Mackenzie contracts approved

City Council raises water rates

Contracts to the Mackenzie Municipal Water Authority project were awarded October 24, 1982 (See the related story in the Nov. 4 issue). The estimated total cost of this project for each city to be financed by revenue bonds has been updated. The cost will be shared by Tullia, Silverton, Floydada and Lockney.

Estimates for annual purchase of water from the project are (in thousands of gallons):

Tullia 375,950, an average of 1.03 thousand gallons per day and 42.83 percent of the total.

Silverton: 73,000, an average of .2 thousand gallons per day and 8.32 percent of the total.

Floydada: 281,050, an average of .77 thousand gallons per day and 32.01 percent of the total.

Lockney 147,825 an average of .405 thousand gallons per day and 16.84 percent of the total.

Total estimated water purchase for all four cities is $77,825M gallons with a daily average of 2,405 thousand gallons per day.

The estimated total cost (to be financed by revenue bonds) for the transmission system for each city is: Tullia - $3,120,000; Silverton $730,000; Floydada - $3,087,500; and Lockney - $1,662,500.

Total transmission system cost for the four cities is $8,600,000 and the total cost for water supply for the four cities is $3,405,000 bringing the total cost of the project to $12,500,000.

In order to compensate for the added expense of the operating cost of the project, water rates in the cities were raised. The old and new rates are (all rates are for a 3/4 inch residential meter):

Tullia: Old rates were $4 for the first 3,000 gallons, up to 15,000 gallons 60 cents per thousand gallons and over 18,000 gallons, 70 cents per thousand gallons. New rates (already in effect) are $6 for the first 3,000 gallons, up to 15,000 gallons 90 cents per gallon and over 18,000 gallons $1 per thousand gallons.

Lockney: Old rates were $5 for the first 3,000 gallons and 75 cents per thousand gallons after that. New rates are $6 for the first 3,000 gallons and $1 per thousand gallons over that.

Floydada: Old rates were $7 for the first 2,000 gallons and $1 per thousand gallons over that. New rates are $12 for the first 2,000 gallons and $1.50 per thousand gallons over that.

Silverton: Present rates are $8 for the first 3,000 gallons and 80 cents per thousand gallons over that. The new rates were not available, but were expected to be less than originally calculated.

Comparison of water rates in other area cities

Crosbyton: $7 for the first 3,000 gallons and $1 per thousand gallons up to 30,000 gallons after that is $1.25 per thousand gallons.

Matador: $11.50 for the first 2,000 gallons, the next 2,000 gallons 60 cents per thousand gallons and the next 5,000 gallons, 55 cents per thousand gallons.

Plainview: $7 for the first 3,000 gallons and 55 cents per thousand gallons over that.

Lubbock: $5.20 for the first 1,000 gallons, up to 50,000 gallons $1.08 per thousand gallons, up to 250,000 gallons 92 cents per thousand gallons, over that is 87 cents per thousand gallons.

CRIME STOPPERS

Crime Stoppers is working! Texans have been using their telephones to effectively curb crime in our State, with big dividends. The calls received by the state and local Crime Stoppers programs have resulted in the confiscation of over $25 million dollars in narcotics and stolen property, as well as numerous arrests and indictments.

The Governor's Crime Stoppers Advisory Council, along with the local Crime Stoppers programs, are working hard to ensure that this war on crime continues. Governor Clements and the Texas Legislature stand behind the efforts of these programs to keep criminals in the hotseat in our state.

The fight against crime in Texas is continuous and your concern. As citizens of Texas you have proven there is a need for Crime Stoppers, but we need your help and support to keep it an on-going success.

If you have information on any organized criminal activity, please call the toll-free hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS at anytime, day or night. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and felony indictment of criminals in Texas. Citizens do not have to give their names, just their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Texas Legislators and our Governor want these people behind bars, but they cannot do it alone. Support your state and local Crime Stoppers. Call today and help rid our state of criminal activity.

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

It seems that this past week there was much about alcohol in the various publications and shows that I see. Of course, some area towns were having liquor option elections and that tends to produce quite a bit of press.

One item I saw was a cartoon. A wife is looking at her bedraggled, unshaven, slovenly appearing husband, and she comments: "How come the people in beer commercials never look like the people who drink beer?" A letter to the editor in a religious publication called for a ban on beer commercials, because the writer knew a band of alcoholics who drank beer exclusively and yet were not the witty, urbane folks who had discovered what weekends were for.

