Game Series--Winner Take All --

LITTLE LEAGUE PLAY-OFFS IN RANKIN THURSDAY

Action will reach its peak in Rankin this week with the District Little League All-Star Championships. The games start Thursday, July 23 and continue through Friday, July 24. All-Star entry, after some two weeks of workouts, is prepared to face a strong Reagan County club. Action will open at 8:00 p.m. at the Rankin Little League park. A capacity attendance is expected and additional facilities are being readied for this purpose.

Admission is free but the hat is passed with donations going into Little League activity and to helping pay the expenses of the winning team as it advances to further playoffs.

Friday night, again at 8:00, the Midkiff All-Star, the possible dark horse club of this particular series, will play the winner of the Rankin-Big Lake game. Friday night's winner will be the district champion and will represent the Little League organization from this district in further playoff games.

Rosters for the visiting teams were not available for publication.

Teen-Age Play --

In the teenage league, Rankin's Go Team made a clean sweep of their invitational tournament—winning all their games—plus an extra game played with the Reagan County All Stars. In a return match between these two, held in Big Lake Tuesday night, the Big Lake team took the win, 5-3. A "sugar game" was scheduled to be played in Rankin on Wednesday night between these two teams.

On August 3, the Go Team will enter the play-off series in Monahans when they play Monahans at 8:00 p.m.

Winner of this game will play again the following night in Monahans with the opponent being Marfa.

Rankin's Water Supply Getting Thorough Test

As the Rankin area continued to enjoy the advantages of clear skies and warm sunshine—whatever advantages that would be to an area that has had less than 6 inches of moisture in the past 12 months—the water system supplying the city was being taxed to its fullest capacity. It is estimated that Rankin proper is presently using water at the rate of about 2.5 million gallons per week. Due to the fact that two wells belonging to the city and located in the south part of town are now in use 24-hours a day and have no metering systems, it is impossible to tell exactly how much they produce.

In addition to this water, the city purchases water from the county. The last quarter, this purchase amounted to 21 and a quarter million gallons, up about a million gallons. County water production, located on the Neal ranch about three miles east of Rankin, is also running at full capacity on a 24-hour basis and production is estimated at some 400,000 gallons of water daily.

High peak in usage comes in the week. Last Friday, all storage facilities had been drained and the entire system was operating from water in the mains and lines. On week-end, with a number of residents out of town, some businesses closed and school and county facilities shut down, the system will usually catch up and produce a surplus in the large storage tank near the Western Company. The water tower has not been used this summer since it is under repair. Another storage tank adjacent to the swimming pool park, is usually used for storage of water to be used in an emergency, such as a fire. However, since all the water that is being produced is used immediately, this "safety valve" has not been in reserve for the past several weeks.

Water production is said to be holding up reasonably well considering the hard pumping under which the wells are being operated. Some lessening of volume has been noted on all wells, however. In addition to having less water, the quality of that being produced has also fallen. Use of the old city wells, once taken out of production in favor of the better quality water from the county area, add to the problem of keeping good water at all times.

Although the users of water in Rankin have experienced low pressure and water that sometimes looks a little like milk, they have never been completely without water. "But it's been a near thing," pointed out those responsible for production.

One solution—and one that has a fast reaction—would be for the area to receive a good general rain. Even a cloudy, cool day has been known to lessen the strain. However, this prospect, like most other solutions, looks rather dim. Most old timers will tell you not to expect rain in August—which no one really expected in July—or June—or May.

Working on the assumption that Rankin will be able to get thru the summer, no plans have been considered here for rationing—as has been the case in many Texas communities this summer. Summer irrigation rates for water users in Rankin went into effect April 1 and will continue until October 1.

Let's all have another cool one—water, that is.

New County Budget Goes on File Aug. 1

Upton County Commissioner's Court has scheduled another session for Monday, July 27 at which time they will wind up work on their budget for next year's financial operations of the county. The new budget will be filed at the county clerk's office on August 1 and will remain there for public scrutiny for 15 days. Any interested party may look over

WINERS—

This past week, we saw the local teenage baseball team sweep their tournament, winning every game they played and then on Saturday night, defeating a Reagan County All-Star Club. This Go Team is composed of boys who live in Rankin School District—some from Rankin and some from Midkiff. And for the play-offs, they will have two or three extra boys from other teams in the league. Naturally, everyone has a good bit of pride in this particular ball club.

In a very few weeks now, we will turn our attention to football. First activity will be when the coaches gather at their annual coaching school about the middle of August. Upon their return, practice for the fall season will get underway and all of us will once again be bitten by the football bug.

Entirely apart from sports we very recently saw Barry Goldwater nominated for Republican candidate for President. His opponents were soundly beaten and one of the results has been that every word Mr. Goldwater has uttered since the convention has been front page news. His opponents, on the other hand, have already been put far back in the news pages and in a few short weeks, nothing more will be heard of them. Mr. Goldwater won this particular contest.

And we all love a winner.

And that brings up the point on which I'd appreciate having someone answer: Why do all of us place such high honor on winning—and not only winning—but winning first.

