

Dairy Show Termed Success By Breeders and County Farmers

Praised by cattlemen as one of the best shows of its kind ever held in Parmer County, the Dairy Show held last week closed with a report of 74 animals entered in the various contests. Of that number, 15 were Milking Shorthorns and 59 were Jerseys.

Ray Mowrey of the animal husbandry department, Texas Tech, Lubbock, was judge of the show.

Of special interest to farmers was the dairy production team demonstration worked out by Leon Grisson and Wendol Christian of the Oklahoma Lane Club, who used the method of feeding worked out by E. R. Eudaly, dairy cattle specialist, Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

PUBLIC NOTICE

As there has been some suggestions by citizens of Parmer County that the starting dates of the public schools be postponed, because of the Infantile Paralysis scare. We have called by long distance, our state health doctor, Dr. Geo. W. Cox at Austin, Texas for his advice, and he advised that schools proceed with their plans and open as they had originally planned to do.

Dr. Cox explained that if the drinking water supply and other sanitary conditions were looked after and kept in proper condition, that there was no more danger in school than any other place, and that a weak and run down condition caused the disease.

He further stated that he was advising all the schools of Texas to go ahead with their plans for opening as usual.

Signed:
Dr. J. M. McCuan,
Lee Thompson.

CONGREGATIONAL-CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Increasingly the Sunday nearest the opening of our public schools is being observed as public education Sunday, attempting to salute and recognize the high place of public education in a democracy and the strategic place occupied by our teachers, as well as the invocation of the divine blessing upon the ensuing school term. Such a service is to be held at the regular worship hour at 12 o'clock Sunday, Sept. 5, postponed from last week after the opening of school was delayed one week. Teachers from our congregation in other school systems and college students leaving for their studies will also be honored. The pastor will deliver a special sermon for the occasion; appreciation and not advice to the teachers is the basis. All teachers, members of the board of trustees and employees of the Friona Independent School District and pupils and their families have a cordial invitation to attend this special service.

Polio Scare Postpones School Start

The opening of the Friona schools which was scheduled to have taken place on Monday of this week has been postponed until Monday, Sept. 5, according to announcements made Sunday.

The action of the school board in making this postponement was deemed expedient because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis throughout the country. The severely warm weather was also a supporting factor in calling the postponement.

Unless good and sufficient reasons arise, school will open on the coming Monday, Sept. 5, according to Supt. O. B. Ginn.

I began to feel like the lady at the funeral the minister was saying so many nice things about the departed one that as she sat there on the front pew with her group of little children, she leaned over and spoke to the oldest boy and said, "Sounie, you go up and peep into that casket and see if that really is Daddy in there."

Well, that was the way it was with me as I read those letters, I felt like looking back to the beginning and see if it really was addressed to me. One of these letters was from Tom Howorth, away down there in the "Magic" Valley, and he was saying some of those nice things; and he mentioned to another good friend, Jim Douglas, the fact that he used to read my column in the Star, and they got considerable enjoyment out of it when I chance to mention their names.

Now, there is something peculiar about those two men. I do not remember that I ever saw either of them at church, and if either of them had any church affiliation I do not remember ever having heard them mention it. But if they did have, I would guess Jim to be a Presbyterian and Tom a Methodist. And my guess could be, but I have this to mention: I have this to say about these two good men and that is, about the worst thing that is wrong with this old world today is there are not enough Tom Howorths and Jim Douglas's in it.

When I knew them . . . No, that is wrong, for I still know them, but have not been with them for many years, but when I was with them, Jim was one of the leading and most popular bankers in his native city, and Tom was publisher and editor of one of the best county papers in Southern Illinois. Both are now retired with plenty of this world's riches to keep them and their loved ones in abundant comfort for the remainder of their lives, while I have resolved into nothing better than a common "street-corner" philosopher. If I ever received even the "one talent" I must surely have hidden it in a napkin, and it is being returned to me.

Well, as I stated above, if either of these men had any professed religion, I never knew it, but they did have a kind that they just simply "lived." I suppose that, in the opinion of some people, I have neither kind; and some persons must have gathered that idea from my effusion of two weeks ago, for I received an envelope the other day that bore the Canyon, Texas postmark, and inside the envelope was a small booklet entitled "How May I be Saved, And Know It?" And that is all I have yet read of it.

