Dr. Cox Warns Against Spread of Typhoid

AUSTIN, Tex., June 3.—A warning against the hitch-hiking germ of typhoid fever has just been issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. They must catch a ride from an affected person to the well person; this is generally accomplished by water, milk, flies, fingers or food. Every case is contracted by way of the mouth and digestive system.

A carrier is a person who has had typhoid fever at some time and who even after recovery carries the germs of the disease in the urine and discharge of the bowels. Carriers who are careless in their personal habits are likely to infect any food they handle with unwashed hands. Some of the most serious and far-reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. Persons may be carriers without knowing it.

Typhoid fever is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to community negligence or to the ignorance or the carelessness of some individual. Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Inoculation with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, is all that is necessary to secure protection against this disease for two years. The purity of water, milk, or food cannot be judged by looking at it, so the best thing to do is to play safe and have your physician protect you.

Hungary Evens Up Ownership Of Land

BUDAPEST.—The land reform law of 1945 has now been carried out. Big land ownership has been wiped almost out. The land is divided nearly equally between small and medium sized farmers. The proportion of state and community-owned land, including all forests, remained approximately one-fifth of the land.

Here is how the situation looks as compared with the last available pre-war statistics of 1935:

	1935	1948
3,873 big landowners own	32 pct. of the land	32 pct. of the land
230,000 medium size farmers own	43 pct. of the land	43 pct. of the land
1,400,000 small holders own	25 pct. of the land	25 pct. of the land
21 big landowners own	0.2 pct. of the land	0.2 pct. of the land
258,000 medium size farmers own	50.8 pct. of the land	50.8 pct. of the land
1,800,000 small holders own	49.0 pct. of the land	49.0 pct. of the land

Employers Urged To Adopt Military Leave Policy For Guardsmen

About 250,000 men of the National Guard will move into the fields this summer for the required 15 days of field training, Maj. Gen. Cramer, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, has announced. About 527 of this number are of Texas units, to encamp at Fort Bliss, August 15-20.

There are difficulties, however, which cause sacrifice on the part of many Guardsmen. As is well known, the men of the National Guard are not fulltime soldiers, but rather citizen-soldiers who are comparable to the militia that fought under Washington.

The National Defense Act requires that every Guardsman must attend the 15 day field training program.

Many businesses and industries, recognizing the importance of the training and the sacrifice in working time involved have adopted a policy of granting military leave, in addition to regular vacation time, those of their employees who are members of the National Guard.

Unfortunately, this policy is not universal, and the situation is not a serious one in view of the very importance of the National Guard in our present defense plans.

Gen. Cramer urges employers to adopt the military leave policy not only as a patriotic contribution to the national security, but as a sound business proposition.

These are the values as the General sees them:

The organization of the National Guard and all civilian components at full strength will reduce the need for a large standing Army, Air Force and Navy, thereby reducing the cost—in taxes—of maintaining a military establishment adequate to the needs of our national safety.

The adoption of a military leave policy will build the morale of employees, making them more effective in the conduct of your business. The National Guard also trains its men for leadership, a training which is invaluable in business and industry.

A National Guard unit of company size brings to the community a Federal payroll of approximately $45,000 each year. This is an additional income—and buying power—for your products and services.

There is no question but what the universal adoption of a military leave policy is sound business as well as sound investment in the security of the nation. We recommend it to every employer, and we particularly recommend it to the Chamber of Commerce as a project deserving its attention.

Lots Of Traffic

MADISON, Wis.—Students and professors will cross the threshold of the University of Wisconsin's Memorial Union 5,046,300 times this year, according to a traffic survey. The survey shows that the student center is entered 14,418 times on an average day.

Safety Director Talks Himself Into Ticket

FT. WAYNE, Ind.—Fred Berghoff, chairman of the board of safety, had big business to talk over with Mayor Henry E. Branning.

Their traffic conference lasted long because they took so much time discussing the problem of overtime parking.

When Berghoff got back to his car he discovered that he had a ticket—for overtime parking.

Lyndon Johnson Takes Campaign Into West Texas Area

AUSTIN.—After being knocked out of the Senatorial campaign for a week, Congressman Lyndon Johnson was expected to be on his feet and ready to go again by this week-end. He has been in Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., with an obstinate kidney stone.