If a 4-H member has a sheep, he must win the grand champion. If a youth competes in the rodeo, he or she must top all contenders. If a football team loses more than half of its games, the coach had better keep his bags packed—and just to be on the safe side, he and his team should really win them all. Baseball managers in the major leagues are a dime

Barbara Eaggleston-Herbert Hurn Wed In Corpus Christi on Saturday, July 18

Travis Baptist Church in Corpus Christi was the setting for the marriage of Herbert Wesley Hurn and Barbara Gail Eggleston on Saturday, July 18 at 8 in the evening. Hurn is the son of Mrs. Herbert Hurn of Rankin. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eggleston of 521 Hoffman, Corpus Christi.

With a candle-light setting a variety of candelabra with votive lighting made a background for large arrangements of white Calla lillies in church decorations. Emerald greens were blended into the motif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal-length gown of white delustered satin. Continental sleeves and a Sabrina neckline dipping to a low "V" in back, styled the fitted bodice. A wide band of imported French Alencon lace, heavily embroidered in pearls, highlighted the neckline. The pleated dome-shaped skirt featured a Watteau train which fell from a large flat bow at the base of the back neckline. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white gladias and Stephanotis centered with a large white orchid. For going-away, the bride wore a white orchid as her floral piece.

Miss Patty Eggleston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Maurer of Corpus Christi and Mrs. D. A. Brinkle of Waco.

The attendants wore formal-length sheaths of Camellia pink crepe. The neckline was accented by a low square in the back, ending in a floor length Watteau train. A small bow held a short bouffant veil to form the headpieces. Short white gloves completed their ensembles. The attendants carried large pink gladias shaped as roses with buds dipping to the floor.

Mr. Bill Hurn, brother of the groom, Midland, was best man. Mr. Jim Bob Turn, cousin of the groom, Corsicana; and Don Cox, brother-in-law of the groom, Midland, were groomsmen.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of Travis Baptist Church.

The couple honeymooned in Acapulco and Mexico City and are now at home at 221 Grimes, Harlingen.

The bride is a graduate of Roy Miller High School Corpus, and Del Mar Junior College and of North Texas State University.

Mr. Hurn graduated from Rankin high school, San Angelo College and Texas University.

The best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time.

a dozen—unless they can win in which case, as with the New York Mets and Casey Stingle, it is all right to loose if you have a winning reputation.

In our local golf matches of which I am an authority, you must not only win your flight but it must be the championship or very top flight if it is to be said that you won the tournament.

And yet, speaking of the event on which I'm well versed, the duffer down in the bottom flight who won with a 90 might well have shot ten strokes better than he was actually capable of playing while the hot shots all had a bad day and the winner posted a 72—something like his average round. Yet, the duffer did not win the top—first—spot and if he as much as gets his name in the newspaper, he's lucky. We demand that our winners be not only winners but winners of the winners.

What ever happened to the boy who raised a lamb and—although he didn't even place in the shows, he learned something about the care and management of an animal and he learned to love and cherish it—rat-earned thing that it was? What ever happened to the kid with the poor eyesight or who was all feet and legs but who liked to play baseball as best he could? He wasn't chosen on any of the organized teams. His name will never be among the all-stars. And yet, perhaps a few times, in some sand lot game, he did experience the thrill of hitting the ball and even caught a long fly—which, for his condition, might well have been equal to a star athlete rapping out a grand slam before the capacity crowd.

One of the speakers at the above mentioned convention asked the question: "What has happened to the America we used to know?"

I don't know the full answer but a part of it must have went up in smoke when we started demanding that everyone be first in all things before he be worthy of mention.

Last week-end an exhibition was on television in which much bowing and scraping was done in honor of three men who finished 1 and 2 in the PGA golf match while Ben Hogan at 52 and on legs that had been broken, finished well up towards the top and was given only polite applause despite the fact that he was at one time the best of them all. You must not only win first to remain in high honor, you must win first forever.

It would seem that it's no longer suitable for the school teacher to be dedicated to the job a teaching. Now they must be Masters of their trade and hold high honors. The newspaper must be a first-place winner in many events to earn recognition. The

A "Second Home" in the form of a lakeside cabin, hill country retreat, or vacation hide-away may soon become as popular as the second car is to most families. The development of recreational areas, the construction of new dams forming lakeside areas, and many other conditions combined together make the construction of a vacation home a "whole family project", says County Agent, Dub Day.

He has a variety of small homes and cabin plans for those who wish to build their own. Types of plans available range from small one-bedroom cabins to the popular A-frams type cabins. Most of the cabins may be built by a

I don't say that we should return to the days of old—in these times of competition in every aspect of life, I seriously doubt that we can ever re-capture the attitude that all that was required of one was that he do his best. Like the faithful old horse who would always get you there sooner or later and was replaced by the automobile that would get you there first, I fear that ahead of us are times that are going to demand more and more that you get to the top—regardless.

"I WAS A WALKING DEAD MAN"

Are you alive, SPIRITUALLY—or a walking dead man?

How can you become spiritually? "By every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God!"
