What started out in my mind as a possible column item on mufflers may wind up as a disorganized discourse on hand cleaners, country roads and a few other things which seemingly aren't related, but really are, if you think as I do.

Thinking about the trouble I've had recently with mufflers coming loose led me to the thought that I like to fiddle with mechanical things, although I sometimes don't accomplish much other than getting dirty hands, arms and forehead (which I scratch with my dirty hands while trying to figure out what to do next).

This naturally leads to the subject of hand cleaners, and I've got to tell you about this Heyer stuff we have for sale at the office. It's priced at 75 cents a jar, and this has to be the worst bargain you'll ever run onto. Because the stuff is absolutely and totally worthless. I didn't know this until recently when I took a jar of it home after using up all the little can of hand cleaner I bought six years ago from White's.

The bottle of Heyer cleaner says it will remove ink stains, ball point, ribbon, carbon and other difficult stains. It didn't say anything specifically about grease, and now I know why. You rub this stuff into your hands and it grinds the stain in, so you can look at it for several days. (This is one company's version of Heyer ground). It also feels like rubber cement.

Now I've got the Heyer people mad at me. In their defense, I'll say that we also have for sale some hand cleaning pads that are great, and are made by Heyer. They work fine and smell good. I don't understand why the jar product is so bad, unless we've had it in stock too long. As for the smell, I rubbed some on my hand and asked my daughter what it smelled like. She said, "It smells like the bathroom in a service station."

Now I've got the service station people mad at me.

We have several bottles of the stuff left on the shelf. Now we're going to have a contest. In 25 words or less, complete this statement: "I like to read my local newspaper because--". Submit your entry on a dirty piece of paper, and you could be winner of one of two big prizes. First prize will be a bottle of Heyer hand cleaner. Second prize will be two bottles of Heyer hand cleaner.

Back to the subject of mufflers, I just can't seem to get one to stay on. A perfectly good muffer on my automobile fell off while we were on a weekend trip. I drove into a service station, put it on the rack, and the nice man tightened it good after putting it back together. He explained that they don't put the little slit in the end of the pipes anymore, so you just have to hope the clamp will tighten it down good.

Eight miles down the road it came loose again. A little later I spent a half hour putting it back together. I even wired it up two or three ways (which I understand is illegal, although I can't imagine why). This helped, because it stayed put for about half a day of driving. It might have stayed longer, had we not taken a shortcut. And therein lies another story, which is best summarized in this statement my other daughter made later in the day: "Every time daddy takes a shortcut, we wind up on a dirt road."

TOPS NEWS

TOPS 634 met Monday at the Community Center with eight present. They repeated the TOPS Pledge in unison. Each one was then measured. Roll call was answered in pounds lost or gained.

This shortcut from Portales to Muleshoe was recommended by a guy who probably is still laughing at his idea of a joke. He forgot to tell us that after a few miles of pavement it turned into empty-seven miles of dirt road. And it had rained, and washed out big holes. My muffer repair job even withstood this for awhile, but finally gave up and came loose. When we got back on the pavement and opened up to 70 mph or so, the roar was remarkable. We scared one guy off the road; I think he thought a DC-8 was about to land on him.

So we stopped again and put it back together, the third time that day. It's kind of fun laying down on the pavement in your dress-up duds and putting your hands on a hot muffer. When you first touch it, you can roar as loud as it can.

KNOTHLES: Vern Sanford of Texas Press Assn. cautions that poison ivy is potent the year round, even after the plant is dead. He says that it's not uncommon for campers who pick up firewood to get poison ivy, and that sometimes they can catch it from the smoke of burning poison ivy buds. This is not news to me; I itch just reading about it. I have had three bad bouts with poison ivy, one of which required hospitalization. I knew it wasn't going to kill me, but it sure was misery. Sanford comes up with a treatment I never heard of. He says to rub the skin gently with cotton soaked in a mixture of 12 aspirin tablets and some camphor gum dissolved in a pint of rubbing alcohol. If that doesn't work, I guess you could always drink it. Gov. Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed July 25 - 31 Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week. The best way to prevent having an accident on a farm or ranch is to stay off a farm or ranch.