Johnson talked with many farm and ranch people in the Panhandle on the first leg of his campaign. He pledged his continued efforts to keep foot and mouth disease from spreading to this country, and said he hoped the new method of vaccine and quarantine would work. Only cattle known to be infected are being slaughtered in Mexico. Johnson described the foot and mouth disease campaign as a good example of Federal government help—a service that local governments could not very well provide people with.

In a speech at Wichita Falls delivered for him by a friend, Johnson drew a line between government and private ownership of business. He said the proposal for the government to take over ownership of the railroads was "fantastic and absurd." He said the government has to refer to fuses like the railroad labor dispute, but that it should engage in business only to give the people something they need when they can't get it from private enterprise, such as rural electrification.

The senatorial candidate emphasized the need for more oil. He said the states are winning their fight to keep ownership of the oil lands that lie under water. But there's got to be steel to drill more wells if we are to have ample oil for military planes, farm machines, and many other vital uses. He suggested that the government see to it that enough steel is set aside for oil companies to get these new wells drilled.

In 1941, when Johnson lacked only 1211 votes of being elected Senator, he was not very well known in the Plains country, and did not get very many votes there. "It's going to be a different story this time," he said. "I am mighty happy at the way the Plains people are supporting me."

Tarzan Of Vesuvius Lands In An Asylum

NAPLES.—Alessandro Acampa, self-styled "Tarzan of Vesuvius," no longer roams the volcano garbed in fox furs and armed with a wooden dagger.

Police put the Tarzan in a local insane asylum after a series of mysterious kidnappings of young boys from villages around Vesuvius. Six boys between the ages of 9 and 14 disappeared in recent months. Police found them caged in a cave near the Vesuvius crater, prisoners of the "jungle king," as Alessandro proudly described himself.

Acampa, a son of a rich farmer of Castellammare di Stabia, took to the hills after seeing an American film depicting the story of Tarzan. The 255 year old Acampa saw the film three times in succession and then left Castellammare, telling friends he through with modern life.

When arrested, Alessandro explained happily that he needed the six boys to "carry out a special expedition into the crater to find out why Vesuvius has a smoke plume."

The boys were unhurt but half-starved in the wire cages where the Italian Tarzan had "kept them in training."

Dark Sheers With Simpler New Look Will Lead The Fashions In Summer City Wear

Summer in the city holds no terror for those who know the comfort and elegance of lovely dark sheer frocks. These classics are back again this year, says fashion expert Marian Corey, but with a modified New Look. Writing about this and the new tiered silhouette in McCall's for June, she describes several flattering designs that feature flares, flounces and teirs

"Every year at this time we go into restrained raptures over the dress that is dark and sheer, because annually we feel the urge to remain everybody that it is still as much in style as ever. It is so right for city life, looking townish, feeling cool. And it has now, with its lengthened skirt and rather smaller waistline, acquired the New Look.

"Some dresses have this Look at its best. Nothing extreme, nothing silly. They are smart dresses with well set shoulders that do not slope in a bottle-neck way, but are lightly padded. Dresses with waistlines that are not pinched in, but are only as small as is comfortable, and that do not have outrageously voluminous hemlines. These dresses also have unexaggerated hiplines. No hip pads or other revoltingly 'cute' ideas.

"Black and navy are the best colors for these perfect summer-in-the-city frocks. Semi - sheer crepe, the favorite fabric. Even more charming because they are transparent, are silk organdy and chiffon, but the question is, can you find any? You can find black cotton organdy in most stores now, and it makes wonderful tailored town dresses.

"The new tiered silhouette is being looked at with much speculative attention. Flat tiers and flared tiers. But even though flares are having a time for themselves, slim lines are coming right along.

"The low flare is the flare of the future, because it puts new-look width and flattering slimness together. One dress has the type that does not cut one in two, because at front it rises to the waistline in panels, and at back it skips center gore.

"Flared flounces placed low are the most sophisticated of flares. Some cut one's height and some don't. That of one wrap-around dress doesn't, as it curves up gracefully in a cascading drape, and, like the one just mentioned, skips the center gore at back.

"Another model has the new silhouette, with its flounces posed on a slim foundation. A tight bodice is added, and the result is a bit quaint and charming. One needs to be reasonably tall, and slim to wear it. The flounce of another beautiful design is partly lined with taffeta, so this dress goes around accompanied by a gentle murmur."

