They will be recruiting volunteers within the Community to plan a 'Kiss Your Baby-Breath of Life Campaign' to take place this Fall in Sudan. Cystic Fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children. Approximately one in every twenty Americans is a symptomless carrier of the recessive CF gene. Cystic Fibrosis is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene. At the present time, no cure for Cystic Fibrosis is known.

Hale County Facts and Folklore

Hale County Historical Commission is holding an autograph party Sunday afternoon, August 20, to introduce the book "Hale County Facts and Folklore," edited by Vera Dean Wofford. The party will be held from 2 to 5 o'clock in Llano Estacado Museum, on the campus of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, and Mrs. Wofford will be present to autograph the books that are sold.

The 787-page history of Hale County contains the stories of some 375 families and individuals, an archeological account covering some 8,000 years in time, a history of county and city governmental organizations, churches, schools, financial institutions, newspapers, agriculture, civic organizations and community activities. There is much statistical information, including a census of several county cemeteries.

A unique feature of the book is a 50-page section of never-before published interviews done in the 1930s by Hale County historian Mary L. Cox with 30 of the original settlers of the county, and there are hundreds of pictures spanning the 100 year history of the county.

Mrs. Wofford, who edited the volume, is a third-generation Plainviewian, a graduate of local public schools and Wayland Baptist College, and she has published in numerous newspapers and periodicals, including the Saturday Evening Post, Farm Journal, the Denset Post, and College and Career. She is the widow of another third-generation Plainviewian, Dr. C.D. Wofford, and along with her writing activities, teaches private piano in her home.

Copies of "Hale County Facts and Folklore," published by Melvin Young of Pica Publishing Company in Lubbock, are available at a pre-publication price of $13.83, which includes tax and mailing. After August 20 the price will be $19.40. Proceeds go to Hale County Historical Commission and orders may be sent to them at P.O. Box 1282, Plainview, Texas 79072.

Rate Supplement For Pioneer

Pioneer Natural Gas Company recently provided the cities on its West Texas Distribution System a supplement to the rate application made by the company on June 30.

In filing the original rate application K.B. Watson, company president, had told the cities that a comprehensive study was being made of Pioneer's operations by H. Zinder and Associates, Inc., as well as company personnel. This study was to determine the amount of deficiency in the gas service revenues at Pioneer.

In his letter to the city officials, Watson said that study, as well as the company's related research, has now been completed and the company was submitting its formal Statement of Intent to Change Rates.

The proposed effective date of the rate increase is September 15, 1978, and will apply on a system-wide basis to all domestic and commercial type: small industrial; and large gas air-conditioning and/or electric generating gas service customers served by Pioneer.

As Watson pointed out in the original application on June 30, Pioneer's last base rate increase was effective in 1970. He said that since that time, in spite of the increased cost of gas to the consumer, the company's rate of return has decreased substantially due to many factors. He went on to point out that the increase in the customers cost of gas over the past several years has come about by the "cost-of-gas" adjustment. This adjustment that is designed to pass on to the customer the cost of gas, and, in fact, fails to recover much of the increase because of several cost items not recoverable in the cost-of-gas adjustment." Watson said at that time.

The rate requested in Pioneer's Statement of Intent to Change Rates will result in an average increase to all classes of service of 26.36 percent over the rates presently in effect. The increase to the average domestic customer on the Pioneer West Texas Distribution System will be about $6.00 a month.

The rate requested is calculated to produce a gross revenue increase of $19.8 million which is below the deficiency determined by the Zinder study.

In his letter of transmittal, which was addressed to mayors and members of the various city councils, Watson said, "The enclosed Statement of Intent is being filed simultaneously with all 63 cities and towns served by Pioneer on our West Texas Distribution System. As we advised you before, we stand ready to meet with you and representatives of all our cities to consider this 'The application.'"

Pan-Fried Hamburgers May Increase Cancer Risk

Pan-frying hamburger meat may increase the risk of cancer for those who eat the meat, says Frances Reasonover, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. However, the potential risk is reduced by 90 percent if meat is cooked only to the rare stage, broiled under a heat source or cooked in a microwave oven, she points out.

