IF MY wife ever has to have an operation, no ether or gas will be needed for anesthesia. All they will need to do is turn on a television set and let her lie down in front of it. She automatically lapses into a state of total unconsciousness in such a situation.

The kids watched three movies in a row on TV last Sunday afternoon while she slept blissfully on the couch 10 feet away.

Admittedly there's a great amount of programming on television which tends to cause one's attention to go elsewhere in a hurry. But I always found it difficult to go to sleep while it was blaring—especially when you consider how the volume blasts out in double forte during the advertisements.

ELSEWHERE on the video scene, there is a fellow with the story name of Bill Prentiss, who appears in a CBS soap opera, Love of Life. I never heard of it myself, but some of my friends tell me it does appear in this area. Anyway, here's what has happened to poor Bill, who must be fast moving up on the long-standing records of radio's Stella Dallas and Ma Perkins for misery: First, his father had amnesia, then his mother wound up in a mental hospital because he wanted to get married and mother was in love with the son. Then the girl he wanted to marry chose someone else, even though she was pregnant by him. She divorced her husband, finally married our hero, only now she has divorced him, too.
And you think you got troubles?

BLACK OUT--This black cat lost all nine lives when it crawled into a transformer at the Southwestern Public Service sub-station here Monday 5:15 a. m. There was a black out in a block wide area from the Sudan football stadium east to Sands Cafe, and an area including Sudan Livestock & Feeding Co. and farm homes east. Electric service was soon restored, but some six repairmen worked most of the day repairing the damage.

NEWS OF SERVICEMEN

Editor's Note: (The following letter was received recently by Billy D. Provence from the Department of the Army).

14 June 1969

Dear Specialist Provence: With the passing of time I trust that the personal sorrows involved with the recent tragedy which you and your wife experienced with the loss of your son have lessened in their intensity. My deepest sympathies are offered as well as my prayers.

Although, as a commanding officer, I am sorry to lose an enlisted man who was greatly helping the radar platoon, especially Counter-mortar Radar Section #1, with consistently conscientious efforts, I am extremely pleased that you have been reassigned within the Continental United States. I hope that this will aid your wife in accepting the overall situation of life, as it now faces you both.

May God continue to provide you with sufficient strength in order to assist each other in this time of need.

Sincerely,
1st/Russell M. Martin

BAND DIRECTOR SECURED

Tommy R. Evins, 31, of Hagerton, N. M., has been offered the job as band director in the Sudan school system, with the understanding that he will accept, according to Superintendent of Sudan Schools, W. E. Hancock. Mrs. Evins also is to teach English in the intermediate department.

Evins has a degree from Eastern New Mexico and has been band director at Hagerton for six years. Mrs. Evins has her degree from Texas Tech and has been teaching six years. The couple have two children.

The Sudan School Board of Trustees hope to make the hiring of Mr. and Mrs. Evins official at the meeting of the board Monday night.

Two other faculty vacancies remain, which are teachers for Math (intermediate) and Speech-English, the superintendent said.

PHILLIPS AWARDED STATE CITATION

R. L. (Pete) Phillips, assistant sewer superintendent for the city of Sudan, has been awarded an official State Health Department citation for work proficiency.

Signed by the State Health Commissioner and authorities of the Texas Water Utilities Association, the certificate of competency is awarded only to those utility plant operators who have successfully demonstrated their skill and knowledge in modern principles of plant management.

To qualify for certification, a plant operator must have accumulated a prescribed amount of actual work experience. He must also have attended both regional and statewide short schools at which the techniques of water treatment and waste water disposal are taught, and must have passed an examination given by State Health Department sanitary engineers.

State law requires that at least one operator per shift be certified for competency by health department engineers, but many operators seek certification on their own expense to increase their efficiency as key public servants to their community and state.

The engineers said the attainment is evidence of Phillip's efforts to better prepare himself for the duties of his profession.

Scripture: St. Luke 19:1-10

So many words are said, so many things claim our attention, so many opinions tend to sway us from the way we know; so much noise and pressure from the crowd, that sometimes one far out may not be able to see to the center where the action is going on.

"And he sought to see Jesus who He was, and could not for the press, because he was little of stature."

This man, Zacchaeus, was a rich man, a publican. But when Jesus came to Jericho, evidently Zacchaeus had heard of Him and wanted to see Him as He was passing by.

So, rich and holding a high position as tax collector for the government, yet his desire was so great that he forgot his "dignity" and ran out in front of the crowds and climbed in a sycamore tree in order to see Jesus, for he "was to pass that way."

Then Jesus looked up and saw Zacchaeus in the tree, and told him to hurry and come down, for He must abide at his house today.

Zacchaeus was hated by most of the Jews, first because he was rich and they were so poor, but most of all because of his job as tax collector. So when Zacchaeus heard Jesus call to him and say he was going to his house, he came down hastily and joyfully.

When Zacchaeus knew that Jesus cared about him, he received Him and said, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor..." and offered to restore fourfold anything he had taken falsely. Then Jesus said, "This day is salvation come to this house."

But the crowd said that Jesus was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner?

How many times, I wonder has a crowd of Jesus' followers "blocked" the view of a young convert, a new-born Christian, or one who wanted to be a Christian, so that they could not see Jesus? Could it be we have failed to notice how the "little" one could not be tall enough to see? Have we failed to make room for the least one to come to Jesus?

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

Texas has a wonderful fishing hole. Anyway, at least half of it is in Texas.

It's Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Sabine river, between Texas and Louisiana. Covering some 200,000 bass-stocked acres it is about 40 percent open water and 60 percent brush.

