FORTIETH YEAR

SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1964

NUMBER 36

WOODWORK BY DALTON

BACK IN September this newspaper received an entire packet of stories related to National Highway Week, which was Oct. 4-10. Since I wasn't particularly interested, I just glanced at them, and would have thrown them away, except they were printed on good grade of paper (which we taxpayers no doubt bought) and the back side of them made good "copy paper", or paper which I could use to type my stories on. This particular column is being typed on one of them now.

Anyway, since I've been writing on the backs of the stories, I have occasionally turned one over and read it. And, by George, as Magoo would say, some of them are pretty good.

Recently I quoted part of one of them in regard to the regulations for driving in Russia. This week I read one about a "Ghost Light" on U. S. 90 near Alpine that was so interesting I intend to run the full story. I'm having it set up as what we call "time copy," which means a story which can be run in the current issue or can be held back and run in a later issue if space doesn't permit its use this week.

It's a pretty good yarn, though. And if you don't find it in this issue, keep looking in later issues. Even a ghost story shouldn't disappear entirely.

MY LUCK in picking winners last week was no better than the luck of my three football teams—Sudan, Anton and Amherst. I missed on Sudan, on Hale Center, Baylor and Rice. Missed four of 10, now have 61 right, 27 wrong, batting .682. I did pick a score exactly for the first time, choosing Texas 7-0. And I had Arkansas by 17-6 and it was 17-0. Aggies got to the five once, too. This week:

Farwell 42, Sudan 6 (hope I'm wrong); Amherst 19, Whiteface 16 (hope I'm right); Hale Center 26, Kress 8; Springlake 28, Silverton 8; Levelland 20, Littlefield 7; Texas 14, Baylor 7; Arkansas 10, Rice 0; SMU 13, Texas A & M 7; Texas Tech 34, West Texas 0; Friona 16, Olton 7; Sundown 27, New Deal 14.

Messamore Funeral Held

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p. m. Thursday (today) for Avery W. Messamore, 81, who died at his home in Amherst of an apparent heart attack about 8 a. m. Wednesday.

Messamore had lived in this area since 1925, and had lived in Amherst since 1948.

Services were to be at Amherst First Methodist Church, with Rev. Darris Egger and Rev. E. R. McGregor officiating. Burial was to be in Amherst Cemetery under direction of Payne Funeral Home of Amherst.

Survivors include a son, Harvey, of near Amherst, and two grandchildren, Alvin, of near Amherst and Sudan, and Mrs. Jomeryl (Marge) Harmon of Amherst.

Pallbearers were to be George Harmon, A. R. Jones, Robert Gronewald, Dave Harmon, Bill Workman and Charles Hinds.

LOCAL VOTE FOLLOWS TREND

Sudan voters turned out in an all-time record number to vote Tuesday, according to Joe D. West, election judge of the town precinct, box 5. A total vote of 524—believed to be almost 100 per cent—was recorded.

The voters went Democratic in keeping with the state and national trends. George Mahon led the ticket in Sudan, getting 430 votes in his successful bid for reelection as congressman from the 19th district.

Johnson-Humphrey polled 369 here, with Goldwater-Miller getting 144, Lightburn-Billings 1, and one write-in vote for president and vice president was cast for a ticket of Joe Fisher and M. E. Blake.

George Bush, Republican running against Ralph Yarborough for Senate, drew more votes here than any other Republican candidates, getting 209 to 303 for Yarborough.

Local voters voted in favor of all three proposed amendments. (See Sudan tabulation inside)

Hornettes Win Opener

The Sudan Hornettes, district 3-A basketball champions for the last six years, opened the 1964-65 season here Tuesday night with a 44-39 win over Tahoka.

With last year's regular forwards gone by way of graduation and moving, Coach Hank Brown has moved former all-district guard Nancy Hayes to forward, along with junior Tanya Fox and sophomore Joyce Williams. These girls are backed up by Donna Heard, Kay Baker and Jan Harper.

In Tuesday's game, Miss Fox led the scoring with 21 points, followed by Miss Williams' 17, while Miss Hayes scored 6. Holding down the guard spots for the Hornettes will be three girls from a list of Sonya Ford, Lynda Logan, Dorothy Williams, Jennie Cardwell and Susan Jones, with Brown indicating that he may move up another girl or two from the B team.

