FORTY-THIRD YEAR NUMBER 23 SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1967 10 CENTS PER COPY

WOODWORK BY DALTON

SOME OF MY good friends are going to disagree, perhaps violently, but an opinion I've had for some time about high school music programs is about to be expressed. Anyway, it's just my opinion, and nobody has to agree (except my kids, who don't get their breakfast cereal when I'm crossed).

I've always felt that high school bands put too much emphasis on marching, and not enough stress on playing. I love a band concert; I like to hear the band playing at football games. But I don't get any particular charge out of watching a bunch of kids wander around the football field trying to keep their horns straight, stay in step and remember the music all at the same time.

It even has occurred to me that a person might be a fine musician if he had only one leg, or maybe none.

Do I even think bands should march at all? Well, yes, in parades, but I'm not sure about football games. I'd just as soon listen to them play from the stands. Or maybe they could confine their marching to the trip to the center of the field, where they would play, and I would listen.

One of our former band directors at Sudan once said he favored eliminating the majorettes from the band so people would pay more attention to the band marching on the field. Privately I thought at the time it might be better to just let the girls-prance around on the field by themselves, while the band plays gaily on the sideline. (Gaily on the Sideline is not the name of any march I ever heard).

As the parent of a band student, these marching contests gripe me a little, too, but you have to put up with this sort of thing if you want your kid to learn to play music with a group.

I expect that the current Sudan band director may lead the Band Parents in a demonstration against me (I hope not a riot) over this. In fact, they may even march, which is what this whole thing is about.

Anyway, I'd rather they teach my youngster to be a musician than a soldier. It looks like most kids are going to get too much of the latter too soon anyway.

I NOTICE that the FBI's top publicity man said the other day he's retiring from his $25,000 a year job "for financial reasons." Just couldn't make his expenses, I guess.

Young-Damron Vows Read

Marriage vows were pledged Friday in the First Baptist Church before an archway with apricot tinted carnations flanked by candelabras on each side.

United in marriage were Miss Barbara Jean Young and Julian Ross Damron in a ceremony performed by Rev. Neal Foster, pastor of Circleback Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Young and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Damron.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire style gown, made by her mother, of bridal satin with French lace over the bodice and Cadet Jimmie C. Savage, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis M. Savage of Sudan, operates field equipment while attending Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps summer camp at Ft. Sill, Okla. He is a student at Texas A & M, College Station. He is receiving six weeks of training in leadership, rifle marksmanship, physical conditioning and other military subjects.

Upon successful completion of summer camp and graduation from college, he will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

Cadet Savage and his wife, Kaydie, were recent visitors to Sudan.

MARKET GOES SELF-SERVICE

Noel D. Lumpkin, owner of Lumpkin Food, announced this week that a self-service meat market has been installed for the convenience of their customers. He stated that the newly added pre-package scales and self-service case will enable the store to give the customers a better selection of meats with varied and special cuts available at all times, thus insuring a speedier service.

long lace petal-point sleeves. Her train was lace trimmed and her veil of silk illusion was attached atop a pillbox hat. She carried a white orchid nestled in white carnations atop a white Bible.

Musical selections were presented by Miss Janie Young, cousin of the bride, who sang "One Heart, One Hand" and "Wedding Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Danny Masten.

Loretta Damron, maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Sheila Baker, Sandra Lane, all of Sudan, and Karen Miller, McComb, Miss., wore empire style, sleeveless dresses with apricot satin brocade tops and satin skirts, complemented with satin pillbox hats.

Flower girl was Dora Brown of Dumas, cousin of the bride. Bradley Damron of Sudan, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Serving his brother as best man was Jerry Damron of Sudan.

Groomsmen were Wix Gaston and Henry Reid of Sudan, and Eugene Young of Anahem, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Robert DeLoach and Pat Brown of Sudan.

Mrs. Jerry Damron of Sudan, sister-in-law of the groom, and Mrs. D.H. Brown of Dumas, cousin of the bride, served at the reception following the wedding ceremony.

The bride chose a sleeveless dress made of eyelash silk for the wedding trip to Rio de Janeiro.

The couple will farm near Circleback.

The groom is a 1963 graduate of Sudan High School and has been engaged in farming. The bride is a 1967 graduate of Sudan High School.

BOOKMOBILE SCHEDULE
The High Plains Bookmobile Library of Mahabeta has announced that they will be in

He emphasized however, that any customer may receive cuts of their choice by making this known to the market manager, Elray Rasco or his assistant, Mrs. Alma Rudd.

Lumpkin said that the customers receive the same quality of meats and that all cutting and packaging is done in the store. He also stated that since opening in 1965 it has been the policy of the store to strive to obtain the very best in up-to-date market equipment for the convenience of their customers.