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

By PATRICIA CLARY

United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD—A B-29 ball turret, built for war at a cost of $50,000, is being used to make movies by a studio that bought it for $45.

David O. Selznick executives estimate that the turret so far has saved the studio about $50,000.

When studio engineers got hold of the brand new ball turret, sold by the government as surplus, the first thing they took out was the electrically-operated hydraulic system that turned it in any direction through a full circle.

Clarence Slifer, in charge of special effects, estimated that it would cost about $20,000 to design the unit, have it made, assembled and tested. The materials included the finest bronze bushings, the hardest gears, the most polished bearings, tested and re-tested electrical controls and a shrewdly geared motor.

Full Circle Shot Made For $11.80 in time, the turning device was adapted to a camera and made possible the first full circle movie shot in "The Paradine Case." The exact gears turned the camera at a steady, timed, focusable speed to film all of the room, its occupants and its four walls at once.

The second thing to come out of the ball turret was the machine-gun trigger controls. Keeping the stage doors shut during shooting has always been a movie problem. Bells would ring the sound track. Red lights never proved really effective. The guards at every door were too expensive.

For $5.45, the four stage doors are electrically locked by the machine-gun controls and stay locked until pressing a button opens them.

Sometimes movie film has to be run through a camera and projected on glass. The glass fits into frames and sometimes has to be moved one way or the other to frame the image perfectly.

That used to be done with hand-rollers, but it isn't any

OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS STILL ECHOES

Results of Christmas gifts sent to employees of French and British company affiliates by The Timken Roller Bearing Company still pour into the Canton, O., offices of the company. Shown with some of hundreds of letters received is William E. Umstatt, President of Timken.

4800 employees in the two countries each received one of the parcels which contained some 25 pounds of canned meats, shortening, fruits, chocolate, whole milk powder, egg powder, tea, sugar, fruit juice, soap and yeast. For convenience and safety in handling and delivery the company turned the job over to CARE. A flood of touching letters has been the result and Timken officials feel well repaid for their effort.

more. The two tiny motors, control system and gears that used to operate the expensive bomb-sight now move the frames the least fraction of an inch or several feet away with an easy control handle. The cost of adapting it: $30.

Three New Hamburger Recipes To Feed Six With One Pound And A Half Of Meat

Hamburger all fixed up to look like a roast is really news in these days of soaring prices. It's done with only 1-1/2 lbs. of meat and will feed six hungry people generously, according to Eleanor Noderer, who has worked out this and other new-flavor hamburger recipes for you in McCall's for June:

HAMBURGER ROLL

- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
1-4 cup milk
1-1/2 lbs. ground chuck
1 egg
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard.
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sage
4 tablespoons flour
2-1/2 cups diced cooked or canned carrots.

- 1-2 cup finely chopped celery
1-1/2 cup grated onion
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce

Start your oven at 350F or moderate. Then put your bread crumbs in a good sized bowl and pour the milk over them. Combine with beef, egg, chopped onion, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, salt and sage and mix very thoroughly with your hands. Now place the mixture on lightly floured waxed paper. At this point it is best to mix up the carrots, celery and grated onion. Now place layer of waxed paper on top of meat and roll in rectangular shape. Spread vegetables over beef and roll up like jelly roll. Place in pan; cover with tomato sauce. Bake 1 hr. and 15 min. Six people are going to love this meal.

Communist Party Now Using Underground Techniques, Says Hoover Of The F. B. I.

Communism is eating at the hearts of many Americans today. They fear the advance it is making in the world today. They are concerned for the future of their children. But our democracy, armed with a growing knowledge of Communism's deceit and treachery, has it on the run. Not only are the Reds ready to go underground, but they have already partly done so, J. Edgar Hoover writes. In Redbook Magazine for June, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation exposes some of the workings of the Party:

"Hitler borrowed 'the big lie' from the Communists. This is the strategy of telling a big-enough lie often enough to entire followers and hoodwink them. The first lesson every Communist must learn is this simple one of deceit.