The B team also won, 34-14, as Sharon Baker scored 12 and Donna Gaston 11. Vickie Masten had 5 and Loretta Dameron 6. Other forwards are Margie Bellar and Dorothy Shepard.

B team guards include Kathy

Minyard, Kathy Hayes, Candy Flemings, Nancy Lance, Janet Ritchie and Shirley Weaver.

The Hornettes will play at Sundown next Tuesday night, and Lazbuddie and Friona on successive weeks. The Sudan boys team, coached by Henry Hall and Wayne Potter, will open its season here Nov. 24 against Sundown.

All games on the schedule from that game on will include both boys and girls contests.

By DALTON WOOD
Sudan's football fortunes hit a new low last Friday night as the Kress Kangaroos, who had been kicked around by just about everybody this season, soundly trounced the Hornettes 28-8.

James Lockridge, a really good back playing with an otherwise mediocre team, helped Halloween come a day early for Sudan with three touchdown runs for Kress.

Only on rare and isolated occasions did the Hornettes anywhere resemble a football team, and were never in the game at all, as Kress took a 20-0 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

One Hornet—linebacker Kensel May—did turn in a good job on defense, making practically all the tackles in the first half, and getting some help from Tommy King and others in the second half.

Sudan did manage to score its first touchdown in three games late in the third quarter as QB Mike Smith ran 10 yards. Sophomore QB Danny Martin crashed across for 2 points. Smith was Sudan's leading rusher with 89 yards on 19 carries, including a good 34-yard scamper that narrowed the Hornets on their touchdown drive. Martin was second in the rushing department, with 31 yards on 7 efforts.

Smith, Corley Baker and Mike Bellar combined to throw 9 incomplete passes, although one of Baker's tosses was a good one dropped by the receiver, and the passers were badly rushed all night as Kress linemen poured through the Hornet forward wall at will.

It was the worst defeat of a Sudan team by Kress in six years, and may have been the worst in history. The loss put Sudan at the bottom of the standings in District 3-A with Farwell to play this week and Hale Center next week.

Farwell last Friday trounced Silverton 48-0, while Hale Center, playing without its top back, J. D. Davis, lost 51-20 to Springlake.

Ghostly Lights Near Alpine Remain Mystery

The Texas Highway Department can boast one of the most authentic ghost stories about highways that anyone ever heard.

It's the Ghost Light of U. S. 90. If you want to see it, people who have seen it say the best vantage point is on U. S. 90 about 12 miles west of Alpine in West Texas. If it's shining, it will be visible on the horizon to the southwest, at the foothills of the Chinati Mountains.

But that's the thing about the Ghost Light. It shines now and then, unpredictably, and it never shines when anyone tries to trace it down.

For a hundred years, everyone from Boy Scouts to ranchers and scientists have tried to stalk the source of the light. They have tried to sneak up on it by jeep, on horseback, on foot and by helicopter. In almost every instance, the light shines brightly as its stalker advances upon it, but each time the light flickers out.

Legend has it that the light is a campfire kindled by the restless soul of a wayward Apache brave forever. If this is so, that old Apache is a mightily whimsical ghost.

The light is visible most nights, winter and summer. But capricious ghost that it is, its behavior is erratic and it may not appear for several hours. And some nights not at all. And when it does choose to glow, it may appear a few degrees to the left or right of where it shined before. The Chinati ghost is manifestly a gadabout.

What could the Ghost Light be? There is a choice of theories, none very good.

One explanation is that the light is the moon's reflection from a vein of mica. But no such vein has been discovered. And besides, the Ghost Light beams when there is no moon.

It has been suggested that the light could be caused by the phenomenon known as "swamp gas." But West Texas is no swamp. And geologists discount the possibility of natural gas reserves in that area.

So maybe it's a mirage? Why not? Mirages do occur in such stratified air as that region boasts. But aside, mirages, after all, are reflections of distant artificial lights. The Ghost Light of the Chinatis has been seen now for more than 100 years. And a hundred years ago, the brightest light in those parts was a pioneer's kerosene lantern—hardly sufficient to refract with the brilliant candlepower of the Ghost Light, which sometimes glares like the headlights of an oncoming train.

