THE FOUR LESSON today, children — ah, readers, we will discuss the subject of Lester Maddox and blowflies. These are separate and unrelated, although they are interesting. First, let us consider Lester Maddox, whose name claims to have come up until a week ago was that he once drove Negroes out of his cafe with a pistol, rather than serve them, and that he passed out his handkerchiefs to his white customers to help keep the Negroes away.

Of course, at that time, most white people here probably felt, as did, that the civil rights people were in the wrong in trying to force integration in such a manner, but that Maddox was just as wrong in his attitude. He finally closed up his restaurant rather than serve Negroes.

The thing that impressed me most about Maddox, when he appeared on television at that time, was his evident arrogant superiority. His comments were typical Ku Klux Klan type stuff.

This is the man whom Georgia Democrats elected as their nominee for governor last week. Some have suggested that a lot of Republicans voted for Maddox in a runoff against a more qualified opponent because the Republicans figured he would be easier to beat in the general election.

All I can say is that if Georgia elects him as governor, it will be a new low of some kind. To make it interesting, perhaps they should elect Stokely Carmichael as lieutenant governor.

REGARDING blowflies, it came to me suddenly the other day, while chasing a pesky housefly around the living room, that I haven't seen a blowfly in years. Not that I've missed them, but it does seem to me that they were a lot more prevalent in years past. If we have all but eliminated blowflies from our society, perhaps we could do the same with houseflies. Or with mosquitoes. Or maybe even the Rolling Stones and the Monkeys.

BRAIN FOOD: A customer at a delicatessen marveled at the owner's ability to handle mathematical figures. "What makes you so smart?" she asked him. "Herring heads," he replied. "Eat herring heads and you'll be positively brilliant."

"How much are they?" "Thirty cents each."

The woman took half a dozen. A few days later she was back with a complete order, you charged me 30 cents for each herring head, and the sign says I can buy a whole herring for 25 cents."

The owner beamed. "See there," he said, "you're getting smarter already."

HORNETS EDGE SEAGRAVES 12-8

The Sudan Hornets won their fourth victory of the year Friday night by defeating the strongly favored Seagraves Eagles, 12-8. This win gave the Hornets a 4-0 record. In these four games, the Hornets have scored 84 points, allowing only 14 points to be scored against them. This indicates a great team effort by both the offense and defense. Sudan's Mike Bellar opened the game by kicking off to the Seagraves Eagles, who put the ball in play on their nine yard line.

The Eagles gained 10 yards to the 25, when Sudan's Steve Martin intercepted a pass on the Eagles 40 yard line, where he was tackled and downed immediately.

The first down attempt failed to gain, but on the second try, Hornet QB Ronnie Hill handed off to Larry Morgan, who ran all the way for the first touchdown. The try for extra point was blocked.

Neither team was able to score again in the first quarter, which ended 6-0 Hornets.

In the second quarter, Sudan fumbled the ball and Seagraves recovered on Sudan's 32, putting Seagraves in excellent field position. They marched downfield to the 16 yard line where HB Terry Cummings took the ball over for the TD. Seagraves de-

Clarence Law passed to End Tim Blair for the conversion. This put the Eagles out front, 8-6, which was the score as the gun sounded for the half.

Half-time statistics showed the two teams tied on first downs, with Sudan topping Seagraves by one in yards rushing. Also this was the first time this season that Sudan had been behind on the scoreboard.

In the third quarter, Mike Bellar attempted a field goal from the 30, which was partially blocked, and the Eagles took over. HB Cummings ran back 46 yards before he was brought down. Neither team was able to score, and at the end of the quarter, with the Eagles in possession of the ball on the Hornets' 22, after intercepting a Sudan pass, the score remained 8-6 in favor of the Eagles.

Starting the fourth quarter, the Eagles moved the ball to the Hornet eight yard line, where the Sudan defense stopped them cold on a fourth down try.

With six minutes to play, the Hornets took over the ball. Moving out to the 26 yard line when Mike Bellar broke clear and ran 74 yards for the game-winning TD. The Hornets attempted to run the extra points and were stopped short of the line. But, the Hornets were ahead 12-8, which gave them a new lease on life and sparked the defense to greater effort.

Sudan kicked to the Eagles, but the Hornet defensive line held the Eagles and they were forced to punt on fourth down. The Eagles tightened up and Sudan also had to punt on fourth down. At this point, Seagraves got a roughing-the-kicker penalty, which gave Sudan a first down. After three more attempts to move the ball, the Hornets again had to punt, with less than two minutes remaining on the clock.

