COUNTY ATTORNEY OFFICE SHOWS RECORD "BUSINESS" DURING 1951

While many records were being broken by merchants, businesses, individuals and offices in the county, the office of County Attorney John A. Menefee reflected an increase during 1951. In handling some 585 complaints originating in justice courts, the office set a record for the number of cases handled in one year. The principal cause for the great increase was the crackdown on "hot checkers" in the early part of the year, and accounted for 158 complaints alone. Of this number, there were 62 convictions that recovered more than $2,000 for merchants and individuals of the county. The balance of the cases are pending subject to the arrest or apprehension of the parties. Some of the accused are in prison, some out of state, while others just have not yet been located. Menefee noted that the number of "hot check" complaints had decreased greatly in the late part of the year due to the cooperation of the merchants in requiring positive identification, along with the enactment of the new hot check law. He reminded that some merchants do not require the givers of checks to include their address on the instruments, and in doing so aid the givers of worthless checks under the new law. A merchant is required to give a ten day notice by registered mail on a hot check before a complaint can be filed, or an oral notice, and if the address is included on the check, it enables faster action on the instruments, Menefee said. He advised the practice of requiring the address of a person giving a check be included on all instruments. In other matters, driving while intoxicated cases had 68 complaints on the docket. Of these, there were 62 convictions with the other six cases pending trial in county court. During the illness of District Attorney Hart Johnson of the 112th District Court, Mr. Menefee handled the work of the grand jury, and handled all pleas of guilty coming before the court. He also assisted in juvenile delinquent cases in both the 112th and 83rd District Courts. In the latter part of the year, the County Attorney's office assisted in calling a road bond election, and began the preparation of instruments and contacting owners to secure right of way in the million dollar road program now being processed by Upton County. During the year, handled the civil affairs pertaining to the county, and rendered opinions to the Commissioners Court and other county offices during the year. As to what the outlook for the coming year, Mr. Menefee said, "The only way I know to make the work in this office less is to let would be law-breakers know that they will be prosecuted. When you have the responsibility of protecting the rights and properties of citizens... the only thing this office knows to do is to treat all the accused alike play no favorites, and keep justice of our courts and the principals of our law intact for the citizens of this county to the best of my ability."

The FM roads approved in the three counties that would connect McCamey and Bakersfield totaled 15.6 miles, according to the office of the Assistant State Highway Engineer. The construction will be set up for the biennium from Sept. 1, 1951, to Aug. 31, 1953. The priority that the road will receive lies with District Highway Engineer in Pecos. It was at this meeting that the Crane-Rankin FM road also received approval for completion under the same biennium.

County Attorney Explains New Election, Tax Laws

Persons becoming 21 years old can get their poll tax exemptions 30 days prior to the election in which they are able to vote, according to one of the changes in the Texas election code. This and many other changes in voting and election procedure are incorporated into the 248 articles of the new election code, County Attorney John A. Menefee said today. The code went into effect on Jan. 1. Another change involves the way of marking ballots. Under the new law a voter may mark his ballot by placing an X on the box beside the candidate he wishes to elect, or by drawing a line through the names or name he does not favor, as is done at present. The law now provides that a box for the X mark be placed beside the candidates' names on the ballot.

Under the code, a person may authorize someone else to get his poll tax in writing, but the authorization does not have to be notarized as previously. Menefee also reported there are important changes in the code in the manner of contesting elections. The attorney general now has the power to investigate elections in which fraud is alleged and can take action by the impounding of ballot boxes. He can conduct the investigation if affidavits of two or more reputable citizens advising him of the alleged irregularities are submitted to him. Important changes in the regulations for filing expenses of candidates also are included in the code, Menefee added. These include the ones fixing fees for all state officers and federal senators and representatives at 5 per cent of one year's salary. As is done now, district, county and precinct officers' fees are fixed by the County Executive Committee. The fees for state senators and representatives are now fixed on population bracket under the new code. Regulations on campaign expenditures by candidates are listed in more detail in the code than previously, Menefee reported. Expenditures are listed by individual candidates, rather than by general regulation.

He asked for the vote and influence of his friends, and for the consideration of new citizens of his precinct.

HOW IT STINKS!

It's a safe bet that nothing since World War II, with the single exception of the Korean conflict, has so thoroughly rocked the country as the graft revelations. And, according to reports on the contents of Congressional mail from the folks back home, nothing has so shocked and revolted the people.

