WOODWORK

BY DALTON

I CALLED my secretary over. "Miss Hingst, would you please send in an order for me? I need a couple of bottles of spelling pills and my youngster in junior high wants a mathematics pill... and, oh yes, you might pick up a few piano-playing capsules. I never have quite got the hang of the 'Moonlight Sonata'."

This really hasn't happened, at least not yet. But if the prediction of a University of Michigan psychology professor came true, it could happen some day.

Dr. James V. McConnell of Michigan told newspapermen the other day that schools may be eliminated in the future because people will take pills or injections to learn. He says he and some other big brains have been doing research for 15 years on the theory that learning is mainly a chemical process.

"When you learn anything," he said, "whether it is a name or a foreign language, there must be a chemical change inside your body."

Maybe he's right. I learned recently that I needed to go on a diet, and shortly thereafter I began to feel empty inside.

Dr. McConnell said they aren't working with humans yet, but they are working with flatworms. One of the things they do is train a group of flatworms, cut them into little pieces, then feed the pieces to some untrained flatworms.

Boy, when he does start working with humans, he's gonna get in a heck of a lot of trouble.

Actually, it is interesting that the untrained worms have demonstrated the training of the worms of which they ate pieces. But the only conclusion I can draw from that is that maybe we should eat our more learned companions.

This is scientific progress?

BAND ENTERS OIL CONTEST

The Sudan Hornet Marching Band participated in the University Interscholastic League contest held Tuesday at Plainview. Some 34 area bands participated with 11 class A schools represented. The Sudan band, marching 41 members, received III although they did receive very favorable comments from two of the judges.

The judges were Bill Dean of Odessa, Orville Howell of Clovis, and Dan Gibbs of Monahans.

In the swirling contest, Kathy Minyard received a I, Sheryl Watts and Judy Williams a II, and Micki Logan a III.

Band director Jim Strange, reported that a film was taken during the performance of the band and will be shown at a band parents meeting in the near future. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Election Set Saturday

Saturday, Nov. 11 is election time again and every eligible voter should exercise their privilege to express their views at the polls. According to Sudan election judge Joe West, the ballot will include six amendments to the State constitution.

Number one will authorize counties to put all tax money in a single general fund rather than in separate funds corresponding to tax levies for each of the four constitutional purposes.

Number two permits any municipality, political subdivision of the state, or state-supported entity located within a hospital district to participate in the establishment and operation of mental health or public health services. The Legislature may authorize the creation of a hospital district and at the same time not restrict others within the district from levying taxes to provide mental services through community centers.

Number three extends the veterans land program by authorizing the sale of $200 million of state bonds to purchase lands to be sold to veterans. It also expands the program to include veterans of Viet Nam.

Number four authorizes counties to pay medical bills of county law enforcement officers for injuries incurred during duty and to continue to pay their salaries during period of incapacitation.

Number five authorizes the Parks and Wildlife Dept. to issue and sell general obligation bonds of $75 million to finance lands for development of state parks and recreation areas.

Number six permits non-elective state employees to serve in other non-elective positions under the state or United States government where there is no conflict and where the state will benefit (hold more than one office at a time).

West stated that the local polls will open at 8 a. m. and remain open until 7 p. m.

The Hornets take on the Farwell Steers Friday night at Farwell in a fight-to-the-finish battle for the district championship. Both teams go into this game with a 3-0 record in conference play, so who is to be district champs will be decided by the outcome of this game. Let's go to the game at Farwell Friday, 7:30 p. m., and back the Hornets to WIN!

The Sudan Hornets won conference game number three for the season Friday, by defeating the Kress Kangaroos in Marten Stadium, 26-0. The Hornet defense led by Robin Davis and Monte Roberts, did a fine job keeping the Kangaroos away from the goal line.

Scoring early in the first quarter, Hornet FB Larry Hanna went over from the one yard line for the first touchdown of the game. Try for PAT was no good, and with the defensive battle continuing, at the end of the quarter Sudan was leading Kress, 6-0.