Ground beef hamburgers cooked on a hot metal surface at temperatures above 300 degrees F. is the cause of this increased cancer risk, a Washington University team of research scientists has concluded. Chemical substances called mutagens that may represent a risk of cancer in people tend to form at this high temperature—a mutagen is a substance that causes genetic change, Miss Reasonover explains.

In experimental animals, 90 percent of the mutagens tested caused cancer in test animals.

Beef bouillon cubes, beef broth and seasoning bases as well as beef-flavored sauce concentrates also contain these same mutagens.

Charcoal grilled meats are likely to produce the same mutagens, the specialist adds.

The browned fringe as is seen around the edge of pan-broiled hamburger is the source of the mutagen in the cooked meat, she says.

Crime Resistance is Kid Stuff

By: Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. 20535

Yes it is! Nothing is more valuable to us than our children. So why not insulate them from becoming the criminal's victim as much as possible by applying some basic - yet very practical - crime resistance rules where the youngsters are concerned.

The old rule about never taking candy from a stranger - is still a good rule - tell them not to take candy, a ride or even a walk with a stranger - tell them why!

Tell them never admit to being home alone - on the phone or to someone at the door.

Give the school instructions only to release your children to the people you have designated in writing - in case of emergency.

Locate and point out "back porches" or similar homes in the neighborhood or along the route to school to your children and explain the meaning of such residences.

Select one or two neighbors who will provide sanctuary for children should any threat or emergency arise while you are away from them. Provide that neighbor with phone numbers where you can usually be reached. Offer to do the same for those neighbors.

Instruct children to look out for each other and to tell you when something unusual or suspicious occurs.

Report suspicious individuals or vehicles lurking in areas where children go to the police. Obtain license numbers and descriptions whenever possible.

Be prepared to assist a child who appears lost or in trouble. Do not hesitate to notify the police if you think a child needs assistance.

Wanting to protect our children is part of loving them. Crime resistance is part of protecting them. Don't throw this message away - keep it where you will see it - pass it on to other parents.

Some people once thought the best way to gather walnuts was to knock them off with sticks instead of picking them. This was supposed to be best for the tree.

The ancient Egyptians were probably the first people to bake yeast-raised bread.

Wheeling and Stealing

By: Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. 20535

Thinking back a few years bicycles were, for the most part, considered toys. When one disappeared, it was usually because some youngster took it for a joy ride and failed to return it. Unfortunately, that's often not the case today. Many bicycles are hardly toys. They are quite valuable, especially those equipped with finely machined gears and accessories. As a result, bicycles are stolen in great numbers by professional thieves.

Bicycles are often stolen off of lawns or porches and out of unlocked garages at night. School yards and playgrounds are popular targets of bike thieves during the daytime. Don't make it easy for a bike thief to steal your bicycle. Practice these few crime resistance reminders which could help you to "keep on biking."

Register all bicycles with the appropriate local agency. Permanently etch your driver's license preceded by your state's initials on the frame of all your family's bicycles. This will make it identifiable to a police agency. Report the theft of any bicycle to the police.

Don't leave bicycles on the lawn, on the porch or in an unlocked garage - especially at night. If a bicycle must be left unattended anywhere, it should be secured to a solidly fixed rack or tree with a good quality chain and lock. The chain should not be looped just through a wheel but through the frame and both wheels.

Regularly remind your children that just as bicycle safety rules will reduce the chances of their being hurt in an accident, crime safety practices will reduce the chance that their bike will be stolen.

Encourage school and recreation authorities to provide secure bike racks located where they can be viewed by employees of the facility.

Keep your wits - and keep your wheels.

250 Attend ASCS Meet In Lubbock

The Texas State Committee of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), chaired by J. D. Smith, Sudan, met in Lubbock August 10 to discuss 1979 farm program plans with ASCS county and community committeemen and County Executive Directors from the High and Rolling Plains.

An estimated 250 committeemen were present. They voiced approval of several State Committee recommendations on 1979 program improvements, offered some of their own, and heard suggested ways in which farmers can help themselves on some program matters.

