LISTEN TO LUKE

By Albert: ---
One of the proposed constitutional amendments that is getting a lot of attention - and it should - is the Texas Water Plan Amendment, No 2 on the ballot.

Water to Texans is a vital subject. We usually don't have enough of it, but at times we have too much, and there is never a happy medium. But when an area or town needs water and it was withheld by a vote of the people, that is a bad plight, indeed. It would be the same thing in reverse on our flood control project - we might never need the dams, but to jeopardize the lives of people in any odds is a moral wrong.

The bonding, sale of bonds, construction, payment for use of the water, etc., has all been planned and thought out for almost 12 years by a Texas Water Development Board - created by a vote of Texans, and twice expanded and continued by a vote of Texans.

The amendment has been submitted by legislators who know what water means to West Texas - including those of our district, George Baker and Pete Snelson - and the present and all three former governors of our state are endorsing the passage of the amendment.

Another water plan - that one mentioned above - flood control - could not get too much commendation and praise from our local citizens. The men in the Soil Conservation Service all the way to the top have worked hard to plan a project that will do the job, and it has taken the assistance of other people, groups, and agencies of the state to get where we are in the plans. Yes, it's the job of those men in the SCS to do that, and the job of our commissioners and county judges, and the directors of the water and soil conservation districts, and others involved to do those things. But people have, in other times, other groups, and other circumstances, failed to do their jobs, others have halfheartedly accomplished things, and then there are times when a group goes all - out to get something done and done right; and we think this is one of those times and we are giving our bouquet to all who had a part in the effort in any way.

We congratulate our good friend Jim Nance on completion of his tenure as a Texas Ranger and offer our sincere appreciation to him for the 45 years of his life given as a law enforcement officer. His influence is felt in this community even since his eight years of absence. There was a need for his kind of man in law enforcement and his kind will always be in demand.

The respect for the law and respect for Jim were one and the same, because they were the same. The effort to make Sanderson and Terrell County a better place in which to live, rear and educate one's children was the motivation of Jim. Nor did one question his devotion to duty and to this effort because they were inseparably a part of him.

Roxanne Harrell, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrell, won 1st with her fudge and 2nd with her peanut brittle in the Green Thumb exhibit in Fort Stockton last weekend. In the school year 1913-14 the some of the students of Sanderson High School posed for the picture below. Supt. J. E. Conner and a teacher, Miss Lillie Anderson - now Mrs. A. D. Brown, are with the group. In the front row: Kirk Kellogg, Marcy Martin, Lewis Lemons, Paul Young, Donald Duncan, Paul Stansell; second row: Supt. Conner, Arthur Murray, who loaned us the picture, Ione Bodkin, Zula Ross, Mary Stirman, India Clark, Anna Clark, Earl King, Miss Anderson; back row: Willie Banner, Russell Edwards, Theresa Wolff (Dawson), Carrie Stansell, Addie Lee Lemons (Halbert), Zelma Clark, Laura Finley, and Willis Harrell. Mrs. Brown remembered immediately that Frances Duncan and Carl and Layton Cochran were also a part of that group but were not in the picture for some reason.

Railroad Proposes Tri-Weekly Trains

SAN FRANCISCO -Southern Pacific has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve tri-weekly operation of its Sunset passenger trains, which now operate daily through Del Rio in each direction between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

Following such approval, the railroad said, it would restore diner-lounge and sleeping car service over the full 2033-mile route on the same basis as that service last existed on the New Orleans-El Paso segment on Jan. 19, 1966.

Southern Pacific's proposal took the form of a specific petition that the ICC "reconsider and modify" its order of Oct. 17, 1968, which required continued operation of the daily trains for one year.

SP proposed that westbound trips from New Orleans begin on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and that eastbound trains originate at Los Angeles on Sunday, Tuesday and Friday.

"Tri-weekly runs still would be a heavy deficit operation," said Robert M. Jochner, SP passenger traffic manager, "but the fewer trips would be sufficient to meet any public need and at the same time would allow us to keep the Sunsets running and even improve the service.

"We believe that virtually all present users could, without undue inconvenience, maintain their patronage under a tri-weekly schedule—thus helping to preserve both the service and the present level of train revenues while we are allowed to reduce our losses."

The Sunsets run up the biggest deficits of all Southern Pacific passenger trains. Their loss in 1968 was $2,453,000. For the first four months of 1969 the deficit was $1,195,000, or over $9900 a day.

Vandals Ruin Efforts To Beautify Flood-Damaged Lot

Vandals have repeatedly torn up efforts of Mrs. Cruz Marquez to beautify and clean up the lot on East Oak St. next to Sanderson Canyon. The lot is where the Marquez home was before the flood in 1965.

Some trees, shrubs, and cactus that were on the lot prior to the flood have made an effort to come back and this inspired Mrs. Marquez to make an effort to beautify the lot. The sentimental value goes all the way back to her birth as it was the only place she had ever lived until the house was destroyed by the rushing water.

She was joined by her son, Oscar, after his return from Korea, and weeds were cut, the fish pond repaired, general cleaning up, and a Madonna was set up. This statue was broken several times and finally was beyond repair.