Starting the second quarter, Billy Ford, G, recovered a Kangaroo fumble on the Kress 32, setting up the Hornet touchdown. HB Jerry Bellar made the TD with a 14 yard run around the end, then booted the extra point, and the scoreboard read, 13-0, Sudan over Kress.

The Hornet defense again stopped the Kangaroos short of a first down, forcing them to punt, and Sudan took the ball on their 43 yard line. Then QB Ronnie Hill passed to Bellar for a 20 yard TD. Try for point after was no good, and at the half, it was Sudan over Kress, 19-0.

In the third quarter, Bellar kicked off with the ball going into the end zone. The Kangaroos moved to the 28, where they fumbled and Hornet Center Tim Nix was there to recover the ball. Later in this frame, Hanna broke through the Kress defensive line for a 42 yard run, all the way for another TD. Bellar kicked the point, and the Hornets led, 26-0.

Steve Martin, E, recovered a Kress fumble in the fourth quarter on the 35, but the Hornets failed to score. After a pass interception by Hill, and a continued defensive battle, the game ended and Sudan had blanketed the Kress Kangaroos, 26-0.

COTTON HARVEST GAINS MOMENTUM

The South Plains cotton harvest continued to gain momentum during the past week as stripping operations increased according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the USDA Classing Office in Lubbock.

Rains, snow, and strong winds interrupted harvest activities but volume of samples received at the three area classing offices was still the highest for any week this season.

The USDA Cotton Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa classed approximately 25,000 samples during the week ending Friday, Nov. 3rd. This brought the total classed at the three offices this season to 51,000. Through Nov. 3rd last year 38,000 samples of the 1966 crop had been classed.

Approximately four-fifths of the cotton classed at the Lubbock Classing Office last week was in the White grades and the remaining one-fifth in the Light Spotted grades.

Middling made up 32 per cent of all cotton classed at Lubbock last week, Strict Low Middling 42 per cent, Middling Light Spotted 14 per cent and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted 5 per cent.

Average staple length and micronaire continued to decline as the percentage of stripped cotton increased.

Prices paid farmers for cottonseed ranged from $50 to $57 per ton.

Prices with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work will be here Thursday, November 16.

Pictures will be taken at the Beacon News Office from 9 a. m. to 12 noon.

SOAKING HAMS in barrels of brine may have been slow for grandma, but it is too slow for today's production lines. Most packers use a machine developed by Allbright-Neil, Chicago, that injects pickle brine into hams passing through on a conveyor. It can cure up to 15,000 pounds of ham an hour.

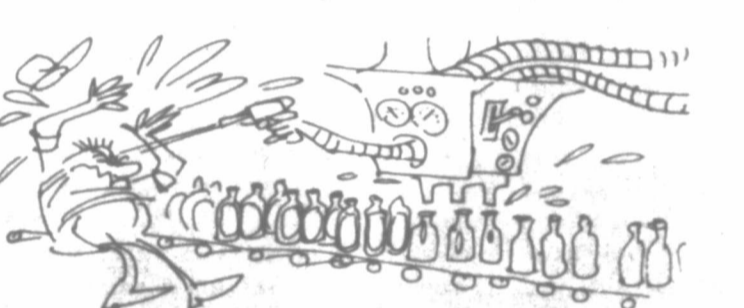

WHITE-COLLAR workers from the Portland area jogged a half-hour a day, three days a week in a program to reduce the waistline and get physically fit. In 12 weeks, the 265 men who completed the program reduced their waistlines an average of one and a half inches and approximately 100 overweight men lost an average of 7.8 pounds.

BETTER trash-collection breeds more trash, according to Northwestern University. Twice-weekly service gets a greater trash harvest than once-a-week collections. The survey says that increased service encourages more trips to the garbage can with trash instead of burning it, dumping it or simply leaving it around the house.

By EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

THE W. V. TERRY'S
W. V. (Ves) and Gladys Boyles Terry have had one unusual experience in common, both having been employed by public officials who later were elected to high government positions.

At the time Ves quit oil field work he was employed by Bob Kerr, who became Governor of Oklahoma and also served as a U. S. Congressman.

