WOODWORK

BY DALTON

TEXAS legislators last week passed a couple of resolutions praising Cesar Chavez, a Mexican-American labor organizer who preaches non-violence but who seems to thrive on it.

I've never met Cesar Chavez, but as a leader of militant factions of Latin Americans, his chief talents, if we are to believe most of the stories we read, are in making trouble and directing marches and mobs and the such.

He does not appear to be the type of person the legislature needs to be commending, and Gov. Smith went along with it, meeting with Chavez last Saturday and welcoming him to Austin, I guess. Chavez was in Austin to speak to strikers at a furniture company.

Of course, Gov. Smith should have been cordial. He apparently needs all the friends he can get these days, although I would hasten to add that on the basis of what I have heard so far, he really can't be criticized too much over the stock and insurance deals.

Speaking of the legislature, I keep having the feeling that we might be better off if they didn't meet. I hope I'm wrong. When they get through, I expect we're going to find a lot of moves made to take some more money out of our pockets.

KNOTHOLES in the Woodwork: Someone said that older women seem to have a greater desire for independence and freedom than older men. At least three times as many women live alone or with non-relatives as do older men. In 1860 there was widespread indignation and predictions of financial disaster when some barber shops raised the price of a standard nickel shave to six cents and upped the dime haircut to 12 cents. Apollo 14 must have been the most expensive rock hunt in history. People I know are cancelling their collision coverage like mad in face of the new auto insurance rate hikes, and a few are even running the dangerous risk of going without liability. We've been hearing about some churches where they try to toss you out if you attempt to put God ahead of the budget and the commissions... someone suggested at our own church the other day that we need to name a commission to try to get us all to Heaven, since we seem to have one for everything else except that. If you forgot to register as a voter during January, you now have all of February to forget it again, since the deadline has been extended.

Some 26 men were present from Sudan, Amherst, Earth, Springlake, Olton and Littlefield. Representing Sudan were Paul Provence, Damon Provence, Dwayne Powell and Philip Gordon.

CITY ISSUES WARNING

The Sudan City Commissioners met Monday in regular meeting when illegal parking of automobiles highlighted the discussion.

It was noted that according to City Ordinance number 25, enacted by the city government in 1934, that it is unlawful to park a car within twenty feet of a fire hydrant or 10 feet from a street or alley intersection. It also states that it is illegal to park or abandon a vehicle in a street or alley.

The ordinance went on to state that it is unlawful to park a vehicle in a street or alley intersection or in any way to obstruct traffic.

Another ordinance passed in the same year states that it is unlawful for a business to obstruct sidewalks, streets with rubbish or junk on or about his premises.

Mayor Arnold Reed reported that these ordinances are going to be re-enacted and enforced by the local law officers. He said that owners of junked or abandoned vehicles will be notified on a personal basis first, and asked the cooperation of all residents in obeying these ordinances.

The Steers took an early lead which they maintained throughout the game. Chisholm was again high point for Sudan with 12 points.

The B-teams closed out their season with three losses. The boys lost 70-56 Friday against Farwell with Roberts scoring 14 points for Sudan with Sudan having to play catch-up ball throughout the game. Kress also took a first quarter lead and won 60-40 at the final whistle. The girls finished only four points behind the Farwell girls Friday with the final score reading 48-44. The game was tied at the half and Sudan had a seven point lead at the end of the third quarter. However, Farwell came back with a strong fourth quarter by scoring 16 points to Sudan's 3. Tanya Chester lead the scoring with 20 points for Sudan.

The athletic department have now turned to volleyball for the girls and track for the boys. (EDITORS NOTE: We regret the mistake made last week when the teams played in the Anton tournament were incorrectly reported. We apologize and hope with your cooperation it will not re-occur.)

For a New Kind of Stew, Serve Tuna Burgoo!

The French have their bouillabaisse; the Hungarians, their goulash - and the Kentuckians, their Burgoo! Usually this delicious stew takes hours to prepare. But savory Tuna Burgoo takes only minutes - and is inexpensive, too.

Tuna, of course, has the same complete protein found in lean beef. And it's lower in cholesterol and lower in calories, as well as lower in cost. (There's no waste with canned tuna in vegetable oil!)