On the network news was a story on the resurgence of drinking among college students and how one University thought they were helping out by running a bar for the students. They figured it was better for the student to get drunk on campus because they could then walk home instead of driving.

One of the arguments advanced by the proponent of package liquor sales in Kress was that the town was dying economically and that the revenues generated by liquor sales would be the salvation of the poor town.

People have marshalled their arguments for and against liquor for years. The Bible, they stoutly declared, is not against drinking, it is against drunkenness. The opponents just as vehemently proclaimed that Jesus turned the water into grape juice, and that the body was the Temple of the Holy Spirit not spirits.

But I think more to the point these days is an attempt to get away from throwing Bible verses at one another and developing a broader perspective on the issue. There is for example the matter of the image that liquor manufacturers are trying to thrust upon us. Their ads say nothing of the broken lives caused by their product, instead implying that alcohol is some kind of necessity to the real enjoyment of life not much different from the picture given us by soft drink manufacturers.

It doesn't take a genius to figure out that their message is untrue, but by the sheer repetition of the message, many people have actually bought the image presented.

The other problem is an old question of economics. Proponents have always cited creation of new jobs, increased business revenues and tax receipts. Yet the real cost has yet to be computed.

What about the number of alcohol related accidents, auto and otherwise? What about the costs incurred in medical care, not just from alcohol's effect on the individual's body, but the damage inflicted upon others acting under the influence. And what about the costs of divorces which come through conflicts over drinking.

It is time we try to stop fooling ourselves about the impact of alcohol on our lives. Sure people can be responsible in alcohol use, but the majority of alcohol users are not responsible. It is time we admitted that fact and quit supporting an industry which is ultimately destructive.

Taxpayers owed refund

The Internal Revenue Service has $1,203,216.43 it wants to send to some north Texas taxpayers. Over 2,600 taxpayers in the northernmost 143 counties have not received their 1982 refund checks, which average $461. The smallest refund is $1, while the largest is over $96 thousand.

The most common reason for the failure of refund check and taxpayer to meet up is that the taxpayer has moved and not left a forwarding address. Others have changed their marital status and their names and failed to notify the Postal Service and the IRS. Still others are the victims of illegible address entries on the Form 1040.

When a check is returned to the IRS as undeliverable, the IRS follows up by mailing a notice to the address of record. If this fails, extensive efforts are made at the district level to locate the taxpayer's correct address.

If your name appears on the following list, please write or call the IRS. Write: Internal Revenue Service, 1100 Commerce Street, Mail Code 151-A, Dallas, Texas 75242, or call 742-2440 in Dallas, 335-1370 in Fort Worth, or 1-800-492-4830 elsewhere in Texas.

Southwestern Public Service Company conserves fresh water by using reclaimed water. We buy sewage effluent (treated sewage) from the cities of Amarillo and Lubbock, chemically treat the effluent, then use it as cooling water for our power plants. In partial exchange for this effluent, SPS sells fresh water to the cities. Working together, SPS and the cities of Amarillo and Lubbock are making a difference in the availability and quality of one of our area's most precious resources—water.

Christmas trees can be a fire hazard if not cared for properly. Before setting up your tree, help "fireproof" it by cutting across the base diagonally. This will allow the tree to absorb more water and keep it from drying out too rapidly. When decorating your tree, check all tree lights for loose sockets or frayed wiring before placing them on the tree. And never use any lights that do not display the Underwriters' Laboratory seal. Caring for your Christmas tree properly can prevent a holiday tragedy.

The Averaged Billing Plan minimizes ups and downs in your electric bill. If you prefer to budget your bill each month, averaged billing may be for you. Using this plan, rather than pay a set amount each month, you'll pay the dollar amount of electricity actually used. This monthly rate is figured by averaging the dollar amount of your past 12 months' bills. Contact one of our people at your local SPS office for more information about this tree service.

LOCAL 4-H club honored the businessmen and supporters with an appreciation Day coffee.

Floydada 4-H Club recently held appreciation Day to pay tribute to local businesses and individuals who support the 4-H program. First National Bank generously donated the use of their coffee room to the day-long affair where local businessmen and other 4-H supporters served over 75 businessmen and other 4-H supporters and all kinds of goodies baked by members.