Perhaps the sender, whoever he may be (for there was no name subscribed to it), may be worrying about MY salvation, if so, I am sorry; but I am not worried. I have that thing fixed up to my own satisfaction, so who should worry? However, not the least offense taken, and I appreciate his interest in me.

From what I read in the papers and the magazines, and hear on the radio, there are a lot of our "super minds" at work now, presumably both night and day and from seven to ten days per week, preparing what is variously referred to as the "post war era," "The Post War World" and a few other titles; and it occurs to me that they are leading the dear people to believe that if they accept the work of these super-minds life on this mundane sphere after this "hellish" war, will be nothing less than a "heaven on earth." In fact, they have gotten a little ahead of the Great and Eternal God in this matter, for their heaven will be given to us before we die (if we live long enough) but, according to some of my religious critics, we must die before we can enter the heaven God has prepared for us. So they are a few hops ahead in the matter.

Since I am not saved, as I understand the intimation of the sender of the little booklet I have mentioned above, I cannot get into God's heaven even after I die, so I guess my only chance is to try to live long enough to get a whack at this man-made heaven that our super-minds are brewing for us. Some people claim that they know exactly what the eternal heaven is like and can give an exact description of it in full detail. I do not know anything about what it will be like, and I am not venturing even a guess on it; but I do know as much as they, for no one has come from there to tell us, and it is written somewhere I think it is in the "Good Book"—"Eye has not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into heart of man, the things that God has in store for him."—or words to that effect.

I have just read an article in the Clovis News-Journal, presumably written by some one in connection with the government Soil Conservation Service, in his state. What he says about the destruction of the soil by erosion, in whatsoever form, I agree with him almost to the letter. I even agree with him to the extent that I believe that is one branch of the New Deal policy that would have been beneficial to the country had it been handled in a sensible way. I would like to quote the entire article but cannot for want of time and space; but I will quote a small portion of it, as it emphasizes or brings out that which I deem wrong with the whole plan.

QUOTE:
"Really, it is a tragedy that the American government has so coax and compel farmers to protect their own land from the ravages of nature. Today, there are some 43 states of this union that have set up soil conservation regulations, most long enough to get a whack at this man-made heaven that our super-minds are brewing for and federal aid is brought right to the farmer's front door, and figuratively speaking, dumped right into his lap many do not appreciate it as they should, often being forced by law to accept the courtesy of their own government of which they are an integral part.

A Co-Ed Casual

College or high school girl can feel smartly turned out in this type outfit: a bright red-green-white plaid jacket over a black sweater to contrast with a gabbardine skirt. Ankle sock and maybe a pair of liquid hose finish the sporty ensemble.

"If America is to remain the great nation it now is and go forward to still greater heights there must be co-operation between its citizens and its government in numerous ways. Many citizens today are more nation-minded than ever before; but that number still must be increased. Of all the alphabetical administrations in vogue today, there is little doubt that the Soil Conservation Service stands well at the top, and because of its leading position, should be duly appreciated and patronized by all loyal farmers of the nation." END QUOTE.

I agree with the writer of the above quotation, that the Soil Conservation Service is perhaps the most important feature of the AAA service, and that all farmers should practice it to the best of their knowledge and intentions; but just why should the government pay a man for doing the thing which is for his own individual good and well-being as well as that of his family, his neighbor and his community?

On the other hand, as I understand the principles of individual initiative and free enterprise, a man has the right to do as he pleases with his own property, whether it be land, livestock, bank stock, machinery or a factory, just so long as his plan of management does not damage his neighbor or interfere with his neighbor's well-being. And when he allows his plans of operation to become a hindrance and a damage to his neighbor, it becomes a crime against that neighbor in the same manner that stealing his hogs or his machinery would be. Then just why should the government pay this man as the writer of the quotation said, by "dumping it right into his lap," for not injuring his neighbor, rather than punishing him for doing it, as it would do for the commission of other crimes? Why should this particular crime be singled out as deserving of a commentary and payment by the government in so much cash or its equivalent in a government check, rather than punishable by a fine or a term in jail or the penitentiary the same as for other crimes? It occurs to me that there is but one obvious answer. Of course, I am probably wrong again, as usual.

Hungarian Partridges Thrive In Sections Near Hereford

"In the Panhandle, particularly in the Canadian River Country, the nesting ground has been built to order for Hungarian Partridges," writes Eltinge F. Warner, publisher of FIELD & STREAM, in the current issue of that popular sportsman's magazine. A wire from Gene Howe, of Amarillo, quoted in Mr. Warner's article, says that numerous large coveys have been raised from the original planting of 150 pairs of these speedy game birds shipped in from Canada last March and April.

