It's Not All Bad... Bah, Bah, Bah... Off-Farm Down, On-Farm Up? ... Grain Stocks Decline.

Not everything you hear or see about the livestock outlook is bad. There are some heartening signs. Take a look at the December meat production figures, for example, and look, too, at the cow slaughter picture.

Both in Texas and throughout the nation, production of red meats is increasing. In Texas, commercial production during December was up 38 per cent from a year ago, and 13 per cent higher than 1973. Nationwide, red meat production is seven per cent more than a year earlier. Beef production is up eight per cent. Cattle kill is up 13 per cent.

Cow slaughter—the beef industry factory—is also on the increase. Cow slaughter in 1974 totaled 7,600,000 head. It is projected that will increase at least a third more during 1975.

All of this means we are making progress in reduction of beef supplies. But until they decline even more, the livestock picture is not going to be bright.

Per capita consumption of beef continues to increase, too, but unfortunately, beef production is still ahead of consumption. It's estimated that we will produce about 125 pounds per capita of beef while consumption is projected at around 116 pounds per capita.

Beef is now perhaps the best food buy around; look around and you'll see that beef prices to the consumer finally are showing some relation to the price drops suffered by the producer for the past year or so.

WHILE almost every other category of livestock is showing increases, one part of the Texas animal agriculture industry—sheep and lambs—is showing a big decline. It's the lowest population for sheep and lambs in Texas since 1919.

As of Jan. 1, there were 2,688,000 head of sheep and lambs in Texas, this total is 13 per cent under the previous year. Way back in 1919, sheep and lamb population totaled 2,600,000 head.

And the inventory of goats and kids on Texas farms and ranches is now the smallest number on record. The inventory shows 1,150,000 head of goats and kids, which is a 15 per cent decrease from a year ago.

Nationwide, numbers of sheep and lambs as of Jan. 1 are down 11 per cent from 1974 and 18 per cent below two years ago.

OFF-FARM grain storage capacity in Texas as of Jan. 1 is down 33,000,000 bushels from a year ago, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Off-farm storage totaled 719,000,000 bushels.

By regions, West Texas capacity dropped from 445,000,000 to 416,000,000; North Texas capacity dropped from 167,000,000 to 154,000,000; and South Texas capacity increased from 140,000,000 to 149,000,000 bushels.

Meanwhile, farmers should consider locating storage now for grain crops in view of projections of increased acreage, especially for grain sorghum.

RICE stocks and corn are reported to be above amounts on hand compared to a year ago in Texas. Sorghum, wheat, barley and oats are below last year.

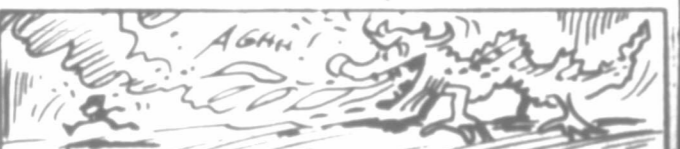

Grain sorghum stocks in Texas are down 41 per cent from a year ago; wheat is down 2,000,000 bushels from a year ago; oats are down 9,000,000 bushels; barley is 594,000 bushels below a year ago.

Nationwide, stocks of all grains except wheat were below a year earlier. Stocks of the four feed grains—corn, oats, barley and sorghum—are 22 per cent less than a year ago.

Corn is down 19 per cent; wheat is up 19 per cent; soybeans are down 14 per cent.

Sacred kings and priests in Polynesia were once not allowed to touch food with their hands, and had therefore to be fed by others.

In 3rd century India, people who wanted to understand the language of animals were told to eat dragon's liver.

NEWS ABOUT ENERGY

HOME ENERGY SAVING TIPS

You can save on rising home heating and electric bills, and still stay warm, by following these suggestions. Mobil Oil Corporation is offering on how to conserve fuel and energy in the home.

1. Have your heating fuel dealer send an expert to clean, adjust, repair, and run an efficiency test on your heating unit. If your furnace is not running at peak efficiency, you're wasting energy and dollars. Clean oil filters to insure greater heating efficiency. If it is a hot-air system, change the air filters at least once during the winter.

