THE IMPORTANCE OF TIMELY

MEDICATION. A cough should neither be trifled with nor experimented upon. Imprudent exposure, neglect of medication, sudden changes of temperature, the adoption of unwholesome remedies, are all causes of the speedy de-velopment of lung and bronchial diseases.

t is of special importance that relief should be sought at once and from a reliable source. Materia Medica contains no fix a specific for throat and lung complaints than HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR, the most highly sanctioned and popular proprietary cough medicines of the day. It is not a mere palliative for a cough, like so many ents which chemically harmonize and do not disorder the atomach, has no disagreeable flavor, and affords relief with a promptitude which often astonishes those who use it.

Ask for HALE's HONEY, &c., and take 3 Sizes, 25c., 50c., $1.00 of all druggists.

of the Tornado-A Bridge Twisted Into a Shapeless Mass and a Train Wrecked.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 12 .- The tornado was the new market house. The gale which struck this section last night was very destructive. In the morning a light and scattering it in every direction, kill- rain fell, and in the evening a flerce gust ing three horses and dangerously wound- of wind came up, lasting for more than a ing one man, and damaging a stock of minute, and then passed over. Shortly after this a strange noise was heard, uprooting trees and leveling every thing in its track. The cloud suddenly veered in a westerly direction, and struck the Kiskimmetas River just below Baird's Hill, sending the water in a solid column to a height of nearly one hundred feet. It again changed its course, and traveling northeasterly, with the speed of lightning it struck the water at different points, lashing it into spray until the view are lashing it into spray until the view was as completely obstructed as if it had been dust instead of water.

The cloud struck the Castletown bridge, and the structure was lifted from the piers, twisted into a shapeless mass of iron, and deposited in the street below. Another change in the course occurred and passing over Coketown, doing some little damage it went eastward in the direction of Bolivar.

The storm traveled in a circuitou route and seemed to rise and fall and bound from place to place like a rubber ball. For some distance it seemed to fol-low the course of the Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh rivers. Near Blairsville it seemed to take the course of Stony Run, and then return to the river in time to catch the Coketown bridge.

From this point it took an easterly direction and struck the Conemaugh river near Johnstown, where it caused the wreck of a train, which resulted in the death of four men. At this point the railroad tracks are all along the mountain's side, and the Conemaugh river runs below. Cars on the siding were moved several vards, far enough to obstruct the main track. chorus of all magnificence and pomp Splendor crowded against splendor. It was the diamond necklace of the earth. From the huge pillars crowned with leaves of flowers and rows of pomegranate wrought out in burnished metal, down even to the tongs and snuffers made out of pure gold, every thing was as complete as the God-directed architect could make it. It seemed as if a vision from Heaven had alighted on the mountains. The day for dedication came. Tradition says that there were in and around about the temple on that day 200,000 silver trumpets, 40,000 barps, 40,000 timbrels and 200,000 singers; so that all modern demonstrations at Dusseldorf or Boston seem nothing compared with that. As this great sound-surged up amid the precious stones of the temple, it must have seemed like the River of Life dashing against the amethyst of the wall of heaven.
