WOODWORK BY DALTON

ONE WONDERS what kind of person can enjoy being despised by everybody. I considered this last week when Cassius Clay defeated Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight championship in a one-sided fight.

Before the fight, I could find not even one person who wanted Clay to win. Almost every one figured he would win, but no body wanted him to. His bragging over the years has antagonized everybody.

After the fight, the astonishing thing was that all the reporters, fans and observers in the ring were jammed around Patterson, while the announcer noted that the only people gathered around the champion immediately after the decision were his own training camp crowd.

Even if Patterson had not been the gentleman that he appears to be, and some bum like Liston had been fighting Clay, most people would have been rooting for the opponent of the insufferable titleholder.

Of course, Clay's conduct will pay off at the boxoffice, and perhaps much of his bragging can be thereby explained. Because no matter who Clay is fighting, the public will always pay well to see the fight, in the hope that someone will finally triumph over Mighty Mouth.

Wrestlers for years have used the trick of creating themselves the image of a terrible villain so the public will turn out to see them get whipped. But I can't imagine anyone paying to see a wrestling match, even if it was a tag match between LBJ and Martin Luther King vs. Gov. Wallace and Robert Shelton.

THERE WAS THIS 16-year-old girl in California who told her parents she was going out to visit a girl friend, but who ran away (or flew away) instead. Her mother located her 10 days later in Bangkok, Thailand.

Now that's what I call doing something up right. When this gal decided to leave home, she really left.

WE NOTICED a story about an area school superintendent who resigned "because of ill health. He will enter private business." Chances are, he'll be sicker than ever if he goes into business for himself, unless he's purchased General Motors.

BAND WINS FIRST DIVISION

The Sudan Hornet High School Marching Band won a first division rating in the regional University Interscholastic League marching contest held in Jones Stadium at Lubbock on Tuesday, Nov. 23. This was the first Division I earned by a Sudan marching band since 1961 and is the first step toward the sweepstakes award which is presented to bands making first divisions in marching, concert playing and sight reading. Regional playing and sight reading contests will be held in Dismitt on April 2, 1966.

A division rating is derived at by three judges giving ratings of I through IV, which are averaged together to obtain the final rating. Sudan received a I rating from all three judges.

Judges for the contest and some of their comments are as follows:

Richard Koles of San Antonio said "The band has a beautiful appearance and stride, beautiful take-offs and turns with fine alignment. Some of the best Marching steps I have seen today."

Homer Anderson of Central High School in San Angelo said, "A pretty group with a nice sound. A few not guiding carefully, remember to think ahead. Drums are real well balanced. Pretty group of maneuvers, mostly real fine. I enjoyed this band."

Bill Dean of Odessa High School said, "Very nice entrance, alignment good, brass breaks a little but drums have a nice sound. Good stepouts, drills well planned, nice stride by all, nice show. Marching is fine all the time."

Other area bands participating included Springlake, Farwell, Kress, Petersburg, Anton and other Class B, A and AA school bands in this region.

The Hornet marching band has 85 members, is directed by Mike Metz with Paula Chisholm as drum major. Twirlers are Susan Jones, Vicki Masten, Kathy Minyard and Cynthia Parrish.

Metz stated "This is by far the best marching band to come out of Sudan in many years. The students have worked very hard during the past 10 weeks and were very thrilled by the contest results."

He also reported that a colored and sound movie film was made during the contest and will be shown at a future band concert.

The junior high and elementary school bands will have a concert in the school auditorium on Dec. 13 at 7:30 p. m. The high school band will hold their annual Christmas concert on Dec. 20 in the school cafeteria, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

DO YOU KNOW JESUS?

Scripture: Psalm 23; 24: 8; St. John 10: 4.

In John B. Templeton's "The Familiar Stranger" he asks this question: "If you were to meet Jesus walking down the street, do you think you would recognize Him? His idea is that through the ages since Jesus was here in the flesh that we have so lost contact with Him that He would seem as a stranger to most of us.