This was replaced with a larger marble madonna, pictured above, and Monday of this week it was found broken in two pieces and distinct footprints also showed cactus deliberately destroyed.

New Cafe Here Is Planned

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harris are planning to move the location of their business about September 1. They have bought the building east of Mc Knight Motor Co. from O. T. Sudduth and it is being remodelled and redecorated to meet the needs of the business.

They plan to continue to sell beer, they said, and there will be a separate room for the cafe and still another room for private parties and meetings.

The Harrises are presently operating the Sanderson Drive-In leased from Ben Martin.

They stated that they plan to continue a specialty of fried chicken and steaks in the cafe and add Mexican food.

Sudduth is doing the remodelling on the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kerr and children returned home last week after spending several days in the San Antonio area. They went to Hunt to get their daughter, Jeannette, a camper at Arrowhead, and were visited there by their other daughter, Rosalie, and Mrs. Kerr's mother, Mrs. W. C. Mitchell of San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morris returned home Monday after a visit with relatives in Knippa.

Mrs. Marquez stated that the site had been a point of interest for tourists and local people had also expressed a joy at seeing the interest taken in clearing the lot and beautifying it. She added that she had hoped that with the maturity of the trees and shrubs, and with the completion of the flood control project, that some future and more useful work could be done on the lot.

Vandalism of this nature is as incomprehensible to Mrs. Marquez as it is to any other mature person and she hopes that other mature people will help in preserving her property and efforts.

FORMER RESIDENT EARNS BRONZE STAR MEDAL

Elpidio Barrera Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elpidio Barrera of McCammy, former residents of Sanderson, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism in connection with military operations against an armed hostile force in Vietnam. He is a specialist four in the army and distinguished himself while serving as a leader with Company A, 1st Battalion, 16th Infantry, 4th Infantry Division. On March 10, his unit was conducting a sweep operation when they were engaged by a large North Vietnamese force. During the initial contact the heavy volume of fire caused the company to be split into two elements. Exposing himself to the intense enemy fire, Specialist Barrera moved forward to the lead element and distributed badly-needed ammunition. He again risked his life by moving forward under the intense fire to reinforce members of the second platoon who were cut off and pinned down. Specialist Barrera's personal keeping with the highest traditions of the military service reflect great credit upon himself, his unit and the United States Army.

Victorio Dominated West Texas With Terror In '80s

VICTORIO - This awesome-looking chieftain, called Victorio by his followers, spread terror into the hearts of early settlers in West Texas. He was well-known for his fighting strategy, which might almost be compared to modern guerilla warfare tactics, with which he plagued the white man. The story of Victorio and his war-like activities is told on the histo-wall at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio.

A fierce, long-haired Apache chieftain cast his warlike shadow over West Texas, even after his death.

That awesome chief, Victorio, whose very name cast fear in the hearts of early Texas settlers, is featured prominently on the Indian histo-wall at the Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio. An Apache quiver and bow, the quiver from the Rosenberg Library Association in Galveston and the bow from the Stovall Museum of Science and History, University of Oklahoma at Norman, plus the two woven Mescalero Apache baskets from the Norman Museum grace the Institute exhibit.

The great Apache chief, Victorio used, surprisingly modern guerilla warfare tactics to terrorize the white man from 1863 when he assumed command till his death at the hands of 4,000 combined United States and Mexican troops in October of 1880.

Remnants of Victorio's Apache band staged the last Indian raid on Texas soil in 1881 when they attacked a stage coach on the San Antonio to El Paso road near Fort Quitman on the Rio Grande River below El Paso in Hudspeth County.

Prior to assuming command of the Mimbres Apache band, Victorio had been a lieutenant under Magnus Colorado who was killed on January 17, 1863. Upon the latter's death, the much-feared Victorio was let loose with his nomadic band to pillage and terrorize West Texas.

Even the derivation of the name "Apache" comes from the Zuni name for the Navaho Indians, meaning "enemy", and Victorio lived up to the name.

Way before Victorio's time, back in 1582, the Apache harassed Spaniards in the Pecos Valley where they met the Espejo Expedition. The expedition of Juan Dominguez de Mendoza was attacked several times by the Apaches in 1684. Apaches also gave vent to their fury at El Paso as early as 1682 when they stole stock and assisted in the Manso Revolt of 1684.

Prior to the permanent establishment of San Antonio in 1718, both Spanish and French had suffered cruelly at the hands of the Apache.

From 1871 to 1878, Victorio and his braves were on and off the reservation, at Ojo Caliente, San Carlos and the Mescalero agency. In 1879 he began his campaigns of terror, not only against Texas, but also New Mexico and old Mexico.

In company with Caballero, the Mescalero chief, he led some 200 braves on a bloody path over the Southwest.

In October, 1880,

Victorio left Texas and made his last stand in the Tres Castillos Mountains in Mexico where he was killed in an ambush staged by Colonel Joaquin Terrazas.

According to history, two thousand persons were killed while the hostile chieftain, Victorio, waged his bloody wars, leaving behind him a trail of plunder, theft, and death.

After the death of Victorio and nearly three centuries of hostility, marked by brief intervals of peace, the Texas Apache, known as the "Terror of the Southwest," finally traveled the paths of peace as laid out by the white man.
