School Board

The Sudan Independent School District held its regular school board meeting, May 8.

The invocation was given by Richard Black. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The Superintendent's financial report for April was presented to the Board and approved as presented.

A group of concerned parents consisting of Pudd Wiseman, Tommy Moss, Drusilla Moss, and Evelyn Ritchie met with the Board in regard to the 10 days leave of absence for students in a school year and presented a petition with some 31 names on it. After some discussion it was decided by the Board that the policy on school absences be left as it is with the exception that a student using days in excess of 10 days school time will be considered on its own merits as to the attempt the student has made to wisely use the 10 days selectively. The administration will have the authority to make adjustments in special individual cases.

Kenneth Carr was employed as the Vocational Agriculture Instructor for the 78-79 school year.

The Board approved renewing the contract for student insurance for the 1978-79 school year with Keystone Insurance Company.

The Board approved the resignation of Judy Lynch, the migrant teacher.

After discussing the disposition of the Migrant Program for the coming year the Board decided it feasible to discontinue the program.

Mr. Noles reported to the Board on the land being surveyed south of the school which was recently purchased by the School.

The following trips were approved: (a) Coaches to Coaching School and (b) Lunchroom Supervisor to Workshop.

The Board approved the purchase of a Gestetner Printer for the school.

Humorist Tells Tales

The Texas Panhandle's Canadian River is a rushing torrent-sometimes. But more often, according to author John Erickson, the mighty Canadian is a creek sized trickle, every bit as impressive as the overflow from a windmill tank.

Rancher-writer Erickson, 34, grew up in the Panhandle and developed an affection for the river he'd crossed a thousand times. When he wanted to delve deeper into its lore and history, he found no book had ever been written about this piece of the West. So he wrote one himself: "Through Time and the Valley," just out from Shoal Creek Publishers of Austin.

Erickson decided to go out and meet the country on horseback, in the manner of the 1870's, talking with people and gathering stories of the valley as he went. He invited cowboy-photographer Bill Elzey along, and they set out together with one other companion-Dobbin, their highly unpredictable pack mule.

"Through Time and the Valley" records the young men's adventures (mostly misadventures) and the rich folklore they discovered everywhere they went.

A humorist and storyteller, Erickson has filled his book with vignettes into the lives of cowboys, moonshiners, outlaws, Indians, and a host of 19th and 20th century-Canadian River characters.

His stories include famous incidents, like the Canadian Depot Robbery and the Battle of Adobe Walls. And he records more private experiences and feelings-like Indian fighter Billy Dixon's bewilderment over the charms of one Miss Olive King.

A typical Erickson tale concerns another unlikely romantic: miserly, shrivelled-up old Bill Whitsell. One fall he sold his cattle in Kansas City and came back to the little cotown of Canadian with a startling new acquisition: a red-headed dance-hall queen. Folks were broad minded-well, some did say she drank, and others were dubious about her cultural interests (she played the trombone), but they had to admit that old Bill thoroughly enjoyed falling into the clutches of his scheming city woman.

Many of Erickson's stories dwell with relish on the comic memories of valley old-timers. Others recount the heroism, legends, love and tragedy of the Canadian River country in the past hundred years. Together the tales in "Through Time and the Valley" provide a complex human portrait of a Texas territory that has never been revealed this way before.

Accompanying Erickson's yarns, thirty-five pictures by award-winning photographer Elzey record the look of the valley and its people, and a map details the voyagers' passage from ranch to ranch.

Himself the manager of a 5,000 acre ranch in the Oklahoma Panhandle, Erickson still lives near the Canadian. But he says he never really discovered the country he has known all his life until he made this trip. Looking back on his journey through time and the valley, Erickson concludes, "I think what we discovered was that a river is a way of life. It is a shared history, a thread on which are strung the yarns and tales and characters who have lived there. It is the people who have made it a place to remember."