Also at the meeting was Weldon Denny, Deputy Administrator for State and County Operations of ASCS in Washington, ASCS officials from the state office in College Station and representatives of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Proposals to be presented at ASCS "Task Force" meetings in Washington early in September were outlined by W. M. Holt, State ASCS Chief of Production Adjustment.

Noting the confusion that resulted from late issuance and frequent changes of 1978 program regulations, Holt said the State Committee's first recommendation to Washington would be that 1979 provisions for Texas be announced firmly by September 1 for Fall seeded crops and by November 14 for Spring seeded crops.

Denny later confirmed that Washington already has plans for more timely rulemaking for 1979.

The State Committee will also propose, Holt said, that required set-aside of acreage and payment for additional voluntary set-aside be announced on a comparable basis for all competing crops such as cotton, wheat, grain sorghum and corn to prevent shifting of acreage from one crop to take advantage of program provisions instead of to best fit available land and resources. He stressed that the Texas group would seek a payment on voluntary cotton diversion if it is determined that such is desirable, at a rate to encourage participation, well above the two cents per pound offered for diverted acreage in 1978.

Another contention of the State Committee is that county committees should be responsible for determining what practices should be required on diverted acres as long as wind and water erosion and weeds are controlled in accordance with the law.

Holt went on to say that producers themselves can help to make programs more efficient and more beneficial by (1) commenting on proposed rulemaking when given the opportunity through Federal Register notices available at county ASCS offices and (2) replying promptly and accurately to Statistical Reporting Service survey questionnaires.

He pointed out that information from questionnaires is one of the things used to set county check yields on commodities and that these check yields in turn often set program benefit limits.

"When you throw survey forms in the wastebasket you are only hurting yourself and other farmers in your county," he concluded.

Mrs. Bruce Newman.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Legg and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ingle, Jamie and Rancee and Freddie Maxwell, all visited last week in Sheridan, Ark. with Mr. and Mrs. Rick Wood and family.

Restraints Could Decrease Child Deaths

An injured child instinctively turns to the safety of mother's arms for protection. But in an automobile accident, even the strongest of arms are incapable of protecting a child from death and injury, warns the Texas Medical Association. Infants and children, due to their short legs and large, heavy heads, are much more likely to be thrown about the car upon impact than are adults. In a 20 m.p.h. collision, a 15 pound baby is thrown at a force equal to 300 pounds.

Automobile accidents are the leading cause of death in the U. S. for children over the age of 1 month. Approximately 1,000 children, 5 years old and under, are killed in auto accidents each year and another 100,000 are injured. Car seats and restraint devices could prevent many deaths and injuries. A Washington State Seat Belt Study indicated that if all children under the age of 5 years were restrained at the time of an accident, a reduction of death by 91 percent and of injuries by 78 percent might be expected. Despite this startling statistic, a 1975 study by the Insurance Institute of Highway Safety showed that 90 percent of children under 10 years of age ride as passengers in vehicles without any type of restraint.

An infant, in particular, is in danger when carried in someone's arms. The baby is not only inadequately protected against crash forces but also is placed in further jeopardy because of the possibility of being crushed by the person holding the child. Seat belts alone however, do not always provide adequate protection, especially for small children. Studies have shown that lap-type seat belts often slip to a position on the child's abdomen which could cause internal injuries during a crash.

To insure adequate protection, all children should be placed in some type of child restraint device. There are four basic types: Infant carriers, C-shaped shields, car seats, and harnesses. When choosing a restraint device, parents should consider their responsibility for installing and using the device correctly, the size and weight of the child, and special features of their automobile which may prevent them from using certain brands. Although all of the approximately 15 brands of child restraint devices on the market meet federal safety standards, there are differences among them.

"You know the cattle market's good when a banker like mine will loan money on fresh cow tracks."

The Bible Says...

Art Lynch

"Honor your marriage and its vows, and be pure; for god will surely punish all those who are immoral or commit adultery" Hebrews 13:4.

What does God think should be done to those who do not honor their marriage vows? Do we have God's thinking in this matter? Yes, even though we no longer live under the law of commandments contained in ordinances (the Old Law or Ten Commandments), we are still under the principles of morality of that law and all law.