Democratic Party Chairman McKinney recently said that he is sure the scandals will not be an issue of the 1952 campaign, on the grounds that the President and other Democrats are handling the situation, and will clean everything up in short order. This, in the view of most observers, is whistling in the dark with a vengeance. The graft has been going on too long, and too many people in key Administration jobs are directly or indirectly involved. On top of that, it was a junior Republican senator, Williams of Delaware, who cracked open the tax frauds and has seen to it that the investigations kept going. And it is an outstanding fact that some Democrats who have done valiant work on behalf of high ethical standards in government—such as Senators Kefauver and Douglas—are persona non grata at the White House.

The reaction of the American press to the scandals has been one of anger—just as was the case with the scandals of the Harding administration. As a general rule, the editorial attitude has been "turn the rascals out." This has been buttressed by most of the columnists, who are taking a similar line. And on the factual side, coverage of the news by both press and radio has been excellent.

The big thing, of course, has been the graft in the Internal Revenue Bureau. This has completely overshadowed the deep freeze and mink coat episodes, and for an excellent reason. As Robert Ruark put it, "We cannot understand a billion here, a billion there, because so few of us deal in billions that they just represent a long line of zeros. We cannot understand the deviations of the State Department. The good Lord knows we cannot understand what has transpired with prices and ceilings and economics in general, because it is a solid cinch the people who perpetrate them do not understand them, either."

"But there is one thing we know, from Natchez to Mobile, and Memphis to St. Jo. Taxes we know. I know 'em, because I owe 'em. You know 'em. You know 'em because they squeeze 'em right out of your tired old take-home, and you never get through the one year without fretting about the next."

Everyone kicks at the tax collector as a matter of course, but everyone has believed that Internal Revenue was honest as they come. Now that the Bureau has taken on the smell of an ancient fish, the general public has turned whopping mad. And on the level of general principle, it seems certain that many millions of average Americans feel like Holmes Alexander, who wrote, "No tramp of a foreign invader has so shaken the temple of our freedom like the stealthy treat of thieves who are still at large within the government. And, unless we wake up to these dangers, the Communist dream of decaying democracy can become our own nightmare."

THE FEWER THE BETTER!

Those who believe that price and the related controls can solve practically every economic problem follow a simple formula. Step one is to apply controls. Then, if that does not produce the desired result, step two is taken, which is to make the controls still stiffer. So it goes, ad infinitum.

This may be all very well in theory, but it breaks down like an overwound spring in fact. For, as controls become stiffer and more numerous, the inevitable result is either a scarcity of goods or a deterioration in the quality of goods. The price is fixed, all right—but that is hardly of advantage to consumers who are not able to find what they want on the shelves.

The weird changes that have taken place in the beef situation are in point. Some time ago the legitimate packers reported that the amount of beef they were able to purchase was way below normal. More and more beef obviously was being diverted into gray markets and black markets. To make a bad matter worse OPS was known to be considering placing ceiling prices on meat at the live cattle level. As a consequence, farmers and ranchers largely stopped buying lean cattle to fatten for market—a practice which is responsible for a substantial part of the nation's meat supply.

Then certain changes were made in control regulations. On top of that, Congress, in renewing the Defense Production Act, denied OPS authority to impose live cattle prices. In other words, a supply-and-demand economy in meat was to some extent restored. And, of late, marketings of meat through the legitimate channels of trade has been running at near-record levels. The shortage is over.

The moral is plain. The fewer controls we have, the better the public is served. And it is served best when there are no arbitrary, artificial controls at all.

Ed Got Red
In His Own "Hot Water"

Big Ed started a "Pay-Your-Bill" campaign last week and ended up with a slightly red face. Ed's been our Water Commissioner for ten years, and for ten years now he's been getting riled up over slow payments of bills.

So, he finally decided to do something drastic about it. Last week he sent notices that if the slackers didn't pay up by Friday, he'd shut off their water.

Naturally, some still didn't square accounts. Ed ordered their water turned off, and 14 homes went without all week end—the Commissioner's among them. Seems Ed forgot to pay his bill.

From where I sit, Ed's mistake is one we all make at times. We are too quick to accuse others while forgetting our own faults. Lots of us do it, for instance, over a difference in taste for a soft drink or a friendly glass of beer. Let's respect each other's preferences and we'll all stay out of "hot water."

Public Schools Week To Be Observed By Texans March 2 to 8

Thousands of Texas adults will go back to school during the week of March 2-8 in observance of the Second Annual Public Schools Week, which has as its theme, "Democracy In Action."

