FORTY-SEVENTH YEAR NUMBER 51

SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS

WOODWORK BY DALTON

VALENTINE, the day of hearts and flowers and soft-centered chocolates, is coming up Monday, and a large portion of American society will ignore it. Traditionally, of course, the male is supposed to express his love for the female on that day (and never mention it the rest of the year?), although the exact reason is a little bit hazy to me.

I realize that information or the origin of Valentine's Day (or is it Valentine Day?) is easily available, but this was written late at night when the library was closed and smart people like school teachers and bankers' secretaries had gone to bed, so I just have to rely on my memory, which is not so good.

(There are three certain signs of imminent senility. The first is loss of memory. I can't remember the other two.)

Anyway, although many persons still do observe it, and buy flowers and candy and clothing and perfume and such on Valentine Day, more and more people just let it go by without notice. And this is kind of a shame, since love does need to be expressed frequently, because all people like to be reminded that somebody does love them. No matter how cranky we are, and even if some of us do look like King Farouk in a bathing suit.

If you're too young to know who King Farouk was and what he looked like in a swim suit, you probably don't look like that anyway.

Too many of us may be like the old fellow whose wife, patiently ignore, day after day as he sat stolidly reading the paper, finally demanded some assurance:

"Sam?" she asked. "Sam...?"

"Huh?" (reluctantly)

"Do you love me?"

Silence. Then grudgingly: "Yup."

"Then how come you never do tell me so?"

Sam put down the paper with exasperation. "Look, I told you I loved you when we got married (35 years ago). If I ever change my mind, I'll let you know."

Valentine's Day brings to mind visions of little naked boys flying around with bows and arrows and also a murmur of some kind of massacre involving machine guns, but most vivid in my memory of Valentine Day is a program which some of my classmates put on when I was 6 or 7.

Most kids this age are rather shy, and my cousin, who had a small part on the program, was no exception. He was supposed to come out on the stage at a certain point in the program, hold up a large red cutout of a valentine, and recite to this little girl something like "O fairest lady, sweetheart mine, will you be my valentine?"

He practiced, but when he came out on the stage he couldn't remember the last part. He held out the valentine and said,

INSTALL GAS AIR CONDITIONING NOW?

Install GAS air conditioning now and beat the rush that always comes with the first hot days. While everyone else is waiting on installation, central GAS air conditioning will be quietly and efficiently cooling your whole house. And another benefit of installing now is you have the time to consider the advantages that GAS air conditioning has over the other kinds.

A GAS air conditioning system is ruggedly built and operates on a simple principle. Heat from the steady blue flame circulates a refrigerant through the system to cool the air. There are fewer major moving parts and no compressor to break down or wear out. It's this simplicity that gives GAS air conditioning its low operating costs, its long life with no loss of cooling capacity, and its easy maintenance with few repair bills. GAS air conditioning also filters the air to reduce dust and pollen.

If you have a forced air heating system, you may be able to use the same ductwork for GAS air conditioning. So, be foxy. Call Pioneer Natural Gas Company for a free air conditioning survey of your home or business.

THOUGHT

There are sermons found in every flower, They entertain us hour by hour; We watch the many colors glow, And wonder how each one can grow. An idea we cannot advance, Is that a flower might come by chance; The tint, the shade of every flower, Is painted by a higher power.
