FORTY-NINTH YEAR

NUMBER 17

SUDAN, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS

THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1973

10 CENTS PER COPY

—by Dalton

AH, JUNE AT LAST, the month for vacations to start in most businesses, and of course, for all those folks who have kids in some kind of school. Also, the month when a lot of people get married, for one reason or another. Also the month for kids baseball, girls softball and mowing lawns.

It's national seat belt month, according to a monthly calendar of coming events which we saw last week. Not only that, it's National Dairy Month and Rose Month, and the month includes Father's Day, Flag Day, National Apricot Week, and the beginning of Freedom Week.

It may be National Run Out of Gas Month if there's any basis to the scare stories we're hearing.

We think dairy products are fine, roses are okay if you don't take them in fairs, seat belts and fathers are a pain in the seat (particularly if you're a Little League baseball coach), we're all for flags and freedom as long as it's not too ostentatious, and apricots taste yukky.

And some smart aleck just walked by and said he knows of one guy who'll never run out of gas.

Any talk of vacations brings to mind the gasoline shortage, because some folks apparently are taking their chances when they go on a trip this year. Vacations are kind of like those fathers mentioned above: they're great if they are your own, but not so great if they belong to someone else. We can hardly wait to get away from the office and go cruising off to the Bahamas (well, to Bull Lake, anyway). But when the others in the office are on vacation, it's not so funny for those left behind.

Last week the society editor at our operation in Slaton was on vacation, so some of the rest of us had to write the parties and weddings and stuff we don't know much about. I intended to put a notice in the previous week's paper advising all prospective brides and their mothers that they would have to postpone all weddings a week until the society editor returns. But I forgot to do that, and some went ahead and got married anyway, not realizing how inconvenient it was for the newspaper.

Those fathers who are paying for their daughter's weddings this month probably can feel kinship to the father who said as he watched his daughter select the most expensive wedding gown: "I don't mind giving you away, but do I have to gift-wrap you?"

makes hearing aids, is always coming through with some information about ears and how they work. They mentioned this week that young children who are more attracted by movement than sound and who pay more attention than usual to a speaker's face may have hearing losses and should have a hearing test. They also said "Many senior citizens lose some of their hearing ability due to aging. This process, called presbycusis, can cause words to seem garbled. . ."

I can think of a crack to make about that one, but I don't want to offend my Presbyterian friends.

CENSUS SURVEY BEGINS JUNE 18

Which way is the U. S. birth rate going? Will it continue its recent downward course or will it reverse the trend? Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau of the Census Data Collection Center in Dallas, announced today that a survey in this area will help to answer the question. Information on birth expectations will be collected here the week of June 18-22 from a sample of households.

Census Bureau interviewers will ask wives how many children they expect to have within the next 5 years. The responses will indicate the future growth and composition of the Nation's population, data vital to planners both in government and private business.

Householders in the sample will also be asked about benefits from various government and private programs. Answers to these questions will be used to evaluate the effect of such income on the economy of the country.

The questions are in addition

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation. The April survey showed that employment, at 83.9 million seasonally adjusted, was little changed from March. CENSUS SURVEY BEGINS JUNE 18

Which way is the U.S. birth rate going? Will it continue its recent downward course or will it reverse the trend? Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau of the Census Data Collection Center in Dallas, announced today that a survey in this area will help to answer the question. Information on birth expectations will be collected here the week of June 18-22 from a sample of households.

Census Bureau interviewers will ask wives how many children they expect to have within the next 5 years. The responses will indicate the future growth and composition of the Nation's population, data vital to planners both in government and private business.

Householders in the sample will also be asked about benefits from various government and private programs. Answers to these questions will be used to evaluate the effect of such income on the economy of the country.

The questions are in addition

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation. The April survey showed that employment, at 83.9 million seasonally adjusted, was little changed from March. Unemployment remained essentially unchanged at 5.0 percent, but was substantially below the 5.8 percent of April a year ago.