John B. Templeton did not just idly sit down and write this on paper. He went out and stopped people on the streets, asking them simple and basic things about the life and teachings of Jesus. He says that he got some astonishing answers; misinformation from a Christian nation (at least in name), and the best educated group of people in the world today. Many people have grown up physically and intellectually, without their spiritual growth, which is the most important growth in man.

Do you know Jesus? Personally, joyfully, courageously, challenging you to go out to be a Christian soldier? Unless you do do know Him like this, I am afraid you do not know Him very well.

Many people who reject the Bible have never read it. Our scripture reading, the 23rd Psalm, is probably one of the best known chapters of scripture in word. Adults repeat it sometimes like a parrot, saying words but not knowing the meaning of them.

Recently I heard the voices of little children saying these words, "The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters: He restoreth my soul." By the time they reached this place in our familiar Psalm, the tears were streaming down my cheeks and I felt the Presence of the Lord who restores my soul day by day. I recognized anew that He truly is the Shepherd of my life, and has led me both through the high places and through the valley of the shadow, and gone before me all the way thus far. So why shouldn't

I wonder! He alone knows my heart, my soul, my tomorrow's; and I trust Him completely because I have accepted the challenge of His Living Christ! He gives me so many things to do that is beyond me, that in joy and delight I become conscious of His presence within me, for I know that without Him I am nothing.

How do you compare yourself to a God who can make a human ear, or a human eye, a star, the wind—all things!—and yet can hear every prayer of His children? Does He lead you on beside the still water giving you rest for your soul? Remember He said, "And when He putteth forth His own sheep, He goeth before them..." Can you claim this promise because you are His own and recognize Him in your life?

Do you take time to sit down at the table that He has prepared for you even now to enjoy? Are you giving yourself, all that you are and all that you have, dedicated to God so He can anoint you with His Spirit? Does your cup run over, spilling out into the lives of others, with joy and love, and delight in His love and fellowship? Can you truly say, "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

How well do you know Jesus? Would you recognize Him on the streets? Would you know where to look for the scars and the nail prints, and would you know something of what they meant if you saw them?

Search the Scriptures, both the educated and uneducated, and learn of Jesus, for without knowledge of how to take Jesus there is no real knowledge. He needs You, but your need of Him is greater—for He is your only way into eternal living where there is Light, Love, Joy and Peace.

The alternative is to ignore Jesus, and thereby living in eternal darkness, suffering and forever without peace. Learn of Jesus and be able to make a wise choice.

RADIANT HEATING
IN ICELAND, the remote island of ice and fire in the North Atlantic, there is no heating problem. Volcanic rocks heat countless hot springs and geysers. The warm waters from these springs and geysers are piped through the soil to warm it for growing green crops.
THE RADIANT panel heating we enjoy in buildings in America was invented by an English engineer, A. M. Barker, in 1908. Delighted with the unusual warmth in one of the rooms in his house, he found chimney flues buried in one wall. This proved to be the first modern use of an age-old principle that is now heating homes all over the world.
SINCE THE REBIRTH of radiant panel heating in our century, hundreds of thousands of miles of butt-weld steel pipe have wound their way into the hearts of Americans all over the country. Fabricated coils of steel pipe are now embedded in the floors, walls or ceilings of our modern schools, dormitories, churches, public buildings and homes, bringing warmth quickly and easily wherever it is needed.

What's New For Christmas?

What's new for Christmas? If you don't mind doing your shopping in a service station, it's an 18-inch battery-powered toy yacht that runs equally well on land or on water.
What, you might ask, is the connection between service stations and toy yachts? It's simply that Phillips Petroleum Company executives were so impressed with the number of pleasure craft which Americans owned last year—nearly 8 million—they decided a lot of people would come in to their 25,000 retail outlets to get a real bargain in a toy boat, a $10-$12 value for $4.98.
The Phillips 66 Power Yacht is an authentically designed cruiser made from rugged plastic. An ingenious development permits it to be operated amphibiously, using only a single power plant.
The toy is packaged in a box that converts to a dry land marina and contains useful information on International Code flags, water safety rules and

HOMEMADE COOKIES SAY 'MERRY CHRISTMAS' OVERSEAS

Dear Cece: My boyfriend is in the service and won't be home for Christmas. I'd like to send him a box of homemade cookies. How can I pack them so they won't crumble?