What else might it be? The work of a prankster? A prankster more than 100 years old? Hardly. Well, then, several generations of pranksters? Not likely. Forty miles is a long way to hike for a gag. Besides, Light's source has turned up a sign of life.

It is almost ironic that not far away astronomers at McDonald Observatory are probing the secrets of stars a billion light-years distant. Yet they are as perplexed as anyone by the riddle of the Ghost Light of U. S. 90. The mountains have kept their secret well. In 100 years and more, they have yet to give up the ghost.

And those who have seen it may invoke the wonderment of our childhood astronomy. Of

Texas and The Civil War

Frontier Defense

Texas was a border state in the Confederacy, exposed to attacks by Indians, outlaws and federal troops from the north, west and south.

In some respects war was harder on the border inhabitants than on the people of the well established sections of Texas, because isolation made it even more difficult to get along with fewer men in a country that never had any men to spare. Still the frontier folks were accustomed to hardships and the story of the defense of the outer reaches of settlement is one of the most interesting of the war.

The first line of frontier defense was established early in 1861 by sending newly organized troops, known as Texas Mounted Rifles, to surrendered U.S. outposts. The far western line of these forts extended along the Rio Grande from Brownsville to El Paso. The middle line went from the Red River by present day Throckmorton, Abilene, Menard, Kerrville and Uvalde joining the western line at Eagle Pass.

Also in 1861, each of thirty-seven frontier counties was authorized by the Texas Legislature to organize a company of militiamen not to exceed forty. These part time soldiers established regular patrols behind the middle line of defense and bore much of the brunt of Indian warfare.

In February 1862, the famous Frontier Regiment, Texas Cavalry, was organized. The 1000 making up the nine companies of the regiment were stationed in 18 camps separated by a day's ride, and extending from Red River Station near present day Nocona, Southwestward through the vicinity of Breckenridge, Coleman; San Saba, Bandera and Crystal City.

Patrols would cover the distance between the camps daily and when Indian sign was discovered the main patrol would follow the Indian trail, while riders spread the alarm. The Indians soon caught on and started slipping in and out of the area before and after the daily patrols. This system was changed in early 1863 to an irregular scouting system that once again used many of the old U.S. outposts.

This regiment never had enough of anything. The men furnished their own mounts, and when their horses were worn out by long rides and too little forage or killed in skirmishes, they could not secure an adequate replacement. Food, clothing, arms and ammunition were always needed.

In October 1863 with Gainesville as headquarters, the Second Frontier Regiment, Texas Cavalry C.S.A., known as Bourland's Border Regiment, was established to guard settlements along the Red River from the western Arkansas line to Red River Station. Confederate Seminoles Indians served with this unit and joint patrols were established with famous Confederate Indian General Stand Watie and his Cherokee Brigade, who were stationed in the Indian Territory.

In December 1863 a state law established a state militia to be organized into companies of not less than twenty-five nor more than sixty-five, of all persons liable to military duty from Gainesville to Cleburne to Eagle Pass and all territory to the west. At all times, at least one-fourth of each company should be in the field. The governor divided the frontier into three districts with headquarters at Decatur, Stephenville and Fredericksburg. 4265 men were enrolled under this plan.

This constituted a back up line approximately fifty miles east of the outposts established by the Frontier Regiment, which had become by this time a part of the Confederate forces.

Settlers were encouraged to unite in the building of stockades and blockades, "forting up" it was called. These family forts afforded a way to protect families, stock, farms and provide some schooling for their children. One of the builders of a stockade describes it as a square with six log cabins on each side. Spaces between the cabins were picketed in, so that the entire structure was enclosed. The construction of log bastions on opposing corners enabled all approaches to be covered by sharpshooters. Citizens' Poses from these family forts coordinated patrols with state and Confederate forces.

Indian troubles continued throughout the war. The Confederate government made treaties with various tribes, but in the eyes of most Indians, Texans were a separate and distinct people and Texas a land of open season for any marauder at any time. Loss of life and property was heavy. Many cattle and horses seriously needed by Southern troops were lost to Indians.