"And the man that committeth adultery with another man's wife, even he that committeth adultery with his neighbor's wife, the adulterer and the adulteress shall surely be put to death." Leviticus 20:10

God did not command the death penalty under the law of Christ for adultery, but, nevertheless we can see what the mind of God is in the matter! God believes that anyone guilty of violating his or her marriage vows stands worthy of death!

In our society adultery has become a way of life to many. It is considered right and proper between "consenting" adults.

Why does God condemn it so severely? Of course one reason is because it is sin, and God cannot live with sin. But aside from that it is condemned because of its effects on the attitudes and personalities of those who indulge in like practices. Anytime we break a promise made before witnesses and made in the atmosphere of the wedding ceremony we harm our conscience in such a way that we must somehow tear it over to forget it, because it won't go away. The scar goes deep and surfaces at the slightest provocation. Try though we may, it is there forever and nothing we can do can ever "make up" for the pain. (That is unless we have been trained to have a conscience that thinks only of self and self-gratification.) Very few of us have that kind of conscience. And even the hardest conscience has its limits. (to be continued)

POST PLANTING CARE OF YOUNG SHADE TREES—Hot, dry weather can cause serious damage to recently planted shade and ornamental trees unless they get a little special care.

The main thing is to make sure they get adequate water since hot summer days and drying winds take a great deal of moisture from the leaves and stems. Since a transplanted tree has a small root system, the only water it can utilize is that which is in the soil close to the tree. If this soil area becomes dry, the leaves wilt, turn brown and drop. Branches or even the entire tree may die.

Water at regular intervals all trees planted within the past year. If the soil is sandy, water about once a week; if it is clay or loam, thorough watering every 10 days to two weeks should be enough.

Using an open-end hose, regulate the water flow so there is no run-off and saturate the soil around the tree. To determine whether or not you are supplying the proper amount of water, take soil samples between waterings at depths of 12 to 18 inches; the soil should be moist but not muddy.

Insect control is also critical for transplanted trees. A few insects can cause severe damage to a newly planted tree, so control measures should be applied promptly when insects are found.

Also, for steady vigorous growth, fertilize the tree once it is established.

If the tree was worth planting it is certainly worth the little extra effort required to keep it in good growing condition.

4-H ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM DEVELOPS RURAL, URBAN YOUTH—4-H Achievement Program winners know how to work for social progress, both in urban and rural projects.

An example of the scope of projects conducted by National 4-H Achievement Program winners include an Arkansas youth who is a member of the 4-H Energy Resources Conservation Committee and is planning a 4-H energy conservation group which will function at the state level. Another example is a Virginia 4-H'er who raises and trains horses and gives riding lessons to disadvantaged youth and to physically handicapped people.

4-H members 9-19 can achieve in a broad range of learn-by-doing projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. Achievement in 4-H means acquiring skills and sharing them with others.

4-H achievers can earn county, state and national awards donated by the Ford Motor Company Fund through the National 4-H Council. Awards include up to four medals of honor at the county level, an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress to one 4-Her state, and $1,000 educational scholarships for nine national winners.

Young people can learn more about the National 4-H Achievement Program from their county Extension agents.

Group Against Smoker's Pollution

Lubbock G.A.S.P. (Group Against Smoker's Pollution) is circulating a petition to our Texas Legislators asking for a clean indoor air act in Texas. Minnesota and Alaska have had this law for some time. Reports have been received on how great it is NOT to be assaulted by tobacco smoke in public places in these states.

The voters of California, 600,000 strong, have reached their state's requirement for 312,404 valid signatures from registered voters to place an indoor clean air referendum on the state ballot this year. Several other states are making progress to protect the nonsmoker. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Joseph A. Califano is encouraging each state to pass strong laws to protect the nonsmoker in public places, which includes common public work areas. Texas' present law is one of the weakest in the Nation.

Many nonsmokers have large medical bills due to breathing the polluted air that smokers leave in public places. If you do not wish to breathe this "secondhand" smoke any longer and you do want a clean indoor air act for our state, please contact us at 1961 Texas Avenue, Lubbock, Texas 79405.

