WOODWORK

BY DALTON

IT'S SO UNUSUAL nowadays for someone to guarantee good work and really make an effort to see that customers are satisfied that a firm which does this is considered news.

The Associated Press moved a story the other day about a young man who started out in business last Jan. 22 with $29.45 in his pocket and who got some backing from his friends for his idea of special kind of home cleaning service.

His plan is to make certain the work is satisfactory. If not, do it over free.

With a $1,300 loan, he went door-to-door, and as business grew, began to advertise. From a beginning with one girl working for him part-time, he now has 40 employees and claims $130,000 monthly income.

In training classes, he tells his staff to ask a housewife if she wants the cleaning started in a special place or done a special way. The firm's founder later calls the housewife back, asks if the cleaning was good and if she will tell her neighbor. Dissatisfaction brings an instant repeat of the work.

This is quite a contrast to the average service firm which merely wants to do the job well enough to get paid for it. And the financial success of the operation might be a good lesson to those who are satisfied with doing allphod work.

IN SAN ANTONIO recently a $35,000 piece of abstract sculpture was "vandalized." It was 17 feet tall and had been erected at the HemisFair. City workmen removed the black metal artwork without authorization during renovation of the fair grounds, and it was found dismantled and damaged at a city public works yard. Somebody had made an icebox out of part of it.

Mayor W. W. McAllister said someone apparently had perpetrated the deed without malice, considering it as "just a piece of junk."

I haven't seen this thing, but if it is like much abstract art I have seen, I can well imagine why it might be mistaken for junk.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul Gordon are parents of a son, Christopher William, born Saturday, August 22, in the Littlefield Hospital. He weighed 7 lbs. 4 oz.

THE ELEPHANT'S EAR
The Elephant's Ear plant is familiar to all of us. Native to the South Pacific, there it is called taro. In the South Sea Islands and Hawaii the starchy roots of the Elephant's Ear are boiled and eaten like potatoes. Ever see one in bloom? On rare occasions we are told this happens. However, there are some who say it is the formation of new leaves and has the appearance of a blossom. It is still a beautiful plant, and grows very rapidly during the summer months, and dies just as quickly in cold weather if not taken inside.

A Black, White and Red Bachelor Pad

The housing young singles and all us couples are doing is revamping many 1950s-century houses into bachelor pads. This is the case in a bedroom of one such house in the city of Houston. Independent designers commissioned the house's last distinct life styles. In the room above, ultra-modern white plus red, with an economy of accessories and abstract art, creates a swinging bachelor pad. The sofa, lit from behind, double to modern sculpture, and a hanging ugly mantle. Beyond this living room, a master space was converted into a dining-cooking area, using low black tables with white super-cushions on a glowing red Portrel carpet. On another floor, a studio apartment is a gem of compactness and comfort, with an all-purpose living room in shades of flag blue, tawny golds and copper tones. The sofa bed is upholstered in bright blue Portrel/cotton broken cane pattern fabric that is also used at the windows and to skirt a round table. The bath-dressing room spells sheer luxury, "wrapped" in a wildflower patterned Portrel/cotton fabric that lowers the high ceiling and widens the room. The same fabric is also used on a Parsons table and to upholster bamboo-turned stools. Two oval, fringed bath area rugs in sapphire blue accent a snow-white Portrel and nylon carpet. Celanese House, at 122 East 38th Street in New York City, is open Monday through Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Admission is free.

An event that began in 1944 to help a group of boys will be held for the 26th year when the more than 350 young cowboys at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch put on their annual Boys Ranch Rodeo over the Labor Day weekend. A special attraction of the rodeo will be giant-size hot-rod beef competitions with all the trimmings that will be sold for $1.00 to those wanting to picnic at the Ranch. This concession will be run by boys learning meat-cutting and cooking for their vocations. Soft drinks, pop corn and other refreshments will be sold by other boys. ### Good Example To Follow

By DAVE LLEWELLYN
Have you ever become uneasily aware that a Canaanite was looking over your shoulder? Or have you ever noticed a Perizzite watching you closely? No? Then take warning—don't make any suspicious moves, because you're surrounded.

The Canaanites and Perizzites represent spies of the enemy and they are engaged in relentless espionage against you. They aren't an elite corps, they are ordinary people. In fact, that's why they are so effective; they catch you while you are unsuspecting.

Every actual and potential enemy you have has his Canaanites and Perizzites watching, amassing information to be used against you.

They are of no particular nationality. These code names have been given them from an ancient story.

Close observers thought they saw no light in existence, the Canaanites and Perizzites were those who rebelled against the Lord's rule.

About 4,000 years ago, the tribes were people who the father of Israel migrated into the area of the Fertile Crescent into Palestine.

Particularly they were recorded as being those who when Hebrew unity might have been destroyed. Presumably the Canaanites and the Perizzites were watching with eyes wide open.

When Israel's progenitor, Abraham, moved into the area near the Dead Sea, he took with him a nephew named Lot. Since in those times the area was well watered and grassy, both Abraham and Lot fared well with their herds, so well that their herdsmen began to have quarrels over grazing rights.

With their potential enemies observing their actions, and with their need for unity paramount, Abraham and Lot reached a peaceful resolution by dividing the land between them. Abraham gave Lot his choice of area.

That is what awareness of your Canaanites and Perizzites can do for you. It can make you conciliatory, for the sake of causes greater than your individual desires.

They're Watching You
When you are representing a company, a school, a family, many people judge the larger group by your behavior. Occasionally, personal aims must be relinquished for the good of the whole.

Abraham's primary purpose in living was to demonstrate the peace and non-grudging independence that his personal independence in Jehovah gave him.

Because of this, though his Perizzites were those who had been promised control of the whole land of Palestine, he voluntarily aligned the various tribes to remain in the land.

Abraham sought for his family and to his neighbors, especially the Canaanites and the Perizzites—the nature of God and His ability to satisfy people.

For the sake of the reputations of your associates, and for the sake of those who watch your life closely, imitate Abraham.

Christians, especially, should imitate Abraham—for the sake of each other and the whole world.

This bank pays the maximum interest rate allowed to all banks on all types of Time and Savings deposits, so why burn extra gasoline and place extra miles on your automobile to transact your savings account business elsewhere, when your deposits are insured by cash payment up to and including $20,000.00 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation of Washington, D.C.

All banks belonging to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are assessed twice a year for the purpose of accumulating the funds that protect your deposits. This is an expense of the bank and the Federal government does not use one cent of the taxpayers money to provide this protection and has accumulated assets in excess of $4,000,000,000.00 to provide you cash protection.
