LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert ---
 Another milestone has been overcome in the flood prevention project on Sanderson Canyon. We use the word milestone because it is that far between obstacles, or phases of the project.

Darwin Schrader, local Soil Conservation Service work unit specialist, showed us a copy of the work plan and told about the procedures to get this phase behind us, and said that six months was about the time required for this milestone. The next one, and a big one that can be time-consuming, would be to get the appropriation from the legislature for the work, following their approval of the project, and then work can begin as soon as our time comes up on the calendar of scheduled projects.

There are a lot of us that are very anxious for the work to begin and be completed, but anxiety will not speed up these wheels. It was known when this endeavor started that it would take a long time, and it has and it will. But all those who are familiar with the plans and with the alternative plans thought this would be the best, and we are sure it will.

We recently had a notice that we would run little ads for the youth who wanted to work this summer in odd jobs, and we got no takers. We are changing the tack this week and saying that we know of a job open at this writing for a baby-sitter, if there is any young person who wants it, contact us.

There have been lots of plans made for the 4th celebration here this year and we laud those who are trying to help make the occasion a success. It is a big job to put together something like this, but those who do the work usually come up with a big success and we think they should get the credit for a job well-done.

We get reminder after reminder from agencies, organizations and individuals, to remind us to remind the driving public about careful driving during the holidays. We don't know how many more than does anyone else - to do anything more than try to bring the dangers to the attention of the drivers and caution them. We also do not understand why all the people causing all the furor over the loss of lives in Vietnam are not equally as interested in the complete waste of lives and money in the accidents over our nation's highways.

There is a centerfold in Reader's Digest currently that on first glance is more than slightly shocking. We feel their intent was to stun the readers into a sense of extreme caution rather than just display some almost too-gory pictures to see, and if that is the case, we hope that they are successful.

Heat Wave Brings 110 Temperature Here On Monday

The heat wave that has hit all of this section of the country has caused ineffectiveness of air conditioners locally, also. The thermometer soared to 110 on Monday, the highest on record locally, according to Ervin Grigsby, who is in charge of the government weather station in Sanderson. The five previous days, the temperature was 104 to 106.

Some clouds have been working their way toward Sanderson recently, and a bare trace of moisture fell Friday afternoon late last week and there was another trace that fell Sunday afternoon late.

No measureable precipitation has fallen in the county since two weeks ago, according to reports.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Carroll B. Card was named superintendent of the Terrell County Independent School District at a called meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday night.

Mr. Card has served as principal of the junior high school for three years and high school principal for one year.

He holds an M. Ed. Degree from Sul Ross and a B. A. Degree from Baylor University.

Preliminary Draft Completed For Work On Sanderson Flood Control Project

Darwin Schrader, local work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service working in the Rio Grande-Pecos River Soil Conservation District, this week received the preliminary draft of the work plan for the completion of the flood control and water conservation on the Sanderson Canyon Watershed. He stated that all sponsors - the commissioners courts of Terrell, Brewster, and Pecos Counties, Soil Conservation Districts of those counties, and all persons or organizations working in any way with the project had received a copy of the preliminary work plan.

Mrs. Ray Clifford and Mrs. T. H. Eastman were business visitors in Fort Stockton Tuesday.

There was a reunion of the Cavness family at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Adams north of Dryden last weekend.

A meeting has been called for July 14 in Sanderson for all sponsors or their representatives, and any interested parties to meet at the court house in Sanderson to go over any or all of the preliminary work plan for some clarification on whatever questions there are at that time, and another meeting will be called at a later date to finalize and approve a work plan acceptable to all parties and sponsors concerned so that work can begin as soon as congressional approval is given the work plan and appropriations made.

The preliminary work plan is the efforts of many people both in and out of the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, who have made an intensive survey, geological, hydraulic, financial, economical, and in other fields in an effort to properly evaluate the need for the flood control project and the most feasible way to accomplish the purpose. The man-hours that have been spent in the preparation of the work plan are incalculable, but many thousands of man-hours were spent in its preparation.

According to the date on the picture loaned by Mrs. W. R. Turner, the group of cowboys were eating lunch at the chuch wagon in about 1910. The picture would recall many facts to those who are familiar with such activities and remind some younger ones that things have not always been as they are.

64-Bed Nursing Home Planned By Group Of Stockton Doctors

Fort Stockton will soon be the home of a new locally-owned, 64-bed nursing home, now being planned by a group of four Fort Stockton physicians.

A block of land within the city limits of Fort Stockton has been acquired for the nursing home site and architectural planning is moving ahead steadily for the $225,000 project.

A spokesman for Comanche Springs Enterprises, Inc., confirmed Friday that negotiations for land and financing are nearing completion and that building plans are now under study by stockholders of the organization.

Officers of the corporation are Dr. George Hoffman, president; Dr. J. Dayle Lancaster, vice-president; Dr. John C. Hundley, secretary; and Dr. Charles Jones, treasurer. All four stockholders are well-known general practitioners in Fort Stockton.

Although a building site has been secured for the home, backers of the project have not yet released the exact location. The home will definitely be located on a site convenient to the downtown shopping area, local doctor offices, and Memorial Hospital.

The 64-bed complex will offer complete nursing home facilities to the usual three classes of patients - ambulatory, semi-bed and skilled-care patients.

Ambulatory patients are those strong enough to walk and do most day-to-day chores for themselves; semi-bed patients are those who are partially ambulatory but who would require some professional attention; and skilled-care patients are those who are bed-ridden and require full staff attention.

The local backers are currently in search of a professional nursing home administrator, who would handle all operational duties and supervise the staff.

An artist's conception of the new home indicates that the structure will feature Spanish architectural design, with exterior of white brick and a red crushed-brick roof.