Facts from a pro on driving to survive.

Q. How do you pass someone on a motorcycle? Can you stay in the same lane if there's enough room or do you have to move into the left lane?—B. S., Wichita Falls

A. Move into the left lane. Motorcycles require the same passing margin and distance as any other vehicle, so don't crowd the cyclist when you pass, or suddenly cut in front of him. Check over your right shoulder before returning to the right-hand lane to make sure there's enough distance between you and the cyclist. And don't forget to signal your intentions before moving left or right.

Q. My windshield wipers always streak the windshield so that it's even harder to see when it's raining. Is there anything I can do to avoid this?—K. P., Johnson City

A. Use your windshield washers when you first turn on your wipers. They should keep the windshield from streaking. Also check your wiper blades for cracks, especially after a long dry spell, and replace them when they are worn. It is also a good idea to service your washer bottle each time you stop for gas. Whenever you drive in rain, slow down, turn your headlights on low beam and, when you have to stop, start braking sooner.

Q. I've noticed signs by bridges and medians that consist of nothing more than a series of alternating diagonal black and white lines. Do they have a specific meaning?—J. B., Pearl-Land

A. These diagonally striped signs mark the ends of the side rails of narrow bridges, medians, and other obstructions so that motorists will be more aware of them.

Tour To The Iron Curtain

BY: HERSHELL & HELEN HULCY

One of the tours we had the opportunity to take while in West Germany was the Iron Curtain Tour. The wall built by communist East Germany. The tour bus took us to Hof Army base where we were briefed by a sergeant of the Black Berets who also was our guide during the tour. During the briefing we discovered how and why some of our service men are needed to guard the wall, which consist of three different walls of 1058 miles each that separate East and West Germany. The men that do this job are trained in 6 isolated posts on which they cannot have their families. Nine of the men on these isolated posts are there for their entire tour of duty (3 years) the rest of them rotate spending one third of a year at the post and the rest of the year where they can be with their families. Some of the men speak from 7 to 9 different languages, these men are used in the dome shaped buildings which monitor all radio frequencies.

As we drew near the wall, our guide announced that at several points we would be allowed to get off to take a look and take pictures. He informed us not to wave, no gesturing, no loud talking, or laughing, for the communist East German guards watch and take pictures of us from the towers constantly while we are off the bus. The reason for no waving or gesturing is the East Germans taking the pictures have them blown up so that if one of us should be doing one of these things it is used as propaganda against our country.

As we got off our bus, the guide pointed out that area on the East Germany side was known as the factory area, but since it was Saturday, hardly anyone would be working. As we began to look across the small river to the communist country, we noticed that at one time there was a bridge across it. The gloomy gray factories loomed above the fences that surrounded it. The silence was so that it was frightening. As the guide pointed out the fences, he explained what they were made of. The outside fence was a 10 foot concrete fence with a big pipe which is 12 inches in diameter on top, the next fence which was approximately 25 feet from the outside fence consist of an 8 foot razor sharp mesh which is designed to cut anyone attempting to climb it, the third one, about the same distance away consist of mesh and barbed wire with electrical alarms placed at certain intervals. On the outside of the big concrete fence there are towers ranging about 30 feet high and approximately 1/2 mile apart. At the top of the tower we noticed there were two guards. Our guide pointed out that the communist guards are not allowed to work but one day together, to prevent their getting friendly enough to make plans to escape. The guards watched us constantly. At points along the walls where escape would seem possible, they have dogs stationed. There are three types of dogs, the first type dog is a German Shepherd and is used for tracking, the second is also a German Shepherd and is trained to kill, the third dog is half German Shepherd and half Russian Wolf which is also used as a kill dog, this is the most vicious of all three. This dog stands waist high, weighing from 180 to 200 pounds. The two kill dogs are trained from 3 weeks to 8 months by trainers who place the dogs food beneath their chin, forming a habit of the dogs always going to the throat for their food. When the dogs become 8 months old they are placed in pens and are only fed every four days keeping them hungry. Since all of the precautions are taken by the East Germans, there are a lot less people escaping.