The partridge planting project was conceived in 1942, while Elt Warner, Tom Main of Alberta, Gene Howe of Texas and Lou Calder of Florida were enjoying a successful hunt near Brooks, Alberta. Hungarian partridges, plentiful in that area, furnished a big part of the sport. "We'd put up 20 or 30 coveys a day," Warner writes, and goes on to relate how they then and there planned to start the popular game birds in Texas, where along with other Southwestern States, the climate and nesting conditions are ideal. Warner and his hunting pals talked to every one they could find who knew anything about Hungarians, particularly Fred Green of Calgary, who imported the first Huns to Alberta 35 years ago. They read everything they could scrape together on the life and habits of the little foreigner, and among other things discovered that the hen lays her eggs in a small depression such as a hoof-print, or anything similar; that unless the soil is sandy and drains off rapidly, the water in these depressions rots the eggs. That is why the Hungarian partridge has not done well in many parts of the United States. But in the Panhandle, and in similar areas of New Mexico, conditions are ideal.

On every ranch where the Huns were released the owners have agreed to take care of them and see that the coveys get a fair chance to multiply, and to furnish the game commission with periodical reports on how the birds are doing. A FIELD &

STREAM "game protective association" was organized, pledged to take care of the little band. Murrell L. Buckner, Chairman of the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, and Gene Howe, a member of the commission, arranged for the distribution areas and supervised the planting. "We are in hopes," Mr. Warner says, "that three years from now there will be a short open season on Hungarians in the Southwestern states." He points out that the Huns are great migrants, and believes that the Texas stock will in time overflow into neighboring areas of similar climate and conditions, just as the birds migrated from their original planting all the way from Western Alberta through Quebec and Ontario, until now there are literally millions of these birds in Canada and our own Northwest.

So Gene Howe's wire is good news to Southwestern sportsmen who look forward to the time when Texas hunters can try their skill on one of the fastest, sportiest game birds of all—the Hungarian Partridge.

NEWS in the World of Religion by W. W. Reid

The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church has petitioned President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull to use all possible influence to assure that adequate representation is given to the Christian church at the peace conference which will follow the war. It is pointed out that "at former peace conferences the accredited delegates have been accompanied by special advisors and consultants on almost every subject except religion," and that, "the ordering of the future relations between nations and races on a basis of freedom and justice, and the establishing of a condition in the world in which peace can prevail, are largely dependent upon the acceptance of Christian principles as a basis of action."

"Surely we are not so naive as to think of this frightful war as an accidental event, unrelated to causes which have been operating in the body of humanity," says Dr. Robert W. Searle of the Greater New York Federation of Churches. "It behooves us to give ourselves to diligent search for causes and to the planning for a reconstructed society from which these causes have been removed. Certainly any clergyman or any congregation that is not moved by this determination ought to ask if the right to the name and title Christian is not forfeited by this lack—the toleration of conditions which deny the Golden Rule in any human relationship is dereliction to love. And the failure to do our utmost to remove from society the causes of conflict is to be guilty of the death, the misery, the pain that ensuant conflict brings."

Christians of India and of China, finding that they have much in common in their interest in the furtherance of the Christian faith and of democracy, have recently made plans for closer unity and understanding. The faculty of the Nanking Theological Seminary, now in temporary exile in West China, has asked the National Christian Council of India to designate an Indian Christian scholar to visit Chungking for a period of months, interpreting Indian life to the Seminary, the West China Union University, and other institutions housed there. It is expected also that a Chinese Christian scholar will be sent to Indian Christian institutions in exchange.

Racial and religious barriers have been well broken down in the carrying on of the Christofel Home for the Blind in Iran. "Orphan mission funds" of the interracial and inter-church International Missionary Council support the Home; the local sponsor is Bishop W. J. Thompson of the Christian Missionary Society (Anglican); the superintendent is Pastor Christoffel, a German missionary; the financial agent is Treasurer J. D. Payne of the Presbyterian Mission in Isfahan. Of the inmates, fifteen are Christian Armenians, and twenty-seven are Turks and Persians. The Turks and Persians were formerly all Mohammedans but eight have recently been baptized Christians. A group of Mohammedan merchants from Isfahan recently visited the home and made a generous contribution.