Threats of invasion were also present. El Paso and the Davis Mountain area were occupied by federal troops the last three years of the war as were the northern parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas and all of New Mexico. Bandits as well as Indian attacks from Mexico were a constant problem. During the last two years of the war deserters, draft evaders and renegades gathered along the frontier and caused much apprehension, as well as loss of property.

There were few honors to be gained on the Texas frontier. No medals were awarded and units received no battle streamers, but from our vantage point of our own day, we must conclude that the isolation, tedious patrols, perils and hardships of the men on the frontier matched fully those of the men with the Confederate armies—where soldiering was glorified, at least on occasion.

The members were attired in Spanish costumes and answered the roll call with a Spanish word and its meaning. After the group repeated the "Lord's Prayer" in Spanish, Mrs. Dorothy Drake gave the devotional which included a Bible reading in Spanish. Mrs. Rosson gave a study of the Spanish background of the southwest and the need for understanding between the people.

President Mary Olds conducted the business meeting which closed with the Guild benediction. A guest, Miss Esterano Garbaldo, sang "How Great Thou Art" in Spanish and was one of the highlights of the meeting.

A Spanish plate was served to the following members: Mesdames Olds, Drake, Shannon, Tollett, Wallace, Tom Wood, Dalton Wood, Gentry, Potter, Rosson, Nix, Hay, Curry, Miss Bertha Vesen and guests Mrs. J. T. Agee, Mrs. Cecil McWilliams and Miss Garbaldo.

Bake Holiday Fruit Cake Now

Rich tasting raisin fruit cake takes on a new look of elegance when it's cut in slim fingers. This marvelous recipe is a prizewinner that's bursting with taste surprising California golden seedless raisins, candied fruits and nuts. As with most all fruit cakes, carefully wrap and age this one in a cool place from 4 to 6 weeks before cutting.

Make fruit cake now so it will be ready for all holiday entertaining. For open house refreshments cut it in fingers to serve with eggnog. Salty nuts and colored thin mints are other good nibblers for the occasion.

CALIFORNIA GOLDEN RAISIN FRUIT CAKE

- |                             |                                   |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 cup butter or margarine   | 1/2 cups golden seedless raisins  |
| 1 cup sugar                 | 1/2 cup diced candied pineapple   |
| 5 eggs                      | 1/4 cup diced candied citron      |
| 2 cups sifted flour         | 1/4 cup diced candied orange peel |
| 1/2 teaspoon baking powder  | 1/2 cup pecans                    |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla          |                                   |
| 1/4 teaspoon almond extract |                                   |

Beat butter until soft; gradually beat in sugar until light. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Resift flour with baking powder into egg mixture; stir only until blended. Stir in flavorings, fruits and nuts. Turn into greased and floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1 1/2 hours, or until cake tests done. Cool on wire rack. Sprinkle with brandy, if desired. Carefully wrap in foil or saran. Store 4 to 6 weeks in cool place before cutting. Makes 1 (9-inch) loaf.

ZIP Code Use Here To Be Stepped Up

Sudan Postmaster E. C. Minyard this week reported that the postoffice department is implementing use of ZIP codes on parcels at Lubbock and all its district postoffices, to speed up Christmas mailing.

Minyard urged all those who will be mailing packages and letters from the local office to include the ZIP code of the town where the mail is being sent. To help the local patrons to do this, the postoffice will put ZIP code directories out in the local office where any town's ZIP code can be easily looked up.

"The ZIP code on your package not only will cut down on the time for the package to reach its destination, but also will reduce the chances of loss," the postmaster said. "We at the postoffice would like for this to be the most efficient year in delivery of Christmas mail," he said.

"If there is a need, we will keep the parcel post windows open extra hours this season," he added. To insure delivery before Christmas, the following latest dates are suggested for mailing:

Dec. 1-10 — air parcels and greeting cards overseas.

Dec. 10 — greeting cards to distant states.

Dec. 14 — ordinary gift parcels and greeting cards to nearby areas.

Following is a sample column from the ZIP code directories which will be placed in the lobby of the postoffice. At the top of the page is the name of the state and the name of the first town on the page. The ZIP code is in the column just to the left of the town name. For example, in this column, you can look down through the towns to Springlake and on down further to Sudan, to find their ZIP codes. The figures at right of the town names mean nothing to the patron — they are for postmaster's use only.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA

Dr. Davis is a graduate of the University of Texas and is professor emeritus of English at Midwestern University.