Social Security Program

Many people are not aware of the variety of programs available under the social security program nor are they aware that they can now file for these programs or obtain information about them without any inconvenience. The answer to any question about social security is as near as the telephone. Most social security offices around the country now offer a new-telesevice program to the public. Using the service, a person can contact the nearest social security office by telephone and receive any answer to any question he has about social security. And, a claim for any type of social security benefit can be filed over the telephone too. For example, if a person is disabled and cannot come to the office, or if a person wants to file for retirement or health insurance benefits and cannot find the time to come to the office, he can call and give the necessary information over the telephone. When the application has been completed, it will be mailed for signature. An envelope will be sent, also, so that the signed application and all the necessary proofs which will be requested can be returned to the social security office by mail. If you have a question about social security, or if you want to file a claim for benefits, you can save time, save gas, and save yourself. Call your nearest social security office today at 762-7385 in Lubbock.

The Bible Says. . . .

"...but-of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou mayest not eat; for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." Genesis 2:17

This was the only commandment that the first man and woman had to keep. They could do anything, go anywhere, eat of any tree except one. The "law of sin and death" was born. Sin (in the day that thou eatest thereof) and death (thou shalt surely die).

I once heard a man say: "How do we interpret the Bible today? Do we interpret it literally or do we get a broad overview? I believe we need to get the over all view. We must have this kind of approach when we approach any subject in the Bible. The sense of the Scripture rather than the meaning of one particular verse or verses."

This seems to indicate that we should interpret the Bible in a different way today than Adam and Eve did. Is that true? Let us examine the Bible and see.

It may seem harsh to you and me that when Adam and Eve disobeyed what may be considered a very small command God kept his promise and they died. (Were separated from God) What are the lessons for you and me?

1. That each and every command of God's is equally as important as any other command.
 2. That God expects the simple and seemingly unimportant commands to be respected just as much as the others.
 3. That God is trustworthy. When he promises something, it will be fulfilled. (That gives us hope.)
- The command was clear and simple. One would have to have help to misunderstand it. Satan supplied the help. There are commands in the Bible today that are equally as simple that people are disobeying and saying that the "over all view" or "drift" of scripture negates that command. (More to come next week.)

Happy Birthday, Son

Pioneer Corporation

The Board of Directors of Pioneer Corporation recently declared a regular quarterly dividend of 44 cents per share payable June 2, 1978, to stockholders of record May 18, 1978.

Consolidated net income and earnings per share for Pioneer Corporation for the first quarter of 1978 were announced recently. Consolidated net income for the quarter was $10,522,981, compared to $11,594,368 for the same period in 1977. Earnings per share for the first quarter were $1.13 compared to $1.25 for the same quarter of 1977.

Net income from emergency sales made in 1977 to help alleviate the national gas shortage but not needed in 1978, was a substantial cause of the difference in first quarter earnings. In addition, volumes of irrigation and large industrial gas sales were reduced from 1977, while exploration and production and contract drilling income increased. The quarterly report of Pioneer Corporation will be mailed to stockholders about the 20th of May.

Pioneer Corporation, through subsidiaries, explores for and produces gas, oil, uranium, coal, and natural gas liquids. Other subsidiaries are engaged in contract drilling for oil and gas, manufacturing and worldwide distribution of oilfield equipment, and domestic and international sales of heavy construction equipment. Pioneer Natural Gas Company, the utility division, serves natural gas customers in an area the size of the state of Ohio, in the Panhandle and High Plains of Texas.

ATA Backs Speed Limit

During National Transportation Week, May 14-20, American Trucking Associations and its affiliated state associations are continuing to work to promote compliance with the federally mandated 55 mile-per-hour speed limit.

ATA fully supports the national speed limit along with better and more uniform enforcement of the limit. ATA and the trucking industry know that when trucks are properly geared, they save fuel at 55.

A recent National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study reported trucks observe the 55 mph limit more than any other vehicle on the highway.

One current approach ATA is using to promote compliance with the law involves the use of the industry's cooperative road patrol program, in operation since 1951, which uses safety patrolmen to monitor truck operations.

