Delegation seeks Roswell help on highway extension

Improvement and extension of Highway 116 from Reese Air Force Base through Morton and on to U. S. Highway 70, Roswell, came a step closer to reality Thursday when a delegation from Morton met with Roswell representatives in Roswell

The group, headed by Van Greene, chairman of the highway committee of the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce, also included Don Workman, Chamber president, Jesse T. Further visits are planned, it was reported, including one with John F. Suddirth chairman of th New Mexico State Highway Commission. Sudderth, whose home is in Roswell, was out of town during the Morton visitation.

cript to the county spelling bee Monday, but Terry Shiflett still emerged as champion, earning the right to represent Cochran County area-wide competition in Lubbock April 30.

Terry, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Shiflett, was declared winner shortly before noon Monday after successfully "spelling down" eight other contestants, all winners in their wn right from schools in Morton, Whiteface and Bledsoe. The final rounds found Terry matched against a classmate. Rosalinda Reves, also 14, and it was even-steven until Terry stumbled on "agenda". Rosalinda spelled it correctly, but then missed on "aggrieved". When Terry spelled that word with no mistakes, the contest was concluded and the crown was hers!

It was not until after the lunch hour and following a double-check of the official rules governing the contest that it was discovered Terry still had one more hurdle. She

There was an unexpected post- also had to spell the NEXT word on the list correctly before she really was champion. Should she miss that word, and Rosalinda spell it correctly as well as the next one, then her crown would go tumbling down!

The next word on the list - the word on which her title depended - was very apt! It was "aghast", and no doubt that's just the way Terry felt those few seconds before she heard it pronounced. But she proved her right to the title when she spelled it with no hesitation - correctly.

For Rosalinda, there was a brief lation that she had prove her excellent ability as a speller by being alternate for Cochran County to the Lubbock contest.

Both finalists are eighth grade students in Morton Junior High. Rosalinda's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Polo Reyes.

LOOKING HER BEST FOR

Easter is a day of conquest ... a day of new life ... a day of beginnings. . . . This is the day that our Saviour arose in a mighty triumph over the grave. This is a day of joy ..., a day to remember ... a day to attend services in the church that our Lord loved so much, but even though we all want to dress up and look our best for this special day it is not the most important part, for God does not look on outward appearances, but looks on the heart.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which plone will set him free to live as a shild of God.

Vandalism of LL park cause of "Off Limits"

Decision was made reluctantly Monday night to post "Off Limits" signs at the Little League baseball park - and to ask for the cooperation of local peace officers to see the signs are obeyed.

Action was taken as Little League officers and managers met at the Wig Wam to discuss the latest in a series of vandalism acts against the property. Saturday night, all 16 light bulbs at the park were shot out, replacement cost of which was placed at $53. Herman Bedwell, LL president.

MORTON TRIBUNE, THURSDAY APRIL 7, 1966

Senator explains our goals

Newspapers, including this one, spend virtually all their time writing about other businesses, other activities, other people. But occasionally we stumble across something that explains what we are trying to accomplish in our ceaseless quest for news and information.

We found just such an explanation the other day in the Publisher's Auxiliary, as it quoted Sen. Everett Dirksen from the Congressional Record.

Here are Senator Dirksen's comments:

"In 1690, the first newspaper in the American colonies was published in Boston and suppressed after a single issue by the British authorities. But the spirit of journalism remained undaunted, and 14 years later the first of many community newspapers was successful y established.

"The colonial press reported the shots heard around the world at Lexington and Concord and rallied the sons of liberty to fight. After independence, the community press followed the pioneers as they fanned out across the continent and beckoned to others with their reports and stories of new land and new hope.

"America's great and priceless heritage of a free press has not only been a privilege, it has been an absolute necessity to the growth and development of democracy. The local community newspaper has nourished the grassroots of this republic. They have provided a town meeting where there was no official town meeting. They have been a sounding board for the local opinions and aspirations of our citizens throughout the nation.