Directing the meeting will be Miss Gladys Wallis of Amarillo, a Tascosa High School history teacher, and a graduate of North Texas State University and SMU.

Where Are You Going?

Scripture: Proverbs 30:5; St. John 1:1; Genesis 9:11-17.

A Christian friend once said it used to be a "stumbling block" to her in thinking of "how could God love her. How could He love just one person out of so many, when He is a God so wonderful and powerful as God who hung the moon and stars in their places and created so many marvellous things. But she said, how glad she was that she could know He did love her and was so "mindful" of her that even the hairs of her head were numbered.

Something else she did not mention, though, as we think of the power and the magnificent creations of God, our Father. He not only put the many stars in their places, He knows them a-part! (1 Cor. 15:41).

He holds this universe in its place, the earth on its axis revolving round and round on the same course day after day, by His Word! Nothing is powerful enough for that except the power of His Word (Heb. 1:3). Jesus said in Matthew 24:35 that "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."

Can we then not believe His Word? If we do believe His Word, then we believe He is the Son of God, and will accept Him as our Savior. Until we believe His word we cannot touch His power (It is hidden in Jesus).

The theme of my daily life that increased my faith when I remember is: "Jesus never fails." His word has never failed through all these years since creation. Even as He said in Genesis, that the rainbow would be a sign that He would not forget His covenant with man — the rainbow is still there, is it not?

We may have ever so much education and knowledge. Remember, though, no matter how intelligent or cultured you may be, God who made us all, and not we ourselves, is more intelligent, so lets stop treating Him like an inferior person, instead of the Superior One; but until we simply trust God-as-Truth and Love, like a little child trusts his parents, we cannot touch or have use of His power.

A child learns to walk by faith and trust in the parents' guiding hands. And although the child does not understand why or where he is walking at first, he begins very soon to learn to make use of his ability. So we must trust our Heavenly Father and He will teach us the way we are going.

Jesus said, "All things are possible to him that believeth." Then He said just before He went to heaven, "ALL power is given unto me in Heaven, and in Earth... Go ye therefore and teach... and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

If you are dissatisfied with mere existence, and want a challenge, want to live forever, take Jesus at His Word. He says He died, to save you and me, that His power can save us and keep us into a life that is never to end—not a life of fear, hate, sorrow, disappointments, boredom, pain, weariness, separations, heartaches, but an eternal life of interesting variety, delight, joy, peace, and love; more than we can even imagine.

Power? Atomic power is only a small part of God's creation. Jesus said, "Ask the Father anything in my name and He will do it." His name, Jesus! Don't just say the words, but remember, His name is Love—merciful, unselfish, forgiving love. So ask anything in His name, believing, and it shall be done. Maybe not like you planned it, but remember, His word is good, and Jesus never fails. Lets keep faith with Him like unto His faithfulness.

GUIDANCE

More good might be accomplished today by ringing a curfew for the children's parents.

Taxpayers Get Break In New Power Project

A privately financed electric power project—one that eventually will dwarf TVA, the Aswan Dam and other noted power producers—has been started at the juncture of the states of New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona and Utah.

Not a single dollar of taxpayers' funds will be used in the $10 billion project and all participating companies will continue to pay taxes.

Undertaken by a number of electric power companies, in nine western states, which make up the Western Energy Supply and Transmission Associates, the project calls for the construction of power plants at strategic locations. Some will be coal powered, some atomic and others water powered.

Western officials say that consumers will benefit from the low rates that the vast network of transmission lines will make possible. Each utility in the complex will retain its autonomy.

The first of the plants will use coal, taking advantage of the huge deposits of anthracite in the area where the four states meet. Other states that are to participate are Nevada, California, Wyoming, Idaho and Texas.

Put love first.—(1 Cor. 14:1).

We may speak in the tongues of man or even of angels, but if we are without love we are merely sounding a gong or a clanging cymbal. We could have the gift of prophecy or be able to move mountains but if we have no love, we are nothing. And the greatest measure of our love should go to God.