Dear Cece: Do your other readers know that colorful cookie ornaments make charming gifts for a Christmas luncheon or children's party? I bake jumbo molasses or sugar cookies a few weeks before Christmas and freeze them. Before the party I decorate them with tinted frosting to resemble an oversized Christmas tree ornament with the name piped on, and package them individually in a plastic sandwich bag with a sealable flap. They serve as a place card and as a little "extra" dessert, or guests may take them home and decorate a tree by tying the cookie to the branches with a bright red ribbon, held on with transparent tape.

Dear Readers: Are you looking for some party ideas for Christmas? Send me a postcard at the address listed at the end of this column. You will receive a free copy of "You're Entertaining - America's Junior Miss Party Planning Guide" "Merry Christmas to you all."

Questions and comments should be addressed to Mrs. Cece Allison Room 1440, 420 Lexington Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

Today's GOOD TURN

This Apple Spice Fruit Cake will probably be the fruitiest tasting fruit cake you ever attempted. Because the fruit in it is not cooked. So each fruit retains its perky chunkiness. You start with a cake mix. That you bake. From there on, no more baking. You simply break up the cake. Then work in the fruits, canned apple sauce, nuts and spices, pack the mixture in a pan and stow in the refrigerator to firm up. The cake comes out dark, firm, yet pleasantly moist. The apple sauce will keep this cake fresh right through the holiday season. It also adds apple tang, and helps act as a binder for the nuts, dates, raisins and the rest.

APPLE SPICE FRUIT CAKE

1 package favorite white or yellow cake mix
4 cups candied mixed fruits
2 cups seedless raisins
1 scant cup cut-up dates (7 1/2 ounce package)
1 1/2 cups flaked coconut (1 can)

4 cups chopped pecans or walnuts
2 cups graham cracker crumbs
2 cups canned apple sauce
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cloves

Prepare and bake cake mix according to package directions, cool and break into a large bowl. Add all of the remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. This is such a stiff mixture that it will be necessary to use the hands for blending. Do not attempt it in an electric mixer. Pack mixture firmly into a lined tube pan (9 or 10 inches), 2 regular loaf pans (9x5x3), or 4 small loaf pans. Cover and place in the refrigerator for 24 hours or longer to firm up. This fruit cake must be kept refrigerated, and may be frozen successfully. Makes a generous 8 pounds of fruit cake.

How to Emerge a Winner When the Chips Are Down

By A. TORR

You're the number one seeded player in the tournament. Twelve thousand people have packed the Forest Hills Tennis Stadium to watch you defend your title.

But things go badly for you. Your opponent, who wasn't given a chance, is beating you.

The crowd cheers wildly for every point your opponent makes. How do you feel? How do you handle yourself when the chips are really down?

This is the situation Roy Emerson of Australia, the world's number one amateur tennis player, found himself in when he faced Arthur Ashe of the United States in the U. S. Lawn Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

But Emerson was never disheartened. He fought for every point as if it were match point.

When the match was over, the crowd gave Ashe a standing ovation. Roy Emerson, the world's top amateur, was defeated. But he gave the match all he had and he lost like a champion—with dignity.

After the cheering was over, the crowd filed out of the huge arena, past the ballot box where the voting was taking place for the Martini & Rossi Trophy for Sportsmanship in Tennis. They stopped by the hundreds to cast their votes—and they voted for Roy Emerson.

When the votes were counted, Roy Emerson had edged out Arthur Ashe, Fred Stolle and Chuck McKinley by a narrow margin. Even though he lost the match, he emerged a winner. The true mark of a champion.

Roy Emerson in action

The Old Timer

"If you don't believe a ten-year-old boy can keep a secret, ask him where he left the family hammer."

SHORT AND SWEET

An old fella has it that when God was creating the world he was approached by four questioning angels. The first asked, "How are you doing it?" The second, "Why?"