Before her marriage to Ves in 1925, Gladys was secretary to Congressman Jed Johnson and assisted him during his campaign for the office. After he went to Washington as Congressman she remained in Andadarko and was first assistant to the County Treasurer.

The Terrys also had the interest of the community development of Sudan at heart and both have been active in civic and cultural developments in the town. Ves participated in many improvement movements besides operating a gin, farming and ranching interests. (Incidentally, his plant ginned his own cotton, so he had no one to argue with, except the hired help, if it wasn't done to suit him.)

In his ranching business near Clovis, Perry Barnes, an early day ranchman of Lamb County, was his partner. Later Ves moved his cattle to a ranch near Post. His cattle brand in New Mexico was the Spur; but after moving to Post and discovering a Spur brand was already registered there, he had to change his cattle "Coat of Arms" to the FOUR T's, meaning the four Terry's. This brand was quite appropriate as the two Terry sons, Bill and Bob, loved to stay at the ranch and especially enjoyed chow time at the chuck wagon, naturally, being growing boys.

Besides these activities, Terry, for a number of years had a Tenn. Walking Horse farm, called the Billy-Bob Farm, south of Sudan. This was an attraction to local residents who visited the farm to watch these horses being trained. Some of the horses won honors from Coast to Coast. A number of the honors were captured when the Terry brothers, Bill and Bob showed the horses.

One of the most famous of the horses was Red Allen who took top honors at the Los Angeles National Horse Show when Dixie Weaver, an imported trainer from Tullahoma, Tennessee was handling the horse. Red Allen won five firsts out of seven entries in the show.

As concerning the Terry's ginning business, Ves and father, W. W. Terry bought a gin in Sudan in 1925 from John Dean and Henry Whitesides. Besides operating this gin, the Terrys proceeded to build another gin in 1929 at Amberst. In 1931 they also built one at Fieldton. The Terrys built the first gin at Cotton Center.

At the time of the death of W. W. Terry, Ves sold the Fieldton plant to Stegner of Amberst and one half interest in the Amberst gin to Don Boyles. This gin later burned. Meanwhile Ves kept the Sudan gin going a number of years until selling to Tom Wright and Mike George of McAllen, Texas. This gin is now being operated by Drew Watkins and son, Doyle Watkins.

As concerning his oil field career, when asked if he was ever a derrick man, he answered, "Just name it, I've been it," but he worked up to the position of tool pusher for Kerr when he had three strings of Rotary tools, and two strings of cable tools under him. Today they have a tool pusher on each rig. He worked in several oil fields including Walters, Fieldton, Cement, Tonkawa. It was at Tonkawa a tornado blew the derrick down that Ves was working on, and it took 2 and 1/2 hours to disentangle the wooden derrick from him. He received a small cut on the forehead that required only three stitches to sew it up. Most of his oil field work was done during the summer season, following ginning, when he and Gladys would go back to Oklahoma where he would work until ginning began that fall.

Ves was born at Powell, Texas, six miles east of Corsicana, and is the son of the late W. W. and Sally Wilson Terry. His father was born in Macon County, Alabama and was the son of native Alabamans, William Columbus Terry and Ora Elizabeth Terry. Ves's grandfather, William Columbus, served in the Confederate army in Waddells Artillery. Following the war he moved with his family to Bazette, Navarro County, Texas.

