WOODWORK Sudan 'Stars In Tourney

THIS IS THE season for homemade ice cream and charcoaled hamburgers, and I love 'em. But if you don't like confusion, don't try them, especially with company; which you usually have when you make ice cream. About the time you get ready to herve the ice cream, the general trend of conversation and noise goes something like this:

Mama, I'm ready for some ice cream! Wait a minute, darling ---- moma, do you have any chocolate? I want chocolate. Vanilla is all we ---- | want chocolate!

Where are the spoons? Here, Myrtie Bell, let me help you. . . my, you've got mustard all over Here, give thism to Uncle Zeke, he likes soft ice cream, and I'll --- look out! The dog's getting in the cream --- get him, somebody (yelp, yelp).

I want chocolate! Don't you have any chocolate?

Stay out of the living room, you kids, you'll drip on the carpet, One of you men help me pull out the dasher: I can't get---ups! There it comes, all over of the way?

want chocolate. If you don't shut up, you're gonna think chocolate in a minute....

The second in the threefold way of holiness or sanctification is the work of the blood or body of Christ (Hebrews 10:10) - the death of Jesus on the cross, the offering of His body once for all; setting us apart, "sealing us" unto God once for all.

The third way in holiness is the washing of water by the Word. The practical and progressive growth in cleansing us from our "taking heed" according to God's Word. It is a continuous process (Paul said, "I press toward the mark"). When we have by faith in God's promises the first two phases of sanctification, then the last can be pursued by us. And because of God's great love for us, we should want to follow after holiness in order to be pleasing in His sight, to bear witness to His saving power and grace.
