The Mortgage.
We worked through spring and winter, through summer and through fall, but the mortgage worked the hardest and the slowest of them all. It worked on nights and Sundays; it worked on holidays; it worked on us and it never went away. Whatever we kept from it seemed almost as bad as that; it was waiting every minute and ruled us right and left. The rust and blight were with us on our right and our left. The debt was waiting every minute and ruled us right and left. The debt was waiting every minute and ruled us right and left. The debt was waiting every minute and ruled us right and left.

The Girl Detective.
The door of Mrs. Markham's counting room was securely closed, and the proprietor of the large, flourishing cotton factory talked earnestly with a gentlemanly looking man of middle age, whose face was as impressive as a mask. "Five thousand dollars!" said the individual. "It was a large sum to leave exposed."

try held a meeting in the ways and means committee room this afternoon to decide upon a petition to the secretary of the treasury to exercise all possible leniency, and allow the law for collecting the taxes on spirits as at the present time. They will meet at the residence of Congressman Jordan, of Ohio, tomorrow to prepare a petition reciting the financial distress under which the manufacturers of Bourbon whiskey are now laboring, by reason of the large amount of whiskey coming out of bond. The petition also sets forth the fact that Congress will probably extend the bonded period, and the manufacturer desires that the whiskey come to come out may receive the benefit of such extension.

Members of the Pacific coast congressional delegation held a meeting today for the purpose of agreeing upon a series of amendments, to be offered for the Chinese restrictions. The amendments decided upon which will be embodied in the bill are to be introduced in the house by Henley on Monday, provides for the passport system, substantially identical with that contained in the vetoed twenty year bill. All Chinese to be required before leaving or entering the United States, to provide themselves with certificates containing a detailed description of their personal appearance, which must be exhibited to the custom officers of the ports of entry or departure. Special conditions of officers are to guard the frontier of British Columbia, in order to prevent unlawful immigration of Chinese from that country. Every constable, justice of peace, sheriff and deputy sheriff, along the border, to have the power and authority of United States marshals to make arrests for violations of the restrictions law. The appellation of "merchant" under which many Chinese entered the United States, will be clearly defined and held applicable not to peddlers, hucksters, etc., but only persons actually engaged in business, as the word is popularly understood. In view of a recent decision of a Boston judge, to the effect that the present law not apply to Chinese and British subjects, they propose to amend that law by providing, that no native Chinese enters the United States except under the legal restrictions. There are a number of regulations, of minor importance relative to the enforcement proposed. The new provisions were unanimously agreed upon, and the entire series and amendments will go before the house as the work of the whole Pacific coast congressional delegation.

The republican national convention, and all arrangements and matters pertaining thereto, are in the hands of the national committee. There is not to be a citizen's committee, as at the last convention, but a committee of five, appointed yesterday on motion of Mr. New, together with the chairman and secretary of the national committee, will have the entire control of building, issuing tickets, etc.

The republican senators were in caucus from 10 o'clock until 12 this morning, discussing the reorganization of the senate.

A Farm and Ranch correspondent says the Kyle Weekly Natshell is printed on the first printing press ever brought to this State, which is an old Washington, and was brought to Texas in 1834, by Gail Borden, who began the publication of a paper at Tarazona, and afterwards moved it to Houston, where old Santa Anna found it, and not knowing the power of the press, dumped it into Buffalo bayou, from which place it was fished up by a dredge in 1866, and afterwards purchased by Mr. Caswell, the present owner.

A Dallas Herald correspondent from Ft. Worth says the sheriff seized the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe, the Texas & Pacific; the Missouri, Pacific; the Missouri, Kansas & Texas; and Mrs. E. J. Daggert and her husband, E. B. Daggert, with copies of the petition of C. Forester, et al., heirs of Joseph Rutledge, who claim the 320-acre survey, known as Daggert's addition, in the heart of the city. The claim is for $100,000 damages. For the land and for annual rental at the rate of $16,000 per annum, since 1864.

A fine quality of potters' clay has been discovered in Gaudalpe county.

The Herd Law and Fence Question.

This fence question is one of the most serious, that has ever come before our people.

FENCE BARRIERS.

The United States Department of Agriculture, in its Report for 1871, contained a most elaborate presentation of the statistics of fences in the United States.

These questions had the following range of inquiry:

- 1. Description of fences in use. 2. Height and construction. 3. Estimated rods of fence to each 100 acres of farm lands.

The fence question has been taken up and discussed with great intelligence by State Boards of Agriculture...

AVERAGE COST PER ROD.

Table with 2 columns: State, Average Cost per Rod. Includes Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, etc.

The whole cost of the fences in the United States is given in this report at $1,747,549,931 with an annual total outlay for repairs of $93,963,157.