AREA CROP OUTLOOK GOOD

At the present time, outlook for the current grain and cotton harvest is good for this area. Although approximately 20 per cent of the original cotton allotment acreage has been devoted to other crops, farmers report that the late-planted cotton seems to be doing well in the recent hot-dry weather, but that a late frost will still be needed for the cotton to reach full maturity.

As for the grain, farmers report that it could be a bumper crop for those not receiving hail damage. They also report that the moisture is generally good and that dryland grain could well survive three more weeks of the hot-dry weather before suffering greatly from lack of moisture.

County agent, Buddy Logsdon, states that added moisture during the late bloom or soft dough stage would enhance the chances of a maximum harvest.

He also added that most area cotton planted in May or June has sufficient moisture to make a crop and that added moisture would only delay the fruiting and further shorten the period left for maturing the crop. He said too much water will produce a large leafy plant and a low quality lint.

Diversion crops of peas, beans and soybeans are also reported to be doing nicely.

Two Teachers Still Needed

Two new teachers have been added to the faculty since publication of last week's paper, according to school superintendent, W. E. Hancock.

Miss Patsy Seymour of Sudan was employed by the school in a special called meeting Monday night to teach third grade in the Elementary School. Miss Seymour has not completed her work for a degree, but qualified as a teacher in the emergency of teacher shortages. Miss Seymour will replace Mrs. Judy Craig of Anton, who did not accept the position offered her earlier.

Miss Kathleen Graw of Lubbock, a graduate of Texas Tech with a major in Speech and English, has been employed to teach English in Junior and Senior High School.

Two vacancies remain to be filled after the Monday night meeting. The positions of High School Math and Choral Music at all levels are still open. Hancock states that no qualified applicants for these two positions have been located as yet. School begins August 28.

MASTEN REUNION HELD SUNDAY

The sixteenth annual reunion of the W. C. Masten Heirs was held Sunday, July 30, at the Sudan Community Center. Fifty-two relatives and guests attended the basket dinner and business session.

Logan-Hunter Vows Exchanged

Double ring wedding vows were read Saturday night in First Baptist Church uniting Miss Lynda Jo Logan of Sudan and Roy Raymond Hunter II of Amarillo.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Logan of Sudan and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hunter of Canyon.

Rev. Willie Hazel officiated the ceremony before the altar with rose covered archway in the background with garden flowers, low trellis fence and candles flanking the archway.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a Princess style dress with a sabrina neckline and chapel-length shoulder train of bridal satin and Alencon lace applique in seed pearls, made by her mother. Her veil was of Alencon lace, trimmed in seed pearls, and fashioned in a mantilla. She wore a blue garter and borrowed her grandmother's single strand pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and lily of the valley atop a white Bible belonging to the groom's mother.

Organist, Miss Janie Shipp, accompanied the bride's aunt, Mrs. Jack Noblett of Shallowater, who sang, "Almost Corley of Amarillo and George Snapp. Ushers were Randy Hasley of Dimmitt and Alton Ray Noblett of Shallowater, cousins of the bride.

A three-tiered wedding cake and white punch with pastel ice rings was served from crystal appointments during the reception held in the church fellowship hall. The table was laid with a white cloth trimmed with ribbon and wedding bells and covered with an arrangement featuring the bridal bouquet. Seating at the serving table were Mrs. Noblett of Dimmitt and Judy Hazel of Sudan.

For their wedding trip to Colorado Springs, the bride chose a traveling outfit of royal blue linen. The one-piece semi-fitted dress was trimmed with blue and white checked buttons and matching Tam-O-Shanter. She wore black patent leather accessories and her white gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter will reside at 6305 B. Lawrence Street in Amarillo after July 30.

The bride was graduated from Sudan High School, has been employed the past two years by First State Bank of Dimmitt, and was Miss Dimmitt of 1966.

THE JOE B. FOSTER FAMILY

Joe B. Foster, who served for forty years as manager of the Higginbotham Lumber Company in Sudan, moved here as a young bachelor in 1923.

Joe, born at Edom in VanZandt County, Texas, was the son of Joe Calvin Foster and Mimmie Hanson Foster, and grew up as a member of a farm family.

He first came to Hall County where he worked for C. A. Danzell and after Daniel moved to Sudan, he wrote Joe to come here and work for him. Joe came but worked for a general mercantile store owned by L. R. Wood.

Later in 1923, he worked in Levelland for a lumber yard, before moving back to Sudan, where he made his home until his recent retirement as manager of Higginbotham Lumber. Joe's grandfather, Captain Thomas J. Foster, was judge of VanZandt County. Joe is the owner of a letter his grandmother, Frances Foster, wrote to her husband while he was in the Confederate Service.

Thomas Foster came to Texas from North Carolina, riding horseback all the way. He kept a diary of this trip that is still in the possession of one of his daughters-in-law.