2. Careful maintenance of your hot water heater can also save you money. Keep the temperature at 140°. Check your hot water taps for leaks: one drop of water a second can waste up to 700 gallons a year. Drain a pail of water from hot water tanks every month to remove sediment and improve efficiency.

3. Don't be a thermostat fiddler. Switching room temperatures back and forth wastes fuel. Lower the thermostat at night. By setting it back 10 degrees for 8 hours, you can save 10 per cent or more on your heating bills. Lower the thermostat to 55 degrees when you are going to be away for more than a day.

4. To keep the warm air in and the cold air out, close windows and doors promptly. Keep children from running in and out unnecessarily. Experts estimate that fuel bills are three per cent higher for each child you have. Use weather stripping, storm windows and insulation. Storm windows will cut in half the heat needlessly lost through or ordinary sashes. Six inches of thermal insulation over your top floor ceiling pays for itself by helping to hold heat in.

5. Check radiator enclosures to be sure they are not trapping heat. If you paint them, use enamel, which permits greater radiation. Check steam radiator valves for proper function. Replace non-adjustable valves with adjustable ones. Drain air or water from steam radiators to allow them to heat up fully. Bleed air from circulating hot water heating systems. Remove rugs and furniture from places where they block radiators or registers.

6. Close fireplace dampers when not in use. If dampers are missing and fireplace is not used, close chimney openings.

7. Open window shades, blinds, or draperies to let sunshine and warmth into the rooms during the day. It's a free source of home heating. Another way to save—turn off heat in rooms being ventilated or not in use.

The kitchen is especially important for energy savings. There are many ways to conserve energy that can be used year round.

1. When baking or roasting, avoid peaking in the oven. Every time you open the oven door, you lose one-fourth of your heat. Not all foods require a pre-heated oven. The rule of thumb is, if it takes more than an hour to cook, start with an unheated oven.

2. Try to cut down on opening and closing the refrigerator/freezer door by removing and replacing several articles at one time.

3. Start with hot tap water for boiling: a major part of the heating will already be done.

With food prices at an all time high, no one can afford to throw food money away. So be sure to take advantage of coupons.

It's true that coupons save only pennies, but pennies add up to dollars. And if you look, you'll find them everywhere. In newspapers and magazines, on take-one racks in stores, stuffed in and printed on cereal boxes.

And there are coupon mailing lists, too. Every year manufacturers send out nearly 28 billion coupons representing millions of dollars in savings.

If you're not on a coupon mailing list, you probably know someone who is. Ask them to give you the source and write to them, asking to be included.

Of course there are some disadvantages. For instance, you have to forget brand loyalty. Also, if a coupon is for "6¢ off next purchase," it means you have to buy the item twice, with a net savings of only 3¢ per purchase. Make sure it's worth it. Also, make sure the price on the item has not been hiked recently just to counteract coupon savings.

I've said before that you cannot get something for nothing, but using coupons intelligently, you can come pretty close.

Consider buying in-house brands as well as name ones on some items. They're usually cheaper, and come in various quantities.

Buy when the price is right. Shop around for the savings at supermarkets.

Buy food you know your family likes—and that you know is good for them. Ice cream, for instance, is one dessert that provides all the nutrients of milk: calcium, phosphorus, protein, vitamin A, thiamine and riboflavin, yet about everyone enjoys it as much as less nutritious, higher priced and more caloric sweets.

If you're careful, you'll probably be able to get both good economy and good taste.

IRS OFFERS TAX RETURN INFORMATION

Married taxpayers filing either joint or separate tax returns this year should make sure that the social security numbers of both husband and wife appear on each return filed, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) said today.

Walter Perry, Director's Representative in charge of the Plainview IRS office, said that the IRS computer system identifies returns according to social security numbers and an incorrect or missing number can cause a delay of weeks or months in getting a refund out to a taxpayer.