The third said, "May I have it when you finish?" The fourth, "Can I help?" The first was the scientist's question. The second, the philosopher's. The third, the selfish person's and the fourth, the religious. According to a recent survey, people with higher than average education and IQ showed the greatest food preferences for celery, olives and grapefruit.

If you are 40 years old, you are not as tall as you were at 20. Furthermore, in another 20 years you will shrink another half inch. There is a 50-50 chance that one of your legs is shorter than the other. If you are a brunette you have on the average of about 150,000 hairs on your head. Blonds have about 140,000 and redheads only 90,000. Human hair is strong. If the hair on your head were spun and woven into a rope it could support 10 tons.

Your bones are also strong. The strongest is the shin bone, which can support a one-ton weight. It is three times as strong as oak. The human brain, which weighs about three pounds can hold enough information to fill six million books. Every 24 hours your kidneys utilize 50 gallons of fluid and 5 pounds of solids in eliminating wastes.

Officers elected were Rodney Bowling, president; Randy Pierce, vice president; Jenine Pierce, secretary-treasurer; Kevin May, reporter; Bill Black, council delegate; Connie Ham, song leader. Tracy Bowling handed out the 4-H folders.

Featured on the program was a cake icing demonstration with Ann Martin icing a lemon cake and Barbara Black a chocolate cake. They were decorated with colored candles. Mrs. Ham, 4-H leader, conducted the demonstration.

For refreshments, the cakes were served with punch to all attending.

Talented Teens Earn 4-H Awards for Best-in-Texas Projects

Beke Quinn Smajstria Miss Strempel

A camera, a cow, a tractor, and a toothbrush might be considered the symbols of success for four Texas 4-H'ers who have won 1965 state honors in their 4-H projects.

James Beke, 15, of Houston, placed first in the photography program. He receives a $50 savings bond from Eastman Kodak Company.

Jeff Quinn, 17, of La Grange, took honors in the dairy program, sponsored by Oliver Corporation.

Jackie Smajstria, 14, of Victoria, was winner in the tractor program, which is sponsored by Humble Oil & Refining Company.

Linda Strempel, 15, of New Braunfels, ranked at the top in the health program, sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company.

Miss Strempel, Quinn and Smajstria will receive expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Beke, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Beke, has been in 4-H six years. His parents are both 4-H leaders. He has participated in the photography project for the past two years and developed skills in taking and using pictures through educational pictures.

Quinn, an eight-year veteran of 4-H, has won six grand cham-ionships and six reserve championships in Fayette County and state dairy cattle shows. At the national 4-H cattle judging contest in Waterloo, Iowa, he ranked as third high individual in the nation in judging Brown Swiss cattle.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn, he has gained much experience in his father's grade "A" dairy. On occasion he has handled the herd alone for several days.

Smajstria, who is in his fourth year of 4-H, considers his tractor project an integral part of his crops program. He now farms 56.6 acres of land by himself. One section of his milo plot yielded 6,300 pounds per acre.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smajstria, he hopes for an agricultural career.

Miss Strempel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Strempel, has been in 4-H six years. Besides projects to improve her personal health, she has conducted health hazard hunts in and around her home. She has given health talks before various groups.

These hard-working teenagers were selected for their honors by the Cooperative Extension Service, which supervises 4-H Club work. They are a choice sample of the 2 1/2 million 4-H'ers from the 50 states and Puerto Rico.

MORRIS HARDWARE
SUDAN, TEXAS

By—Vern Sanford

A friend of mine went fishing recently with a buddy who really could hook the big bass. In one morning of angling he tied into at least a half-dozen bass that went over six pounds.

However, he didn't land any. He just knew they weighed more than six pounds because he was using six-pound test line and every one of them broke the line.

Now that's reasoning! Light lines have their places, but certainly not in big bass waters that are full of old tree stumps or lined with moss or lily pads.

Not so long ago there was a tremendous push on light line. It's sporting the fishermen said, to tie into a fish on a light rig and light line. Furthermore you can cast a greater distance, they said.

As to distance yes, except in some of our Texas wind. But it's a doubtful sport if you hook a fish and let him get away with the lure still in his mouth.

That is what happens when a six-pound line, or any other line for that matter, gives away when the fish gets into the brush.