BATTLE RECORD TO DATE

SPRAYING	ACRES SPRAYED	COMMENT
Number 1 (Beginning Sept. 15)	303,000 acres (Originally estimated 240,000 acres. Total includes Skip-row)	First application was hampered by rain, wind, etc. Migrating weevils caused increase in size of control zone. Extremely high adult and unemerged weevil populations encountered.
Number 2 (Beginning about October 4)	281,000 acres (Reduction due to acreage desiccated or harvested)	Field checks indicated effective kill of adult weevils but continuing emergence kept new weevil population up. Additional planes brought in to speed up sprayings.
Number 3 (Beginning about October 13)	230,000 acres (Continuing harvest and desiccation)	Field examination showed great reduction in number of adult weevils, with low occurrence of weevils in diapause stage. Also fewer unemerged weevils.
Number 4 (Beginning about October 21)	190,000 acres	Few unemerged and very young weevils left. Practically no weevils in diapause stage.

CONCLUSION: Remaining unemerged and young adult weevils will be kept from going into hibernation either by frost or a fifth spraying. Entomologists agree that hibernating weevils will have been reduced by more than 90 percent by end of this year's program.

Financial Arrangements

- Compresses to collect 50c per bale, and remit to a special boll weevil control fund in bank — no connection with P.C.G. regular funds.
- While compresses collect on all cotton, the contribution is voluntary for individual farmers who may request and receive refund.
- All funds are under direction of a Certified Public Accountant firm.
- Monthly financial reports by U.S.D.A. and Boll Weevil Steering Committee will be made — Complete audit will be published at the end of season.
- Any unexpended Steering Committee funds will be placed in interest bearing account for continuation of Boll Weevil Program next season. Unexpended U.S.D.A. funds must return to Treasury, as all appropriations are on annual basis only.

Latest Scientific Breakthrough—Five-Minute Oven Cleaner

While we may at times mutter at our ovens, think of the poor homemaker in Egypt some 4,000 years ago. She had only an earthenware jar set over hot coals in which to do her baking! Not only didn't she have much of an oven, but she had to scrub and scrub, probably with just sand and water, to get that porous material clean. Thanks to modern science, ovens have come a long way since then.

Oven cleaners have come a long way, too. With the latest scientific breakthrough, there's no longer any need to worry about grease and grime and burned-on food. A new oven cleaner now available introduces an innovation... makes the oven do the clean-up job instead of you. With Jifom, distributed by The R. T. French Company, you can toss out your cleaning gloves, too. The harsh chemicals that give off such irritating fumes and ruin a manicure have been eliminated.

Unlike the Egyptian homemaker's, our modern ranges offer us ease and versatility in cooking. And no matter what you cook, don't fret about spills—science has found a way to make short work of them.

Household Hints
BY JOAN MARCH WORDEN
Director, Fine Cleaner Information Center.

Working wife? There are more than 15 million of us. "Going to work" plus keeping house really equals two full-time jobs — but if you apply business practices to your household operation, you can short-cut your at-home worktime without short-changing your family. Here are five thought-starters for becoming an "organization woman" in your own home:

1. Memo-ize. Write memos, keep continuing lists for the grocery store, drug, department stores and milkman, then when you're ready to order you'll have the week's needs all in one place. If you can never find a pencil and pad try one of the magnetic combinations which includes a pencil on a chain and tack it up near the telephone.
2. Put your telephone to work for you. First, tape a small list with most-called numbers near each phone. You'll save time and energy if you buy your groceries, household supplies and whatever else you can sit down with telephone in hand. When shopping for groceries stock up on staples and you won't have to shop as often.
3. Install a bulletin board in your kitchen area. If you don't have a special place for a board, use the side of the refrigerator. You can attach notes and lists to it with miniature clothespin magnets. Good place for appointments, family job assignments and shopping lists, too.
4. Keep all appliance instru-tions and information in one place even if it's a brown envelope in the kitchen drawer. That way you'll be able to spot minor repair needs as they occur, and also refresh yourself from time to time on caring for your equipment. This cuts down on service calls and on the frustration of inactive household machinery.