Seagraves controlled the ball the last two minutes of the game but the determined defense from Sudan did not let them score.

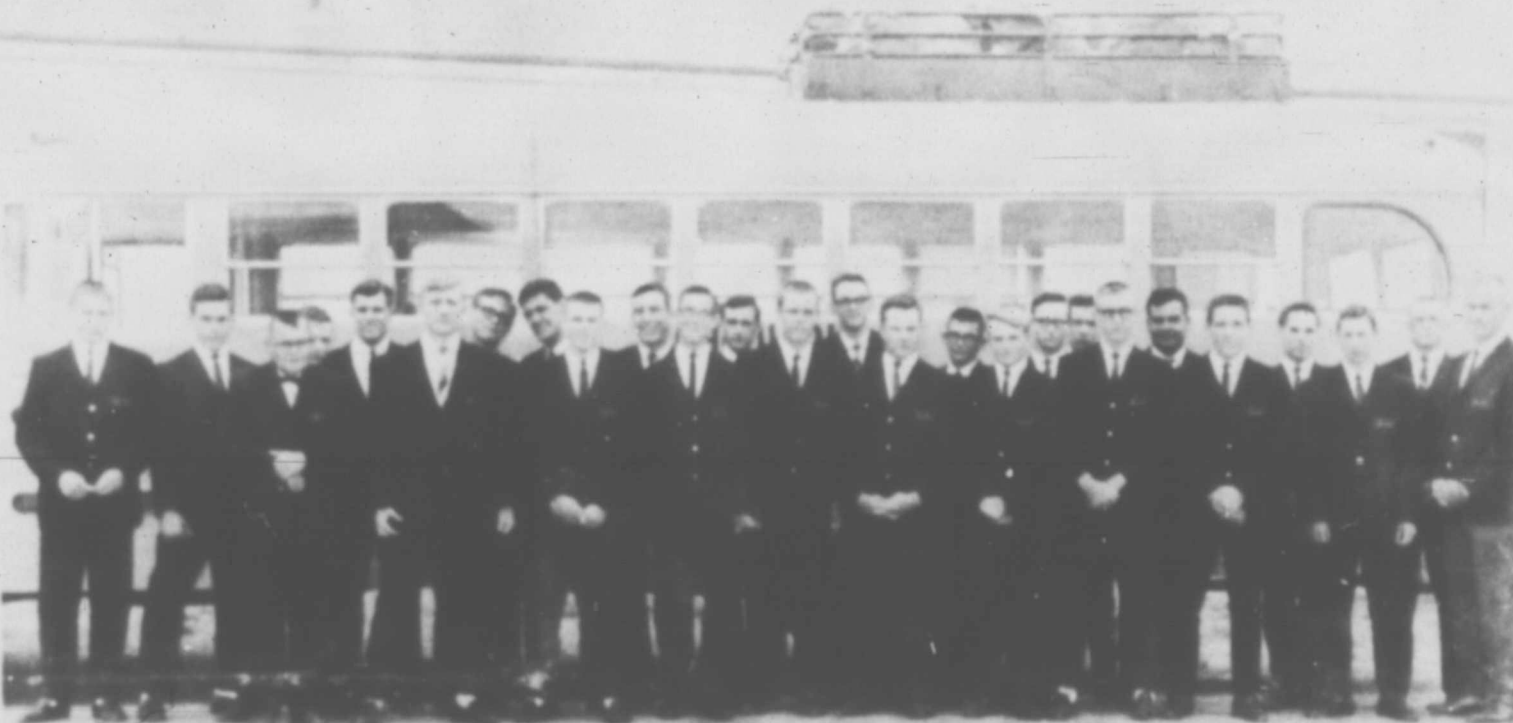

The final three minutes of this game were tense and seemed to the excited Hornet fans like 30 minutes. But the clock ran out on the Eagles, and the game ended with Sudan winning, 12-8.

This Friday night the Hornets again take to the road to swerve the Plains Cowboys. Although the game will not be a conference game, it is very important to the Hornets standing as one of only four South Plains teams to remain undefeated in season play.

Plains has lost only one game, that being to Sanderson by 2 points at the beginning of the season. Let's all attend the game which begins in the Cowboy stadium at 8:00 p. m., Friday, and support the Hornets to another victory.

HIGH PLAINS RESEARCH FOUNDATION NEWS

Scientists at the High Plains Research Foundation have received numerous inquiries recently from farmers regarding the use of flame to desiccate grain sorghum.

