FORTY-SIXTH YEAR NUMBER 28

WOODWORK

BY DALTON

WRITER Lee Mueller of NEA suggests that one of these days, Americans may be able to drive to Spain on top of the debris in the ocean. He noted the ocean's being used as the biggest garbage dump in all history, containing such things as the Spanish Armada, the lost Atlantis, a shipload of nerve gas, and other such items.

He quoted one oceanographer as saying the oceans are not unlimited in space, and someday could be filled up with garbage. So the suggestion that one day we will have regular shuttle service to the moon, carrying our garbage, may not be so far-fetched. Perhaps we really should make a big garbage heap out of places like the moon, and maybe Chicago and New York.

EVERYBODY reads Ann Landers, but every now and then (or maybe more often than that) I start reading one of her letters and I just can't seem to get past the first sentence, because I know what the letter is going to say, and I know what Ann is going to answer. Let's face it, some of these letters are either so familiar or so ridiculous that anybody ought to be able to answer them. For example, letters that begin thusly:

"Dear Ann, My husband likes to dress up in my nighties..."

"Dear Ann; I'm just 14 and my parents keep bugging me to get a haircut..."

"Dear Ann; Is it wrong for an attractive young woman like me to love nine different men at the same time?"

"Dear Ann; My neighbor's 3-year-old girl keeps enticing me by running around topless..."

"Dear Ann; Every since my grandmother ran over my dog on her motorcycle, I can't talk to her without growling..."

"Dear Ann; I know this sounds silly, but my brother has two noses..."

Well, anyway, you get the idea. Some of those things just seem pretty unlikely, but I guess they do fill columns, and since I seem to have that problem myself, who am I to knock it?

SWPS To Reorganize

Southwestern Public Service Company will reduce its number of division offices to three with the consolidation of the Southern and Plains Divisions into a single division, headquartered at Lubbock, it has been announced by Roy Tolk, president of the electric company.

Faster transportation, improved communications, advanced technology and better trained and more skilled employees at the local office level were cited by Tolk as reasons for the consolidation.

"When we put this company together in its present form 28 years ago we had six division offices. In the mid-50's we reduced that number to five and last year we cut it down to four. The purpose of the division office has always been to lend staff and administrative support to the local office, the one which serves the customer. We can get around faster now, we can talk more quickly on radio or telephone and we have better equipment and better employees. That lets us concentrate more on serving the customer more efficiently and economically and directly through local offices," Tolk pointed out.

Tolk said the reorganization had been planned for October 1 when J. M. Collins, who had been Plains Division manager for 25 years, was scheduled to retire. The action has now been moved forward because of the untimely death of Collins on August 23rd.

Under the consolidation program, Plainview, which had been the Plains Division headquarters, will continue to be a district office. Cleo Meharg, who has been district manager at Plainview since 1963, will continue in that post.

"No Plains Division or Plainview employee will lose his job or have his pay reduced because of this consolidation. Some members of the present Plains Division staff will become part of the staff of the combined division. There will be no reduction in the number of people directly responsible for customer services in Plainview," Tolk said.

The three divisions under the new alignment will be the Panhandle, headquartered at Amarillo; the Southwestern at Lubbock

4-H MEETING CALLED

A called 4-H meeting will be held tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p. m. in the community center.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss items to be entered in the Lamb County 4-H Fair to be held Saturday, Sept. 12, at Littlefield.

All members are urged to attend.

as headquarters; and the New Mexico Division, with the division office in Roswell.

The Panhandle Division will include the Kansas and Oklahoma communities Southwest-ern serves and the Texas cities north of, and including, Friona and Happy.

The remainder of the Texas cities served will be in the Southern Division, while the New Mexico Division will be made up of all the communities in that state; that Southwestern serves.

"When you look at a map of our service area, each of the cities serving as a division headquarters is about as close to the center of the territory it serves as it is possible to be and offers the best location for transportation and communication facilities. This should improve our ability to serve our customers," Tolk said.

R. H. "Bob" Brummal, who is well known in the Plainview area and through his civic and business activities, who has been Southern Division manager since 1963, will be manager of the newly formed division.

Brummal has a broad-based background in his Southwestern career, which began in 1945. He has served in engineering capacities, as a district manager and as residential and commercial sales manager for the electric company.

"Retirement and normal attrition will reduce the number of people who have been working at the division level in the Plainview office, and there is the possibility that there will be an eventual reduction in the number of people we employ in Plainview as a result of this consolidation. However, as Plainview grows, Southwestern will grow with it and there will be an increase in the number of employees of the company. The change would be that there would be more people on the payroll directly concerned with customer services, the one most important function of a utility company," Tolk said.