This new lake is just east of beautiful Sam Rayburn lake in the Angelina National Forest. Among the closest towns to Toledo Bend reservoir are San Augustine, Hemphill, Jasper and Newton. It is a little more than 100 miles north of Beaumont and is pretty well surrounded by good roads.

Toledo Bend Reservoir has been stocked heavily with largemouth black bass by the conservation departments of both Texas and Louisiana. These bass now are yearlings and ready to catch. During the fall and winter months they were schooling.

Early last fall the lake was only about one-third full. Winter and spring rains have added much more water, however, and the fish have been spreading and will spawn this spring.

Like Lake-o-Pines and Rayburn, much brush has been left in the lake. It has been engineered for the fishermen, however. A boat road has been cleared along the channel of the Sabine, for something like 40 miles upstream. In addition lateral boat roads have been cut through the brush to the more than a score of landing places and public camp grounds now available.

This lake is a project of the Sabine

River Authority and was built entirely without federal funds. It holds water for release to generate hydroelectric power. Lines tie into a trunk system serving both Texas and Louisiana. These two states entered a compact for construction of the dam and sold revenue bonds. They were based on contracts with three power distribution companies.

Site for the dam was first discovered 35 years ago by Carr Forrest, a young engineer, now the senior member of Forrest and Cotton, consulting engineers of Dallas, who engineered the dam. Forrest is a fisherman himself, and you can bet he was cognizant of the ideal conditions for piscatorial proclivities when he and his staff laid out the lake in the middle of the Sabine National Forest.

Fishing there today is still rather primitive. More and more rigs are being rented, but to be safe you should take your own boating equipment along. Construction, however, is in progress on a half-dozen camps on both the Texas and Louisiana sides.

When you go there, however, be sure and check on the license requirements because you may be fishing in Louisiana. There is still some debating over reciprocity, although this is expected to be worked out.

And take along plenty of line and lures. With so much underbrush, if you fish in good bass water you are going to lose lots of lures and break quite a few lines. But you'd catch fish!

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Man Discovers God's Secrets

When man sets foot on the surface of the moon, he will be attempting to discover the answers to some of the questions that have remained unanswered ever since there was a man to ask them.

Which of God's secrets will be revealed to man's inquiring mind?

Men have no secrets from God, but He has many secrets from us.

Some of His secrets are so deeply hidden that man, in his present state of scientific knowledge, cannot discover them.

Some, on the other hand, can be known by those who will patiently and intelligently search for the answers.

Secrets Revealed

The great Negro scientist, George Washington Carver, used to tell the story of his achievements in this way.

"I asked the Lord to reveal to me the secrets of the universe," he said, "but the Lord said, 'That's a little too big for you.'"

"So I asked Him to reveal to me the secrets of the peanut. Then He said, 'Well, now, that's more your size.'"

So God did reveal to him the secrets of the peanut—secrets that had been hidden from all men before.

Carver achieved fame and could have had a fortune, but he preferred to continue to work in his laboratory in Tuskegee, Alabama, discovering more of the secrets that God had hidden in the peanut.

Another outstanding Christian, Walter F. Burke, has turned his talents, however, to discovering the secrets of the universe.

Burke, as president of McDonnell Astronautics Company, has had a very prominent part in space exploration.

Some time ago, he said, "I am confident that we will one day land on the moon and travel throughout our solar system—and perhaps even beyond. After all, we are merely visiting what God has created."

"God knew that man would look into space—that's why it is so beautiful out there. He knew, too, that if we look, the next thing is to go. But it is impossible for anyone but God to know how far He will permit us to venture."

Eternal Question

But Burke added this thought, "There is one thing that no interplanetary exploration will ever answer for me, and that is, why does God love me? Why did He send His Son to die for us in order to provide us with eternal life in fellowship with Him?"

Why God loves us and wants us to love Him may never be revealed to us by scientific exploration, but the Bible gives us the answer. It is God's nature to love—because "God is love."

The secret method by which God changes men into His likeness is one which can not be discovered by human minds, but which can be experienced. The Bible says, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creation. Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new and all things are of God."

If you have had this happen to you, you have experienced in your own life one of the greatest of God's secrets.

A Variation on an Old Favorite—Peanut Butter Cookies

Who doesn't love peanut butter cookies? And especially now with the picnic-basket lunch season coming up, they are just the sweet morsel needed to top off a hearty lunch. But in the summer it seems that Mom's baking time is kept to a minimum. With this in mind the home economists of the Peter Pan Peanut Butter Company recommend Peter Panhandles. They are no-bake cookies made from corn flakes and peanut butter with just enough brown sugar to blend the flavors.

Not only does the peanut butter add a yummy peanut taste, but it makes these cookies a source of protein. Just enough of the crunch in the corn flakes is retained in the cookies to add a munch to each bite.

PETER PANHANDLES
(Makes 32 bars)

|--|---|
| 5 cups corn flakes | 1 tablespoon water |
| 1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar | 1/2 cup Peter Pan Crunchy Peanut Butter |
| 1/4 cup granulated sugar | 1 tablespoon butter |
| 1/2 cup light corn syrup | |

Crush corn flakes slightly, then place in buttered shallow pan in 250° (slow) oven for about 8 minutes or until crisp. Mix sugars, corn syrup and water in heavy saucepan; cook over moderate heat to boiling point. Remove from heat; add peanut butter and butter. Return to low heat; stir until mixture comes to gentle boil. Pour hot mixture over warmed corn flakes; mix thoroughly. Turn into buttered 9-inch square pan; press mixture firmly into pan. Cool and cut into 32 bars.
