VENEZUELA — South America's biggest customer for U.S. goods — annually buys more than $500 million worth of products from United States factories and farms. Another $350 million of services (such as banking, insurance, etc.) are also provided to Venezuela by U.S. firms. A new independent study shows that exports to Venezuela come from hundreds of cities and towns throughout the U.S. The above map indicates the shares which different regions have in this expanding export market, Figures are estimated on the basis of the study, directed by Econometrics Specialists, Inc., which took in a 34 per cent sample of total export to Venezuela. American ships play a vital part in this trade, said the American Merchant Marine Institute.

Right here at the last minute seems that everyone is getting xcited about the rodeo.

There are a number of reasons why we think that the All-Kid Rodeo is a fine thing. In the first place, the kids just naturally put on a better show than he grown-ups. They are trying all the time and some of them show real ability in the cowboy ng and cowgirling line. Another good thing that we can see in the show is the fact that it's good advertisement for Rankin, Almost every one of the good rodeos over Texas started out as just a little show just like this one has done. one who knew that there was for their town. The Dublin Pre-Madison Square Garden Rodeo is one of the best in Texas and draws top riders every year. It was started by a handful of men and is now a big project with the whole town in on the deal. The Post Stampede and the Stanford Roundup are two others that have grown out of little shows.

This being the only kid rodeo in this part of the country, there is no reason why it can't grow into a big thing and attract a large number of people to Rankin each year.

There are several things that could hinder the growth of the show and one is the size of the present arena. The seating was not narly enough for last year's rodeo and promises to be only a drop in the bucket this year. There is one project that definitely needs some time and though. Personally, we would like to see some group take on the job of getting the seating apacity enlarged. It would be the first step in making a bigger and better show out of the af-

Speaking of projects, we heard one mentioned not long ago that had much merit to it but did not seem to meet with much re sponse, R. L. Bell suggested to the Rankin Lions Club that the matter of bulding some sort of dam across one of the local draws and forming a lake be looked into. The matter was discussed and seemed to have the approval of most of those present but has never gone any further. This would be a very good project. It would not have to be a large undertaking but could still provide a fine place for outings for Rankin residents if it were handled properly. Stocked with fish and planted with a few trees, a lake would keep lots of money at home and at the same time, give folks a better opportunity to get out and enjoy themselves without having to drive a hundred or so miles. McCamey KCMR 1450 KC Several men have expressed the belief that the project could be worked out. About all that is needed is a little cooperation on the matter and there might be month when the post office uepartment let the mail route go to Midiand. This was a sad er- and for the commissioners ror on their part. The route definitely should have been given to the local office since it would have meant much better service to the people involved and would have probably been much more economical. There is still a possibility of righting the matter if the people to be served by the route will stick together and demand a regular rural route out of this office. It would mean much better mail service to them and would be another instance of keeping the business at home instead of letting it go outside of the county. Sometimes it is not to hard to see how the post office department manages to operate at a 500 million dollar loss per year. In this case, they just failed to get all the facts on the case. It is to the credit of acting postmaster W. O. Adams that he is not letting the matter pass without trying to get it correct ed. He has entered a letter of protest with the department and with the help of those to be served by the route, still stands a good chance of getting it placed with this office where it rightly belongs.
