised the study

Getting under way this week as being a step forward in keeping grain sorghum the strong force it is in the High Plains

The midge has been known to inhabit Texas for over 60 years but its first real heavy economic damage was in 1962 where in many areas 20% to 50% of the grain sorghum crop was lost to the pest. Unitl now the only available control measure has been early planting of grain sorghum. In bad weather years, such as this one, this cannot be a sure means of control. The entomologist emphasized that all segments of the Texas A&M College System of Research and Extension will be mobilized to assure complete information on identifying, studying and controlling the midge if it should occur this

Castorbeans Are Boosted John Lynn Humphrey, M.D. As A New Cash Possibility

Some Texas farmers who are looking for a new cash crop may try castorbeans this year.

The demand for additional oil from the crop is good but a word of caution is advised; do not grow a castorbean crop unless ou have a marketing contract

Castorbean production is an integrated industry. Farmers grow the crop under contract with castor oil processors who agree to pay a definite price at harvest. They also give specific information on growing the crop and usually help make arrangements to harvest it.

In 1962, Texas farmers accounted for three-fifths of the castorbean output. In the nation as a whole, 235,000 acres of castorbeans were grown, producing 34 million pounds of beans compared with 37 million in 1961. Over 90 percent of the beans were grown under irrigation.

The average yield per acre in 1962 was 1,434 pounds compared with 1,029 pounds a year earlier. The record year was 1958 when the average was 1,765 pounds per acre.

Yields last year varied from 1,855 pounds per acre in some parts of Texas to 757 pounds in New Mexico.

The 1962 castorbean crop should yield 16 million pounds of oil, 12 percent of our annual requirement of 130 million pounds. This means that in 1963, about 88 percent of our oil needs will have to be met with imports. Paints, varnishes, resins and plastics account for roughly three-fifths of domestic useage. So castorbeans generally have a good future on the market. WARNING -- Castorbeans are poisonous and should not be eaten by humans or livestock.

June is the month which honors nature's most nearly perfect food, milk. And it is a time when there is an abundance of the health giving food, says Shannon Carpenter, area dairy specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The story of dairying in this country is closely tied to our progress. The settlers at amestown and later pioneers depended on the dairy cow for much nourishment just as we do today in all fifty of our states.

The dairy cow is a marvelous machine that takes grain and grass and makes it into the milk we enjoy. Milk not only gives energy but is an excellent way to curb the appetites of weight watchers, says the specialist.

Housewives get a bargain in dairy products. The food nutrients that they furnish for about 20 cents would cost 43 cents if supplied by other sources. The dairy products consumed by the average family
