WOODWORK

BY DALTON

I WOULDN'T know Clement Haynsworth from the Aga Kahn, but it appears he may have received kind of a raw deal from the Senate.

After weeks and weeks of wrangling, the Senate rejected President Nixon's nomination of Haynsworth for a seat on the Supreme Court, with most of the foes of Haynsworth's nomination coming up with this kind of excuse for their votes:

Haynsworth never had done anything bad, but by refusing to disqualify himself in some cases involving some companies in which he had some stock, he had left himself open to the charge that he had done something improper. He should have disqualified himself, said the opponents.

Maybe he should have; I don't know. But most observers agree that the real reason the vote went against the judge was not the stated one, but because of his conservative views. The civil rights and labor leaders fought his nomination tooth and nail, because they feared he might hurt some of their appeals before the Supreme Court.

This is the very reason why those who favored a return to sanity by the Supreme Court should have voted for Haynsworth. If he is against the 25-hour week and guaranteed annual income for those too lazy to work, and against integrating schools whether the minority groups want to be integrated or not, then we sure could use him on the Supreme Court.

Funny thing is, many observers now believe President Nixon will just turn around and nominate another conservative, and even feel that the next one may be approved.

Let's hope so.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING Week-end to all of our readers. Christmas has almost smothered Thanksgiving in lots of places, with Christmas sales already going full blast, and with Yule lights a-gleaming everywhere already. They put up the lights so early in most cities that I don't see why they even bother to take them down.

FIRST THANKSGIVING AT PLIMOTH PLANTATION

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING was celebrated at Plymouth, Massachusetts, in 1621 and was a harvest festival, a gathering of family, friends and neighbors, and a time of games and feasting. Only about half of the original 102 Pilgrims had survived the first winter. Survivors had labored long to build a village and plant crops; so when these first crops were harvested, they celebrated.

Youth Speak-Out On Americanism

An editorial in Sunday's Amarillo News-Globe quoted several Sudan youth as they spoke out on what being an American means to them. The paper features excerpts taken from Mrs. Elsie Wilson's English class.

If all American youth thought like our local youth, we would have no "peaceful" demonstrations. There would be no need for any sort of demonstrations.

The general viewpoint was that it is our fault that our country is in the shape because we don't stand up and fight for our freedom in our daily lives and because we have failed to inform our children of their birth rights. As one student put it... "I have been an American for 18 years and love my country, but I do not know the words to the National Anthem or state song and can barely get through the pledge of allegiance. But, I do love America."

The youth have realized the fact that something must be done now if our Christian civilization is to be preserved, not by demonstrations, but by daily living of all citizens.

It was a tribute to all Sudan youth to have their opinions published.

Did you realize?
If your uncle's sister is not your aunt, then she is your mother.

If ten birds were on a house and you shot one, there would be none remaining because the others would fly away.

This seems logical:
A duck, a frog and a skunk went to the circus. Each had to have a dollar to get in. Which got in and which didn't?
The duck got in because it had a bill. The frog got in because it had a green-back. The skunk couldn't get in because it only had a scent and it was a bad one.

Mrs. J. E. Dryden won a Thanksgiving turkey at a drawing held at Penny's Department Store Monday in Littlefield.

A man's wisdom makes his face shine. (Eccles. 8:1).

All of us have a need to understand, assimilate and to remember. Courses, teachers, books are priceless. We gain the most from their help, however, if we go first to the source of all wisdom the God-Mind in us. As we become attuned to God-Mind, we see, we understand, and we remember. Working from this starting point we grasp facts, retain knowledge, make sound judgments, and express ourselves.

Root Houseplants During Winter Advises Agent

Gardeners can beat the problem of leggy and unattractive houseplants by rooting cuttings from them during the winter months.

Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips, County Home Demonstration Agent, says the method is especially effective for begonias, geraniums, coleus, suitans, and alternanthera.

"Cuttings from these plants can be easily rooted during the winter months, allowing for discarding the old plants and providing attractive young plants for the window sill garden," she says.

The HD Agent explains that a simple home hot house can be made from a wooden box with 5 to 6-inch sides. Windowpane glass or plastic may be used to increase the box height. Provision for drainage in the box must be made, and a clean well-textured rooting medium should be used.

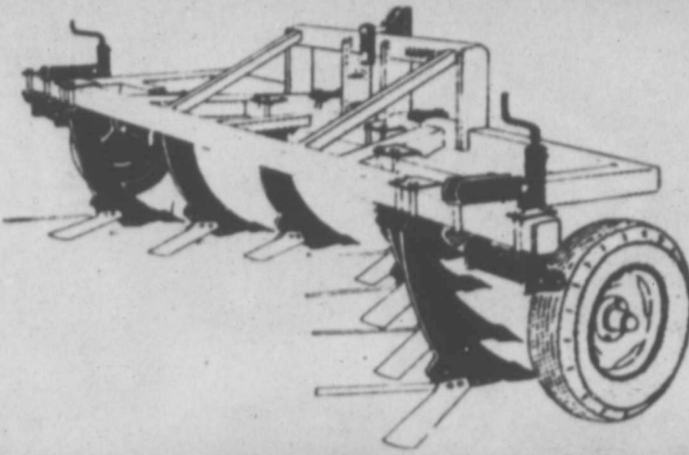

Cuttings 2 to 4 inches long should come from sound healthy stems. A cut is made just below a node or leaf joint with a clean sharp knife or shears. After removing the lower leaves, about a third of the cutting is inserted into the medium. Mrs. Phillips stresses firming the medium around the cutting, watering thoroughly, and spacing so that the lower leaves barely touch.

The box is covered with a plastic or glass lid and placed away from direct sunlight in a warm room 58-75 degrees. After about a week to 10 days, the cuttings can be moved to direct sunlight. However, close observation must be exercised to avoid overheating and drying out of the rooting medium. The cover can be opened about a half-inch to avoid overheating.

She says the small cuttings can be planted in clean potting soil after root growth begins. They can then be used as new houseplants or put outside in the spring after danger of frost is past.
