

Tips For Two Home Owners

If your vacation home is second rate, safetywise, correct the situation when you open it for the spring, even from the Texas Safety Association.

For safe, enjoyable vacations and weekends, furnish the vacation home with the same care used for the primary home. It doesn't have to be fancy to be safe.

TSA suggests that you measure up your vacation home against this checklist of some of the major hazards that afflict second homes:

Are wells, cisterns and similar fixtures protected with sturdy covers?

Are wooden stairs and porches in good shape and free of rotting lumber and protruding nails?

Is interior paint low-lead or lead free?

Is mechanical equipment in safe working condition?

Are roofs fire-resistant and in good condition?

Are there sufficient electrical outlets to avoid overuse of extension cords?

Has wiring been safety checked by an expert?

Are heating installations inspected and serviced once a year?

Do all sleeping areas have at least two means of exit in case of fire?

Are fuel pressure tanks and fuel storage tanks kept outside the house?

And while you're at it, the safety group says, see that your primary home meets these minimal safety standards, too.

If golf seems to be for the birds it may be because prior to the 19th century, golf balls were made of feathers.

Well into the 17th century and possibly even beyond, it was widely held that the lower animals: frogs, mice, insects, etc., were derived directly from mud and carrion.

Youths Aid Agriculture in 4-H Program

Whether working in the fields or in the livestock pens or elsewhere, 4-H'ers involved in the 4-H agricultural program gain real experience in this area, and go on to rewarding careers in agriculture and agribusiness.

American agriculture is the success story of the 20th century. And with increased technology, efficient farming techniques and higher yields, U.S. farms are feeding 210 million Americans and a significant part of the world's population.

"To maintain its lofty position as the world's No. 1 provider of food and fiber, requires the constant infusion of new people into the agricultural industry," says Norman C. Mindrum, director of the National 4-H Service Committee. "Young people, such as America's million plus 4-H members enrolled in agricultural projects are gaining a wealth of knowledge and experience in their work with crops, animals and machines. These are the future leaders of agriculture," the director explained.

He noted that one of the country's leading farm machinery manufacturers, International Harvester Company, is aiding in this push for young people to find their future in agriculture. And to assist them, the company is providing a full schedule of incentives and recognition in the Cooperative Extension Service conducted national 4-H agricultural program.

Topping the list of awards are six $1,000 national scholarships to the college of their choice. Additionally, IH provides an expense-paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5, for a boy or girl from each state. And up to four medals of honor are provided for outstanding accomplishments at the county level.

In 1973, nearly 6,500 4-H'ers shared in the recognition. While most of them received medals of honor, 50 attended National 4-H Congress. And five of the six scholarship recipients look to agriculture for a career — ranching, farming or agribusiness.

Among the outstanding group were: Gregg Hartman,

18, Pueblo, Col.; Barry McCutcheon, 18, Hanford, Calif.; Steve Tresslar, 19, Franklin, Ind.; Iowan Charles Butt, 18, of Hampton and Cam Foreman, 18, Felt, Okla.; Freshmen or sophomores in college, the young men are well on their way in agricultural pursuits.

Hartman has a purebred herd of Angus cattle and a flock of registered Hampshire sheep. McCutcheon has grown corn, barley and sugar beets on land rented from his parents; and Tresslar has averaged over 150 bushels of corn per acre for an eight-year period and marketed his crop through beef heifers and steers he has raised.