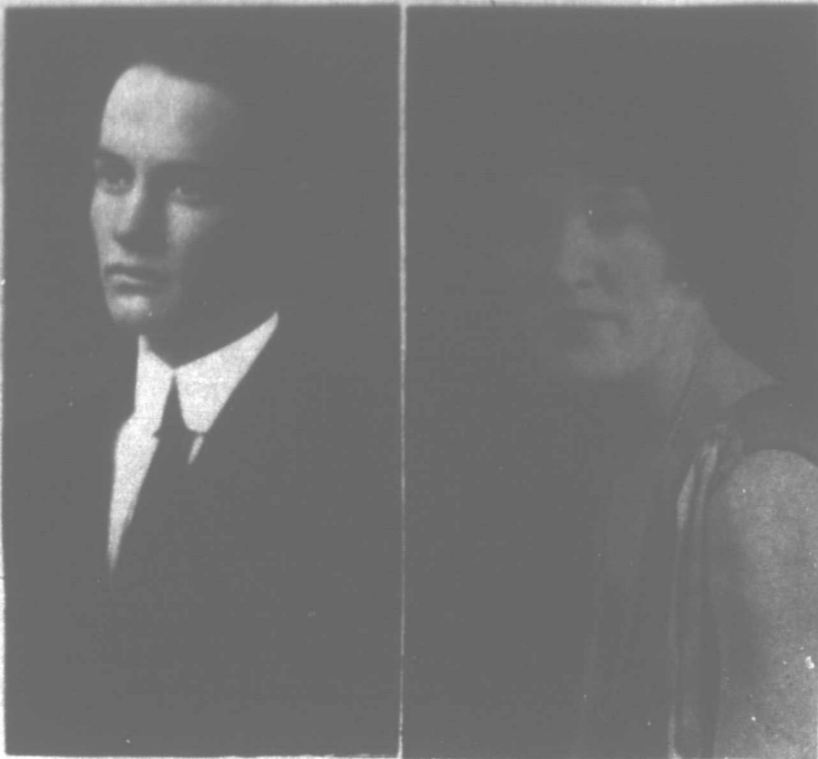

His maternal grandfather, W. D. J. Wilson, who came from Tennessee, also served in the Confederate army. Ves has a complete record of both his maternal and paternal lines back to the immigrant fathers who came to America including the "Brothers Three" Thomas, Robert, and Richard Terry who came aboard the ship, James, in 1635 to Plymouth, Mass.

Since retiring he is thinking of pursuing the family history further, taking them back to the lineage and history in the mother countries.

Ves Terry was married to Gladys Boyles, daughter of Charles Hardin Boyles, and wife, Martha Katherine Clark Boyles. Her grandfather, David Milburn, also served in the Confederate Army.

Charles Hardin Boyles was born Aug. 12, 1881 at Weatherford, Texas. Martha Katherine Clark Boyles was born Aug. 20, 1886 in Mills County at Itasca. As to early Boyles family those of the south settled in the James City area of the Virginia Colony by 1623.

Gladys's paternal grandparents were Jim Williams Boyles of Lancaster County, Texas, and Mollie Isadora Milburn Boyles also of Lancaster County at Dallas. The Milburns were originally of Philadelphia, Penn. David Milburn, the founding father of Gladys's line in Texas served as corporal in the 1st Regt., Texas Partisans, under Captain J. L. Smith. This Regiment subsequently became Company 1, 30th Regt., Texas Cavalry. The wife of David Milburn, Confederate Veteran, was Eliza Huffaker, whom married in Illinois in 1850. She was born in 1834 in Chicago.

MR. AND MRS. W. V. TERRY, 1925

EARLY DAYS IN SUDAN
Sitting in the comfortable home of the Terry's it was hard for this writer to visualize their first home in Sudan. In their present home oil paintings, family heirlooms of Dresden china, silver and antiques blend in with mementos Mrs. Terry brought back from her trip abroad.

However, it probably was not hard for Ves and Gladys to remember their first home here because of the sharp contrast of the Terry home of today.

Their first home after their arrival following a short honeymoon in Old Mexico following their wedding, Aug. 9 at the Travis Park Methodist church in San Antonio, was a one room apartment.

During the fall and winter of 1925 they ate, cooked and slept in this one room rented from the J. O. Barnetts. The next year the Barnetts let them have the unfinished bathroom to use as their kitchen.

States Ves, "Gladys cooked on a three burner cook stove and we used orange crates for kitchen cabinets." They lived in several apartments before renting a house by the year from the late John Blanchard. Upon arriving on the Plains Gladys was much impressed with the Windmills, having never seen one before; and Ves had to explain to her they weren't oil wells, having seen plenty of those in Oklahoma. She had little idea of the function of the wind mills as one of the most basic needs of the Pioneers of the South Plains, the water here being under the ground instead of flowing rivers and creeks as it was back home in Oklahoma.