The electric company president concluded the announcement by pointing out that economies and efficiencies were the only weapons available to the company to fight inflation and resulting rate increases.

"These tools often seem comparable to David's slingshot when you see the monstrous size of inflation. However, we shall use what we have to the best of our ability in our efforts to keep our rates stable. If good operation and good management can make these goals possible, I am confident of our ability to accomplish them," Tolk concluded.

A man without self-control is like a city broken into and left without walls.—(Prov. 25:28).

When we are disturbed by events or conditions around us, we should be patient and poised. We should hold our emotions in check, and take a positive constructive attitude.

With this self control we can think through any situation, and with divine assistance come upon the right and just solution.

AUBUBON'S BIRDS AND FLOWERS

We have all seen the famous American bird pictures painted by John J. Audubon, organizer of the famous Audubon Society. This famous painter had mastered the technique of painting the intricate feathers and features of birds, but he acquired the services of other artists to paint in the floral and plant backgrounds on his pictures.

Flowers, he thought, are special, and need special artists to capture their delicate beauty.

We feel flowers are special, too. That is why we fill our orders with special care. You can be confident that when you order flowers from us, they will be just what you want, carefully prepared.

Three R's Are Not Enough

A century ago, Horace Mann predicted that crime could be eliminated as tax-supported public schools increased and more people could have more education. Has it worked that way?

Today we have the greatest educational system in our history—in size and cost. We also have the highest rate of crime and violence.

What is the reason? Could it be that three R's are not enough to educate people to lead happy, productive, successful, peaceful lives?

What is missing?

What has been missing from our educational system, which has caused it to fail to produce the results that were promised?

Dr. John Howard, president of Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., says religion is needed in education, to give people "the ability to find inner guidance for outer harmony."

Recognizing this most basic need, some educational authorities are now acting to remedy the situation, at least to some extent.

In Orange County, Florida—of which Orlando is the principal city—the school board has voted to permit five to seven minutes of daily devotions at the beginning of each school day.

The resolution adopted by the school board does not state that the devotional period will be required, but that it will be permitted.

The official action is intended to provide an opportunity for individual prayers and reading of the Bible by groups or individuals, followed by a salute to the flag of the United States and ending with the singing or playing of an appropriate patriotic song.

Ever since the Supreme Court ruled against prescribed prayer and Bible reading in the public schools—and many schools simply eliminated daily devotions—there have been some students and teachers who felt the need to continue to recognize God as Lord, in school or out.

One 12-year-old school girl in Boston expressed her feelings in this way:

"Now I sit me down in school Where praying is against the rule For this great nation under God

Finds public mention of Him odd. . . .

Praying aloud in a public hall Upsets believers in nothing at all. . . .

But now, O Lord, this prayer I make — Should I die in school, my soul You'll take."

Last year, students in one New Jersey town set up a tent across the street from the school building, where they went each day for a period of devotions before school.

No Neutrality Intended
There was not the slightest intention, when our country was established, that we should be neutral about God in our national life. The adoption of the motto, "In God We Trust," is proof of that.

Our pledge of allegiance to the flag contains the clear recognition of our reliance on God in the words "one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The Bible tells us, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

Maybe if the fourth R in our public schools were Religion, there would be fewer students in our universities majoring in rioting.

COUNTING CALORIES

MOST DIETERS COUNT CALORIES, BUT MANY DON'T KNOW EXACTLY WHAT A CALORIE IS AND WHAT IT DOES.

A CALORIE IS THE MEASURE THAT TELLS YOU HOW MUCH ENERGY YOUR FOOD SUPPLIES. FOR EXAMPLE, A SLICE OF BREAD HAS 50 CALORIES. WHEN IT IS BURNED UP IN THE BODY IT PRODUCES 50 CALORIES OF ENERGY. CALORIES ARE WHAT KEEP US GOING. TO MAKE THE GOING EASIER HERE IS A CHART OF SOME EVERYDAY FOODS. IT SHOWS YOU HOW MUCH OF EACH ITEM GIVES YOU 100 CALORIES.

