BY DALTON

"I'd walk 1,609.3 kilometers for a Camel." How does that grab you? Or how about this:

"The Cowboys own the ball, first down and 9,144 meters to go." Or maybe this: "The new Miss Texas measures 91.44-55-88-91.44."

Well, it probably never will go to such extremes, but there is a serious movement in the United States to put this nation on the metric system. It would, of course, create some monumental problems.

Great Britain this year converted to the metric system, and they had a lot of problems, but they apparently all will be worked out eventually. And just a week or so ago the Commerce Dept. urged Congress to switch this nation to the system within 10 years, noting that the United States is the only major country which has not already done so.

The change would cost billions in converting such things as industrial equipment.

The operation would likely get a lot of criticism from folks who are set in their ways and don't want to bother with a lot of such new foolishness, too. So far as most folks are concerned, a meter is something you put a nickel into.

AMONG THE GROWING list of small-to-medium sized daily newspapers now being printed by the offset method (same process as is used to print this newspaper) is the Vernon Record, which converted last week. The immediate and obvious advantage to offset printing over the linotype-hot metal process is in clarity of photographs, and Vernon, with some high-priced modern equipment, produced some fine quality ones right away.

The building has been enlarged until today it is 100x140 feet which houses a large parts and hardware department and a complete service department.

Our under-25 population may be growing fast, but so is our over-65 age group. In fact, Americans are living longer than ever before. Back in 1951 there were 12 million Americans 65 years of age and over. Now, according to the 1970 census, there are more than 20 million. That's enough to populate the 21 smallest states combined.

An article in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare magazine, "Aging," states that there are three major trends developing: 1) our older population is growing faster than the younger; 2) the female population has grown faster than the male, and 3) the oldest part of the older population also has grown faster than the younger part.

Within the last 20 years, the under-65 population increased by 31.7 percent, or almost one-third. But the older population increased twice as fast—63.1 percent, or close to a startling two-thirds.

Women tend to live longer than men; so, the female population is greater at every age. For example, in 1950 there were 700,000 more older women than older men, but by 1970, there were 3,200,000 more over-65 women than men. Think what that does to living arrangements.

health care, housing, and income.

The third trend is the rapid growth of the over-75 group. In 20 years, the 65-to-74 age group has increased by half, or 47.3 percent, while the 75-plus group almost doubled with a 97.4 percent increase.

If that doesn't surprise you, consider this: As of January, 1971, there were 5,253 men and women over 100 years of age drawing social security benefit payments. Actually, there are about 15,000 centenarians in the United States.

Light Drizzle Makes Driving Hazardous

"Hydroplaning on the highway is not an exciting outdoor sport," Piero Sierra, vice president, Pirelli Tire Corporation, warns.

A light drizzle or rainfall helps motor oil and gasoline residues congeal on the road and this water carpet, dubbed summer ice, can be as treacherous as authentic ice conditions in the winter, according to Mr. Sierra.

Describing the action, he said, "water is a natural lubricant to rubber. In the wet a film develops between the actual road surface and your car's tires. As a tire rotates (without traction) it pushes water ahead of it. Result: You end up riding a wave—hydroplaning—and, frequently, experience complete loss of vehicle control."

"A heavy or even a light rain," he says, "should be taken as a warning to slow down. Motorists have to contend both with poor visibility and possible skid emergencies."

More than 3,250,000 girls are members of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. If you want to help, contribute a few hours every week to supervising their activities.

"THEY CAME FROM SPAIN" OPENS SEPTEMBER 2

"THEY CAME FROM SPAIN", the story of the Palo Duro Canyon and the arrival of the Conquistadores there will open September 2, 1971, in the amphitheatre in the park. The star will be the Canyon. Starting with the Creation there in Light and Sound, the story will unfold until the arrival of the Spaniards in 1541 and the principal part will describe the events of their stay within the Canyon walls. This part of the story will be told with action and sound and light.

The 2000 mile trek from their gathering place in Compostela, Mexico, to the Canyon will be in another technic, film. Cameramen have just finished shooting part of the march. On a typical day of filming the gate-men at the park admit forty extras at six o'clock in the morning ready for make-up, beards, mustaches, sideburns and long Indian wigs; vans are opened to remove armor, helmets, swords, crossbows, four beautiful Spanish saddles reaching two feet below the seat on each side are polished. Foot soldiers with halberds eight feet long, women that play and camp followers and some of their children, men with banners and flags, all gather at a place in the Canyon resembling a mountain pass for the first shots of the day. Two cameramen, Bill Rhew of Amarillo and Jim Sullivan of Dallas, finished shooting on August 11.

The 250,000 brochures in full color describing the show are being distributed. The first mailing will reach travel agents, motel managers, guide book publishers museum curators, educational administrators and other interested persons who were alerted about the new production two months ago.