Lubbock Babe Ruthers Capture State Title

The West Texas State Babe Ruth double elimination 17 - 18 year old All-Star Tournament at Olton last week was won by Lubbock Babe Ruthers Saturday night. The team won each of their three games.

Bill Wallis of the Lubbock team was named "Most Valuable Player" of the tournament.

The ALMO team, composed of area players, lost its opener Tuesday night 7 - 0 to South Plains. Last year's state winner, Northside San Antonio, tromped Graham 13 - 1; Lubbock broke a 6 - 6 tie with Southside San Antonio in the seventh inning to emerge the 7-6 winners. Northside picked up 14 hits to two for Graham; Jerry Roberson of South Plains fanned 15 and walked three in ALMO's loss with ALMO's lone base runners Mark Hanna in first, Tec Thomas in fifth, and Tim Givins in sixth.

In Wednesday's action, Graham won over Southside 4-1 behind the pitching of Mike Pace, eliminating Southside from the tourney. Northside and South Plains game was interrupted due to rain in the fifth inning.

The Northside-South Plains game was resumed Thursday with Northside winning 4-0. Graham slipped past ALMO 4-2 with Stan Maples the winning hurler. Losing pitcher was Gary White who was relieved by Donnie Noles in the fourth. Lubbock earned a berth in the championship game with a victory over Northside, 3-1. Bill Wallis was winning pitcher and gave up three hits, walked two, and struck out six, as well as slamming a one-run homer in the fourth for what turned out to be the winning run. Brady Bybee scored first for Lubbock. In the sixth, Arlan Patton provided an insurance marker with a run-scoring single which knocked in Mike Bewley. Mayo Galvino was losing pitcher.

Crop Report Looks Good... Milk Production Increases and Decreases... Pasture and Range Conditions

All major crops in Texas show increases in acreage, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Wheat production as well as oat production are also estimated now at two to three times above 1972 production levels.

Upland cotton acres for Texas this year are estimated at 5,700,000 compared with 5,570,000 in 1972. Acres planted to American-Pima cotton are 35,000, unchanged from last year. All of the increase in the upland cotton is in the High and Low Plains and Edwards Plateau.

Grein sorghum acreage this year in Texas is estimated at 8,100,000 acres, up 19 per cent from the 6,800,000 acres planted in 1972. Harvest of the crop has already started in South Texas. An excellent crop is indicated for Central Texas. Hot, dry weather is needed to mature the crop.

Corn planted for all purposes in Texas this year is estimated at 700,000 acres compared with 580,000 acres planted in 1972. Because of the weather, corn is in various stages of growth in every area of the state. Farmers in all parts of the state were able to get some early stands, most stands were about on schedule but cold, wet weather increased late plantings.

Peanut acreage for Texas in 1973 is up two per cent from 1972. Acreage now is estimated at 320,000 acres. Weather again delayed the progress, but moisture conditions now are favorable for the development of a good peanut crop.

Wheat production is now estimated at 95,200,000 bushels in Texas; this is more than double the 44,000,000 bushels produced in 1972.

Yield is expected to average 28 bushels per acre, a record, compared with 22 bushels last year. Harvested acres set at 3,400,000 compared with only 2,000,000 in 1972. Wheat harvest for the state is now virtually complete.

Oat production this year is estimated at 26,650,000 bushels, compared with only 9,720,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average a record 41 bushels per acre compared with 27 bushels in 1972. Acres for harvest are set at 650,000 compared with 360,000 in 1972. Harvest is completed.

Soybeans, a crop which is becoming more important in Texas, are estimated to total 450,000 acres this year, compared with 225,000 in 1972 and only 114,000 in 1971. Seeding for the state is complete; acreage is mostly in the High Plains and the southern half of the state.

Rice acreage in Texas this year is estimated at 553,000 acres compared with 469,000 acres in 1972. Harvest of the earliest stands is at hand.

Barley production is estimated at 3,510,000 bushels, compared with 1,980,000 bushels in 1972. Yield is expected to average 30 bushels per acre compared to 33 bushels in 1972. Harvested acres are set at 90,000 compared to 60,000 last year.

Rye production is estimated at 600,000 compared to 630,000 bushels in 1972. Average is 18 bushels per acre; harvested acres are set at 50,000 compared to 35,000 in 1972.