1/2 CUP WHITE RICE = 100 CALORIES	1/2 CUP ICE CREAM = 100 CALORIES	1 MEDIUM BAKED POTATO (NO BUTTER) = 100 CALORIES
1 SMALL FRANKFURTER = 100 CALORIES	5 TEASPOONS SUGAR = 100 CALORIES	2 OUNCES CANNED TUNA FISH = 100 CALORIES
		1 TABLESPOON MAYONNAISE = 100 CALORIES

COUNTING CALORIES HELPS YOU LIMIT YOUR FOOD INTAKE. TAKE IN 3500 CALORIES LESS THAN YOUR ENERGY NEEDS AND YOU'LL LOSE ONE POUND. LEARN TO BE HAPPY WITH SMALLER PORTIONS AND YOU'LL BE ABLE TO SAVE ROOM FOR AN ENJOYABLE DESSERT.

How Important Is Peace to You?

By DAVE LLEWELLYN - A desire for peace is universal. Indeed, the rising demand for peace is almost universal.

Yet peace itself is very individual. Universal peace is only the universal effect of individuals at peace with all other individuals.

The real problem of peace is not an international one, at all. If nations no longer waged war against each other, there would still remain our nation's internal turmoil.

Were the wishes of "Peace in Vietnam" and "Peace in the Middle East" miraculously granted, new posters would appear for "Peace in the Streets" and "Peace in Politics."

And were those granted also, honest crusaders would have to press on for "Peace in Our Private Lives."

Perhaps peace is not so rare as the newspaper headlines would make it appear. Most nations are not at war with other nations. The majority of people within every nation—even those at war—are not personally fighting anyone, at least not physically.

That view is still not very satisfying, however, if you are not in that majority, is it?

One Man's Experience
Practical suggestions for personal peace between neighbors may be more valuable to you than a new platform for war protests. Here is an account of how one person went about procuring peace for himself. Maybe we can profit by his example.

I know of a businessman who made a sizable fortune abroad and decided to move back to his home town, where he had grown up and lived with his parents for many years. There he settled, invested in some livestock, and planned to live out his days in quietness and peace.

Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 6, 1970

But his neighbors wouldn't let him. They were jealous of his success and where there is jealousy there is no peace.

His neighbors harassed him by polluting his wells and disputing his water rights.

This man's response, each time, was to dispose of his land and move farther away from town.

Finally, in his third location, 40 miles away from the first, his neighbors let him alone and he did live out the rest of his life quietly and peacefully.

Every time I tell this story I find contrasting reactions to this businessman's conduct. Some praise his policy of non-confrontation, while others, asserting that they are also for peace, condemn his abandoning his basic rights in the face of clearly illegal coercion.

To the second group, peace could not exist without law. If necessary, lives must be sacrificed to maintain the laws that protect the peace.

To the first group, peace cannot exist without life. If necessary, legal rights must be sacrificed to maintain the lives that can experience peace.

Peace Given by God
The man to whom this happened was Isaac, whose story is told in the Bible—in Genesis 26. The reason why Isaac was able to sacrifice his legal rights for peace was that he realized that peace can rest on something firmer than laws.

Peace for Isaac rested on his assurance that God was taking care of him individually. He did not have to fight for his right to peace. God would provide peace for him.

God provides an impenetrable peace for those who ask Him for it.

Chemicals, planes and people were in place for a daybreak start on August 31 of aerial insecticide applications in the seventh year of the imposing High Plains Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program.

Involved this year are 18 spray planes, some 150,000 acres of cotton, several tank cars of bulk malathion and over 100 people including pilots, flag men, monitors and entomologists.

Spraying will cover weevil infested cotton in parts of 15 counties stretching over 200 miles along the eastern and southern edges of the concentrated cotton production area on the Plains. Counties in the four "units" of the control zone include Briscoe, Borden, Crosby, Dickens, Dawson, Floyd, Garza, Hall, Kent, Lynn, Lubbock, Motley, Howard, Martin, Andrews and Dickens.

The program for six years has successfully prevented weevils from becoming established cotton pests on the Plains by stopping migration from the East and South. Entomologists contend the program has saved High Plains cotton growers up to $30 per acre per year in control costs, quality and yield losses.

Following the proven pattern of past years, spraying in the first two applications will be on a five to seven day schedule, using 12 ounces per acre of ultra low volume malathion. These first applications tend to break the weevil's reproductive cycle and greatly reduce populations later in the season.

Additional applications, up to an estimated maximum of six, will be made every 12 days at the rate of 16 ounces per acre to prevent weevils not killed earlier from going into hibernation. This schedule of spraying will continue on all infested cotton until harvest or until cotton is killed by frost or desiccation, thereby destroying the weevil's food supply. It is anticipated that aggregate acreage sprayed will reach near 1,250,000.
