VOLUME 68, NUMBER 47

SANDERSON, TERRELL COUNTY, TEXAS 79848

NOVEMBER 20, 1975

It Depends on How You Look At It!

We look around and see and are pleased at the community effort that is exerted in so many ways in Sanderson and Terrell County. And like any family, there are times when we have our own little squabbles, like members of any family, then when there is an occasion for united work - it is such a beautiful sight!

We think back of past events and of the ways the people jumped in to work together, and they are pleasant thoughts to all of us or them that were involved.

It is impossible for everyone to be involved in everything, though we know some who make some kind of an honest effort. There are those who like - or are willing to work in a way different from others, and we all have our own ways of doing things, and this is the way it should be.

And, normally enough, there are times when our own little selfish ways keep us from doing what we should and can because "we didn't think of the plan", "they didn't ask my opinion", "I don't like some of the people that are heading it"... or some other feeble excuse.

Do all of us stop - ever - to realize all of the effort that goes into such local projects as the Cancer Society, Heart Fund, Girl and Boy Scouts, the ambulance facility, fire department, AOA, etc.

Certainly, the first need of the individual participant in any of those or other projects, is the motivation. And motivation comes in different ways to different people.

Any person who feels that they want to be more a part of what goes on in the community and county is urged to look around at all of the various ways that service is possible and needed. If you don't have anything to do, it has been our determination at self-evaluation, it is our own fault. There are plenty of ways in which an individual may serve.

We didn't overlook the Library Friends, V.F.W. or Legion and Auxiliary, Y.P.C.C., and particularly our churches ... we just figured that everyone knew about the possibility of the existence of all of those organizations.

But if you don't know of a place to serve, come by and get a more complete list from The Times.

People get things done! Get into one of the "doing" groups - you'll find more excitement and interest than you possibly realized!

Whoever you are, wherever you live, you are receiving something because of the efforts of someone else! Get into the action - the clubs, organizations, groups, churches all need you!

A Southern Pacific Railroad caboose came through Sanderson last week and warranted the above picture. Red and blue stripes on a white caboose had a sign on the front half "Buy Bonds" in red and blue, and "Spirit of '76" in red under the cupola window. Since The Times' camera was not back, Billy Ray Walton furnished us the picture, for which we are grateful.

Poppy Sales Net $190.05 On Nov. 11

The members of the Legion Auxiliary have reported a very successful "Poppy Day" sale here on November 11, Veterans' Day. Members took poppies on the streets and asked everyone "wear a poppy" and make a contribution. Coffee, cake and cupcakes were made available at the headquarters established in the Community Public Service Company office during the morning. Mrs. H.E. Ezelle was in charge and was assisted by several members.

A total of $190.05 was contributed through all projects in observance of the day. One-third of the amount will go to State Headquarters for rehabilitation work among the veterans and the remainder will go to the local rehabilitation fund.

The poppies which are made by veterans in hospitals are bought by the Auxiliaries each year and the veterans are paid for the making of the poppies with materials furnished.

Mrs. Barry Pendleton is poppy chairman of the Auxiliary.

Turkey Shoot To Be Sunday

Fun and excitement are promised spectators and non-club member shooters.

Marijuana Is Involved In Local Arrests

Four men were arrested Saturday night at a local business on a Class A misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana, according to Terrell County Sheriff Dalton Hogg.

Sheriff Hogg identified the three as Cy Ketchum and Gary Allen Johnson, both of Cadillac, Mich., Ricky Moses and Robert Morales. He said that W.G. Shoemaker, justice of the peace of precinct four set the bond on the first two named at $2,000 each, on Moses at $1,500, and on Morales $1,000. Monday evening Ketchum and Johnson were still in the Terrell County jail in lieu of the bond, and Moses and Morales had been released on bonds.

Sheriff Hogg explained to The Times Monday that the Class A misdemeanor charge was for possession of at least two ounces of the substance and not more than four ounces, and that the case would be heard in county court and conviction could mean a fine of not more than $2,000.00 and/or not more than 1 year in jail.

Sheriff Hogg stated that the arrest was made at about 8:00 p.m. Saturday at Bradley's Grocery, operated by Thomas Robles.

Band Competes In UIL Contest

The Sanderson High School Band was in Odessa Saturday to compete in University Interscholastic League marching contests.

Gene Flores, director, took the band to Odessa for the events.

There were five bands in the competition for Class B school and only one - Forsan - got a Division I rating. Sanderson got a Division III.