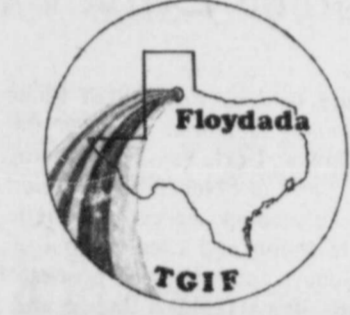

Betty Edwards, one of the four Organizational Leaders for the Floydada 4-H Club, commented "We felt that it was time that 4-H did something for the people who support our program rather than the other way around. This is our way of showing how much we appreciate their support of 4-H youth." It was also commented that 4-H plans to make the Appreciation Day an annual affair. Now that's an appetizing thought!

Letters to the editor...

Editor's note:
The following appeared in the letters to the editor section of Tuesday's edition of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. It was brought to our attention in order to praise the service one may expect to find locally.

Editor, Avalanche-Journal:
I am a student at Texas Tech University. Something happened recently that caused me to realize there is a lot to be learned out of the classroom as well as inside. My small TV set went out. I was referred to a local television service by another company here because it does not service the brand set I have. I took the set in and told them to call me before they did any repair work since I couldn't afford a big bill. Three days later, I received a call saying it would cost around $100 to fix my set. I said "I can't afford that kind of cost. I'll have to do something else. I'll be by to pick it up". I went to get the set. They presented me with a bill for $20 "appraisal charge". I was very upset. My home is Floydada. Since I was going to Floydada the next few days, I took the set there for an estimate. The set went in to a repair shop in Floydada one morning. That same night the repair person called my home and said the set was ready. The cost, including repair and appraisal, was $15. Rusty Cagle, 3807 39th St.

BY WES BROWN

I have a couple of points for you to consider the next time you are musing over a cup of coffee or pondering the status of the world. First, the point was brought to my attention that the Floydada schools ask for and receive support from the community. Why does the community not receive support from the schools? The circumstances that prompted this question was the last blood drive. Only one student and three school personnel contributed to the cause. Second, on a national level, federal tax withholding on pension payments will start January 1 and withholding on all interest and dividend payments will start July 1 unless bank stockholders and patrons can persuade Congress to repeal tax withholding. In a letter to member bankers, William H. Kennedy, Jr. said that the withholding law was passed last summer as part of a package. "It is not only wrong, but it is entirely unworkable in the form in which Congress prescribed it. Repealing it is an urgent matter," he said. "It is clear that to win a repeal of a tax law which already is on the books will require mobilization of our stockholders and—most important—our customers nationwide." Kennedy stressed the need for the bank customer to be aware what this law would mean to them personally and "...we must mobilize them to set up a clamor for repeal." If you have anything to say about this tax law, you may contact your congressman below. As Kennedy said, "We cannot afford to waste a single day." Rep. Jack Hightower, 13th District, Room 2348 Rayburn Building, Washington, D.C. 20515. Rep. Kent Hance, 19th District, Room 1039 Longworth Building, Washington D.C. 20515. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, Room 240 Russell Building, Washington D.C. 20510. Sen. John Tower, Room 142 Russell Building, Washington D.C. 20510.

Cold weather is not your hair's only enemy this winter

"It won't be the cold weather that damages your hair the most this winter," according to a leading skin care authority. "It will be the drop in the relative humidity that causes the real damage to your hair."

Dr. Myra O. Barker, vice president of research and development for MaryKay Cosmetics, Inc. says, "It's so important to condition your hair and restore it to its maximum possible good condition before the relative humidity begins to drop this winter."

"When the relative humidity begins to drop, damaged hair can't maintain its moisture balance. It begins to get very brittle and will start to dry out, split and break," she says.

Most people have already damaged their hair this past summer which has left it virtually defenseless against the winter. Damage from chlorine, salt water and especially the sun has tended to damage the protective outer layer of the hair shaft and dried out the hair.

Hair has an ideal moisture balance that needs to be preserved in order for the hair to be elastic and smooth. When this balance is lost, the hair gets into trouble.

"You need to think of your hair as if it was a $100 silk blouse. You wouldn't throw a silk blouse into the washing machine with your jeans and socks. You'd treat it very carefully," says Dr. Barker.