Only flaxseed, Irish potatoes and peaches are expected to be under 1972 production levels. Flaxseed planted acreage is estimated at 9,000 acres compared with 22,000 in 1972. Irish potato production is estimated at 2,991,000 hundredweight compared with 3,182,000 hundredweight in 1972. Peach production is estimated at 417,000 bushels compared with 604,000 bushels in 1972.

MILK production in Texas in June was up five per cent from a month ago, nationwide milk production was down 2.5 per cent from last year.

Summer Camps Challenge College Men

College men by the thousands are working as counselors this summer at camps for youngsters across the country.

But more than 7,000 young men--most of whom have completed their junior college years--are campers, not counselors.

They are Army ROTC cadets attending "Preparation for Leadership" camps at five major Army installations--Forts Bragg, N. C.; Benning, Ga.; Knox, Ky.; Riley, Kans.; and Lewis, Wash. During the summer, they'll be meeting some of the toughest physical and mental challenges of their young lifetimes. The challenges are designed to help them develop their ability to lead and motivate their peers.

After their camps have ended, most of the cadets will return to their campus to complete their final year of undergraduate studies, including their Military Science courses. Then, about a year from now, they'll receive both their diplomas and their commissions as Army second lieutenants.

Some will launch careers as active Army officers. Others will complete active duty requirements, be assigned as citizen-soldier officers to Army Reserve or National Guard units, and start their civilian careers.

But whether they make their careers in the Army or in civilian life, the challenging leadership instruction they receive this summer is likely to serve them well. Army ROTC graduates are in top positions across the nation today in business, education, government, and virtually every other field.

South Plains Fair Set

Catalogs plugging an eight-day schedule, $40,000 in premiums and a "Shower of Stars" already expected to set Fair Park Coliseum records have been distributed to more than 5,000 potential exhibitors for the 56th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair.

The big exposition will be un-released Sept. 22-29, expanding its run from the customary six days to eight, including two Saturday cards and a Sunday slate.

The expanded schedule has made it possible to spread out scheduling of some of the favorite shows--including an open horse show which is slated for Saturday, Sept. 22, and a Quarter Horse show, set for the following Saturday.

The same holds true for the 6th annual fiddlers contest and the 20th annual West Texas Twirling Festival, which have been held on closing day of the fair in recent years.

This year, however, the fiddlers will compete on Sept. 22 and hundreds of twirlers will be rolling their batons on the following Saturday.

In addition, livestock, open barrow show, all-variety pigeon, and poultry shows are slated. The rabbit and tropical fish shows--both popular--also are on the slate again.

Other top features include the wide array of women's department exhibits, agricultural, youth, fine arts and flower shows--all of which have substantial roles in the 56th annual exposition. Entertainment for Fair Park Coliseum already has drawn rave notices since it was recently announced.

The schedule includes Mac Davis and Raina English, both former Lubbockites, as well as a host of other stars--all of whom have been in the musical limelight in recent months.

The lineup:
Sept. 22 - Lobo and the Earl Scruggs Revue.

Sept. 23 - Fiesta Mexicana, featuring Vicente Fernandez, El Mariachi Tenampa, Graciela Flores and emcee Oscar Zamora.

Sept. 24 - 25 - Davis and Donna Fargo.

Sept. 26 - 27 - Lynn Anderson and The Statler Brothers.

Sept. 28 - "Dawn", featuring Tony Orlando; plus Raina and husband, Guy Hovis of the Lawrence Welk show.

Sept. 29 - Mel Tillis and Jody Miller.

A free aerial act featuring "The Stardusters" also has been slated.

Charlie Dornan will be master of ceremonies for all shows, which will be presented at 5:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. daily. Tickets are priced at $2.50, $3.50 and $4.50 for all shows. Mail order requests now being accepted by the fair association at P. O. Box 208, Lubbock, 79408 will be mailed in early August. Catalogs also may be obtained from the same address.

The eight-day fair card was okayed by fair directors following extensive study. Most fairs of comparable size run longer than the previous six-day format. In addition, the extended run provides some added "rain insurance," officials explained.

COMMISSION REACHING DECISION ON CONSTITUTION

The once in a century effort to revise the Texas Constitution is well underway.

The Texas Constitutional Revision Commission, charged with studying the need for constitutional change, has entered the decision-making stage of its program.