Also she was surprised that there were only three bathrooms with fixtures in dwellings in Sudan at the time of her arrival, thus, she became acquainted for the first time with the little out-house; which probably left a vivid impression having been used to the more modern and indoor type bathroom back home.

Speaking of bathrooms in local homes in 1925, others had bathrooms but had never gotten around to having them plumbed and the fixtures installed.

During her years in school Gladys began her career as a "doer", a trait she is still known for. In school she was a member of the campfire girls, the Glee Club, did Quartet Work, and was active in all phases of the Home Economics Department.

After graduating from high school Gladys attended Oklahoma College for Women, and later attended a business college; and for one year taught typing and shorthand in the college.

She has a life membership in the Texas Congress of Parent and Teachers Association; a life membership in the Womens Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church; a life membership of the Caprock District of Texas Federation of Women's clubs; is a member of the Eastern Star, the 1935 Study Club, and teaches a Sunday school class as well as serving as a member of a number of commissions of the First Methodist Church of which she and Ves are both active members.

Ves, also received good training in his school years for the many civic works in which he has participated. He moved to Andadarko, Oklahoma with his parents while at an early age, graduated from high school there and entered Oklahoma University majoring in Geology. While at OU he lettered in basketball and track. He still retains his interest in sports and is a member of the Sudan Booster Club.

He is one of the last active charter members of the Sudan Rotary Club and has served as president of the organization; member of the school board; has been active in scout work and scout drives; is a past president of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Michael (Nemo) Bishop reported on the club's sponsorship of the Cub Scouts and stated that the charter for this organization will be received in the near future.

In closing Potter issued a plea to all members to attend the Sudan-Farwell football game and support the hometown boys.

At the time he was raising and showing Tennessee Walkers, both he and Gladys were honorary members of the El Paso Riding and Driving Club.

The Terry's have two sons, William Charles (Bill) born Jan. 6, 1930 in a Lubbock hospital. Bill married Billie Drew Reeves of Tishomingo, Okla. May 16, 1953 and has two daughters, Druann Terry, age 10, and Allison Terry, age 8. Bill is now a doctor of Veterinarian Medicine in Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Bob Terry, born July 31, 1931, married Bettie Dillon of Roswell, N. M. They have two children, Sally Terry, age 9 years and Scott, age 6 years. Bob is at "Investors Diversified Service" in Lubbock, Texas.

Both the Terry boys attended the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. Bill attended two years then was a student at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, where he received his degree.

Bob was a student at the Military Institute for five years and both boys received their commission in the army as 2nd Lt. later being promoted to captains at the end of their tenures.

PROPER HARVESTING ESSENTIAL FOR QUALITY COTTON

With so much emphasis at present on the production of quality cotton, farmers in Lamb County should examine closely their harvesting operations, says Buddy Logsdon county agricultural agent.

The agent lists the following pointers as key factors for a proper harvest:

1. Lint moisture should be down to about eight per cent. This point is reached when the relative humidity in the field is 60 per cent or below. Moisture can also be checked by collecting a few locks of cotton and squeezing them together in the palm of the hand. If the cotton balls up, it is too moist. If it fluffs out, it is dry enough for harvesting.
  2. Strippers should be checked carefully to assure that they are properly adjusted and green boll separators should be operating efficiently.
  3. Seed cotton should not be stored on trailers if the moisture level is above 12 per cent. Seed quality will also be reduced drastically if stored with a high amount of trash.
  4. Seed cotton should be separated or grouped when any difference in quality is suspected. Grouping should be based on variety, irrigation or dryland, disease or insect damage, hail damage, lint moisture and planting date.
- All these items make for more orderly, efficient ginning as well, points out Logsdon. Such problems as mix-packs or two-sided bales, overdrying and ginning at improper moisture levels can thus be minimized. Ginners, thusfar, have been doing a commendable job with the block ginning program, he adds.

All in all, with farmers and ginners working closely together, the outlook for quality cotton production in Lamb County looks promising, contends Logsdon.

