A RECENT story regarding the Texas vote on the proposed state constitutional amendments said that the legislators were confused by the vote. They couldn't understand why Texans voted for increased payments to the teacher retirement fund, yet voted against increasing the ceiling on state welfare payments.

The latter would have meant a few more dollars on old age assistance checks and in welfare checks to the needy blind, disabled and dependent children, said the legislators.

Well, as one Lubbock housewife pointed out in a letter to the Associated Press, people are sick and tired of having to vote a constitutional amendment every time Houston wants to build a road, or Texarkana wants to change its cigarette tax. Such things as this shouldn't be part of the constitution, and hopefully the outmoded, overgrown state constitution will soon be rewritten to eliminate a lot of stuff that has no business being in it.

Personally I think the teacher thing was passed because most voters felt vaguely that this might benefit the teachers and keep them teaching. Most taxpayers are aware that teachers are often hard to find and harder to keep, and that teacher shortages exist almost everywhere.

The welfare vote result was simply a protest against increased giveaways, as the word "welfare" in itself has come to be a dirty word in the minds of many who are aware of the many undeserving loafers who collect welfare regularly.

Everybody wants to help the needy, it's the administration of the program that was being protested.

FELLOW in California bought a lot for $600 and finally designed a house to go on it. The lot was 68 feet long and 100 feet wide. His house was designed to be a two-story, but neighbors killed his plan to build it. Seems like he has been killed.

GOOD NEWS Beautiful Phyllis being dropped by Jonathan in a TV show. See it, because I never did see it on AP video critic Cynthia recognized that Winters was this time. Said she: "Winters is a brilliant comedian who has not yet found the right television showcase for his special talents..."

I wonder if they've tried him as usher for the studio audience.

FLAG RAISING--Scout Master Nano Bishop and the Boy Scout troop in the flag raising ceremony at the Sudan-Farwell game Friday night.

was announced that no fans are to be allowed on the field.

Starting off the football game Friday night with 18 to 3 advantage at halftime, the Hornets scored only once in the second half, while Farwell went to the air in the 4th quarter to score 15 points, with Sudan winning the game over a great Steer team by only 6 points.

Sudan fumbled the first time they had the ball Friday night on their own 20 yard line, and the Steers recovered. But the Hornet defense held the Steers to only 6 yards in three plays, and Farwell's Al Phillips booted a 33 yard field goal to put them in the lead 3-0. Later Mickey Gilbert recovered a fumble for the Sudan Hornets, and they moved down to the Steer 23, where they gave up the ball on downs. The Hornet defense again held strong, forcing Farwell to punt, and FB Larry Hanna made a 30 yard punt return to the Steer 40. Sudan moved down to the 35, and were forced to punt on 4th down. HB Jerry Bellar got off a good kick which headed for the end zone, when E Joe Hines pounced on the ball to kill on the 1 yard line. The defensive battle continued and when the 1st quarter ended the Hornets had the ball on the Farwell 40 yard line.

Early in the 2nd quarter, the Hornets were forced to punt again, and the Steers started play on the 26 and moved out to their 45 yard line where they fumbled and Mickey Gilbert recovered for Sudan. Steve Martin, Sudan's scrambling quarterback, did just that for a good 25 yard gain to the Farwell 10. Bellar carried from the 7 yard line for the Hornet's first touchdown. Hanna took the ball into the end zone for the 2 extra points, and gave the Hornets an 8-3 lead over Farwell. The Steers then fumbled the ball on the kickoff, and Hanna was there to cover it for the Hornets on the Steer 12. Failing to penetrate the Steer line, Sudan settled for a 28-yard field goal by Bellar. To finish up the half in grand style, Sudan beat the clock with another TD by Martin, who sped around end to go over from the 2 yard line. Bellar kicked the point, and Sudan was ahead of Farwell, 18-3.