"The clean and constructive journalism of our small local papers stands as a tribute to their excellent reporting and sense of responsible government of the people. The local editor is a leader in his community, a man steeped in civic affairs and virtually interested in the church and community activities of his

The local newspaper is the heart and brain of its community. Its circulation provides the neighborhood with a meaningful concept of small group life which cannot be achieved by the dailies. The economic life of the community pulses through the advertisements and market reports; its social life through the personal and society

"But of most vital importance is the political life of the community, which is viewed better through the small local newspaper than anywhere else except the polls themselves. It is through the local press that the citizen can keep informed on the activities of the minor, as well as major officials-constable and sheriff, selectman and councilor, alderman and assemblyman. It is here that he can learn of neighbors who believe, like himself, that the community needs more frequent garbage collection, or higher salaries for teachers, or stricter adherence to zoning regulations, or strin-

'Crusading, a rare and major enterprise for most big dailies, is often the constant breath of life for the small, local press. Any evil, any hazard, any inconvenience, however great or small, is a proper object of attack. The community newspaper is usually characterized by the urge for perfection that makes it the constant and open enemy of everything that harms the community. And, this same urge for perfection that gives force to a crusade may be expanded in a positive fashion, in backing valuable community enterprises, and often in orginating them.

"The newspaper as a public servant is unaqualled at the local level. National and world news can be obtained better from radio, television, and the great dalies, but for information of those close around us, our neighborhood and our homes, we must be served by the community press. The local paper must help its community to know its own past and present and to plan its own future. It renders on invaluable service which can be performed by no other means so efficiently.

"It is refreshing to note that our local community newspapers utilize their news space for responsible reporting on constructive achievements and accomplishments of the business, professional and

All we have to do now is try to live up to this challenge, as outlined by the Senator. That is our goal, and a never-ending as-

Individual responsibility

Give a motorist an automobile and the open road, and he sometimes forgets himself. Maybe it's all part of being an individual and pushing aside responsibilities. But it all fits in the highway

Some persons — in and out of government — have taken pleasure recently in putting the blame for highway deaths chiefly on the automobile industry. The critics say the answer to it all is for the companies to build what they (the critics) describe as "safer cars." They're wrong. They've forgotten the individual driver.

Too often the role of the motorist in highway safety discus-

Vegetable Boost

Fort Stockton's budding vegetable - growing operations will get a big boost through construction of a packing shed here on a Santa Fe rail siding in the Fort Stockton

An 87 by 177-foot steel building s planned by J. S. McManus of Weslaco, who is familiar with Fort Stockton's potential in produce growing through operation of onon packing facilities here for the last three years, and a cantaloupe operation two years ago.

The asphalt - floored shed would be connected with city utility lines in order to provide washing facilities where necessary. Estimated cost of the building is $20,000, and work is expected in the next few days. It will be entirely of steel frame work and metal siding. Con-middle of May, with onion grading and packing scheduled to begin by the end of May, running through Texas Co. of Michigan again will handle sales for the shed. As in the past the onions will move both

Thiel farms are planning a summer carrot harvest - their first at that time - starting in July with the crop contracted to Campbell Soup Company's Paris, Tex plant. Victor Thiel told The Pioneer this week that they have 15 acres to harvest, and that the Campbell contract calls for a minimum size of one and half-inch carrots, much larger than the normal

They also have 40 acres of cabbage scheduled for July harvest, have been made available through sions is dismissed or placed far back in importance. Actually, it is a major consideration. No matter how automobiles are built and highways designed, the speeder, the drinking driver and the motorist who fails to keep his car in good repair will be a menace. One national news magazine recently reported that a study of 3,018 deaths on Texas highways in 1965 showed that 42 percent of the accidents, the driver was speeding; in 37 percent drinking was a factor, and 12 percent of the drivers didn't even have a license. The magazine's report added that nationally, most authorities agree, only 20 percent of all accidents don't involve some degree of driver

This all means, we think, that motorists cannot look elsewhere for a big answer to highway safety. It has to start with the man. woman or teenager behind the wheel, hopefully with his seat belt buckled. Stricter traffic laws and enforcement, better driver licensing procedures, improved driver training courses for high school students and all practicable improvements in the car itself will help. But many are convinced it will be the individual motorist who will supply the major breakthrough.

Motorists have a responsibility to each other. No one else can assume it. We enjoy freedom of speech but cannot abuse it. This privilege, for instance, gives us no license to run into a theater and yell "fire" when there is none. The same goes for the privilege of having a driver's license. It is no permit to kill or maim through misjudgment and carelessness.

The key words are individual responsibility. That's where highway safety in good measure rests.