Flores stated that the Sanderson band was working hard on concert and sight-reading and hoped to score high in the UIL events for that competition.

Boy Scout News

Monday the Boy Scouts met at the Scout Hut and divided into two patrols. They then played games and discussed a 50-mile hiking trip and future camp-outs. After the meeting, a patrol leaders' meeting was held.

There will be a contest between the Boy and Girl Scouts for making a sign to put in front of the huts.

Ele Chris Hagelstein, Mickey Corbett, Steve Falcon, and the leader, Chris Hagelstein, went to Camp Sol Meyer last weekend to learn about teaching Scouts. Camp Sol Meyer is near Fort McKavett.

Thanksgiving Service Sunday

The annual Thanksgiving service sponsored by the Sanderson Ministerial Alliance will be on Sunday, November 23, in the First United Methodist Church. Rev. Paul Tatum, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be the speaker for the service which is at 7:00 p.m.

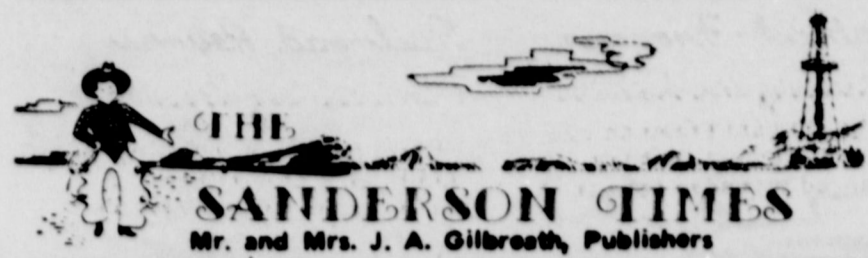

The community and area residents are encouraged to come to this service planned for the season and in the spirit of thanksgiving. The offering will be used to help transients in need by providing them with their needs to proceed on their journey and to take the financial burden from the ministers whose homes are frequented by those in need as they come to town.

Mrs. Roger Rose visited in San Saba last weekend with her mother, Mrs. E.P. Estep, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sutton.

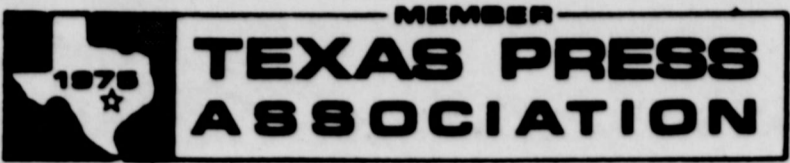

Mrs. Lewis Hill took her granddaughter, Nora Sue Price, to her home in Fort Stockton Monday afternoon after she had visited here over the weekend on the ranch with her grandparents.

Another chuck wagon scene from the past is pictured below in a shot loaned to us by F.G. Grigsby. Mules are drawing the chuck wagon and the lady standing near the touring car, all make for an interesting picture reminiscent of times long past.

You don't catch a fish every time you go fishing - and so it is with every other endeavor. Nobody bats .1000, or has 100% success at anything. But, you can't catch fish unless you are on the water.
...or we said it another way recently - the harder I fish, the luckier I get!

The more we work together, ...oddly enough...the greater is the productivity!

One of the best illustrations of the name of this column was written recently in "Monday Morning" magazine by J. A. Dickens, pastor of John Calvin Church, Tulsa, Okla. The article describes certain church members as follows:

People who celebrate the Boston Tea Party and condemn the boycott on lettuce or table grapes.

People who rejoice in the anti-slavery stand of 1816, yet who quit the church when it supports Angela Davis.

People who brag about their part in the American Revolution, and who get livid when the church supports revolution in South America.

People who name a building after a clergyman signing the Declaration of Independence, but who fire a clergyman for signing a Declaration of Conscience on Vietnam.

People who want to send missionaries to Africa, but who don't want to support the Delta Ministry.

People who stand reverently with tears in their eyes when they remember their fathers' fight for equality, but who tend to snicker as their mothers, daughters, or sisters, do the same.

People who remember with pride that the la items of revolution were hung in Old North Church, that the Liberty Bell was hidden in Zion Church, Allentown - but don't want Old College Hill to harbor the draft resisters, or Old Chicago First to aid the Blackstone Rangers.

People who canonize the Old South Church members who, disguised as Indians, threw the tea into Boston Bay, but say, "We have no business boycotting restaurants who refuse to serve blacks".

