I SUPPOSE I should be more interested in politics than I am, because this is about the only way the people are going to be heard, but the truth is, I am more interested in local city commission contests than in the races for U. S. Senator and Pres-

Well, this isn't to say I have no interest at all in who gets elected on the national level; it's just that most of us feel that we really don't have much say about who gets the job on those levels, while we believe our vote might make a difference in local races.

Voter apathy, which comes from just such reasoning, is one of the big problems in our country. If enough people figured their vote didn't matter, and most of them would have voted the same way, then their votes definitely would matter. We newspaper people know this, so without fail we strongly urge everyone to go to the polls when the big day comes around. I wonder how many of us tell all our readers to go to the polls and then go fishing, as I did last

* * * * * A MAN was taking no chances in buying a parakeet. He went to every cage in the pet shop, repeating, "Can you talk? Can you talk?"

At the last cage, a parakeet replied disdainfully, "Yeah, I can talk. Can you fly?"

READING A publication called the Grain Producers News sounds like nothing but Dullsville to one who wouldn't know the milo from the silo, but I found a couple of interesting western history articles in the October issue. One was about Buckshot Roberts, anold-timer who stood off Billy the Kid and his gang in the Lincoln County war, and I had read about Roberts before. The other was about a deputy named High Grimes, who was shot in Round Rock by the Sam Bass gang.

Although the west has been highly glamorized and there's much fantasy mixed in with the facts, there really were a number of notorious gunmen in the old days. Few of them, if any, though, could draw in the blink of an eye and shoot holes in half dollars with guns in either hand. My family could really have made a big name for themselves in those days. They can shoot holes in the whole budget in the blink of an eye.

the second quarter to the 10 when Williams scored the TD and the two point conversion. The Hornets surprised the Mustangs on a pitch-out from Pickett to Martin who then passed to Saldano for another TD. Try for extras failed and the Hornets led at halftime, 22-0.

In the third quarter, Martin scored on a 60 yard run. Johnson converted for two points after. Saldano recovered a Bovina fumble which put them in 1 1 position for another score by Martin with Johnson scoring the two extras. Late in the third quarter, the Bovina Mustangs got on the score board with a TD but failed on PAT. Williams hit pay dirt late in the fourth quarter for the Hornets on a 55 yard run. Johnson went over for points after and they led 46. o. However, the Mustangs had not given up and scored another touchdown and two extras, and the game ended Sudan 46, Bo-

Higher Crup Production Than 1971 ... Pecen Estimate Declines . . . Citrus Crop Now Expected Higher than 1970 . . . Fed Cattle Down Slightly . . . Fall Wheat Furnishes Limited Grazing . . .

John C. White, Commissioner

Texas farmers are again making records in crop production. Cotton, peanuts, soybeans and grain sorghum will exceed 1971 levels. The latest cotton estimate for the state is 3,900,000 bales. Last year's harvest was 2,579,000 bales. Yield this year should average 365 pounds per acre.

Grain sorghum production is set at 341,600,000 bushels with a record yield of 61 bushels per acre anticipated. Texas produces nearly half the nation's supply of grain sorghum.

Peanut production this year is estimated at 434,720,000 pounds compared with 366,795,000 pounds in 1971. Harvest is now more than 50 percent complete. Soybean production will be 5,670,000 bushels, or about twice the production of 1971.

Corn production is not expected to be above last year. A 35,000,000 bushel crop is forecast for the state now as compared with 43,056,000 bushels in 1971.

PECAN production based on October 1 prospects is now forecast at 65,000,000 pounds, down from the previous estimate of 71,000,000 pounds. The 65,000,000 pound crop would be 171 percent more than the 24,000,000 pounds produced in 1971. It will be the second largest crop of record. Texas accounts for about 35 percent of the nation's total pecan production.

CITRUS in the state this year will exceed the 1971 production by about 15 percent, based on current conditions. The Texas citrus crop is forecast at 17,200,000

Grapefruit production is expected to total 10,400,000 boxes, 13 percent above 1971. Early and mid-season oranges are forecast at 4,500,000 boxes, 19 percent above a year ago. Valencia oranges are forecast at 2,300,000 boxes, up 15 percent from last year.

CATTLE on feed being fed for slaughter in Texas total 2,091,000 head, which is 30 percent above the numbers on feed a year ago, but slightly below the 2,095,000 head on feed a month ago.

Feedlot operators intend to market 1,235,000 between now and December 31. This would be 59 percent of the number on feed and would be 30 percent more than marketed during the October 1 to December 1 period last

Texas continues to be number one cattle feeding state in the nation. In the major six-state feeding area--Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska-there were 7,630,000 head on feed; this compared with 5,701,000 head a year ago.

WHEAT seeding throughout the state is more than two-thirds complete. However, only limited grazing was available. As of October 1, about 10 percent of the 1973 wheat crops showed sufficient growth to provide pasture. Last year, more than 20 percent of the crop was available

Range and non-irrigated pasture conditions over the state was set at 77 percent of normal.

MILK production in Texas during September was up five percent from a year ago but three percent below the previous month's production. Total production for September was 270,000,000 pounds. Milk production per cow averaged 760 pounds which is 40 pounds above a year

Ag Research Fights Greenbug Menace

Greenbug infestations in 1972 have caused some grain/ sorghum growers in the Southwest to lose their entire crop, USDA officials report.

On the other hand, sorghum growers in the southern plains were more fortunate because winds and thunder showers knocked greenbugs off the plants in July, holding crop damage to a minimum.