Despite the great demand upon every available passenger space in airplanes and ships travelling between America and the Far East by members of the armed services and related economic and diplomatic services, the United States government is finding place each week to return seasoned missionaries of various churches to China and to India. The attitude of the government is that these men, most of them with long experience as educators, physicians, or evangelists, are needed to maintain good relations between the East and the West. Missionaries returning from furlough are given "priorities" by interdenominational committees and leave "from an undisclosed port for an undisclosed port."

The following letter from Pvt. Vernon Weis, mentions a pleasant trip, but does not give his destination. —U. J. 8-21-43

Dear Mr. White:
 Send a line to say "Hello" and how is everyone back home? It has been six weeks since I saw the Star, so I want to straighten out a few corners in order that I may get it again. I enjoyed my trip very much, but I don't like anything about the Navy. Sorry I can't explain my objection to the fullest extent, but I'll tell you all about it if I ever get to come back, and that can't be too soon. It's very beautiful here and eats fit for a king. Well, it's almost chow time now, so excuse me, and here's my permanent address: (I hope.) Tell all Hello, and thanks. Print this as it is written. As ever, Vernon.

I am sorry I cannot give the addresses of our boys, as it would evidently be a great satisfaction to be able to write direct to all their Buddies. —U. J.

The following letter is from Pvt. Virgil Weis, brother of Vernon, writer of the above letter.
 Sherman, Texas.

August 29, 1943.
 Dear Mr. White:
 "Hello!" It has been several weeks since I wrote, thanking you for the paper, "The Friona Star," which I haven't missed one week getting it, and sure do think it is grand. We finally got back from maneuvers. It seems good to be back at Sherman. We were down there about nine weeks. I can't say whether I learned much or not while we were on maneuvers. So better close and go eat chow. Hope everybody's standing the hot weather all right. I am just fine. Thank you.
 Friend, Pvt. Virgil Weis.
 P. S. Also got a letter from my brother, Vernon, and he has been sent overseas. Just where I don't know.
 Virgil.

Cpl. Sam F. Williams, who is now stationed at El Paso, having been recently transferred to that place from Muroc, Calif., and who spent last week here on furlough, visiting his father and other relatives and friends, returned to his post Saturday. While he favored the Star office with a short but highly interesting visit, Thursday night. Cpl. Williams has taken a great interest in his work as a soldier and has studied the disposition of the other boys with whom he is associated, most of whom he says are the finest of fellows. He says a soldier can get great good from his life in the army if he makes any effort to do so, or he can make his time there a complete loss if he is so minded. It was very interesting to hear him talk of his army experience. He said the visits of the Friona Star are always a great pleasure to the boys in the service.

Pfc. Clyde F. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White, formerly of Friona, but now of Hot Springs, N. M., is attending the Anti-aircraft Artillery School at Camp Davis, N. C.

Word has been received at the Star office that Pvt. Claude L. Lillard has been transferred from Fort Jackson, S. C., to Camp McCoy, Wis. Claude spent a part of last week here visiting his relatives and Friona friends.

The following letter from Lyle Booker, now located in California, is our first letter from him for this column.
 Camp Iron Mtn., Calif., August 24, 1943.

Dear Uncle John:
 I'd like for you to send the Star to Camp Iron Mtn., instead of Ft. Wood. It took us three nights and two and a half days to make the trip from Ft. Wood to this place, and the train traveled through six different states. All you see here in the desert is more desert and mountains. The weather sure is hot. At night you almost need two blankets for it sure gets cool before sunup. One of the Medics passed out yesterday from being in the sun too long. Haven't seen but one civilian in a week and he is the paper boy. Uncle John you are doing a lot toward keeping the boys from Friona informed of home news and of their whereabouts to each other. While our unit is here they are giving us five-day furloughs. One of my sisters lives 200 miles from camp and it sure will be nice to see her. In closing, the best of luck to you Uncle John, and thanks so much for sending the Star.
 Sincerely,
 Lyle Booker.

And here is another letter from Pvt. Daniel Mann, who is somewhere in the South Pacific.
 Trans-Pacific Air Mail, South Pacific, August 15, 1943.
 Dear Mr. White:
 I guess you thought I was never going to write, but I have not had time to do much of anything. Mr. White, could you send me the address of the boys that are on the South Pacific, like Johnnie Bengier and C. L. Vestal and the rest of the boys that are down here. It has been 19 months since I saw any of the boys and if I had their address I might get to see them. Mr. White, the boys are proud of the things you have done for us all, and we are going to repay you by giving you all the freedom and a happy place to live. Well, I have written about all I can, so until I get the next paper, Always a friend, Daniel Mann.