Story of two brothers

There is an old story of two brothers, one of whom was quite wealthy and the other most un-fortunate," says R. L. Mullins, President of the Wolfe City (Tex.) National Bank, in his "Mulling Things over With Mullins" column in Bankers Digest. As I recall it, the wealthy brother, out of compassion for his less fortunate brother, began sending the latter a monthly check. The checks, at first, were greatly appreciated and treated as gifts. However, as time went on, they began to be anticipated, to the extent that they were quite often spent before they were received. That is to say that accounts were incurred beforehand that were later paid upon arrival of the

The wealthy brother had plenty and the other arrived at a mental state which justified his "right to a portion of his brother's money. The third and final state of course arrived in due time. He not only had a "right to the money, but it wasn't enough In his story, we run the gamut of appreciation, demand and unap-

We are seeing this story repeated now in the liberal camps.
President Johnson is getting it with labor. He is right on the verge of getting it with the Negro leadership and some of the Bleeding Heart Civil Righters. Hubert is tting it from the Americans For Democratic Action, which he helped spawn.

It is an old tale and it doesn't take a smart person to see that the If all the social and economic probms of the world could be, as if by magic, solved tonight, the Sociasts would create more problems efore the sun can set tomorrow

President Johnson may go down history as the father of the Great Society, but the people he is trying to help most will be the who turn on him. In fact, they are turning now and I am sure that he knows it. The likelihood is that he has gone so far that he can't back. If they howl now, what would they do if he receded even a little bit?

We may as well face the facts: The Socialist World is not only off and running. It is in a turmoil which can only be described as a riot demand for more. The President may have visions of a lot of problems being solved by his programs. Only a minuscule few will be solved, because the ring leaders don't want solutions. They want plenty of them. Perhaps it was in an unguarded moment that the President fell for the Socialist Program. Maybe it was out of the goodness of his heart and in sincere sympathy for the unfortunate that he succumbed. posed to a group of Negroes that he intended to "redistribute" wealth. Afterward, he asked one Negro man what he thought of the plan. The Negro told him that he was in agreement, except for one little thing. Huey was anxious to know what could be wrong with his plan. The Negro told him that the plan didn't go far enough to be successful. He told Mr. Long that "the wealthy will have to be redistributed every Sattiday night" In trying to satisfy everybody, President will finally learn that those for whom he has doneor tried to do - the most, will be the first to turn on him. Mr. H. A. Tuck Organizational Ch., U.F. Morton Tribune Dear Mr. Tuck:

As secretary of the Morton Area Ministerial Alliance, I have been instructed to write you to inform you of our decision concerning the United Fund in Morton. Below is a resolution which was passed by the Morton Area Ministerial Alliance this morning, meeting at the Methodist Church 'The Ministerial Alliance goes on record as unanimously approving the United Fund Drive in Morton, Texas." You may use this information as you wish. One of the ministers wondered what organizations were represented in the United Fund, and some of these were mentioned Bill Crone who was present the meeting. Would you please list these in future publication in the Morton Tribune? Thank you. Respectfully. Jerry F. Stamps.

Sec. Ministerial All. (Editor's Note: On behalf of those who have worked to organize a united campaign, we appreciate this endorsement. Final determiniation of the agencies to be included will depend upon the of-ficers and directors of the group, particularly those involved in the budget and admissions committee. It will be up to these people to decide which agencies will be included in the united campaign.)

Mr. H. A. Tuck, Editor Dear Mr Tuck and your readers, I would like to take this means to explain my position concerning the proposed United Fund. The National Foundation as well as some of the other larger "worthwhile" fund raising organizations do not participate in such activities as Community Chests, United Funds, etc. Their arguments are that they can receive more money by ducting individual drives. We in Morton and Cochran County well know this - when one drive finishes there is always another ready Several years ago I remember

... let 'em work for us a while longer

IT doesn't take a great MANY dollars to keep the wheels turning in a community like ours . . . but it does take dollars that are CIRCULATING in the local trade channels.

A GONE DOLLAR . . . gone to some other trade area . . . does not merely cost us $1 of lost trade volume . . . instead, we lose the UNTOLD value of that dollar's continued activity in our midst.

FOR every time a dollar turns over again in this community. it gives us another lift toward better job and business opportunities for all of us . . . better school, church, and other civic facilties . . . and more fine people as friends and neighbors and co-workers.

WE can get far more from every one of our dollars . . . in material and social benefits ... if we keep them at home where they can work for us . . . instead of sending them away to start working for somebody else.

If we'll let them stick around longer, we can get a lot more work out of our dollars.