The burdens brought by the system of fencing are presented in the figures given above, and are well summed up by the secretary of the Iowa State Agricultural Society...

It is declared, even in states where timber of the best quality is abundant, so much so that it is an object to get it off the land...

For many years past the question has been a pressing one, what shall we do for fences; and what better economy can be found for their construction.

entry is off in the regions of quick growths it is a jungle of weeds. The fence most widely in use in the South is the worm fence...

For many reasons the attempt for the universal adoption of the hedge in American fencing, very actively made many years ago...

1. Hedge fences are injurious, and that to a great extent, because they harbor and are a protection to all sorts of weeds.

2. They harbor and protect snails and slugs and other enemies of the crop.

3. They harbor a great many birds, and afford them every encouragement in building nests.

There are in Kentucky 125,000 farms, which will average 600 rods of fencing to the farm. This will aggregate 75,000,000 rods...

A vast area of Texas has no timber. The barbed wire fence has been tried, it is easily cut down and destroyed...

Such facts as these have been and are being widely received as pressing suggestions for fence reform, and even for the abolishing of fences in other words a "no fence law."

American Merinos for Australia.

Mr. W. G. Markham shipped from Batavia, New York, Oct. 28th, the sixth car this season of American Merinos for Australia. These sheep were purchased by Mr. James Winter, who came from London and made the selections himself, he having arranged for the purchase when in this country in May last. The purchase included 40 ram lambs from F. D. Barton of Vergennes, Vermont, for $10,000; from E. Townsend of Pavilion Centre, New York, 15 ram lambs $5000, two ewes $1000, from S. B. Lusk, Batavia, New York, two ram lambs $1500, and 11 ewes $3300; and from W. G. Markham, Avon, two ewes $1000, and 3 ewes $600. The sheep go to the stations of Messrs. Winter and Wm. Hays, for their own breeding.

These gentlemen, in connection with Mr. Alexander McFarland, purchased through Mr. Markham in May last, 20 rams and 50 ewes. The purchases were made from Messrs. Hammond, Barton and Rich, of Vergennes, and Townsend, Lusk, Sherman, Cossett, and Goodrich of New York. For the 23 rams $14,500 was paid, and for the 56 ewes $7900, all of the above sheep were for use in the stud flocks of the purchasers. The last car was accompanied from Batavia by Mr. Charles H. Baker of Saratoga, who returned but a week before from Australia, where he had been with a car of sheep for Mr. Markham, which left here about the 1st of August, and arrived in Sidney, Australia, September 24th, every sheep in good condition. Of the five hundred sheep shipped this past season, by Mr. Markham, but three died en route, though 13 were killed by an accident in quarantine, for which the government being responsible, will pay the damage.

There are in Australia nearly 100,000,000 sheep about twice the number we have in America. Their flocks are large, numbering frequently from 50,000 to a quarter of a million, and occasionally many more. One flock, that of Mr. McKay, consisted of 1,500,000 this year, and will shear upwards of 2,000,000 next year. To supply these flocks with stock rams annual sales at auction are made at different points, Melbourne being the principal one, where several thousand rams come under the hammer at their regular ram sale. The prices paid at these sales are often such as would be regarded with us as fabulous. At a recent ram sale 3,150 guineas or upwards of $10,000 was paid for an Australian bred ram; this is about the highest price actually paid, though $3000 and $5000 has not been an uncommon price.