The California Trucking Association, for example, has been operating a "Safety Monitor" program since April, 1977. This program's objective is to enlist the aid of motor carrier executives and CTA members to help the industry become an example of safe driving practices.

Participants in this program display placards reading "Safety Monitor-California Trucking Association" in the rear windows of their cars. While on the road, the monitors observe the driving habits of all heavy trucks—especially those registered in California.

When a monitor sees a driver speeding or violating safe driving practices, he records it on a report form which is then sent to CTA headquarters. The association then notifies the owner of the vehicle about the report.

Along the same lines, the Oregon Chapter of the National Association of Fleet Supervisors have sponsored a three-day "Safety Blitz."

The blitz program, which was manned by road observation teams of safety personnel and insurance company representatives, used radar units, video tape equipment, and cameras to monitor truck traffic and clock speeds.

Following this campaign, additional police patrol cars were placed in the area studied to enforce speed limits. In addition, the joint effort road patrols were continued with violators notified with courtesy observation reports.

In the Midwest, the Missouri Bus and Truck Association has developed a comprehensive new program to stop speeding. Missouri's seven point program includes the distribution of special forms to motorists to inform the public of the industry's 55 mph compliance efforts.

As a major part of this campaign, MBTA called for aid from several law enforcement agencies, members of civic and community organizations, the news media, the general public, and truck drivers and their companies.

The state association also erected 30 billboards supporting "55" and distributed bumper stickers. This program received widespread favorable publicity and an offer of assistance from the American Automobile Association in Missouri.

Another large scale effort to gain speed limit compliance was begun recently by the Minnesota Motor Transport Association.

The theme of this program is "Professional Drive 55," and the association is offering a variety of bumper stickers and buttons with slogans supporting the speed limit.

In addition to these actions, safety monitoring programs have been started by many of ATA's affiliated associations and 13 conferences. Some of the other actions taken include:

Woolley, Missy Fisher, Sharla Harrison, Kim Powell, Rita Williford and Sherry Williams.

State trucking associations have backed the overall effort by establishing monitor programs, passing resolutions in support of the speed limit, or by urging their members to obey the limit through articles in their

These states are Maryland Connecticut, W. Virginia Iowa, Alabama, Alaska, Illinois, Maine, Ohio Rhode Island, New Jersey Mississippi, Oklahoma Georgia, Pennsylvania Massachusetts, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

In Indiana, that state's trucking association has a kit that it makes available to companies. It includes a series of pay envelope stuffers with messages about speeding, along with "55 MPH Team Member" jacket patches.

And, an informal tour taken by two Indiana Motor Truck Association staff members who wanted to see the ratio of speeding to law-abiding vehicles. (There were more law abiding trucks than automobiles found in this informal survey.)

In addition to these efforts, ATA supports other groups that have offered independent support for "55".

Responding to a California group which is forming a citizen's support committee, ATA President Bennett C. Whitlock, Jr. wrote:

"The American Trucking Associations, Inc. fully and publicly supports the 55 mph speed limit as the law of the land and welcomes the efforts of such groups as the 'It's 55' committee you describe."

The public has responded to these efforts with letters and phone calls both expressing appreciation of the industry's educational work and reporting offenses.

And, the industry's programs have also been praised by state and federal officials aware of the need for safety on the nation's highways.

Krueger Supports

A budget amendment which will increase military veterans' benefits and services $844 million next year and provide veterans additional funds in succeeding years, was passed Wednesday, May 3 by the U.S. House of Representatives.

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger was among those who voted for the measure, which amended the budget proposed for fiscal year 1979.

Krueger, who has continually advocated a strong national defense, called the amendment "necessary and deserved by those who have served their country."

"The inflationary spiral has hit our veterans particularly hard," Krueger said. "The additional services and benefits funded by this amendment is a just and deserved reward for those who have given so much of their time and energy to the defense of our nation."

Funds provided by the amendment will go towards a 6.5 per cent cost of living increase for most disabled veterans, adoption of a pension reform bill, provision of medical initiatives and maintenance of an adequate level of medical care for veterans.