People who don't bat an eye over the loss of $8 million a year in mission giving, but who demand an investigation when $50,000 is lost in a high risk mission venture.

That's us - radical, conservative, patriotic, dissident, griping, complaining, loyal, dedicated, faithful, faithless people.

If you can laugh with me at our inconsistencies, and still pray God's forgiveness, there is hope for us to finish the revolution.

is hope for us to finish the revolution.

is hope for us to finish the revolution.

is hope for us to finish the revolution.

Eagles Lose Tilt In Dell City 41-8

The Sanderson Eagles lost their final game of the season in Dell City Friday night of last week. The score was 41-8. Coach Don Malone stated that the Dell City team was trying to score up to the final second of the game and the Eagles displayed a good defensive effort throughout the game, never letting up their efforts to control the stronger team.

Sanderson's lone score was in the second period by Kendall Billings on a 44-yard run with Marvin Davis scoring two points after the touchdown.

Dell City's scores were 6 in the first period, 18 in the second, 8 in the third, and 9 in the fourth period. Dennis Barker scored three touchdowns, Raul Reyes went in for two, and Joe Lewis made one, with Doug Sanderson kicking the field goal.

Coach Malone stated that he understands Grandfalls has won the district title and will play Jayton for the bi-district crown this weekend.

Malone stated that he was proud of the season's play of the Eagles; they met superior teams head-on, they had opponents within the district and non-conference opponents that out-classed the Eagles, but there was never a let-up in their efforts to overcome the strong opposition.

 URGENT *****

We are today facing the worst threat ever posed to private ownership of firearms.

There are now over 100 anti-gun bills pending before the Congress - measures ranging from firearms registration and licensing, to a ban on the so-called "Saturday Night Special", to a major proposal to outlaw all private ownership of handguns. And in none of these is there anything but the gravest danger to the rights of law-abiding citizens.

In the beginning of this session of Congress, the target of anti-gun legislators was the so-called "Saturday Night Special". But the "Saturday Night Special" is, and always has been, a phony issue. Today, that guise has been dropped. Now, they are after all handguns. We need only ask, what will be next?

If the anti-gun people could have their way - and they make no bones about it - neither you, nor I, nor any other citizen would have the right to own any kind of firearm. But what these extremists propose today is not what they expect to get today. They hope to extract from us a progression of "compromises" in which we lose and get nothing in return.

They would have us believe their proposals are "moderate". Let's examine them:

The news media are telling firearms owners that the Ford Administration's gun control legislation (S.2186 and H.R. 9022) is the very picture of moderation - that it is only intended to deal with the criminal use of the handgun. Don't believe it.

There is nothing "moderate" about a so-called "Saturday Night Special" provision that would automatically ban nearly half the handguns now owned by law-abiding citizens. In addition, the Administration's bill would give the Secretary of the Treasury power to stop production or sale of literally every other new or old handgun owned by Americans; all the Secretary would have to do is decide that handguns have no "sporting" or "valid defensive" purpose. Given this kind of authority, what might happen in some future administration headed by an anti-gun president?

There is nothing "moderate" about a proposal that would create a system of back-door registration - through waiting periods designed to let the Federal Government enter the name of every prospective gun purchaser on its central computers. (During recent Congressional hearings, an Administration spokesman admitted quite freely that the Justice Department and the Treasury Department were working on something called "de-facto registration", and that there were other "registration schemes" in the works.)

There is nothing "moderate" about the Administration's proposal to eliminate three-quarters of the legally licensed and lawfully operating firearms dealers in America. The Treasury Department says it doesn't have enough manpower to cover the large number of small businesses required to have Federal Firearms Licenses. Hence, to make the job easier, the bureaucrats would simply put tens of thousands of law-abiding Americans out of business. That proposal would eliminate many dealers in small towns and cities of the nation - dealers who are the sole sources of firearms and ammunition for great numbers of Americans.

There is nothing even remotely "moderate" in any legislation that would further strangle the rights of 50 million law-abiding Americans - Americans who are not and never will be part of our national crime problem.

Practically every provision of these anti-gun bills is designed to choke off the legitimate use of firearms. Look at some of the deceptions in other proposals now called "moderate".

Virtually the same so-called "Saturday Night Special" bill opposed by NRA in 1972 has been re-introduced by Senator Birch Bayh. It would ban outright the manufacture or sale by dealers of many expensive, high-quality handguns, new or used, presently kept by law-abiding citizens for defensive purposes. And under the Bayh bill, S. 1880, no handgun model of any kind could remain on the market without the Secretary of the Treasury approving.