We learn from Mr. Markham a bit of history connected with the opening of these foreign markets which may be of interest. In the spring of 1879 Mr. Markham went to Japan with two hundred thoroughbred sheep, which he had selected upon an order from the Japanese government. While there, seeing the great improvement made by the Japanese in a cross of American Merinos previously imported to that country, and sheep from Mongolia, he determined to visit China and the other countries, in the interest of our American Merinos. With the aid of letters from General Grant, who was at that time in Japan, Mr. Markham succeeded in obtaining an interview with the viceroy, Li Hung Chung, to whom he explained fully the superiority not only of our American sheep but of our wool, and agriculture in general. As a result of this interview, a farm was appropriated by the government, and stocked with American animals, horses, cattle, sheep, and agricultural implements, sent out by the Chinese minister. Mr. Markham found a flock of Australian sheep in Japan, and also a few of their choicest sheep which had been imported to England, and was convinced that a cross of our wrinkly, dense fleeced American Merinos would make an improvement upon the great flocks of Australia, giving them intrinsically more valuable fleeces by largely increasing the quantity of wool, the percentage of increase in quantity more than compensating for the sacrifice in quality made by the cross. The Australian breeders whom he met thought otherwise, as their wools were lighter, and as a rule, finer, and commanding higher prices even in the American markets. So prejudiced were the Australian breeders that it was quite impossible to induce them to listen to any proposition for experimenting with our sheep. However, soon after Mr. Markham's return to America, he was visited by Messrs. Thomas McFarland and James Ware, extensive wool growers of Australia, who were shown about among one of their flocks, and saw one sheep which they were much surprised at the bulky fleeces. While admitting that the wrinkles (which occasionally appears in the best stock rams) were so objectionable that they left for England without making any purchases. Subsequently Mr. Markham induced Mr. McFarland through correspondence to try an American ram, "Matchless," bred by Mr. Hays of New York, and selected to avoid what they considered the objectionable features. This ram weighed about 190 pounds in full fleece, sheared 28 1/2 pounds, which secured 8 1/2 pounds, the staple being fine, and fully three inches long and very even. The sheep was free from wrinkles, had the jaw hairs, this being an exceptional sheep in characteristics and not a fair representative of the class of sheep bred here. Mr. McFarland was induced to try another, and typical American Merino. This latter ram, "New York," bred by Mr. Lusk of Batavia, together with the Hardy ram, "Matchless," and two ewes were sent to Australia by express, via London, England, in the fall of 1880. On their arrival, the rams were ordered to be quarantined for four weeks, which they spent with or with six others in New Zealand at the same time. As Mr. Markham predicted, when the cross-bred lambs from the American rams and Australian ewes were shorn, they showed an increase of about 25 per cent in quantity, while the price of wool would not be reduced to exceed ten per cent. Such a result upon the immense flocks of Australia would be almost incalculable.

About the time of the arrival in Australia of the last shipment above mentioned, by an order of the government, the ports were closed against the importation of all classes of live stock. This was done to prevent the possible introduction of foot and mouth disease then prevalent in England. As the result of the cross because known in the Messrs. McFarland's flock and among their neighbors who took ewes to the American rams, a very strong pressure was brought to bear upon the government to recind the order, which was considered a great injustice to the wool growing interests of Australia.

In June, 1882, Messrs. McFarland wrote Mr. Markham as follows: "I often think what a fortunate thing it was your giving that sample of wool (from Matchless) to my brother. Had it not been for that we would, probably, like the great majority of Australian breeders, continued in our belief that there was no sheep like the Australian Merino. We know better now and can not too much admire the perseverance, patience and skill of those American breeders who have brought the American Merino to his present state of perfection. I feel certain of the experiment in which we are engaged, the improvement in our general flocks being only a matter of time. As I said before, we have now no objection to wrinkles and are quite of the opinion of your breeders that these are required in excess by stud rams and offset the improvement in ordinary flocks." Again Mr. McFarland wrote: "I am sorry to report that this port is now closed against the importation of all foreign sheep and cattle, but if by any chance there should turn out to be any way by which we might get another shipment I will telegraph you. You know now what we require. We are no longer opposed to wrinkles, in fact we do not care for the plain sheep now, believing with you that we cannot expect the same improvements as the wrinkly sheep can. Heavy fleeces are what we require and would like the ewes to cut from nineteen to twenty pounds."

It was largely through the influence of Hon. William Winter, a member of parliament, who had used the American rams, order was issued by the government on the 21st of February last making an exception to the general prohibition of all animals and admitting American Merinos into New South Wales. On the 22d of February Mr. Markham received an order by cable from Mr. McFarland for ten rams and sixty ewes, and the steamer City of New York which left Sidney, February 22d, brought Mr. Hays and Winter who came to America for rams and made the purchases as stated. Prejudice still exists throughout Australia against the wrinkly type of American Merinos except among the few breeders who have made the test. This is, however, no doubt that any sheep which will effect an improvement upon the Australian Merino will find a remunerative market in that country.

What is Exempt Under the Texas Laws.
Under the laws of Texas the following real and personal property is exempt from execution and attachment: One acre of land, with or without buildings, and the improvements thereon, for the use of the family. All household and kitchen furniture. Two yoke of oxen and the necessary harness and chains. The family library, and all family portraits and pictures. All provisions and forage on hand for home consumption. All saddles, bridles and harness necessary for the use of the family. All tools, apparatus and books belonging to any trade or profession. A mortgage, deed of trust, or plain sale of homestead, is absolutely null and void. Exempt personal property can be sold or mortgaged by the husband without the intervention of the wife. The homestead is liable to be sold to purchase money of the same and for making improvements thereon, and when a written contract to erect said improvements is made in accordance with the law. The homestead cannot be sold to pay any taxes except the tax due on the homestead itself. Two hundred and fifty dollars worth of household and kitchen furniture belonging to each family in this state are exempt from taxation. Two hundred acres of land or less constitute a homestead, with improvements thereon. A town or city homestead comprises a lot or lots not exceeding $5000 in value at the time it was set apart for a homestead, without reference to improvements.

To make perfect title to a homestead the wife must join in the deed.