Gov. Allan Shivers today proclaimed March 2-8 as Public Schools Week in Texas. In his proclamation he said:

"One of the basic institutions upon which we rely for the furtherance of our American ideals is the public school system. Public schools, by enabling every child to gain a liberal education regardless of station in life, promote recognition of the responsibilities of citizenship and constitute a major bulwark against subversive doctrines."

"We in Texas are proud of the school system that has been developed in our state. Its success has been due to many factors—the interest of parents in their children, the cooperative efforts of state and local officials, and the energy and determination of those public spirited men and women who are devoting their lives to the teaching of our children."

"The continued progress of our school system requires increased public understanding of the importance of education and the greatest possible encouragement and support of our teachers."

Gov. Shivers' proclamation follows a resolution adopted last summer by the Texas State Board of Education designating the week of March 2-8 as Public Schools Week. The resolution urged that every citizen visit a public school during the period to become personally acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of the state's system of public schools.

The Texas Education Agency has requested local public school officials throughout the state to invite the citizens of their respective communities to visit class rooms and to plan programs with the purpose of giving the pupils and citizens a better understanding of the school program.

Public Schools Week was observed officially for the first time in Texas last March. In hundreds of communities thousands of citizens visited their public schools in big groups. Many visitors had not been inside schools in years.

Statistically compiled by the Texas Citizens' Committee on Public Schools Week following the first Public Schools Week program revealed a great awakening on the part of the public to the problems of their local public schools.

March Of Dimes Will Reach New Heights, Believes Chairman

AUSTIN.—The March of Dimes, Jan. 23, will reach new heights this year in Texas, believes State Chairman Lloyd Gregory of Houston. "With the assistance of thousands of volunteer polio fighters in every Texas county, better organized, better supplied, and better informed than ever before about the service program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, good results should be predetermined," Gregory said this week.

An example of outstanding cooperation pointed to by Gregory is the support offered by representatives of 57 statewide organizations, many of which have organized for the campaign in their local units throughout Texas.

Examples of all-out effort in the move to provide Texas county chapters and the National Foundation with sufficient funds for polio treatment, education, and research have come from many varied groups.

Gregory announced that messages requesting local support had been sent to National Guard units, Fourth Army units, theatres, local chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, local posts of the American Legion, and chapters of the Disabled American Veterans, unions in the Texas Federation of Labor, local brotherhoods of the Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and the Texas Hospital Assn.

Also, county chairmen of the Texas Home Demonstration Assn., Rotary Clubs, members of the Outdoor Advertising Assn. of America, clubs of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, Rebekah Assemblies of the IOOF, women's auxiliaries of the Texas Medical Assn., and district presidents of the Texas as Council of Church Women. Gregory said he was certain other letters had been sent by state officers of organizations about which he had not been informed. The state polio chairman declared that it seemed to him that everyone was eager to see that enough money would be raised to guarantee that no polio patients needing help would be denied, that Texas would pay its own way in patient care, and contribute its share to the National research, professional medical education, and epidemic aid programs.

Shell Chemical Steps Up Glycerine, Ethyl Chloride Production

Installations increasing synthetic glycerine output by 50 per cent, and ethyl chloride output by 30 per cent, have been completed at the Houston plant of Shell Chemical Corp., it was announced recently by B. M. Downey, Houston plant manager.

The ethyl chloride addition also required an increase in the production of ethylene.

Operations commenced at the new units late in 1951 and the manufacture of these vital chemicals is rapidly nearing scheduled capacity.

Synthetic glycerine, in heavy demand because of growing military needs, is necessary for use in explosives. It is also used in the manufacture of cellophane, resins and many other products.

Ethyl chloride is a basic material in the making of tetraethyl lead, antiknock fluid for motor gasoline and aviation fuel. It is also essential for use in a wide range of products including water-proofing compounds, lacquers and varnishes, transparent wrapping films, coated paper and textiles.

LUBRICATE FOR SAFETY EVERY 1,000 MILES

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER:
 Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety — as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine. We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, more miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in more ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" you think of fuel, because that's what you buy. But air's free—and for every gallon of gasoline, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving. A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers developed the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loading along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-speed thrift and smoothness that's out of this world. As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—so you keep getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to go into instant action at the nudge of your toe.

You have the satisfaction of knowing that you get this power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

That's the story of Airpower carburetion in facts and figures straight from the factory. But statistics can't tell you the breath-taking joy of heading for new horizons in a great-powered new ROADMASTER.

When can you do that? Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Sure is true for '52

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them
