IF YOU will do as the Venezuelan washerwoman do, your chances of staying healthy will be better, even if you are a hopeless cigarette addict.

This doesn't mean you have to do the laundry, either. It seems that the Venezuelan washerwomen have a habit of smoking the cigarettes with the lighted end inside their mouths. A group of Harvard researchers has been studying this particular habit for some time, and they found none of those who smoke in this peculiar manner have ever had cancer. Also, they reported, these washerwomen don't seem to mind the heat inside their mouths which sometimes gets up to 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit (ooh, what a kiss). They don't complain of the heat at all (probably because they have no tongues).

Oddly, the Harvard boys noted, these washerwomen also never have toothaches. And the only hazard the women noted was in sometimes forgetting to remove the cigarette before the ashes drop off inside the mouth.

I've never tried this, since I don't smoke cigarettes. However, I have accidentally stuck the wrong end of a cigar in my mouth, and I can say that they don't seem to satisfy.

Some of you who do smoke cigarettes might try it that way, and let us know the result (give us a hot tip from the inside).

ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS I have mentioned that I am the world's poorest fisherman, and have never caught a fish large enough to eat. Well, recently when we went to Lake Texoma, I caught four of the slimy little critters, ranging in weight from two to five ounces, not pounds; I still haven't caught a fish large enough to eat, unless you were pretty blamed hungry.

Still, it's a start. And the four overgrown minnows I caught on a rod and reel were nothing compared to the thing I pulled out of the lake with my bare hands. It only had one fin, and it was the type I like best—a $5 bill.

What I mean is, I found this guy's billfold at the edge of the lake, which is lower than it has been in many years. I had gone out optimistically to cast out a few times from the bank, and as soon as I lost my last lure in the weeds, I disgustedly started back to camp. I tried to take a short-cut across what had been a sort of tributary stream next to the lake, but which had dried up.

That's what I thought, until I attempted to jump across and started sinking slowly out of sight.

While I was wondering how my wife would ever raise all those kids, and was regretting that I never did get to make that trip to Hawaii, I sighted this billfold sticking in the mud at the edge of the water. Somehow I got the billfold and myself out of there, and started trudging home with mud up to here.

If I hadn't known better, I would have thought it was my own pocketbook. It was crumpled full of receipts and junk, and not much money. It even had keys and an alien wrench in it.

The billfold had been in the lake about three weeks. I learned

The third annual Lamb County Tennis Tournament wound up late Saturday night with Tommy Thrash of Littlefield and Lenda Wood of Sudan winning men's and women's singles respectively.

Thrash disposed of Billy Chester of Sudan in the finals, 6-1, 6-3. Mrs. Wood had a tougher time, edging Patty Maner of Littlefield 8-6, 7-5.

Thrash and Charles Farley of Littlefield won men's doubles for the third straight year, but had a close call in the finals, where they lost a set for the first time in tournament history. The Littlefield duo finally overcame Scrappy Wingo and Dalton Wood of Sudan, 6-3, 1-6, 10-8, after Wood and Wingo at one time had a match point in their favor in the third set.

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Calvin Vernon of Sudan defeated Maner-Glendolyn Purdy of Littlefield 6-3, 6-2 in women's doubles finals. Jimmy Butler stopped Jimmy Farmer 6-3, 7-5 in the high school boys singles finals. Both are from Littlefield.

Veterans singles was won by Wood over Alvin Webb of Littlefield, 6-2, 6-2, and Mr. and Mrs. Wood won the mixed doubles title by beating Mrs. Maner and Farley 6-4, 6-0.

In two all-Sudan finals, Ronnie Hill beat Pat Minyard 6-2, 9-7 in junior boys singles, and J. C. Williams defeated Mike Masten 6-1, 6-3 to win the men's novice singles.

An all-Littlefield final saw Butler and Farmer win over Terry Hyatt and Ronald Sitton 6-3, 6-1 in the finals of high school boys doubles.

Hill had gained the finals of boys singles by defeating Steve Webb, 6-3, 6-4, and Minyard had ousted Bruce Timian 6-4, 8-6.

In men's singles, Thrash had little trouble, stopping Jimmy Alsup 6-2, 6-4 and walloping Wood 6-1, 6-0 in the semifinals. Chester advanced to the finals by beating Kip Cuthall 6-2, 6-3 and outlasting Farley 6-4, 5-7, 8-6. Consolation round was not finished, but Wingo defeated Floyce Pierce 6-2, 7-5 and was to meet Larry Rogers who won over Elroy Rasco and then Butler.

In men's doubles consolation, also not finished, Rasco and Jimmy Carpenter stopped Danny Allen-Mike Mudgett 8-6, 7-5, but had to default to Stewart-Alsup after Rasco became ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Powell and family and Mr. and Mrs. Dick West and family returned last week after vacationing at Yellowstone. Also going with them were Mr. and Mrs. Parton Austin of Farwell.

ed later, and most of the stuff in it was in pretty fair shape, except for this five I mentioned. Some big-mouthed bass had chewed Abe Lincoln's ear off.

His seed money (a $2 bill folded up in another piece of paper) was in better shape.

Owner of the billfold was Daryl D. Petroske of Dallas, and I mailed it to him. He sent a nice note of appreciation and a reward which I promptly spent. He also invited me to visit his complete on the lake sometime, which we may do. I probably should warn him first that he won't catch any fish while I'm around, though.