SHOPPING AND COOKING FOR TWO

Shopping and cooking for two can create tasty, thrifty and nutritious meals when newlyweds use imagination and planning, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt. In planning keep menus simple. Focus on quality and nutritional balance.

For example, don't leave out roasts, fresh fruits or vegetables because of leftover problems. Make plans for everything, and nothing will go to waste, says the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

RECIPE CUTTING KEEPS PLAN VERSATILE

Most recipes can be cut in half or thirds, so almost all are available to planners of menus for two, and that keeps any plan versatile. Ingredients don't divide easily, use your best judgment to decide the correct amount—don't worry. Few recipes are ruined by a little more or less of most ingredients.

FRUIT-VEGETABLE BUYING

In buying canned fruits and vegetables, avoid small cans. Large ones are far more economical with a plan.

For example, buy a large can of green beans. Butter and serve them as a hot vegetable on Monday. Marinate the rest in a bottled Italian-style dressing. Refrigerate them, and serve them as a salad on Wednesday.

Buy a large can of fruit. Serve part of it with cookies with cookies for dessert one night. Later in the week, serve the rest sprinkled with cinnamon and cloves as a meat accompaniment.

Also, fruit flavored gelatin can turn left over fruits or vegetables into a special menu item.

For example, fold fruit into half the mixture and create a dessert. Use odds and ends of fresh leftover vegetables in the other half to make a salad.

For added economy, read labels to learn quality, size and weight. Fancy grades are not necessary for stews, soups, fruit puddings or pies, for instance. Lower grades offer the same nutrition and often just as good flavor for less money.

In buying fresh produce, buy seasonal items when they are most plentiful. They usually cost less, and their quality is usually better at that time.

FREEZER KEEPS MEAT PLAN FLEXIBLE

new and old pieces of furniture, advises a housing and home furnishings specialist.

When couples focus on comfort, convenience, attractive decorating and wise spending, their home furnishings plans are most effective, says Mrs. Sue Young with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Their plan should include two parts—ways to use furniture they already own and ideas for acquiring new pieces—so all furnishings will serve the couple to best advantage for the money spent, she adds.

In deciding how to use existing furniture, remember that the careful use of color is the most economical decorating tool.

Quality older pieces of furniture or "hand-me-downs" will merit the time and effort it takes to refinish them. A coat or two of paint will make other older pieces usable quickly and easily.

In planning for new pieces of furniture remember each one should have enough personality and style to help accomplish the desired look, and each should blend with pieces already in the home.

In deciding on new furniture, couples can choose from faddish or "fun" pieces, better-quality

Variety packages of cereal allow a larger selection without sacrificing freshness, but these generally cost more than other cereal products.

Also, canned hams of two pounds or less have a long shelf life, but once they are opened, plan to use any leftovers within a few days.

NEWLYWEDS HOME-FURNISHING PLAN

A newlyweds home-furnishing plan should have ample "room" for each partner's ideas and for contemporary or traditional items or antiques.

A list of possibilities will help in the decision. It can point to a final plan for buying several pieces of faddish furniture or fewer pieces of better quality, the specialist says.

Faddish or "fun" fur-while quality items will remain in style and blend with other new pieces throughout the year.

In considering contemporary furnishings, remember that many are made for houses and apartments being built now.

These pieces add a spacious feeling to a room, and some actually allow for more living space, since they are smaller and lighter weight. They offer portability without loss of strength, Mrs. Young says. Traditional furniture, on antiques, will continue to be a favorite with lasting value, the specialist says.

For couples who like antiques, buying authentic ones has two advantages. They offer a way to furnish a home, and they are financial investment.

Regardless of the choices, also remember that each piece should be easy-care and versatile enough to blend with several architectural styles, textures and colors, so they can move with today's mobile families, Mrs. Young adds.

CHECK ALFALFA FOR ALFALFA WEEVILS-The alfalfa weevil was first detected in Texas in 1968 in several eastern counties. Since that time it has spread across the state, being first reported in the High Plains in 1972.