Additionally, he said, the number must be correct to ensure that the taxpayer will get full credit for his or her contributions under the social security and medicare programs. For this reason any name changes should be reported to the local Social Security Administration office.

One way for taxpayers to be sure their return is correctly numbered is to use the pre-addressed label on the tax package sent out by the IRS. Double check the numbers, Perry said, and if there is a mistake it should be corrected on the label itself.

"The pre-addressed labels help us keep the numbers straight," Perry said, "and they speed the processing of the returns. At this point in the filing season a labeled return with the correct social security numbers can produce a refund for the taxpayer within five weeks. As April 15 approaches, the wait for the refund could be as long as twelve weeks. My advice is to file early and make sure the numbers are correct."

Tips on Wood Finishing

HOW TO MATCH TRIM TO PANELING

Prefinished wood paneling is quick and easy to install but it's not always easy to find matching moldings and trim. The only alternative is to buy unfinished trim and stain it to match the paneling.

The best bet for achieving a professional result at minimum cost is to use wood finishes that can be mixed with each other to lighten or darken the tone.

Most stores will have actual finished wood samples to help you come close to the color you want. Always choose the color closest to your paneling but slightly darker. Then, by adding a "neutral" or "natural" wood finish, you will be able to lighten the tone to match your paneling perfectly.

These and many other hints are contained in a 16-page booklet, "Tips on Wood Finishing." For a free copy, write Minwax Company, Inc., Dept. AV, 41 Oak Street, Clifton, New Jersey 07014.

The supporters of the ERA disagree with the emotional charges and scare tactics of the anti-ERA group such as the comment that the ERA

FROM TEXANS FOR ERA

Several weeks ago we published an article from a group called Women Who Want to be Women, and have now received an article from another source explaining the other side of ERA and some of its supporters. It reads as follows: "EQUAL JUSTICE FOR ALL - THE AMERICAN WAY"

The Equal Rights Amendment is a simple sentence, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." The meaning is just as simple - equal justice for all.

Certain citizens are now trying to pressure the Texas Legislature to reconsider their 1972 approval of the Equal Rights Amendment - the ERA. These citizens say that the ERA was passed in haste and that the majority of Texans do not approve of equal rights for all citizens.

The supporters of the ERA, which include both political parties, President and Mrs. Ford, Church Women United, Texas Conference of Churches, along with many other groups representing over three quarters of a million people in Texas, remind citizens that the Texas Equal Legal Rights Amendment was passed by a four to one margin in a general election in 1972. Therefore, we have had a Texas ERA for three years and it has not resulted in the terrible things the opponents of the ERA suggest.

Although Ms. Tobolowsky reiterated the fact that there is no legal means of rescinding ratification of an Amendment to the Constitution, she said that a move-will make men and women share the same restrooms. This is false because such public facilities are restricted by right to privacy laws. Other objections to the ERA can be shown as even ridiculous, such as the claim that the ERA will do away with alimony. There is no alimony in Texas. Also, the ERA will not force women out of the home and into jobs. The ERA will permit each woman a meaningful choice of how to live her life. Those who choose to be homemakers will not be deprived in any way. Equal justice means everyone has the right to freely choose.

It seems the opponents of the ERA are against equal justice and equal rights for all. The question arises, "What are they afraid of?" Is equal justice, the true American philosophy, such a terrible way of life?

Representatives from more than 20 Texas organizations were on hand Feb. 8 at an Austin press conference to voice their support for the Equal Rights Amendment.

The organizations form a coalition called TEXANS FOR ERA, whose basic purpose is to distribute educational materials concerning the effect of the Amendment and to express continuing support for equal rights in Texas and the nation.

Hermine D. Tobolowsky, a Fort Worth attorney, was the main speaker at the conference.

Although Ms. Tobolowsky reiterated the fact that there is no legal means of rescinding ratification of an Amendment to the Constitution, she said that a movement has surfaced in Texas to blanket the state with misleading statements as to the effect of the Amendment.