"The great god of Communism is Lenin, the leader of the Russian Revolution. He taught that revolutionaries who are unable to combine illegal forms of struggle with all legal form of struggle are very poor revolutionaries. A Communist, though openly claiming that the Communist Party is a legal organization, will rarely admit his Party membership. He hides behind fictitious names, innocent-looking fronts, healthy masquerading his activities. As the American public's distaste for Communism mounts, Party leaders become increasingly reluctant to meet openly or to keep records of Party membership.

"In fact, the Party went underground for a short period last November. Someone erroneously informed Party headquarters that the Federal Government was about to declare the Party illegal and to make a series of mass raids. For 30 days pardemonium reigned. Party records were either destroyed or removed and hidden. Party leaders went into hiding. New edicts decreed that names of Party members would not appear on membership cards. Only club membership secretaries were to know the true identities of Party members, and then the records were to be kept in code.

"The hypocritical gyrations of Party members holding offices in labor unions is typical of the Communist technique. The Taft-Hartley Labor Law contains a provision requiring officers in the labor unions to sign a non-Communist affidavit. Communist leaders secretly recommended two ways to get around this. They advised the Party members either to withdraw from the Party long enough to sign the affidavit and then rejoin, or to withdraw from the Party and continue all Communist activities without rejoining. In those cases where the union officers also an officer in a Communist club, the Party recommends that he resign his union office and continue his Communist activities as a rank-and-file union member.

"The real work of the Party is conducted by stealth. Hypocrisy is a mental habit with Communists because they know that the patriotic citizens want no part of their program, which is based upon hate and the eventual overthrow of our Constitutional republic. Long ago in America they adopted the line that they were the Party of our early patriots, Jefferson, Paine and Lincoln.

"The American Communists are interested in only one thing—the establishment of a Soviet United States of America. They have never deviated from the line laid down in Moscow. They are continuously trying to secure a foothold in legitimate progressive organizations or to form others for the sole purpose of providing high-sounding names for use in propaganda leaflets and pressure letters. In some instances the Party has specifically assigned members to tasks to secure information for the Party. During the war a secretary 'outed' in the office of a high Government official surreptitiously copied certain documents which were delivered to the Party contact.

"American Communists are not real Americans. Communism's greatest appeal is to some of the foreign-born and their offspring, although their propaganda does not flourish among the great majority of foreign-born. We recently reviewed the origins of 55,395 of the leading members of the Communist Party. The results were most interesting. Only 411 were Negroes, but of the remaining 4,984, 4,555 or 91.4 per cent, were either of foreign birth, married to persons of foreign birth or born of foreign parents, while 56.5 per cent of the 4,984 traced their origins either from Russia or her satellite countries. The fact that only 411 Negroes were found in this select group is strong evidence that the American Negro is not being hoodwinked by these false messiahs.

"If I could have a heart-to-heart talk with every American, I would tell them that truth is the best defense against Communism. I would urge citizens to learn all they could about Communists and their ways, and finally, I would tell them that if they went to church and gave serious attention to the preaching of their minister as often as the Communist goes to the meetings of his cells, the first round of the battle in America would be won. Finally, I would tell them that the Communist way of life is alien to the American way of life, and the final line of defense is to make our democracy so strong and so workable that the Communist can never compete with it."

Three Mighty Important Ideas

Maybe you read, where a great encyclopedia has sorted all basic ideas into a few select groups. Under the letter "T" they have:

Temperance - Truth - Tyranny.

Sounds like a funny combination. And to philosophize a little, notice that Truth is in the center—between Tyranny and Temperance.

Now and then you hear folks criticize temperate people who enjoy a moderate glass of beer... who talk about "two beers" getting some one into trouble, and claim: "There ought to be a law!"

Then Truth steps in between, and points out that two beers never got anybody into trouble—and that somebody's trying to distort the facts. No, there shouldn't be a law—there should be Truth.

From where I sit, those ideas are arranged just right. Temperance on one side, Tyranny on the other—and Truth in the middle—seeing that Tyranny never encroaches upon Temperance.

Weekly Swing Of The Southwest Markets

Prices at SW markets followed very uneven trends during the past week.

Cotton prices fell at the first of the week but gained later on to just about reach the level of a week ago. Dallas and Houston quoted spot middling 15-16 inch Friday at 37.90c a pound, with Galveston at 37.65 and New Orleans at 37.95.