Cecile Adams Foster was born at Granbury, Hood County, Texas. She is the daughter of the late John Crunk and Mary Lou Adams. Mr. Adams was a farmer and ginmer in Hood County until 1924. The boll weevil moved into that area and cotton ceased to be raised successfully. For several reasons Mr. Adams would go to Vernon and other places and work as manager.

But, come the Fall of 1924, he moved his family to Coahoma in Howard County, where he was manager of the Gutar Gin for several years.

He traded his place in Hood County for a place north of Big Spring. The place in Hood County had been paid for with three cent cotton.

Cecile Foster, housewife and artist, has been employed the past three years as a Memorial Park Counselor and at the present time is manager of Memorial Gardens in Levelland, where the Fosters have been making their home since his retirement.

Cecile has won many honors as an artist and her early day schooling was at Neri Public School and Arlington Heights High School in Fort Worth. After her interest in painting became manifest, she attended various art schools, the last one she attended being the San Miguel Art Institute, San Miguel De Alende, Mexico.

According to Cecile she remembers no really important events in her childhood other than the family home burning when she was seven years of age, and perhaps this accounts for her observance of other fires through the years including when the first Sudan Grade School burned, then later the high school in 1930; and when the theatre burned in the 30's taking the life of the manager's wife, Mrs. G. W. Chester.

Her paternal grandparents were Miles Washington and Catherine Adams, who lived at Davilla, Texas.

Her maternal grandparents, James Madison and Nancy Moore Vincent, who came to Texas from Eastern Tennessee around 1870, served with the Confederate Army.

Cecile, the adventurous one, came to Sudan by herself in August, 1925, to work for Holden-Morgan Dry Goods Co. that had previously been located in Coahoma. A young girl here without a family, she busied herself the first Sunday by getting up early and attending the Church of Christ, where she was a faithful member until her recent move to Levelland.

At the time of her moving to Levelland, she had been a member of the Sudan Church of Christ longer than anyone else residing here.

A match was schemed by local youths when they made arrangements for Cecile to meet Joe Foster. The two were married December 24, 1925, just four months after Cecile arrived here.

She remembers driving over open ranch country from Brownfield to Littlefield; and when arriving in Lamb County, it seemed a veritable land of Eden. The most beautiful cotton and grain she had ever seen promised a bountiful autumn harvest. But, alas, it was not to be, as due to much rain in August and September and early freeze, the crops were a complete failure.

Early social life and entertainment for the Fosters was the picture show, playing bridge, and having cook-outs on some ranch or farm. They also enjoyed following the local baseball team, Lewis and Arthur Shaffer, who still live in the Needmore Community, were two of the outstanding players.

In 1934, Cecile began her formal study of art and it was her desire to establish an art club. She invited potential members to her home for this purpose. The following were present at this first meeting: Katherine Dean, Elise Stone, Maxine Nichols, Ila Mae White, Mrs. Paul Dill, Mrs. Charles Crawford, Mrs. L. A. Furtell, Mrs. J. C. Hutchinson, Mrs. D. C. Morrow, Mrs. Ann Kittley and Mrs. Fisher Franks.

From this meeting and subsequent meetings the Sudan Art Club and the 1935 Study Club were both organized. The charter members of the Art Club were: Cecile Foster, president; Mrs. H. C. White, Mrs. Paul Dill, Mrs. C. H. Crawford, Mrs. Herbert Teal, Miss Wilda Townsend, Mr. Lamb, Mrs. E. J.

Cecile was president of the Study Club for two years and in 1937 the club presented her the Pioneer Woman Bronze Medal for outstanding achievement. In 1966, the club honored her by having her name placed in the Golden Book in the state headquarters building at Austin.

Joe B. Foster was active in Civic and Community affairs and served on both the School Board and the City Commission. He was also a charter member of the Rotary Club, where at one time he served as president.

Joe and Cecile have three children, eight grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter, Jeanie Bandy.

Jonelle and her husband, D. J. Bandy, live at Cement, Okla., where they operate a Dairy Farm. They have six children including Joe, Michael, Calvin, Nancy, Linda, and Cecilia. Jonelle is a graduate of Sudan High School. She married in August, 1949.

Lynn Calvin Foster is a speech therapist at the Speech and Hearing Center at the Medical Center, Houston. He received his B. A. and M. A. degrees at West Texas State, Canyon. He served two years in the Medical Corps at 2nd General Hospital in Kierslautern, Germany. He met and married Anne Newman of Park Ridge, New Jersey, who was also in the Medical Corps. They have two girls, Brandilyn and Michelle.

Frank Adams Foster, the youngest of the three children, graduated from Lubbock Christian College and Abilene Christian College. After receiving his degree from A. C. C. he entered the National Guard Artillery reserve unit. He is presently employed at NASA in Houston and works in the quality control of the Photographic department.