The unusual heavy rainfall has increased the problem of the loss of grain at harvest time because the grain often rides through the combine on the large green leaves and the grain falls on the ground. Research at the Foundation has shown that desiccation just before harvest has increased the yield from 30 to 450 pounds per acre. Through the use of flame, the amount of residue handled by the combine has been reduced considerably, thereby permitting the machine to operate at a greater speed. The problem of mechanical damage to the combine on green leaves and stalks was reduced 75 to 90 percent.

Scientists at the Foundation, who reported, report that wheat yields for the current harvest are the highest in five years for this area.

Indications are that cotton prices on the High Plains and elsewhere will get considerably higher prices for cottonseed this year than they've gotten in many years.

The result of an old law at work together in high plains cottonseed prices of supply and demand.

The national 1966 cottonseed production has brought a proportionate reduction in the primary supply of cottonseed for planting. The demand for seed has been a factor in the price of seed.

Children Without A Childhood

Children are often the innocent victims of dope addiction. Not addicted themselves, they are used by addicts, pushers, prostitutes and muggers, and born into a world they hate from their beginning.

Unloved, uncared for, these little ones sit disconsolately on curbs of city streets, or are locked in sparsely furnished tenement rooms. There is a haunting misery; a helpless hopelessness.

The tragic plight of these children without a childhood is dramatically told in a recently published book entitled THE LITTLE PEOPLE (Revel Company, Westwood, N.J. $2.25). Authored by David Wilkerson, of THE CROSS AND THE SWITCH-BLADE fame, it is the story of sin's children — who they are, how they exist and what happens to them.

CYNTHIA WITHROW ENROLLS AT LCC

Cynthia Withrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Withrow of Sudan, has enrolled for the fall semester at Lubbock Christian College.

An elementary education major, she is a 1966 graduate of Sudan High School where she was active in school activities.

She is one of more than 200 students attending classes at LCC this fall. The college, a private liberal arts institution, is now celebrating its tenth anniversary.

Associate degrees are offered in 12 different fields. An added service just begun this fall is an evening college, allowing students to earn up to 6 hours credit at night.

TEXAS TECH TO INVADE FORT WORTH

Texas Tech invades Fort Worth to battle Texas Christian University for the unofficial championship of West Texas Saturday night. At stake will be a small saddle emblematic of the "title", donated by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and Amos Carter Jr. of Fort Worth. Tech currently holds the saddle, by virtue of a season 28-24 triumph at Lubbock last fall.

Texas Tech goes into the game in possibly its worst physical shape in years. Three more men may have been lost in the ADM contest - center Jerry Turner, tackle Stanley Edwards and half-back Alan Schriener, all with knee injuries.

Starting defensive guard Mickey Merritt, who hurt a foot in the Texas contest, may miss another as will defensive guard Marc Bryant and probably safety Guy Griffin. Doug Young, starting in the place of Bryant, played only sparingly against ADM because of an injury against Texas. Texas Tech's next home game will be against Florida State on Oct. 15.

THE HORNET BAND - Shown above are members of the Sudan Hornet Band as they performed during the Sudan-Seagraves football game. The band has added much to the school spirit this season and will present another spectacular half-time performance at Plains Friday.

Scriptures: Isaiah 43: 10-12; John 8: 12-13.

"I, even I, am the Lord, and beside me there is no savior."

"As I write these words, I wonder how many read them and really hear what they say? I wonder how many read them then go quickly to something else? Do you hear what the Lord has said in His word?"

"If you do hear, remember to seek God in Jesus Christ, and accept Him as your personal Saviour. For God's word says 'whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God.'"

"And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life."

"Do you want to live forever? Then start to live now as God's child. Jesus Christ is man's only Saviour."

(James 5:16)

When those near and dear to us are unhappy or unsuccessful, we may long to help them in every way we can. However, first we should pray for guidance and good judgment so that our help is as effective as we want it to be. Our prayers quicken the Spirit of Christ within them. Our prayers quicken in us the faith that Christ is guiding them in the way of their highest good.

Glass-making was a highly developed art in ancient Egypt and the Romans took the secret home with them when they conquered Egypt shortly before the birth of Christ. The Gauls, Franks and Britons used glass goblets at their feasts which could not be set down without spilling. This is thought to account for the word "tumbler," describing a drinking glass.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS
BY VERN SANFORD

I'm sure that it is disconcerting to many so-called "weekend fishermen" to note the same anglers' names being published again and again in the local newspaper when catches of big bass are reported.