Damage to alfalfa occurs in the spring when the larval (or worm) stage feeds on the foliage. The weevil is primarily a pest of first cutting. It overwinters as an adult, with a few eggs being laid on warm winter days. Eggs are laid in clusters in the stem. In the spring, with the advent of warm weather, females begin laying numerous eggs. The young larvae which hatch out are very small, yellow-green in color and feed in the growing tips and developing buds of alfalfa. Older larvae are green with a white stripe down their back. All larval stages have curved bodies and shiny black heads.

The alfalfa weevil has only one generation per year. After the larvae finish feeding, usually by mid May in our area, the larva spins a net like cocoon on the plant or in the soil debris. From this cocoon, the adult weevil emerges and leaves the alfalfa field. The adults stay out of the fields all summer and re-enter them in the fall. The cycle then repeats itself.

Very small alfalfa plants which are attacked in early spring can withstand only limited feeding by the larvae. Larger alfalfa plants (12-18 inches in height) can support considerably higher numbers of weevil larvae. If populations of alfalfa weevil larvae are heavy, a damaged field will have a greyish appearance.

We expect to have our peak alfalfa weevil activity in late April or early May in our area. If larval numbers are high enough to reach the economic threshold, one properly timed application should give control. Chemical treatments are recommended if more than 25 percent of the terminals, or growing tips, are infested with larvae. Several effective insecticides are registered for alfalfa weevil control.

Since the larvae are primarily a pest of first cutting, it is sometimes possible to cut a little earlier than usual and avoid chemical treatment. Cutting results in a lack of food and exposure to hot sunlight which kills many of the remaining larvae. Winter grazing by livestock helps reduce weevil populations.

SUMMER CAMP FOR 4-H'ERS-Summer is camping time, and for 4-H members, it's time to start thinking about taking advantage of some of the many great experiences in store at the Texas 4-H Center this summer.

The Center, located near Brownwood in Central Texas offers a special camping program for 4-H'ers during the period July 9-28. Theme of this year's camping program is "Texas Heritage and Horizons."

Summer camp at the Texas 4-H Center can be a unique experience. It provides an opportunity to meet new friends, learn new skills and have a great time. There nature activities, folk games, folk arts and crafts, outdoor sports and recreation, music and planned social recreation along with many other things.

Instruction relation to Texas' Cultural Heritage will be provided by qualified college-age counselors and resource persons. Adult 4-H leaders and county extension agents will serve as supervisors.

The camping program will be conducted according to age-groups, with the schedule as follows: July 9-12, 15 years and older; July 12-14 and July 26-28, 10-11 years old; July 23-26, 12-14 years old.

Cost of the camp is $35 per individual except for the 10-11 year old groups which is $30.

Parents and leaders who will be providing transportation for 4-H'ers may make reservations to stay at the center at the same fee as for the youth.

Applications for the summer camping program at the Texas 4-H Center are available at the county Extension office. Reservations will be made on a "first come, first served" basis.

REGULATED MOTOR CARRIERS ARE REQUIRED TO PUBLISH RATES that they charge for their services. These rates must be filed with the ICC and must be made available to the public. Once filed, rates must be adhered to and cannot be changed except on advance notice to the ICC. For convenience, most rates are made collectively through rate bureaus which are also subject to ICC Control. Individual carriers can and do publish individual rates.

THE ECONOMIC IMPORTANCE OF TRUCKING is underscored by its employment of more than nine million people-equivalent to one out of every nine workers in America. Trucking had an estimated payroll of more than $97.5 billion in 1975. These figures embrace all of trucking's direct employees, private as well as for-hire, intercity and local.

THE SIZE AND DIVERSITY OF THE REGULATED-FOR-HIRE MOTOR CARRIER INDUSTRY is reflected in the numbers of individual carriers-16,472 companies, of which 13,000 are relatively small concerns, grossing less than $600,000 a year. Revenues earned by the industry in 1977 totaled an estimated $30 billion and an increase in the neighborhood of six to seven percent is expected in 1978.