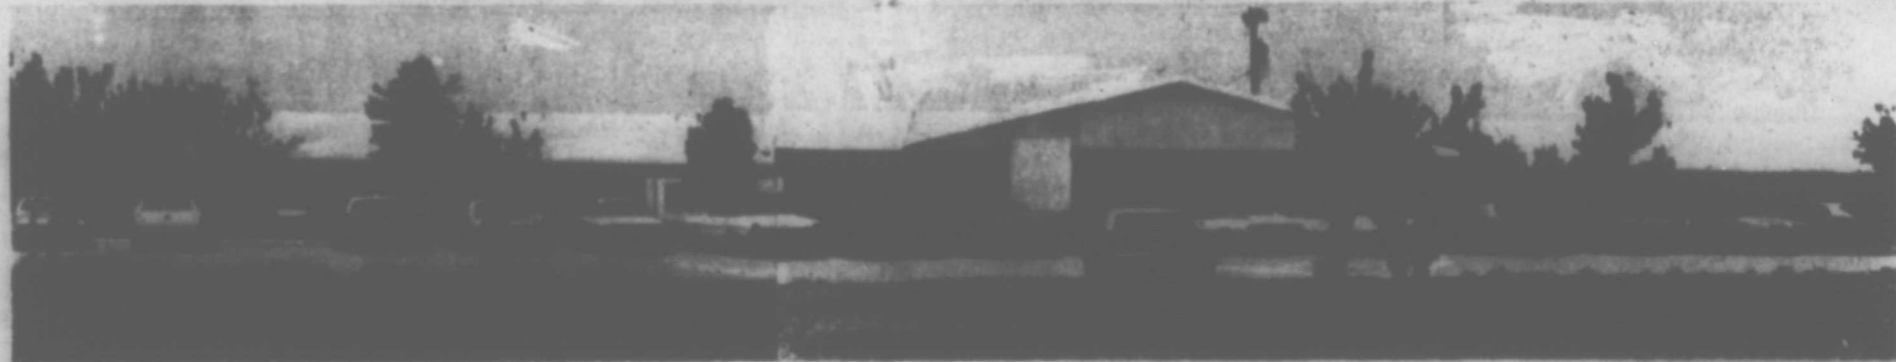

The Iowa and Oklahoma youths have found an outlet for their agricultural interests through managing rented acres.

For information on how to join in America's success story, agriculture, contact the local county extension office.

Students Win Scholarships

The Office of Financial Aid at South Plains College has announced the recipients of Texas State Scholarship for 1973-74.

Among the recipients were Cecilia Bandy and Mary Wright both of Sudan.

Scholarships totaling $200 each ($100 a semester) have been awarded to 46 freshman and sophomore students for the coming school year, according to Glenn Pounds, financial aid officer at SPC.

Scholarships, supported by a state scholarship fund, are awarded on the basis of recommendations from high school or college teachers that the students can maintain a "B" average or better while attending college, Pounds said.

Application forms for these scholarships may be obtained at Pounds' office in the SPC Administration Building. In addition to an application, students must provide two letters of recommendation from high school or college teachers. Pounds said he will start accepting applications for the next scholarship grants in February.

SPELLING WHIZ — Kimberly Smith, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Redman, is described by her kindergarten teacher, Mrs. A. R. Scogin, as one of the best young spellers she has ever taught. Kimberly can spell approximately 150 words, many of them "hard" ones. — (Staff Photo)

Big words don't stump youngster

Kimberly Smith, four-year-old kindergarten pupil of Mrs. A. R. Scogin of 707 West 11th St., has just learned to spell three new words — alligator, elephant and hippopotamus — and they bring to approximately 150 the number of words the youngster is able to spell.

Kimberly, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Redman, is said by Mrs. Scogin to be a remarkable pupil and "undoubtedly the best speller for her age of any child I have taught in my many years of teaching kindergarten."

"When she started kindergarten last August, Kimberly began to spell several one-syllable words right off, and since then she has progressed to much harder words, and is learning to spell new ones every day," her teacher said.

Mrs. Scogin said she first took notice of Kimberly's spelling ability when she spelled "chalk" after seeing a piece of chalk in her teacher's hand, and then went to the blackboard and wrote the word.

"Jesus," "Post," "telephone" — these are just a few of the words Kimberly has learned to spell. She can also recite the Pledge of Allegiance, count to 100 and do simple addition.

Bike Crashes Up 70 Percent

Noting that traffic accidents involving bicycles increased by some 70 percent in Texas last year, the Texas Safety Association urges cyclists to begin bike season this spring with safety in mind.

Riders should be aware that bicycles are subject to all traffic rules, signs and signals on Texas thoroughfares.

TSA recommends the following bike safety rules:

- Keep to the right side of the road and ride single file. Don't weave.
- Never carry passengers.
- Use arm signals when turning or stopping.
- Slow down and use extra caution at intersections and driveways. Ride slowly in busy sections and near parking areas. Dismount and walk across especially heavily travelled streets.
- Keep both hands on the handlebars.
- The law requires reflectors visible from 300 feet and a head lamp emitting a white light visible from a distance of at least 500 feet for night riding.

Berlin's "In" for Outdoor Bargains

Sidewalk peddlers of feminine finery teem in other cities too, but West Berlin's maestros of handcrafted jewelry are somewhat different: they are strictly regulated so that absolutely none operates without a license. The license stipulates that the quality and workmanship of the wares they offer must merit an "art object" rating, and no item may be sold that is not the personal creation of the vendor concerned. Also, they do pay taxes; and this, coupled with the "personally created" rule, minimizes unfair competition with or gripping by the regular merchants.

Of course it's impossible to shop only at Berlin's street stands, since no-one can resist the elegant boutiques that line both sides of its famed Ku'damm boulevard, 175 ft. wide, that combines the best of Fifth Avenue, Bond Street, and the Rue de la Paix.

But if beautifully worked silver or copper jewelry is your bag, just watch Berlin's multi-national experts of the art as they transform silver wire into attractive earrings or beat a hunk of copper into glamorous chokers before your eyes. And because prices are reasonable, what you save on the street vendors may help to pay for an evening out at one of the Berlin spots that range from modest to deluxe but in any event definitely will be something to remember.