Write "THEY CAME FROM SPAIN" for tickets, for information, or for brochures. The show will play Thursday, Fridays and Saturdays in September and October. Prices for adults are $2.50 a seat, for children, $1.00. Inquire at Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182. Street address in Canyon is 2010 Fourth Avenue where the day-time boxoffice is.

ELECTRICITY... IT DOES SO MUCH GOOD FOR SO MANY PEOPLE!

Automatic "Fireman" Smothers a Fuel Fire

A new fire extinguishing system based upon Du Pont Fire Extinguishant 1301 has been successfully put into operation by the Consolidated Edison Company of New York, Inc., at its Astoria plant in Queens.

The system, provided by Fenwal, Inc., protects giant turbojet engines which are now being used to increase the load capability of its central network. The engines are especially fitted with smoke reduction units.

A recent fire resulting from a leak in a fuel line of one of the engines demonstrates the effectiveness of the new system. The line apparently developed a crack. Fuel leaked on to the engine and was ignited by heat from the engine.

The fire was extinguished so quickly that the only indications of its existence were the ringing of the alarm bell, a slight amount of smoke on the wall and a depleted supply of the fire extinguishing gas.

Give Kids Nutrition-Packed Treats

Some of the snack foods popular with youngsters (an oldsters, too!) assuage appetites but contribute little nutritional value.

Here's a new recipe that is more nutritious than many desserts or snacks, yet it's bound to be popular with youngsters simply because it tastes so good. Made with almonds and coconut, it's more cake-like than the usual bar cookie, hence the name, Coco-Almond Cookie Cakes.

Wrap squares or bars in saran or foil and pack into lunch boxes for dessert with an apple or banana; or serve with a glass of milk for an after-school treat, or with vanilla ice cream for a dessert the whole family will enjoy.

COCO-ALMOND COOKIE CAKES

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 3 eggs
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup whole wheat flour*
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening with granulated sugar; beat in 2 eggs and the vanilla. Sprinkle the flour, salt, baking powder and coconut over creamed mixture; mix well. Spread mixture evenly in 8-inch square baking pan. Beat remaining egg with almonds, brown sugar and 1 tablespoon flour. Pour evenly over mixture in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until pick inserted into center comes out dry. Cut into bars or squares.

Makes 16 to 18 bars; 32 to 36 squares.
*if unavailable, use 1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour

- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup flaked or shredded coconut
- 1/2 cup chopped natural almonds
- 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 tablespoon flour

over mixture in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes or until pick inserted into center comes out dry. Cut into bars or squares.

Makes 16 to 18 bars; 32 to 36 squares.

Berlin Has Fast Roads & 682 Bridges

The number of motorized vehicles on the streets in West Berlin increases by about ten per cent per year; but even rush-hour inconvenience is kept at a minimum by the city's eight miles of multi-lane crosstown expressways which handle a peak volume of some 4,800 vehicles an hour and are rated as the busiest in the Federal Republic. On top of the $100 million already spent, current planning calls for the allocation of an additional $136 million to expand and complete this system of rapid intra-city highways in the next twenty years.

Another and more scenic aspect of Berlin's surface transit facilities concerns the city's 682 bridges that boast a combined length of more than twelve miles. Of these different types of bridges that include pedestrian and railway crossings, 308 traverse rivers and canals, 274 are over residential streets, and 100 are across expressways. As one would expect, Berlin's bridges vary in size, from the shortest that measures less than ten feet to the 3,043-ft. length of the Rudolf-Wissel Bridge. As for age, they range from the 112-ft. wooden-surfaced Loewen Bridge built in 1838 to the brand-new 460-ft. Nordhofen Bridge completed in 1971.

DAVE LLEWELLYN
Drink and Be Merry

Misery!
Sorrow!
Fights and arguments—
Accidents and injuries—
Blurred vision, blood-shot eyes.

Who has all these woes?
People who drink too much.
People who spend too much time drinking, and who seek out others who mix drinks for them—
These people have misery.

Don't long for wine that is too far fermented
Or alcohol that sparkles in your glass.

Bubbling drinks that go down smoothly,
That slide down smoothly like a snake slithers,
Bite in the end with a poison like a serpent
And strike you senseless like a cobra.

Your eyes will see hideous monsters
And in your heart you will curse and speak shamefully.
You'll get nauseous.
You'll gag and vomit like a seasick man.

People will shove you around
And mistreat you at will.
You will act fearless.
You will brag that you feel no pain.
But the truth is you're helpless.

When you come to, you'll think it was all good fun;
Then you'll do it again.

Idiot!
Alcohol mocks you. Strong drinks cause torment.
And anyone who thinks otherwise is stupid.

