Saturday afternoon of last week, the leg was removed just above the injury.

Friona Weather

Weather in the Friona territory during the past week has been a sort of facsimile of the previous week, only not quite so cold. No moisture has been emitted during the week, and that is something that our farmers are becoming distinctly interested in. Wheat is beginning to need rain seriously owing to the unusual amout of wind we have had at this season of the year. Christmas Eve and Chirstmas Day were mild and pleasant, only the wind became a little to boisterous in the afternoon, and Wednesday is a little hazy but no harbinger of coming moisture.

of West Texas State College, worked for the Southwestern Public Service Co., for several months before accepting the position of news editor on The Brand in 1940. She majored in journalism at WTSC and has made an outstanding record during the time she has been with The Brand, also handling correspondence items for the Amarillo News, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, West Texas Today, and numerous other periodicals.

In addition, Miss Brotherton has been active in community affairs and has contributed much time to various organizations. She was president of the B. & P. W. Club, treasurer of a Prebyterian Sunday School department, president of the Calliopian Club, active on the U. S. O. board, Federated Clubs and scores of other activities. Miss Ruth Tucker student at Baylor Belton, assisted with news writing at The Brand this week, and Ben Ezzell of Seymour, recently discharged cap-tain from the U.S. Army will take over the position of news editor on The Brand Dec. 31. Mr. Ezzel is a graduate of West Texas State College, and in addition to four years service in the army has also served as news editor in Memphis, Floydada and Levelland prior to his entry in the armed services. The Ezzels are married and have a daughter, age 2.

Funeral Services For Davis' Father

Funeral services for J. M. Davis, 91, father of W. L. (Bill) Davis of this city, were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in Sherman, Texas. Mr. Davis died Wednesday morning, Dec. 26, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. D. Edwards, with whom he made his home in Sherman. W. L. Davis left Wednesday to attend the services.

Surviving him are five daughters and four sons, including L. P. Davis of Plainview and J. Davis of Lubbock, who frequently visited here; also a granddaughter, Mrs. Joy Edwards of Hereford.

NEWS IN THE WORLD or RELIGION

Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japan's world renowned Christian leader is, quoted by Dr. Walter Van Kirk, on his return from a flying trip to Japan, as having, said, "Japanese morality and culture had fallen so low that if Japan had won the war it would have been a catastrophe for the world," Dr. Van Kirk reports that Kagawa has lost one fourth of his weight, but is well, and carrying on an intensive schedule of evangelistic meetings. When the war first broke out, Kagawa was arrested by the "thought police" and subjected to nine days and nights of questioning. But he was released and during the years has been holding Christian meetings, organizing relief, and promoting his welfare institutions and the cooperative movement. Dr. Van Kirk reports that Kawaga told him: The people of Japan are sick and tired after eight years of war....The American GI's have won the confidence of the Japanese people....We need your prayers, your Bibles, and your good missionaries."

Two Congregational missionaries, who already have some years of experience in China, have returned to China to serve in relief and rehabilitation work in war torn north China, under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (Congregational, Boston, Mass.). They are the Rev. Robbins Strong, of Oberlin, Ohio, who was interned in Weishien prison camp, China, during the war, and who returned some months ago on the "Grip-sholm"; and the Rev. Alfred Dixon Heininger, who was in China for ten years but more recently was a pastor in Rochester. Wis. Their first work will be to gather what is left; of the Christian groups in North