Fish are smart. Many times they can throw the lure. But it's easier after they have broken the line. However, at times they cannot disengage themselves from the hook. In that event they finally die with the hooks still in their gills or down in their throat.

Several times we've seen a bass, that had broken the line, try to throw the lure from his mouth by jumping into the air. Occasionally it is possible to tie into one of these artful dodgers and get him back. But not often.

A fishing friend once told me of hearing a bass jump under a willow at the edge of the water. He cast several times and got no action. But the bass continued to jump. Finally the angler paddled over to it. By this time the bass had jumped a little too high and one of the hooks on the lure caught a small limb and left the bass dangling there.

My friend said he didn't have the heart to string the bass. He liberated it with the hope that it's experience would not stop it from hitting some other time.

What is the best weight line to use? There is no single answer to this question. It depends upon what you want to catch and the type of water in which you're fishing.

In most cases a 10 pound line is about the lightest that should be used on bass for successful landing. However, makers of spincast reels now generally are loading their equipment with 15 pound test.

New manufacturing processes today make it possible to use line of much greater strength and in smaller diameter. Many lines of 20 pound test now are no larger than 12 pound test lines just a short time back.

Fishermen who continually land big bass, however, stick to 15 or 20 pound test line. Especially is this true around impoundments rimmed with lily pads or with dead forests on the bottom.

Sam Welch of Bull Shoals, who has caught more than 400 lunker bass, in addition to thousands of smaller ones, says he always wants a 20 pound test line for bass fishing, especially at night.

Fishermen who prefer the smaller line resort to another method which is helpful. They use a 20-pound test shock leader. This piece of 20-pound monofilament is at least 20 feet long and is attached to the lighter line.

Many fish are lost as they make one last surge. If you are using a shock leader, you have a better chance of "horsing him in" those last few feet.

Then too, your bass may be down only a few feet when it heads for the brush. If you have 20 feet or more of shock leader, you may be able to maneuver your boat over him and bring him out by main strength.

So far we've been talking about bass. However, speckled trout quite often are taken successfully on 12 or 15 pound test line in the bay and Gulf.

Here again the shock leader idea is very good. This because quite often you catch a heavy jackfish, or some other rough fish, that will give you a tough fight. While you are playing it, you're losing good trout-fishing time.

Another advantage of the heavy shock leader (unless you've attached a light steel leader) is that it won't be cut on shell on the bottom.

A salt-water fish, especially a red snapper, will head for a reef or channel as soon as it is caught. If you don't have the line and the fish is gone.

Moral there is of course to—use a heavy line AND a steel leader.

Medusa, according to Greek legend, was a young maiden especially famous for her beautiful hair. She offended the Goddess Athene who took her revenge by transforming Medusa's hair into live serpents and making her look so ugly that who ever gazed on her was turned to stone.

Perhaps you are plagued with the Medusa Problem too. Not that you'd turn anyone to stone, but your hair may have the tangled-matted look or the "fly-away" snakes of hair that do look like serpents in the wind. If you've ever stood in front of your mirror and tried to run a comb through clumps and knots and been defeated by the tangle of it all, you've got the Medusa Problem. No doubt about it!

The solution to the dilemma is learning to control the hair strands. And the best way to do it is with Breck Creme Rinse, a soft pink lotion with the secret of coconut oil in it to give immediate manageability to just shampooed hair. Like liquid silk, the rinse smoothes out the tortuous tangles, adds lively luster and sheen to drab, dull locks and eliminates the electricity which makes hair "flyaway" when combed or brushed. If your hair has been subjected to too many experiments with permanents and coloring, the creme rinse will also add soft conditioning body.

Creme Rinse is a cinch to use. Just drop a tablespoon-worth into a cup of warm water and pour on—ever so slowly—after the final shampoo rinse. Then a quick rinse—again with warmish water and that's it. Now when you comb your hair, watch the knots simply melt away.

If your hair has had the habit of snarling at you, don't snarl back! You know you can rinse your problem away with ease. Now, if Medusa had only known about creme rinses, she'd probably have been an awful lot happier.