FB Hanna intercepted a Steer pass early in the 3rd quarter on the 30, and the Hornets went down to the Steer 24, where they gave up the ball on downs. Farwell moved to the Sudan 34, where Sudan took the ball on downs. The defensive battle continued until Bellar zigzagged through a hole in the Steer line and dashed 36 yards for the Hornet touchdown. A pass to HB David Weaver for 2 points failed, and the third quarter ended with the score 24-3, Sudan.

The Steers took the ball early in the 4th quarter, with Phillips going from 5 yards out for a TD. He kicked the point, and the score read 24-10. Then Sudan took the ball on their 20 yard line, and QB Martin guided the Hornets to the Steer 14, where they fumbled a pitch-out, and Farwell came out of the scramble in possession of the ball on their 25. Farwell took to the air, but Hornet Guard Monte Roberts stopped the Steer drive by intercepting a pass on the Hornet 40. After only two plays, Sudan fumbled, and the Steers covered the ball. Passing again, QB Greg Hargrove launched one to E Dean Stovall for a 26 yard TD play. Hargrove again passed for the two points, and the scoreboard read, 24-18, Sudan.

With only a minute and 19 seconds left on the clock, the Steers tried an onside kick, which hit one of the too-anxious Steers trying to get the ball, and they drew a 5 yard penalty and repeated the onside kick. This time Gilbert fell on the ball on the Steer 44. But the Hornets couldn't move the ball, and were forced to kick on 4th down, with 29 seconds left in the game. Farwell QB Hargrove, with the wind behind him, threw the bomb which overtopped his receiver Kyle Sheets in the end zone. Time ran out with Hargrove trying to pass, but Sudan's Roberts took care of that as he downed Hargrove for a loss, and the Hornets had won 24-18, and were the new district champs!

This has been a great Hornet team and a great coaching staff all through the season, and we are getting ready for the game with Ralls Friday night at Lowery Field. Let's back the Hornets to win the bi-district title.

Time Out For Beauty

Does Quality Count?

Many women often ask the question: "Are the higher priced lines of cosmetics really that much better than the less expensive ones?" And the answer always depends on what you are looking for. Since all cosmetics on sale have to meet FDA government standards, they are all essentially safe to use. Of course, the better lines use finer mixtures—more expensive oils, subtler perfumes, more stable ingredients that won't "turn" so quickly—and are usually backed by larger research facilities to innovate and improve existing formulas and products.

Another advantage of buying quality make-up is that it's usually sold in a department store at a better drug counter where many companies maintain a personal representative. The Dorothy Gray Cosmetics firm, for example, has a network of specially trained beauty counselors and sales personnel. They don't sell just merchandise, they sell self-improvement. Knowledgeable in cosmetic know-how and the essentials of good skin care, they are instructed as to the best ways to aid their customer in selecting the right kind of cosmetics that will unleash her beauty potential. Especially now with the ever-burgeoning field of moisturizing, conditioning, special-skin problem lines, the wet look, the dry look, the slicked look, the natural look, the thirties look, customers need the advice of the expert in making their way through the cosmetic maze.

Another advantage of buying at a special store counter devoted to one company, is that try-out samples are usually available and you can dab on, brush on, sprinkle on to your beauty content before you make any purchase at all.

A full line of quality cosmetics also has a continuity in similar packaging which is always pretty pecking out of the handbag and in co-ordinated shades and scents. There's a time to buy cheap and many a time to select few but fine. If you're past sweet sixteen, then quality will count for you.

lunchbox Lunch Anyone?

Snoopy has taken time out from his presidential campaign to go to school. Poor Charlie Brown, Lucy and the rest of the Peanuts' gang join the Red Baron on new lunch kits from the Thermos Division of the King-Seeley Thermos Co.

Available in either vinyl or metal cases, these kits make school fun with full-color cartoons of our favorite Peanuts' characters. Inside the roomy kit, a matching 8-ounce Thermos vacuum bottle keeps liquids hot or cold. And good grief, Charlie Brown, the price is under $3.00.