TEXAS TECH-TCU

The Texas Tech Red Raiders, striving to keep their heads above water in the tight Southwest Conference race, journey to Fort Worth Saturday to battle the Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

Breaking out of the shell which has plagued the Frogs all year, TCU got its offensive machine working and rang up a total of 537 yards on the Baylor cash register, downing the Bears 29-7 in Waco last week.

TCU was the first Southwest Conference school to do battle with the Raiders. Back in 1926 the two teams met in Fort Worth, and the result was a 28-16 win by the Frogs.

This will mark the twenty-fourth meeting between the two schools; and the Frogs, playing before a partisan homecoming crowd, will be out to upset the Raiders.

Tech, seeking to avenge last year's 6-3 defeat, will be led by quarterback John Scovell. Scovell will have a potent array of backs to churn out yardage for the Raiders. Mike Leinert, Jackie Stewart, and Kenny Baker are some of the reasons that Tech is leading the SWC in rushing.

Leinert, the teams rushing leader, has amassed 570 yards in seven games this season. Leinert scrambled for 127 yards in each of Tech's last two games against SMU and Rice. In the Rice game, Stewart carried the ball nine times and gained 103 yards, an average of over 11 yards per carry.

Keep Boat Numbers Visible

Boaters who are in the process of refinishing their boats are reminded not to forget to repaint the registration number. Letters should be clearly separated from the numbers and the solid part of the letters and numbers should show plenty of contrast with the color of the hull.

Can We Wave the Flag Too Much?

by SIDNEY L. DeLOVE

Is it possible to wave the flag too much? Provided, of course, that you wave it with integrity? Is it possible to study Lincoln or Shakespeare too much? Is it possible to read the Bible too much? ★ The great, the good, the true, are inexhaustible for inspiration, example and strength. I believe that we are not waving our flag enough, not nearly enough ★ It seems to me that we are developing a tendency to be timid or even apologetic about waving the stars and stripes. Walk up and down the streets on July 4th and count the flags. It is our nation's birthday, a sacred day in world history, the most important day of America. Why isn't the flag flying on every rooftop and from every home and building? This complacent attitude is strong evidence of cancerous patriotic decay. The flag is a symbol of our national unity. It is the spirit of our undying devotion to our country. It stands for the best that is in us . . . for loyalty, character, and faith in democracy ★ Isn't our flag a synonym of the United States of America? Does it not represent man's greatest, noblest, most sublime dream? Is it not the zenith of achievement, the goal to which generations have aspired? ★ Ladies and gentlemen, I believe it is time for us . . . for the mad, rushing Twentieth Century American . . . to stop for a moment and think. Let us arrest our near reverential admiration of material success and return to the spiritual and ethical values. Let us imbue and rekindle in ourselves and our children the so-called old-fashioned way of patriotism, a burning devotion to the principles and ideals upon which our country was founded ★ Should not every home own and proudly display the colors on holidays and other such occasions? Isn't the flag Patrick Henry, Jefferson, Franklin, Washington, Nathan Hale, Gettysburg and Valley Forge, Paul Revere, Jackson and other great men and women who have given us our heritage. When you look at the flag can't you see the Alamo, Corrigedor, Pearl Harbor, The Monitor and The Merrimac? Lest we forget, isn't the flag Flanders Field, Bataan, Iwo Jima, Normandy, Babe Ruth and Davy Crockett? The great events of our past and present are wrapped up in our flag ★ It is a symbol of this blessed nation, a giant in industry, education and commerce. Millions of fertile square miles, wheatlands, coal mines, steel plants. Our great republic, the chosen infant destined to be man's last remaining hope for suffering humanity, a shining beacon of light, noble and glorious, the haven for the oppressed and persecuted and truly God's gift to mankind ★ That is what the flag means to me. Can we wave it too much? I don't think so.

Reply of S. L. DeLove on the Know Your History Hour, December 30th, 1956, to a listener who wrote as follows: "Your programs are wonderful — but you are waving the flag too much."

The above is reprinted and narrated annually in hundreds of national magazines, newspapers and radio stations, and is a part of the Congressional Record. Dr. DeLove is the author of The Quiet Betrayal and president of Independence Hall of Chicago.