As we returned to the bus we noticed a huge bill board, printed in German, facing the East German side. Placed there by the West Germans, our guide told us it was placed there proclaiming that Germany is still one nation and that East Germany is still a part of that nation.

As we continued on the tour, our guide told us about the economy of Communist East Germany. The average wage for the East Germans laborer amounts to about 75 cents a day in American money. The price of coffee is $27.00 a pound and the reason for that price is they do not raise it and there is very little imported. Fruit is also scarce this year and is very high in price. In order for a common laborer to buy a car he saves for 5 years then goes to place his order and pays for it then and 8 years later if he is lucky receives his car.

Our next stop was near an East German autobon (freeway). We were there about 15 minutes and during this time we only saw five cars, this was when we began to understand what our guide said about the laborer being able to purchase an auto., for in West German hundreds of cars would have been seen in 15 minutes time.

Our guide told us the age for the East German guards range from 18 to 20 years of age. Then they are brought to the border they are encouraged to marry. Soon after they are married, the wives are moved to the interior. There they are used as a hold over the guards as a means to keep them from escaping. If a guard escapes their wives are imprisoned and the children, if any, are put up for adoption. This is also used as a means of discipline.

As we looked across the wall into the deserted looking buildings and streets and being assured there were people living there, we felt a deep sadness for those oppressed people and saw the contrast of a happy western free world and of the East German people who had no freedom at all. They are not even being allowed on the streets without permission of the government. A woman cannot even go to the grocery store without the husband calling and telling them she is going. If the wife goes to the store and the husband fails to call, she can be imprisoned for up to 12 years.

We brought home a new love and respect for our country which cannot be put into words. It is a feeling you have to get inside of you after seeing something like this. Everyone in this country should get on their knees and thank God every day for what we have in our country for surely He has smiled on us since the beginning. Instead of criticizing our leaders, we should pray for them that God will give them the wisdom they need to keep our country free.

May God continue to keep America free.

Noted designer Mario Buatta was selected to design a contemporary room for the magazine that would suit several different American lifestyles. First in a series of Designer Rooms, the portion of the House Beautiful room (above) displays the newest in retail furnishings. Mr. Buatta feels that this room could suit an apartment dweller, homeowner, a married couple, room-mates or even a single person. According to Mr. Buatta, a room should be comfortable, personal and show as you do. Traditionally styled pieces and reproductions of antiques are becoming more popular, he feels, along with a national trend toward home restoration.

NEWS Of Education

Prepared by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), a national organization of public educators dedicated to expanded college opportunities and high standards of academic excellence.

Q. Will the recently proposed tax credit help me pay for my daughter's college tuition?

A. That depends. Some people may be able to get up to $250 in tax credit, but many will get much less or nothing at all. The approximately 80 percent of American college students who attend public colleges and community colleges will receive less, student aid recipients won't receive the full credit, and part-time students won't be eligible.

Medical Self-Help

In an effort to help patient prevent many of their personal health problems the Texas Medical Association (TMA) is promoting six health habits the association says can save lives and money.

A California study showed that people who followed these ideas lived 7-11 years longer than those who did not. One of the authors of the 1973 study said a man at age 55 who follows all the habits can be as healthy as someone 30 years younger who follows less than two.

If these habits can help keep you healthy, then they are going to save you money on medical bills, said Mylie E. Durham, Jr., M.D., TMA president.

Feeling good and saving money are two great reasons to follow these recommendations:

1. Eat three meals a day, including breakfast, at regular times and avoid snacks.
2. Control your weight. Use your head to fight fat. Remember that fad diets don't keep weight off permanently. Diets based on good nutrition and sensible amounts of food have the best chance of success.

3. Exercise more than once or twice a week. If you haven't exercised in a long time, ease into it. If you're over 40 or have heart problems, check with your doctor before starting a program.
4. Avoid having more than two alcoholic drinks daily.

5. Get enough sleep. Eight hours nightly is a general rule but individual requirements vary.
6. Don't smoke.

Health experts are putting more stress on self-help health habits because they play a major part in solving several problems.