Grains dropped early but climbed back to mostly higher levels than last Friday. Wheat netted 3c loss, however, and barley 8c. No. 1 hard wheat closed Friday at $2.49 1-2c a bushel in bulk carlots at Texas common points. No. 2 white oats brought $1.28 to $1.32, and milo $3.83 to $3.88 a hundred.

Rice strengthened last week under active domestic demand and light mill offerings. Wheat mill feeds eased, with bran sharply lower, as rains slowed demand. Hay trading moved to the new crop basis, and Kansas City quoted No. 1 alfalfa at $25 a ton. Seed peanuts sold lower at mostly 20 cents despite active planting.

Spring chickens strengthened slightly, but other poultry and eggs held about unchanged for the week. Current egg receipts stayed close to the support price of 37c a dozen at Dallas and Fort Worth.

Rains benefitted truck crops, but slowed harvest during the past week. Watermelons began moving from Fallurrias and tomatoes from the Marlin area. Ft. Worth's wholesale market featured home grown and Colorado vegetables. Watermelons brought $3.50 to $4.

Sheep and lamb prices drifted generally 50c to $1 lower this week, though shorn lambs at Kansas City and all lambs at San Antonio held about steady. Goats sold steady to slightly easier. Medium and good shorn lambs brought $19 to $23 at San Antonio and $19 to $24.50 at Fort Worth.

Wool sold higher at 75c to 80c a pound for best grease wool in Texas.

Mixed strength and weakness visited SW cattle markets this week, with prices varying by class and grade from $1 higher to $1 lower at the different terminals. Common and medium slaughter steers and yearlings brought $21 to $25 at Houston because of the quantities of tobacco involved and buyers who expect to resale the goods in this country will be required to reprocess them. Bids will be received at the Washington WAA office until June 7. Catalogues and other information are available at the Grand Prairie Customer Service Center.

Weekly SURPLUS NEWS WAA

Further contraction of the War Assets Administration in both personnel and functions is being announced this week. In the southwest region, 280 employees, who have already been given discharge notice, will be released from their jobs June 28. Future of WAA still awaits congressional action. Virtually all of the present stores of personal property surplus in the Grand Prairie region will have been sold by the end of the fiscal year, when the agency is due to expire. But WAA still has $875,000,000 of real property in its Texas and southwestern inventory. If WAA dissolved, some other agency will be assigned the job of carrying on this disposal.

Declining inventories of materials available to veterans, priority groups and the general public will bring about the elimination of the Customer Service Center formerly maintained by WAA at Houston. A center for the purchase of surplus property will continue to operate at San Antonio, serving the entire south Texas area. For north Texas, prospective purchasers will have a service center as now located in the former North American "A" plant between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Among "close-out" sale of war surplus scheduled for the first part of June, the quarter million dollar offering at Fort Bliss now shapes up as the most important to Texans. The El Paso sale, besides nearly $100,000 in machine tools, will include a number of set aside items for veterans, some textiles, medical equipment, general products and a variety of miscellany. Inspection by the various buying classes is invited June 7 through June 9. Active bidding on the lots will start at 9 a. m. June 10.

Varying effects of withdrawals because of new national defense requirements are being noted on war surplus offerings in the southwest. In Oklahoma, a McAlister Naval Storehouses inventory of half a million dollars was affected only to the extent of $90,000 before sale time. But at Camp Gruber, most of the materials were claimed by the armed forces, leaving only a few lots for buyers on June 4. At the big Dal 6 clearance at Grand Prairie, withdrawals did not hit most of the main items, but at the Todd - Houston Shipyard, where a $75,000 clearance was scheduled for June 9, all items have been "frozen" by the military excepting some 30,000 tons of scrap steel.

Big news in real property disposal this week is that the Grand Prairie WAA region is now planning a gigantic "clean-up" sale of all surplus buildings for off-site use. Camps in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi will be involved in this unprecedented offering. According to preliminary plans, the entire assortment of camp structures will be marketed on a sealed bid, non-priority sale. Details of the plan will be announced in the near future.

Nationally, WAA now has a novel offering of surplus cigarettes, cigars and tobacco products taken from stores of decommissioned naval vessels. Although the sale is open to the public without regard to priorities, it is expected to appeal to exporters