Representative Robert McClory's bill, H.R. 9763, repeats all of the objectionable features of the Administration's proposal, plus handgun registration and owner licensing, and a $25 excise tax on every new handgun. In addition, the bill would coerce the states into passing a Federally prescribed state gun law under the threat of both loss of Federal law enforcement assistance funds and of cancellation of Federal handgun dealer's licenses in a state. The measure also purports to include "stiff mandatory penalties". Think that's designed to be tough on criminals? Wrong! The McClory bill is so badly drafted, it could cause any citizen who merely possesses a firearm, and who violates a minor state or local law to become the victim of a mandatory prison term.

In recent days, the anti-gunners in the Congress have opened a new front, the Senate Government Operations Committee - a committee dominated by anti-gun senators. Specifically, that Committee is preparing legislation to create an entirely new Federal bureaucracy within Attorney General Edward Levi's Department of Justice to replace the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. These new bureaucrats would have an even more threatening grip over your ownership of firearms.

Those "modest" proposals represent "the best" of what the anti-gunners have to offer. The worst is represented by Rep. John Conyer's bill, H.R. 9780, which on enactment would outlaw all manufacture, sale, and transfer of all handguns, and one year after that would outlaw virtually all private ownership of all handguns.

A few years ago, anti-gunners in the Congress and in the media labeled as "crazy" any notion that the day would come when the real wraps on "gun control" would be off, and there would be a serious call for confiscation. That day is already here. We have seen a call in the nation's capital for confiscation of all handguns and shotguns - an operation its proponents say would begin with the 52,000 handguns and shotguns registered under District of Columbia law. When asked if it would be a breach of faith against those who dutifully registered their firearms, the chief sponsor of that proposal answered, "I didn't promise them anything."

For us - for the millions of Americans who own firearms and never intend any illegal act with those firearms, that comment clearly shows there can be no compromise. Any "compromise" is simply a further erosion of our rights.

It is now clear what the anti-gunners want. Any chipping away of our rights to own handguns directly affects our rights to own any kind of firearm. Shotguns. Target Rifles. Hunting Rifles.

We cannot and we must not permit the anti-gun forces to have their way. We have the power to stop them.

We stopped them when the Consumer Product Safety Commission attempted to impose back-door gun control through a ban on handgun ammunition. We stopped them with sound common sense from millions of citizens. Letters. Wires. Phone calls. We can do it again, against oppressive legislation now before the Congress.

The key to winning this fight in Washington is what happens in every community in America. You hold that key.

The news media is always writing about a "gun lobby". But that's really you and me - individual Americans - tens of millions of us. We can win this fight this year - against the toughest odds we've ever faced. We can win it on a simple concept - No compromise. No gun legislation.

That message must get to Congress, from you - the voters.

If Congress wants to do something about crime, it should get tough on the criminals who are responsible for it, not on the law-abiding gun owners.

I pledge to you the absolute and untiring efforts of the NRA Institute for Legislative Action. But we must have your help, your voice.

Write letters to all your representatives in Congress. Phone them. Wire them. When they are in the State or the District, talk to them. And ask your friends and your neighbors to do the same. Get the message home - that as a constituent, you are opposed to any new legislation that imposes further restrictions on your right to keep and bear arms.

Write the President. Let him know how you feel. Do it now. Give him the message. Tomorrow may be too late.

And register to vote. Get your family and friends to do so. Get ready to make your voice heard at the ballot box.

The power of the individual American is immense. Using that power - exercising our freedom of speech in this democratic society - we can hold the line.

I thank you sincerely,

Yours,

Rule Change Aids Some Recipients Of Medicaid

Federally supported Medicaid nursing home patients now will be allowed up to 18 days a year to visit relatives or friends, according to information released this week by Congressman Bob Krueger. Such visits formerly were limited to three days at a time, six a quarter, and 18 a year. From now on, Krueger explained, the only restriction will be 18 days annually, with the Federal Government paying its share of the cost of the nursing home bed during the patient's absence.

"Patients were initially being asked to pay for the nights they were not staying in a nursing home," Krueger said, "which, in effect, discourages people from getting out to see their friends and families. We should encourage this type of activity," he continued, "since it not only is therapeutic, but provides a sense of dignity to people who need and deserve it."

According to John A. Svahn, acting administrator of HEW's social and rehabilitation service, the Medicaid nursing home leave policy was eased in response to comments from Congress, state officials, and the general public.