As scientists increase the average lifespan by battling traditional killers such as heart disease, an individual's efforts to increase the quality and quantity of life become even more important.

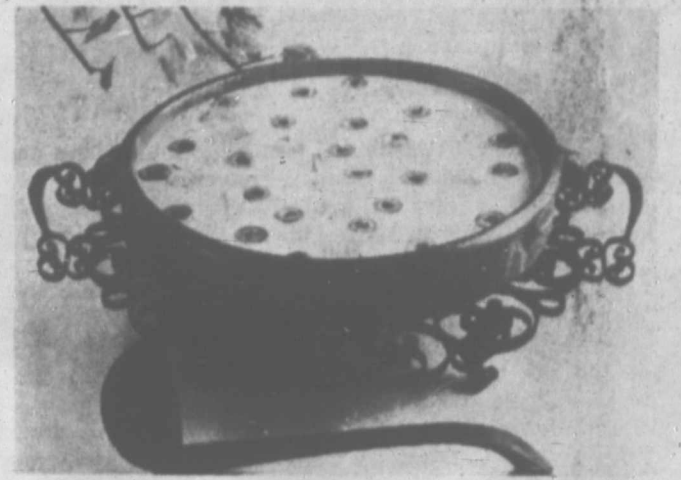

Even expensive masses of modern technology cannot save someone if he is determined to destroy himself or make life miserable by following bad health habits, Dr. Durham said.

Bad habits also are pumping up the rising cost of health care. Medical bills and other related expenses of alcoholism will cost more than $44 billion this year. Another study estimates smoking-related problems will cost more than $18 billion, including missed work days and other items. Curbing these and other expensive health habits could mean a lot more money available for pleasure instead of pain, Dr. Durham said.

As part of the association's efforts to educate the public, doctors statewide are distributing several hundred thousand pamphlets entitled "Your Health Is in Your Hands." The pamphlets include the six health habits and other ideas on saving lives and money. For a free copy of the pamphlet, write Communication Department, Texas Medical Association, 1801 North Lamar Blvd., Austin, Texas 78701.

HE'S MAKING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL HIGHER!
WHO CARES? YOU DO AND ...

WE DO!

If your electric bill has jumped this summer, take a good look up at that Texas sun. Sure, we all like sunny days, but our friend the sun can be a villain in disguise. On these Texas scorches, you'll need your air conditioning to run more. Sometimes running day and night - all night. Well, that runs up your electric bill. Just when vacation and school expenses are here.

We know you care about higher electric bills. And we want you to know that we care, too. We can't cool off the sun, but there are still time and ways to keep your bill from going much higher...here are just a few:

- Turn the thermostat to at least 78, or until you find the highest possible setting that feels reasonably comfortable to you. If you have window air conditioning units, run them only as much as is absolutely necessary.
- Check your insulation.
- When you buy major appliances, including air conditioners, be sure to check the EER (Energy Efficiency Rating). The higher the EER, the more energy and money you'll save.
- Clean and replace the filters regularly.
- Keep your drapes closed to block out direct sunlight.
- Weatherstrip around doors and windows.

At Southwestern Public Service, we care about you getting the most for your energy dollar. Call us for suggestions to help you change the size of your electric bill for the better.

Lamb County Pioneers Finalize Plans

Lamb County Pioneers are finalizing their plans for their 29th annual Lamb County Pioneer Reunion, to be held Tuesday, August 22, in the Lamb County Ag and Community Center on South Hall Avenue in Littlefield.

According to Chairman Bub Holt of Olton, things are in good shape, and everything is going as it is expected. "We're hoping for the best reunion ever," Holt said.

He continued, "Joe Bitner has already purchased the beef or the barbecue and Weldon Findley has his program all lined up."

Registration is to begin at 1:30 p.m. inside the doors of the Ag and Community Center, with Herbert Dunn and his crew in charge.

Highlights of the afternoon will include the entertaining program, which begins at 3 p.m., and the serving of the barbecue from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

Gifts will be presented to the oldest man and oldest woman present, to the guest who travels the farthest to attend, and to the person who has lived in Lamb County the longest. The gifts will be awarded, whether or not the award has been received by the same person in the past.