Many readers dismiss such feats as luck. Well... catching one trophy bass could be attributed to luck. But when an angler consistently brings in big fish, he knows something many other fishermen don't know. What's his secret?

One fact about fishing reports that many casual readers overlook, is that the same angler usually catches his fish from one or two lakes or streams near his home. He doesn't let the wanderlust beckon him to far-away places. He fishes these "home" waters regularly.

When an angler travels to a strange lake or stream to fish, the odds are against him. That is, unless he hires a professional guide who knows the water and how to fish it.

Bass have certain spots where they prefer to hang out. Perhaps one weed bed or a submerged tree on a lake is such a spot.

A sprawling man-made impoundment has so many spots, so much water, that it takes a long time before the fisherman finds these hotspots.

These are discovered by trial and error, by fishing regularly, by being observant and keeping tabs on spots which produce.

These same places pay off with fish time and again. There is something about the water and environment which bass prefer. When a bass is taken out, anotherunker will move in and set up housekeeping.

Once a fisherman has learned several such spots, he frequents them. True, he may go through "dead" periods when the fish are not biting, but when they do begin foraging, he knows his bait is in waters where he stands the best chance of getting one to hit.

There's an old saying that no lure will produce unless it is presented close enough for a bass to hit. Far too many fishermen spend time casting in places where there are no fish.

Through experience and study, the angler also has learned which particular baits the fish prefer and at what seasons. Perhaps in early spring a plastic worm bumped right along the bottom will pay off. A month later a shallow-running bait might be the secret. And in early summer a topwater plug could be the best bet.

There are many unpredictable pieces of the bass-fishing jigsaw puzzle that must fall into place before the angler is assured of success. He doesn't get this information haphazard. He has learned it by talking to other fishermen, by reading and by observing. Knowing a lake and the spots to catch fish, knowing what bait the bass prefer, all are important to success in fishing.

Every successful angler knows that if he casts a proven bait into proven waters, and if he sticks with it for long periods, sooner or later he'll prod a grandpappy bass into striking.

He knows too that tenacity is important to angling success and to catch fish you gotta keep the bait in the water... not in the tackle box.

Furthermore, he knows that big bass feed only occasionally. Thus he might cast for hours without a strike. But if he stays with it, somewhere, someplace, he'll hit that jackpot.

When preparation meets opportunity, that's luck—not fate. But it's planned success.

"ALL I KNOW IS WHAT I READ IN THE PAPERS"

America's best-loved humorist also was one of the best-informed persons in his time. Nothing, it seemed, escaped his notice. His comments on the passing scene were applauded and repeated by millions the world over. "All I know is what I read in the papers" became his trade-mark. Will Rogers recognized that newspapers, more than any other media, are the common source of information of all the people. The simple fact that everyone knew immediately what he was talking about provided an important basis for his fabulous popularity.

He stated that this would be an opportunity for a qualified young man to begin his career in public service.

RESIDUES OFFER PROTECTION - Sorghum stubble is plowed into field after grain harvest to help accumulate rainwater, prevent wind erosion and run off of rain water or water erosion. The stubble increases soil intake of rainwater by as much as seven times. So the Lamb County U.S. Soil Conservation office advises farmers to begin planning now to utilize high residue crops such as sorghum to help hold moisture for next year's crops.

The Birds, Bees—and Inflation

Perhaps father can spike his pitch on the birds and the bees with a word or two about the evils of inflation, if he really wants to bring junior up to date on the facts of life, such as they are.

The cost of almost everything, from model airplanes and hula hoops to tractors and hairpins, has risen steadily over the years. It takes many more dollars today than it did, even 10 years ago, to buy the things we want.

Inflation affects not only the price of the food we eat, the clothes we wear or the automobiles we drive, but also what it will cost to educate junior or to retire comfortably in the future. Such is the nature of inflation, and it won't go away by ignoring it.

To many Americans, common stocks have become an important hedge against the rising cost of living. Yet not everyone has the knowledge and experience, the time, or more importantly, the money for a do-it-yourself common stock investment program. It is still a fact that while investing one's dollar can be profitable, it can also prove risky for the uninitiated.

That's where mutual funds come in. For 42 years, these companies have served millions of people, offering continuous professional management to large and small investors alike. A mutual fund simply pools the money of many, investing it in not just one or two companies but in the stocks and bonds of many different corporations in various industries, providing a diversification for the average individual which would be impossible to achieve on his own.

How widespread is this concept today? According to the Investment Company Institute, national organization of the mutual fund industry, such companies manage investments worth more than $35 billion—money belonging to 3.5 million investors living in every one of the 50 states.