 Daniel, I do not know just where these boys are, but I can send you the address, that I have for mailing the Star to them, then you might be able to locate them.—Uncle John.

Pfc. Clyde F. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. White, has recently been transferred from the Aleutians to Camp Davis, N. C., where he will be given special training.

Pvt. Robert McGlothlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McGlothlin, after spending about a week here visiting his parents, left Tuesday for Fort Wayne, Ind., where he is stationed. We, of the Star, appreciated the short visit he was able to favor us with before leaving. —U. J.

Pvt. Melvin W. Stowers of Pendleton Field, Ore., and Pvt. Roy Hart, of Camp Wallace, Texas, have strongly contrasted experiences on bivouac duty, as shown by the following letter from Pvt. Stowers.—U. J.

August 28, 1943
 Dear Mr. White:
 I thought I would write you, which I have been intending to do for the past three weeks, about the paper. I am getting it regularly now, but you are still sending a copy to Kearns, Utah, where I was stationed before I came to Pendleton Field, Ore. So I have been getting two copies each week for about four weeks. I am sorry I haven't written you sooner about this. Mr. White, I can say the same thing that the other boys have been saying about you doing a good thing in sending the Star to each one of the boys in the service. I sure enjoy getting it to read. I notice where some of the boys have been telling about the bivouacs they have been going on. Well, we have had some of the same things up here in this part of the world, but it sure is not hot, sleeping out on top of a mountain at night here. I never have run into any one up here from home. I guess I am the only one

CHANTS from the Chanticleer

We were talking with C. A. Guinn, southeast of town, while he was favoring the Star office with a short visit Tuesday afternoon and he stated that he had visited at Muleshoe Sunday, and that they have grown many acres of fine onions there this season.
 On his return home he passed a farm that had a large crop of these fine onions and he thought he would buy a bushel to take home with him, but when he asked the farmer about it, he replied: "No, I won't sell you any onions." Mr. Guinn then asked the reason why he would not sell them and he replied that they were all "frozen."
 It seems that the government has "frozen" the entire onion crop, and the growers dare not sell even a bushel to their neighbors. Mr. Guinn said the farmer stated that he did not want to go to the penitentiary and that he was not going just for a few onions.

ed that cutting these weeds is a possible preventative of attacks of infantile paralysis. It makes the city look much better also.

As we were passing down the street, Monday, while the sun was shining so scorchingly, we saw an elderly lady, one of Friona's most highly esteemed pioneer citizens, out with a hoe and busily chopping the weeds along the sidewalk and the edge of the street, in front of her home.

We gently chided her for doing such hard work and on such a hot day, for we knew she was not physically able to do such work. She replied that those weeds should be cut, and that she had tried to hire a man to do the work for her, but it seemed that he could never get quite ready for the job, so she was doing it herself.

This fact is evidently the reason why so many people do not have their weeds cut. They, themselves, are busy at their regular jobs, which keeps them employed all the day and sometimes a part of the night; and they are unable to hire anyone to do the work for them. One reason for that condition may be that most of the men who do not have steady jobs, are now skilled workmen, carpenters, plasterers, painters, etc., and weed cutting has always been and still is, a menial sort of work.

It is gratifying to note that there are still some of our people cutting the weeds around their premises and along the streets in their front. It is stat-from Friona in this part of the world. Well, I must close for this time, so best of luck to you and the Star, Mr. White.

WORKING for VICTORY ON THE SANTA FE

Through these hectic days and busy nights, troop trains, regular trains with troop cars, and freights loaded with war materials keep rolling along the Santa Fe.
 Watch a section hand grab his pick a little tighter after a trainload of American fighting boys has rolled past. "We'll-get-'em-through" is his attitude these days.

moving millions of troops and millions of tons of materials needed for Victory, where and when they are needed.
 They know that if you stop the wheels that move them, you stop everything that floats and flies as well!
 And they never forget that thousands of boys in our armed forces came from Santa Fe ranks and from the families of Santa Fe employes, and these boys who are fighting for all of us have the toughest job of all!
 You bet, we're backing them up in the best way we know—and that's by buying War Bonds, and seeing to it that movements essential to Victory come first on the Santa Fe!