The result will be a report to the legislature November 1. The legislature will meet as a Constitutional Convention in January, 1974, to act on that report. The revised document will be submitted to the people for their approval in an election.

The process actually started in the general election last November, when voters approved Amendment Four, which authorized revision of the 97-year-old Constitution and provided a procedure for doing so.

The 1972 amendment was the first time since 1876 that Texas voters have agreed to look hard at the framework of their state's government. The last, and only other, call to a Constitutional Convention was overwhelmingly rejected by the voters in 1919.

The 1972 amendment provided for a Constitutional Revision Commission, which the 63rd Legislature promptly created.

The Commission has 37 members, selected by the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the House, the attorney general, the state Supreme Court Justice and the Chief Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Commissioners, who were nominated by the public, come from all areas of the state and represent a broad spectrum of occupations, interests and political persuasions.

The Commission is now deep into committee work. To facilitate the process, the Commission divided into seven standing committees, dealing with the Executive Branch, the Legislative Branch, the Judiciary, finance, education, local government and general provisions.

These committees, in keeping with a schedule recently approved by the Commission, will present preliminary recommend-

WATER FUND FREEZE

In two separate meetings over the past week, State Representative Bill Clayton (D-Springlake) studied proposed state and federal regulations dealing with land and water problems.

Meeting in Washington at a seminar sponsored by the Interstate Conference on Water Problems and the Environment, Clayton discussed with other state and federal legislators the effects of a projected freeze on funds for water resources development projects. Clayton, who serves as Chairman of the Conference dealing with water problems, stated that such a water fund freeze would severely hamper the efforts currently underway to curtail a predicted national water shortage in the near future.

Following the Washington Conference, Clayton returned to Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he attended a meeting of the Southern Legislative Conference. While in attendance at the Conference, Rep. Clayton, who serves on the Executive Board of the S. L. C., attended to the Commission at a meeting July 27, 28 and 29 in Austin.

The Commission will vote on the recommendations at meetings in August and September. (The Commission is forbidden from amending the Bill of Rights, the first 29 sections of the Constitution which guarantee such basic rights as free speech, free press and freedom of religion.)

The Commission's report to the legislature November 1 is by no means the final step. Amendment Four provides that the legislature will convene in January, in joint session, as a Constitutional Convention.

The Convention, by a vote of two-thirds of its members, may submit to the voters a new Constitution, which may contain alternative articles or sections, or it may submit a revision of the existing Constitution.

The Convention may schedule a special election or it may ask voters to approve the document in the November general election.

was elected as one of two at-large members to represent the Southern Region on the Governing Board of the Council of State Governments.

After a two-day study period, the S. L. C. membership passed several resolutions, including measures urging the federal government not to preempt the rights and predominant role of the various states in enacting land use legislation, an appeal for adequate financing of the Rural Development Act of 1972, and a mandate to require immediate research to find energy crisis solutions.

Dancercising Pamphlet

Hate Exercising? Try "Dancercising"

Ginger Brown, professional ballet dancer, teacher and good grooming and exercise consultant for Armour-Dial, Inc., the makers of Dial soap, demonstrates the "Porte de bras," ("exercise for the arms").

It's just one of a series of "dancercises" found in a new, illustrated pamphlet available free from Dial soap. Titled "Dancercising," the pamphlet describes a dozen ballet routines and developed by Ginger Brown for the arms, stomach, waistline, hips and thighs.

Ginger recently concluded an 11-city tour in which she demonstrated her dancercises to figure-conscious women across the country. She believes the discipline and techniques important to a professional dancer and teacher also can benefit the woman who wants to make exercise a regular part of her beauty and health routine, but may have only limited time to devote to it.

Ginger combined ballet and modern dance movements and analyzed them in relation to the body, selecting those that applied to specific body areas. She simplified these so they could be performed easily and gracefully. The result is dancercising.

According to Ginger Brown, one of the added benefits of her dancercise routine is a "wonderful sense of well-being experienced in going through a series of graceful movements." She recommends topping off this activity with a shower or relaxing bath using "plenty of rich Dial soap lather."

For a free copy of the dancercise pamphlet send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Armour-Dial, Inc., Dept. PR, Greyhound Tower, Phoenix, Ariz. 85077.