Scientists warn, however, that even those growers not hurt by greenbug infestation this year may not be so lucky the next time. Sorghum grow-ers want and need greenbug tolerant varieties, they em-

"Even when we loaded the plants with greenbugs, NK 233 and NK 266 still produced a crop." reports Paul duced a crop," reports Paul Menge (right), sorghum proj-ect leader.

According to entomologist Dr. Glenn Moore (left), "Biological control of insects and disease does not upset the balance of nature. This trend toward biological control is also consistent with the growing concern about our environment and ecology.

He went on to say that while there has been success with insecticide control of sorghum greenbugs, many growers and farm scientists don't believe chemical control is the real solution. Growers and entomologists know that insecticides not only add to the cost of raising a crop, but these chemicals can kill beneficial insects. Excessive use of farm chemicals can arouse environmentalists bringing harsh laws restricting or eliminating chemical control.

The company's research team developed a biological solution to the problem greenbug tolerant sorghum varieties NK 233 and NK 266. Both hybrids are high yielding sorghums and represent a natural economic method of insect tolerance - a method that presents no danger to the environment. Monkeynaut Miss Baker 'Drives' Moon Buggy

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. - No female astronaut has made it to the moon yet, but America's "first lady in space" took what might be termed "one giant leap for womankind" recently at the Alabama Space and Rocket Center here,

Miss Baker, the tiny monkey who made her historic space flight in a Jupiter rocket on May 28, 1959, preceding manned flights, made the 'leap" into a real "moon bug-

She took a ride in the lunar roving vehicle which has just gone on display here, and ac-tually touched the steering wheel as the vehicle moved, thus becoming the first female driver of a moon buggy.

Miss Baker, a Peruvian squirrel monkey who weighs only one pound, (as compared to a thousand pounds for the moon buggy) is now a perman-ent resident of the Alabama Space and Rocket Center. She and her husband, Big George, greet visitors from a specially designed monkeynaut chamber which has a complete environmental control system and all the comforts of home. The moon buggy, an actual operating example of the lunar roving vehicles rocketed to the moon and driven by astronauts, runs on batteries at a maximum speed of about 8

An umbrella-shaped object on the front of the two-seat jeep-like vehicle is a communications antenna, and there is a

TV camera mounted in front. The moon buggy is now a part of the world's largest collection of rockets, space vehicles and space equipment at the Center, which is also adding still another unique item a space ship that has been

Unlike most museums, the Center permits visitors not only to see but actually to touch - and in some cases operate - the exhibits, giving visitors the sensation of "being an astronaut."

Miss Baker, who was born in 1957, is now an elderly lady, approaching the equivalent human age of 90. But she is still a charmer, with golden and light brown hair, and is a favorite of visitors.

In fact, she receives more fan mail than many movie stars - about 40 to 50 letters per month - and each letter is answered wih a letter from Miss Baker and a photo of the famous space monkey, autographed with a paw print. Miss Baker's address is Alabama Space and Rocket Center, Tranquility Base, Huntsville, ALA., 35807. She greets visitors from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. each day.

A color brochure about the Center, showing many of the huge rockets, missiles, spacecraft and other exhibits, may be obtained free by writing to the Center - or to Miss Baker. who'll enclose one with her

Judge Daniel cited several cases which held the pledge created "a purely moral obligation binding no longer than it could be conscientiously performed. "

He also referred to an opinion in 1940 by then attorney general Gerald C. Mann that held there is no law prohibiting a person who voted in one primary from voting for the nominee of another party in the general election-or from writing in the name of some other person.

Judge Daniel closed his opinion with this paragraph:

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding, it should be said again that the moral obligation stemming from the party primary pledge applies only to the state and local candidates nominated at such primary and does not apply to national nominees for president and vice president. "

This opinion was dated October 28, 1952 and mailed to County Attorney Jack Y. Hardee of Henderson County.

A Christian Vote Bloc?

In two weeks you vote. But just who do you think you' ment were not democratic, are, trying to influence your Doesn't the Bible say, "Let every person be in subjection to the governing powers, for there is no authority except from God and those which exist are established by God"?

Some people shun political activity because they think that's tampering with God's domain. Could it be?

God opposes anarchy; every government—no matter how corrupt or immoral-derives its authority ultimately from God. Simply said, then, to disobey a governmental law is to disobey God because governmental authority operates as an extension of God's au-

Properly considered, breaking "unimportant" laws like the speed and litter laws is sin. Contempt for authority is morally and spiritually, as well as legally, wrong,

But what about voting? Two things:

First, governmental sovereignty and authority, under the United States Constitution, rest with the individual citizens, not with the bureauracy or the elected officials. Congressmen are called "Representatives" because they stand in the place of their constituents, the people with the final say-so.

Voting, in this light, is a moral and spiritual duty. "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord," the Bible says, and the only force that can make us such a nation of all, loving, is the votes of the people.

Second, even if the governthe Bible requires that believers work for social justice for all men. If the government is morally in error we must not make that error personal by obeying the government in its wrong policy. Conflict results, but that is better than injustice, Christians Should Act

The people who know God should be out trying to put their relationship to work for the benefit of their neighbors and communities.

Let's be very practical, for one example.

It's been almost 58 years since the Scopes "monkey trial" in Dayton, Tennessee, drew public ridicule on the creation of the world as taught by the Bible. On November 9 and 10 public hearings will be held in California to consider adopting science text-books that accept the possibility that the world might have been created by design by a divine Being. Presently, only evolution is Should Christians do something here? Certainly, And new text-books are adopted periodically in your area, too. Why not investigate?

Or find something else. No citizen has any more authority than you do. Use it.

All of us believers must begin thinking of our government in spiritual terms. It operates in God's stead. We must participate. By being informed. By making our ideas known to officials. By, first Copyright Dave Llewellyn '72