Fun Frank Carousel

A very merry-go-round, indeed, when it's a decorative centerpiece that looks like it's good enough to eat — and is! And when it looks good, it always tastes better. Fun Frank "horses" stand atop a macaroni salad and you have a tasty and complete meal as well as a unique decoration for your table.

Easy to make, this Fun Frank Carousel will appeal to kids — of all ages!

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 3 7-oz. boxes elbow macaroni cooked, drained and cooled | 2 cups chopped celery |
| 1 1/2 cups chopped cucumber | 1 1/2 cups chopped green pepper |
| 9 hard-cooked eggs, chopped | 2 cups mayonnaise |
| 1 tbs. salt | Eckrich Fun Franks |
| 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives | Lettuce |
| 1/2 cup minced onion | |

Lightly mix together first eight ingredients. Add mayonnaise, toss lightly. Pour about a third of the salad into a nine- or ten-inch spring form pan. Arrange cut pieces of Fun Franks against the sides of the pan in a decorative design — the salad will help hold them in place. Pour remaining salad into pan, shaking it down to pack it evenly and firmly. This will be the molded base of the carousel. Refrigerate overnight to chill thoroughly.

Make horses for the carousel from Fun Franks. Cut one frank into three pieces — a long piece for the body and two shorter pieces for the neck and head. Cut another Fun Frank in half crosswise and halves lengthwise to get four pieces of franks for the legs. Assemble the horses with toothpicks, using cloves for eyes and making a bridle from string. A six-inch wooden skewer or slim sucker stick stands each horse upright on the carousel.

For the roof over the carousel, cut a seven-inch circle out of paper, slash it once to the middle, overlap the two cut edges about an inch to give it shape and tape together. A stick or straw can be used for the center post.

To assemble the carousel, place the pan of salad upside down on lettuce lined plate and remove pan. Finish decorating sides, if desired. Set Fun Frank animals and roof on top of your salad base. REMEMBER: keep the salad cold so that it will retain its shape, removing it from the refrigerator just before serving.

TEXAS HIGHWAY DEPT. INVESTIGATES ACCIDENTS

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated five accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of July, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in three persons killed and eight persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for July, 1971, shows a total of 564 accidents resulting in 38 persons killed and 324 persons injured. This was 40 more accidents, 28 more fatalities, and 38 more injured than during June.

The 38 traffic deaths for the month of July, 1971, occurred in the following counties: Wise, 8; Donley, 5; Wheeler, 4; Lamb and Wichita, 3 each; Oldham, Clay, and Lubbock, 2 each; Deaf Smith, Hall, Parmer, Potter, Atcher, Dickens, King, Palo Pinto, and Young, 1 each.

The 38 traffic fatalities in July have been the most that have been recorded during any month of 1971.

Here are some facts of interest to outdoorsmen, as compiled by Savage Arms:

Whooping cranes at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge now total 66, for a new record. There were only 15 in 1941.

Although snow fleas have existed for several million years, little is known about them, including their diets. It is believed they feed on either microscopic algae or diatoms.

A rare ocean inhabitant, the oar fish grows to 14-foot lengths and weighs as much as 250 pounds. It normally lives at depths of 1,200 feet, and only five have been washed ashore in the last 100 years.

A Pacific Ocean fish, called the saury, ranges from 6 to 15 inches in length and is akin to the smelt in flavor.

How come this kid has more money saved than you do?

Because over the years his parents have invested in U.S. Savings Bonds—in his name, for his future—by participating in the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

He probably doesn't even know. And right now, he couldn't care less. But when he's older, that money can be used for a lot of things—a car, a college education, or even a new home.

The Payroll Savings Plan is an easy way to save money for you and every member of your family. When you join, an amount you designate will be automatically laid aside from your paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. It's a painless way to save.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 3 1/4% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 1/4% payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work and make your son the richest kid on the block.

KEENEYE'S TIPS ON SHOOTING

Crows provide good hunting during the summer months and insure a higher duck population in waterfowl nesting areas. A crow will kill each year about 110 ducklings and eggs.

Distributed as a public service by National Rifle Association

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS
BY VERN SANFORD

Every ardent angler remembers those rare times when he gets in a school of surfacing white bass and catches a fish on practically every cast.

Schooling fish such as these often give the inexperienced angler a sense of false security. Since the whites were near the top, he figures they spend most of their time in this vicinity, and he casts or trolls shallow-running baits.

Not so, says white bass expert Bob Hill of Austin who has fished over the entire state for whites and has worked out some highly specialized methods for taking them.

Based on his observations, Hill says whites spend fully 90 per cent of their time in deep water near the bottom. So anyone trolling a bait, even a deep-running job, usually isn't getting down to where the fish are.

Hill likes to tell about the time he was fishing on Lake Concho near San Angelo with Billy Disch, an Austin Marine dealer. Several boatloads of anglers were trolling for whites, while Hill and Disch were anchored, working the bottom, and catching a fish on almost every cast. Trollers, witnessing the phenomenal success of the Austinites, couldn't figure what they were doing wrong.