Bub Holt will give the welcome, preside for the business meeting and call the program to order.

Judge Pat Boone, Jr. will be in charge of the memorial program, and Boy Scouts from throughout Lamb County will present the flags, "Pledge of Allegiance," and assist with other hospitalities.

Persons who have lived in Lamb County for 25 years, or who did live here 25 years ago or before, are eligible for membership as a Lamb County Pioneer.

Persons from the various communities in the county will be serving on the hospitality committee. A new slate of officers will be elected for next year.

Cotton Season

Uncertain supplies and sagging demand highlighted the cotton situation as the 1978-79 harvest season was kicked off. With drought conditions, a crop much later than normal, the approach of cool weather and possible early frost this fall, it is near night impossible to estimate the size of this year's crop at this writing.

The June acreage report of 13.1 million planted acres clearly indicates the cotton grower's desire to produce a large crop. However, growing conditions have been unfavorable over a large area. As a result, prospects in late July indicate U. S. production may be around 11 million bales as compared with 14.5 million bales in 1977-78.

These conditions point to a somewhat higher price in the second half of 1978 than the average of 49.2 cents per pound received by Texas producers, and the 51.5 cents received by U.S. producers in the first half of the year.

Although it is too early to evaluate the full impact of the hot, dry weather, yields are expected to fall substantially below the U. S. average in recent years of a bale per acre. Even with planted acreage close to that of last year, very favorable moisture, temperature and harvest conditions will be needed for the rest of the season if the 1978-79 Texas crop is to exceed 3.75 million bales. The Texas harvest was 5.5 million bales last season and totaled 3.3 million bales in 1976-77. In other major cotton growing areas prospects are better, especially in the western region.

Most of the decrease in worldwide production is expected to be in the United States. The higher price earlier this year apparently encouraged foreign producers not to reduce cotton acreage as much as was planned earlier. Foreign production is expected near the 49.5 million bale crop estimated in 1977-78.

Demand Weak

Foreign consumption is also expected to change little and will likely exceed production by about five million bales during the 1978-79 season. That would be about the same gap between production and consumption as in 1977-78. This deficit in production should maintain a fairly strong export market for U. S. cotton. Expansion in foreign cotton consumption continues to lag as slow economic growth and strong inflation are reducing the purchasing power of consumers, especially in Japan and several European countries.

While domestic mill consumption of cotton remains soft, use of man-made fiber during the first 10 months of this season, mill use of cotton was 5.3 million running bales, 4 percent less than in the same period a year earlier. However, for the same period consumption of man-made fibers by mills with cotton system spindles totaled 1.71 billion pounds, up 8 percent over the year before.

Economic conditions will likely curtail demand for fiber. Current economic indicators point to a sharp slowdown in U. S. economic growth in the year ahead. An acceleration in the inflation rate and much higher interest rates suggests less capital spending and a slackening in personal income growth that will dampen economic activity.

In the past an economic down-turn has resulted in a slump in demand for fiber. The Gross National Product in constant dollars decreased 1.4 percent in 1974 and 1.3 percent in 1975 from the level in the preceding year. Meanwhile, total fiber consumption fell 13 percent in 1974 and another 4 percent in 1975 when economic activity perked up.

On balance, domestic use and exports from the 1978-79 U. S. crop may slightly exceed production if an 11 million bale or smaller crop is realized. This will result in a slight drawdown in the carryover of U. S. cotton to about 5 million bales by August 1, 1979. However, because higher prices will further curtail demand both at home and abroad, only a moderate increase in price will likely result.

Bureau To Take Survey

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of August 14-19, 1978. Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas, announced today. The survey is conducted for the U. S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in June the survey indicated that of the 100.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 94.8 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, the lowest in nearly four years.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals. Interviewers who will visit households in this area, is Rosemary McNeese, Route 1, Amherst, Texas 79312.

The first white man known to have set foot on what is now the Pacific coast of the U.S. was Spanish explorer Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo in 1542.