If Dad's a lunch toter, too, there's a new insulated lunch kit for him which will keep his meal fresh for hours. Attractively styled in black and white polypropylene, the kit divides into two sections. The roomy lower half, which is completely insulated, holds sandwiches and other foods. The top section stores a pint Thermos vacuum bottle. Complete with vacuum bottle, the new kit retails for about $7.49. (NP Features)

PUBLIC SERVICE WINS AWARD

J. M. Collins, Plains Division manager for Southwestern Public Service Company, today (Thursday) was awarded a Certificate of Achievement for the performance of the division's motor fleet in the National Fleet Safety Contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

The presentation was made by Arlie Hudson of Amarillo, director of personnel, and Roy Holmes, system safety supervisor.

The award is based on the company's safety performance from July 1967 through June 1968. During this period the firm's drivers operated approximately 2,000,000 miles and had 3.97 accidents per 1,000,000 miles of operation.

The record of 3.97 accidents per 1,000,000 miles of operation represents a reduction in frequency of accidents of nearly 50% and is much lower than the national average for competing fleets of 12.83 accidents per 1,000,000 miles.

Jerry Hays of Plainview is the division safety and personnel supervisor responsible for the training programs which contributed to the award.

Devotional

By HAZEL HOUSE

Scripture: Jude; Genesis 4: 3-5; St. John 6: 33-40.

"We belong to a kingdom that is unshakable."

I read those words somewhere, and started thinking on them with a heart strangely warmed anew in the assurance of this truth. And in the book of Jude we read of this assurance.

Jude, the brother of James, states his full conviction, that he is in possession of a salvation in which he will be eternally kept; based on the Scripture promises to all who believe (and accept Him as Savior) that Jesus is the Son of God, who was sent from the Father to save us.

To go the "way of Cain" is a type of religious natural man, who believes in a God, and a "religion" as he plans or wills it, but rejects the redemption from sin by blood — the shed blood of Jesus Christ. You cannot earn or buy salvation, you cannot just "be good" and obtain it, or Jesus would never have been sent to earth to shed His blood in death to pay for your and my sin. But you can be saved only by accepting and believing in Jesus.

To belong to Jesus (He is yours when you are His) is such an amazing, astonishing, delightful, joyful, knowledge that no wonder the world cannot understand it. Also, Christians, do we show to those who know not Jesus, some of this joy and calm peace?

I do not understand why God, so wonderful, so rich, so powerful, so Almighty, loves me — I just know that He does. I do not understand how He can hear my every thought, my faintest cry, but through His Word, through His Spirit within me, by His grace to save me as I believed in Him — I know He can and He does and He will keep all His Word, His promises.

So, like Jude, I know my Redeemer liveth and will, as He said, keep me safe forevermore to be with Him!

"Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."

Would you like to have this assured peace in knowing you could stand in God's presence — faultless before Him and enter into the realm of the heavenly kingdom as His child eternally? You can, if you will accept Jesus and follow Him step by step, day after day, ever upward all the way Home.

Jesus came to give Himself as a sin offering, a sacrificial offering, the atoning blood was shed to pay for the sins of us all. The "Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world". Only Jesus can and will do that for you.

He can save and keep you safe always, eternally. He saves, He has promised to provide the power for you (how ever weak or sinful you may be) to follow Him, and He arose from the dead to show you all the way back to the Father. You cannot save yourself, but Jesus will, if you will let Him into your heart.

In the name of Jesus I ask you, I plead with you now, while there is time, leave all things, leave yourself and your way, and take Jesus. He loves you, He wants to save you from death and hell. He wants you, and He will never leave nor forsake you.

Do you want the peace, joy, delight, love and eternal life that Jesus has paid such a terrible, suffering, high price to give you? Jesus paid it all — will you accept the gift of Jesus?

TEXAS BAPTIST MEETING HELD

Texas Baptists, at a meeting in Fort Worth Wednesday, adopted a record budget of $13.5 million and, with only a flurry of opposition, endorsed the bid of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, to become independent of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The BGCT treasurer's report and the budget proposals, which revealed a pattern of continued Texas Baptist growth, were adopted with little fanfare. But the Baylor proposal, which opens the way for acceptance of state funds, drew brisk interchange between the podium and the floor before receiving a decisive stamp of approval.