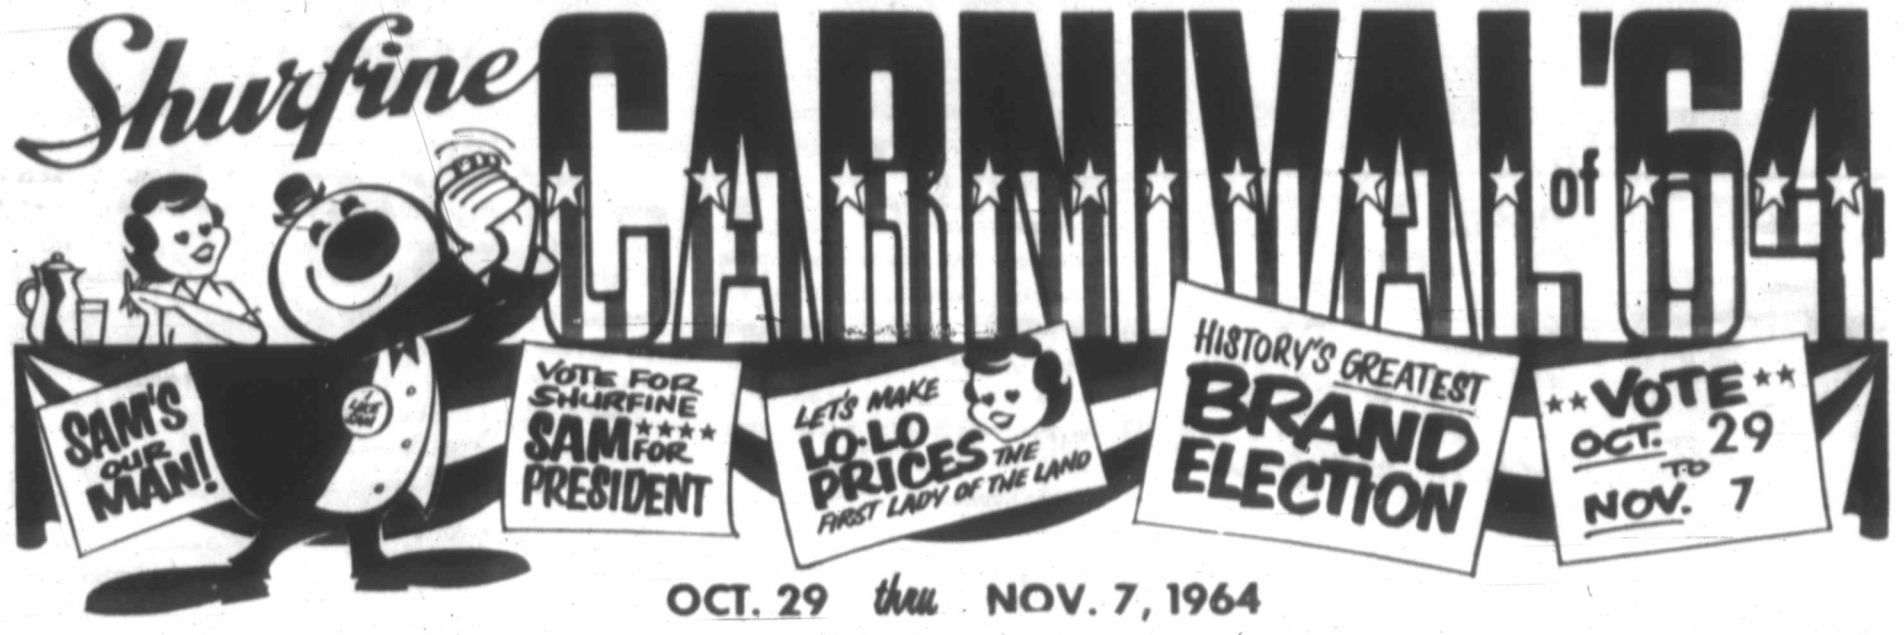

Another tip: Make a list of repairs and services and write it on the outside of the envelope.

5. Organize your cleaning products to save steps. Put small items in a portable tote of some kind and include versatile products—one product that will do the work of two or three means less work for you. For example, a high-concentration fine oil cleaner will clean, disinfect and deodorize all in one operation. You can use this triple-duty product in every room of your house—even in the laundry room as well—as an addition to the wash water to cut down germs present in every family's wash.

All these tips will help short-cut the working gal's homemaking time and at the same time streamline housekeeping for the at-home homemakers.
