SQUIRRELS are like people. They have their pecking order, which means that certain ones of them dominate others, according to a recent field study reported by the Texas Parks & Wildlife Dept.

According to news release, the recent study was of small groups of squirrels confined in pens for long periods. Here's what wildlife biologist Bill Wright said about the experiment:

"Extreme contesting for leadership followed initial penning, but once this hierarchy becomes established, it was the way of life in the pen. The dominant squirrel and his favored associates rigidly controlled use of food, perches and nest boxes.

"In some pens, individual squirrels were so completely rejected that they apparently died from the resulting frustrations. Autopsy of these revealed severe emaciation from lack of food and organ malfunction."

Something about that statement reminds me of the choir in a church I used to attend.

The squirrel situation seems a bit cruel, but, say the Wildlife people, "It is nature's way of selecting the best mentally and physically equipped individuals to survive... Poorly equipped individuals are eliminated to prevent their genes from weakening population."

If this practice had been carried over into the world of people, I'd have been in trouble some time ago.

AN ESTIMATED 20,000 Texans are enrolled in 1,000 defensive driving courses being taught this month in the state, and I'm one of them. I finished the course successfully, perhaps because almost nobody flunks it.

When you take the course, it costs you $8, and saves you more than that on your insurance premiums. Besides, according to J. U. Parker, who is some kind of wheel in the Texas Safety Assn., a study conducted by the National Safety Council shows that DDC (Defensive driving course) graduates have 32.8 per cent fewer accidents in the year after taking DDC. He didn't say if that was fewer than they had the previous year, or fewer than those persons who haven't had the course.

The state board of insurance has directed insurance companies whose rates they set to give a 10 per cent reduction on automobile liability, collision and medical payments insurance to certified graduates of the training program.

That, of course, is why I took it, and it is the reason why all the others take it. But it is kind of interesting, with films and other visual aids.

We didn't have any homework, although it was suggested that between sessions we might try driving one hour on the Lubbock loop without getting hit. (After all, Lubbock Leads the Way, and if you ever drive on the loop, you know where it is they're leading the way to boyl shop, hospital or funeral home).

Reportedly, 99 per cent of those who have taken the DDC say their driving habits have improved as a result of the

Census Bureau Slates Survey

A sample of households in this area will take part in a nationwide survey on employment and unemployment to be conducted the week of February 19-23 by the Bureau of the Census, Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Dallas, announced today.

The survey is taken monthly by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor. The households interviewed are scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all households.

Statistics on conditions in the labor force from month to month provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation. In December, for example, total employment increased by 280,000 to 82.8 million (seasonally adjusted), continuing the strong upward trend in evidence since mid-1971. The revised unemployment rate for December was 5.1 percent, down from 5.2 percent in November and from 6.0 percent a year ago.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is held confidential by law and is used only to compile statistical totals.

GIRL SCOUTS TO

Girl Scouts of the Caprock Council will begin their annual cookie sale, Friday, Feb. 23, with approximately 40 local Girl Scouts, Brownie and Junior scouts, selling at 4 p. m.

Cookies will be sold at the price of $1.00 per box. The cookie sale profit provides the following: 10¢ per box sold by troops for their own activities; improvements and maintenance at Camp Rio Blanco; camping

Stock Show And Sale Set

The Livestock Show and Sale of area FFA and 4-H animals will be held this weekend at the showbarns in Littlefield. Some 35 Sudan students are expected to show animals.

Animals may be brought to the barns beginning at 1 p. m. and in their places by 7 p. m. Thursday.

Sale superintendent is Don Ham, FFA adviser from Sudan.

Judging will begin promptly at 1 p. m. Friday in all divisions. The sale begins promptly at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 24.

Sudan students will show 32 animals in the sheep division, course. It stands to reason that the course will cut down on accidents. Why, in February alone, with 20,000 drivers taking the course for 8 hours, that's 160,000 hours of potential driving time when they're kept off the roads.

The real answer may be to keep the drivers out of the cars and in the classroom.

DON'T SHOOT!!
Several Sudan citizens have complained recently about B. B. guns being used near their homes—in fact, one person said birds were shot in his yard—and some B. B. shot have made holes in windows.

According to the city officials, there is a state law stating that if one is caught in the act of shooting a window, and is a minor, the parents are responsible for the damages.

He closed with remarks on personal motivation, which we all need. He said all of us have a problem. It might be money, drugs, alcohol, or some other problem, but this is not the most important thing. What is important is what you are doing to overcome your problem. He stated we need to identify our problem and then attack it, if we want to overcome it. His final advice was "Don't be afraid to try something; don't be afraid to fail, and to try again. Recognize your problem, and dare to do something about it."

WORCESTERSHIRE CHICKEN IS SMACKIN' GOOD

There are many dozens of delicious ways of seasoning chicken, and Worcestershire sauce is one of the easiest and most flavorful.

If you're broiling chicken, blend ¼ cup original Worcestershire sauce with a 6-ounce can of frozen concentrated orange juice or concentrate for lemonade, use as a brush-on sauce.

Or mix 3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour over chicken cut in pieces and marinate for an hour or two. Then coat with 6 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs and ¼ cup finely chopped salted peanuts. Bake until done.

To provide a generous bowlful of chicken gravy for the hot biscuits, stir a pleasing dash or two of Worcestershire into chicken gravy mix or undiluted cream of chicken soup.

Should there be leftover chicken, use it in a casserole layered with cooked vegetables and moistened with Worcestershire cream of mushroom soup or cream of chicken, then scattered with bread crumbs and grated cheese or a wide circle of seasoned mashed potatoes.