Texas was the eighth state in the nation to ratify the ERA when the bill unanimously passed both the House and the Senate in 1972.

Eighty-two national organizations and many local and state organizations have endorsed the Amendment; nineteen religious groups signed the Joint Religious Statement on Equal Rights and three additional religious groups have endorsed it. Texas organizations working for ERA include the Texas Conference of Churches Board of Directors, Texas AFL-CIO, Texas Civil Liberties Union, American Association of University Women, League of Women Voters, and Women in Communications, Inc. among others; 67 National Organizations along with President and Mrs. Gerald Ford, Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon; Judge Sarah T. Hughes, U. S. District Judge; Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Anne Armstrong, John Tower, Barbara Jordan, Liz Carpenter; with ERA COALITIONS in the following towns: El Paso, Sherman, Denton, Lubbock, Corpus Christi, Abilene, Bay Area, Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Huntsville, Waco, San Antonio, Temple, San Angelo, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Austin, Irving, Amarillo, Plano.

Imagine picking 270 bushels of apples in eight hours. Harold Oaks, 22, did it on Sept. 30, 1972, at his father's ranch in Hood River, Oregon. It's the best performance on record. He didn't even stop to take a delicious bite.

The pectin in apples helps keep the cholesterol count down, and many doctors believe this to be a big boon to your heart.

Apple varieties do not grow true from seed. Consequently, each seedling rootstock has to be grafted with live buds of the desired variety. Varieties have been perpetuated for hundreds of years by grafting buds from old trees to young trees.

APPLE FACTS

"As American as apple pie," the saying goes, and the apple pie probably is the country's favorite. But the apple can be used in many other bakery forms: apple upside down cake, apple dumplings, apple strudel, apple muffins, apple pancakes, applesauce cake and many delicious others. Thriftily, apples require little or no sugar in cooking. Too much spoils natural flavor and makes them mushy.

There are encouraging signs that burdensome textile inventories are being worked down, that demand for yarns is picking up, and that a gradual upturn in the demand for raw cotton may be in sight, comments Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

For the first time in many months, cotton yarn spinners in late December, 1974, reported interest in contract purchases, Johnson notes. This marked a break in the hand-to-mouth buying that has dominated the industry of late, as knitters sought contracts for delivery of cotton and polyester-cotton yarns through the first quarter and in some instances through June 1975.

An article in a leading textile trade publication at the time stated, "Yarn buyers are again seeking long-term contracts because their inventories have been depleted and they realize that raw cotton prices cannot go much lower."

"This was the first solid evidence of improved yarn demand we had seen in a long time," Johnson said, "and there have been other encouraging signs since then."

In late January, for example, a high official of Montgomery Ward said that the giant retailer's apparel inventories were in "excellent shape." He suggested that apparel stocks were in better shape than hard lines "because we haven't felt the price pressure to liquidate appliances and hard goods on the same basis."

Johnson also referred to "price pressure." The contract purchases reported by yarn spinners in December were at "greatly reduced prices," and Johnson cautioned that spinners could not continue making large volume sales until prices were high enough to represent a satisfactory margin of profit.

The price element in contract purchases was made as well in Daily News Record of January 27. Johnson noted, under the headline "Cotton Yarn Production Hits Comeback Trail," The Daily News Record is often referred to as the "Bible" of the textile industry.

The DNR article opened by stating, "The cotton yarn industry is beginning to restore production." It continued with, "The moderate revival of demand which began last month has resumed after the holiday shutdowns. As a result, producers of all cotton and cotton-polyester yarns have built up fairly good backlogs extending through the first quarter."

"Knitters making Fall 1975 plans have in some cases made yarn commitments extending well beyond the first quarter. But this abandonment of the spot buying policy in favor of intermediate-term contracts has been exacted at what spinners describe as profitless prices."

Depressed cotton exports and many other factors have affected and continue to affect cotton prices, Johnson concluded, "but these favorable developments on the domestic scene are noteworthy as a step toward a turnaround in the raw fiber market, hopefully no later than the second quarter of this year."