Under the terms of the motion adopted by the BGCT, the medical school will sever financial ties with the parent university and the BGCT no later than Dec. 31, 1969. However, it will maintain academic ties with the Baylor University system.

Carloss Morris, chairman of the general Baylor board, explained that state financial support became necessary because of a combination of the school's "dire financial straits and the acute shortage of physicians in Texas".

He said the Texas Coordinating Board of State Colleges and Universities has requested Baylor College of Medicine to double its enrollment from 320 to 640 to help Texas improve its 47th national ranking in the area of medical school enrollments per 100,000.

Because of Baylor's lack of funds to comply, Morris explained, the coordinating board has offered to ask the Texas legislature to pay Baylor the same amount per enrollment that other medical schools in Texas receive and help pay for increased facilities. Acceptance of state aid, however, would be a violation of Baptist church-state principles under the current setup.

Morris added that an additional incentive for immediate convention action was the probability that the state will erect a medical school which would outstrip Baylor in faculty recruitment and finances—and result in killing "excellent facilities which Texas Baptists have built up over the years".

SEARCH IN THE SUN FOR PERMIT

My guide's pole pierced the clear topaz water quietly as our skiff glided over the shallow tidal flats of Content Keys and the rays of the 10 o'clock sun pierced our thin cotton shirts depositing their considerable heat into our shoulder blades. We had through the white brilliance of our polaroid-shielded eyes to see blue waters that held our quarry. This is the way you go for permit — blinking, squinting, trying to see beneath the surface to detect that deep bellied blue and silver form mucking at grass roots for a meal of crab and shrimp. Unless the waters are really shallow, then the fish "tail" and give themselves away.

Then if you are lucky, you get close enough to lay in a bait. Lucky indeed — permit spook easier than bonefish and the scrape of a pole on coral and they're gone and you're left squinting again in the bright sunlight.

But these were live permit waters and I had for a guide one of the best in the Florida Keys. We knew that now as the tide flooded the flats we would see a few of these great pompano, despite the glare and eyecore.

Our problem was to get close without spooking the fish. Then the real work would begin — because we had elected to fly cast and there is no more troublesome fish in salt water fly fishing than the permit. He's bigger and tougher than the bonefish and when he's feeding on the bottom he seldom looks away for other food — hardly ever for a fly.

I took full advantage of my large capacity Abu Delta 5 reel, backing a floating nylon line (10-F) with 100 yards of 20 pound test Bonnyl. If I were fortunate to get Mr. Permit to go for my pink shrimp fly, I felt safe my nine-foot, heavy action Conolon 2639 rod would give me the backbone needed for his long runs and hard hitting.

We had just slid past a grassy hassock when we caught sight of them. About 40 yards off, six to eight dusky tails breaking the surface, moving slowly and heading across our point. We judged we had time to draw within 20 yards of where they'd pass. Hardly making a ripple, we poled to our destination and I lay out my first fly in advance of the feeders and it began to sink as softly as I hoped it would.

The school was just getting to the fly when I began the retrieve in slow, foot-long jerks. If anything causes a permit to hit a fly it's the competitive instinct at work in a feeding school. Three of the lead fish ignored the fly. Another jerk, as number four passed, and then, wham, number five tore out of the school with my fly in his jaw.

Within seconds the school had disappeared but I had trouble in my hands. My line was down to the backing, the rod tip had gone low to the water. Getting the handle under my forearm I took command of the rod and set a firm drag. I couldn't afford to give him slack because I knew the inside of his mouth was as tough as the horsehide on a baseball and a taut line might be all that was keeping the hook in his mouth.

I was an hour with him. I could feel him bang his head on the bottom trying to throw out the hook. He was big and deep when I brought him to the side of the boat.

My eyes burned from the glare of the sun off the water and my shirt was black with perspiration. When we dropped him in the bottom of the boat the hook fell out of his mouth and I wondered if I had caught him or he had come willingly at the end just to spit my hook at me.