Since white bass prefer a bottom that's fairly clean, such as the mouth of a creek where a sand floor has been washed into the lake, the bottom can be worked with little likelihood of the lines getting hung up. Hill likes some sort of slow-wobbling bait, such as a silver or gold spoon or one made of solid lead.

His favorite used to be a heavy silver spoon, like the Dixie Jet, Tony Acetta or Lone Star spoon. While this spoon still produces quite spectacularly, Hill's current favorite is the Slab Spoon. It is made commercially by the Bomber Bait Company. Hill likes the slab so well he even molds his own.

This heavy, solid-lead spoon can be worked slowly along the lake bottom and it seems to have the slow-wobble action that whites prefer.

Hill casts the bait and allows it to plummet straight to the bottom. Then he brings it back in slow stop-and-go jerks, lifting it off the bottom and allowing it to wobble back down. Most times, a white will not attack this bait savagely. It sort of pecks at it. Therefore, the angler must learn to keep a tight line, to feel the almost imperceptible bite, or watch his rod tip for the telltale bob that indicates a white is fooling with the lure.

Hill's favorite spoon is almost solid white with just a thin slash of red along the front end.

Biggest problem in white bass fishing is finding the fish. Hill watches for bird activity. Gulls hovering and diving over the water usually indicate that white bass are feeding below. If there is no bird activity, he simply works any likely spot that might hold whites. He prospects an area for maybe 15 minutes before moving on. Usually, if whites are present and cooperative, they'll hit in a hurry. By systematically moving and trying different spots, Hill usually finds a concentration of fish sometime during the day.

Even when the fish are schooling near the top, he quite often fishes the bottom. He points out that the small, eager fish rush the shad to the surface to feed ravenously, while the older, more docile whites wait patiently near the bottom for wounded shad to sink down to them... shad that the eager youngsters have missed. A spoon dropped in the vicinity and worked to simulate a wounded bait fish usually will prompt a strike.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Film Pollution And Red Ink

Maybe we Americans aren't as dumb and dirty-minded as Hollywood thinks. While filthy films have been flowing from the movie capital in a flood, the major studios have been losing money. Why? Because the people haven't bought the slogan "movies are better than ever." As a matter of fact, everyone knows the truth is that movies are worse than ever.

Only one major studio made big profits last year—Walt Disney Productions, which has consistently steered away from exploiting illicit sex, perversion, and pornography of all kinds.

Studios which operated in big red figures include MGM, Columbia, and Twentieth Century. Maybe the American people are trying to tell them something.

"Most Destructive" George Hamid, Jr., owner of the famous Steel Pier at Atlantic City, recently said, "Unless the entertainment industry halts the spread of pornography it will drive itself into bankruptcy."

"This permissiveness, this acceptance of pornography on the part of those who control entertainment," he continued, "is the most destructive force that ever hit this country."

Look Magazine, earlier this year, in a review of last year's motion pictures, said, "The year 1970 was to movies what 1929 was to Wall Street and 1346 to the bubonic plague." It was, according to reviewer Gene Shalit, "such a vintage year that 17 movies have elbowed onto my ten-worst list." In his search for the ten best movies of the year, he was able to find only seven—and some of us would disagree with him on several of them!

A few years ago, McCall's Magazine invited readers to "sound off" on their opinions about movies. Twelve thousand replies were received within one month. One reader stated, "Sometimes I feel there is a conspiracy to seduce and ruin our youth, I'm sick of sick pictures, offensive sex and bad taste." Another said, "The movies these days seem more interested in turning your stomach than warming your heart."

Helen Hayes said, not so long ago, "I'm sick of the public being punished by what they see on the stage and in movies."

Label Them "Dirty" Columnist William Arthur has an interesting suggestion. "Dirty movies abound in our fair land," he says, adding that there is "a simple answer to the question of what to do. . . . Just make it mandatory that the films be prominently labeled in all their advertising: 'Dirty.' That's all. Just 'Dirty'—and forget the sleazy euphemisms 'Raw Action' . . . or 'Adult Sophistication.' . . . Once we get down to the basic 'Dirty' and make it required that it be slapped-in big, bold letters across the marquee of the movie house, then it no longer becomes a police problem; it becomes a problem of facing the fact that they're a bit sick in the head."

Perhaps the current financial dilemma of the producers of filthy films—coupled with the prosperity of Walt Disney Productions—will teach Hollywood a lesson.

People are gagging on filth. Morally, it never was defensible. Now, if the major studios won't learn the lesson, let them go bankrupt. The country will benefit—and maybe we can start to climb out of the slimy pit into which we have fallen.

There's a word in an old book that we ought to take to heart: "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."