"I was glad to see the bureaucracy respond to public pressure," Krueger added. "This was a good example of a bad rule which unduly infringed on the rights of decency, privacy, and mobility of average citizens."

Water Can Stop Freeze Damage To Fruit Trees

Late frosts of the spring season need not spell doom for your fruit trees. A specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service suggests using water to protect cold-susceptible plants from freezing temperatures.

"When water freezes, it gives off heat," says Sam Cotner. "In fact, when a pound of water loses a degree of temperature, it gives off more heat than any other substance. This heat can warm the air around plants and buds and protect them from freezing."

The most effective way to protect plants is with a sprinkler, contends the Texas A&M University System specialist. Apply water continually during the time freezing temperatures exist. This may mean sprinkling the plant all night.

"If a frost is expected, sprinkling in the early morning probably will be sufficient," notes Cotner.

Another method of protecting the plants from freezing temperatures is furrow watering, but this method is not as effective as sprinkling.

Cotner warned against washing plants off with warm water after a frost occurs.

"Plant tissues can be badly damaged when they are forced to thaw in such a short time. It's better to let them thaw out gradually."

So, don't let the last frost of winter put an end to your supply of nutritious fruit.

Blacktail Deer Said Scarce In Trans-Pecos

"There is little doubt that mule deer harvest will be down in the Trans-Pecos this year, according to a news release from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, and written by Rodger McKown, field information and education officer.

The blacktail deer population has declined approximately 25 percent from last year in this sprawling, nine-county area that is home to the bulk of the state's mule deer herd.

Reason for the decline was the limited fawn crop in 1974 following a period of almost a year with very little moisture. The number of surviving fawns was just not sufficient to make up for the annual mule deer mortality.

This means that fewer of them are going to put venison in the freezer during the season. And it means that the ones who do, very likely will have to hunt harder than they might have in other years.

The bright side to the picture is that the hunter who is willing to work at it still has a good chance of getting his deer and his chances of getting a trophy are good.

Good winter and spring moisture following the 1974 season left habitat in good condition, an ideal situation for good antler growth. Reports have come in from the Parks and Wildlife Department personnel and some far West Texas ranchers that some bucks are carrying tremendous sets of antlers this year.

There are several things a hunter can do to improve his chances of taking a deer this year and of taking one of these trophies that are wearing the exceptional racks.

If a hunter wants to go after one of these really big bucks, he should hunt the most remote portion of the ranch where he is hunting. Some bucks will be killed from the vehicles on ranch roads. They always are. But the hunter who gets away from the road system will be improving his chances of finding one of these animals.

If this season is characteristic of the most in the Trans-Pecos, the weather will be warm during the day. The warmer the weather, the less deer feed, and the more time the big bucks spend bedded down high in the rimrocks. They prefer to bed down in the ridge with the prevailing wind behind them and a good view of the area in front of them.

Experienced mule deer hunters know that bucks which have assumed such positions high in the rocks are extremely difficult to see. To the inexperienced hunter, it might look like there are no hiding places in such open country. There are plenty. It doesn't take much to hide a deer that is laying rock-still. More than once, a hunter has thoroughly glassed a ridge or rincon, and then spooked a big buck out of the same area he had just checked.

Mule deer have been known to lay still until a hunter approached within 20 steps of them. The warmer the weather, the more likely they are to hold tight.

Getting up on the ridges and along the rims doesn't insure success. Once there, do more than just walk through the area. Look and hunt the area slowly and carefully. Ease along, stopping frequently to glass likely spots. Frequent stops will make a watching deer nervous and more likely to break out of his hiding place. If at all possible, hunt with the wind blowing into your face.

It is an established fact that there are some exceptional bucks among the ones that are there, and there won't be as many this year.

Hunt hard and hunt carefully and antlers from one of these could wind up on your wall, according to the news

Freight Line Service Here Said Possible

Service into Sanderson by Curry Freight Lines was virtually assured, according to information from Dudley Harrison, who attended a hearing before the Texas Railroad Commission in Austin Friday of last week. E.E. Harkins Jr. accompanied Harrison on the trip to appear at the hearing.

Harrison stated that there was no opposition to the application to extend service to Sanderson and some other West Texas cities by Curry.

The freight company now operates into Fort Stockton from the north, west, and east, and faster freight service to Sanderson from all points is assured if the railroad commission permits the extension of service by the applicant carrier as the present service into Sanderson is very irregular.