Hair is primarily composed of keratin, a highly complex protein substance. The only living part of each hair shaft is the root which is under the scalp. The hair we see is actually old cells that have been pushed out from the scalp as new cells have been formed in the root.

Hair grows an average of half an inch per month making it one of the body's fastest growing organs or tissues.

"There are several things you need to do right now to prepare for winter. First, go to a hairdresser and have the ends cut blunt, removing as much of the split ends as possible," Dr. Barker suggests.

Start using an intense conditioner once a week and, when smoothness returns to your hair, taper off to a couple of times a month during the winter. A conditioner smooths down the outer layer of the hair shaft, which resembles the scales of a fish. "This makes your hair shinier because it's the reflection of light off the cuticle scales that determines how shiny your hair is," she says.

A conditioner also seals moisture in the inner layer, the cortex, by making the cuticle scales lie down, which makes your hair less susceptible to damage through combing and blow-drying. Mechanical and thermal damage actually breaks off the cuticle scales leaving the protein fibers of the cortex exposed and causing them to unravel and break.

Once you have restored your hair to its best condition, there are several ways to protect it from damage during the cold months ahead. Wearing a scarf or hat on your head when outdoors is one way to protect your hair. This keeps your body's warmth and moisture close to your hair.

"Cold, dry weather tends to dry out your hair quickly just as it dries out your skin and it can make your hair very, very brittle," she says. "Covering your hair does not give complete protection, but at least you're keeping your body's warmth and moisture close to your hair to a certain extent."

Switching from a shampoo for oily hair to a gentler shampoo for normal or dry hair in the winter and using an intense conditioner twice a month will also help keep your hair in its best possible condition.

"If you wear your hair down the middle of your back as many young women do," Dr. Barker adds, "the ends of your hair are 3 or 4 years old. If you wash your hair 3, 4 or 7 times a week, as many young women do, you have done a tremendous amount of mechanical damage to those four-year-old ends from just washing it alone. "So be gentle with your hair and keep that silk blouse in mind," she says.

Music Evangelist presents concert

McKay, a nationally-known evangelist from Fort Worth, will lead a free concert of Christmas and Gospel Music at First Baptist Church on Wednesday, December 15, at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

Appearing will be the group "McKay & Cole" which includes Jay McKay, and Bill and Laurie Cole. This group relates to people of all ages, including young people.

McKay has appeared at First Baptist Church on previous occasions as a music minister during revival crusades.

McKay has a deep love for this music," said Dr. Floyd C. Bradley. "He has offered to give this as a Christmas gift to the church and the community. There is no admission charge and there will be no offering received," said Dr. Bradley. All expenses for the concert are being taken care of by a group of laymen who sponsor John McKay in his music ministry.

McKay, a native of Turkey, has sung to thousands of people in crusades across the United States and through nationally syndicated television programs. Other than George Beverly Shea of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, McKay has ministered to more people, face to face, than any singer in the history of Gospel music. He has recorded more than 15 albums and his music is heard in homes and on radio stations around the world. His phenomenally popular hit "God's Way" is a stirring variation of the secular hit, "My Way", and each time he performs it on television, he receives hundreds of requests for the lyrics.

Certain of his call into a singing ministry at the age of 15, McKay gave up what appeared to be a certain successful career as a professional football player, as well as a career singing opera. While still a student at North Texas State University, he won a place with the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company, and later refused a full scholarship to the Julliard School of Music in New York in order to pursue his singing ministry.

"McKay & Cole", a gospel music quartet from Fort Worth, appear in concert at First Baptist Church with John McKay on Wednesday, December 15, at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend the free concert.

container daily to replace that taken up by the tree. A five or six foot tree may use as much as several pints of water a day. The low humidity found in most heated homes increases the difficulty of keeping the foliage fresh. It's preferable to use a tree stand that allows the base of the tree to remain in water or wet sand when brought into the home.

Locate the tree so that it is not in the air stream of heating vents or near other sources of heat such as a stove, radiator, fireplace or television set. Replenish the water in the tree stand frequently. Always check the condition of electrical cords and lights before placing them on the tree. Christmas trees are extremely combustible and a short in the wiring can cause a serious fire. Never leave the lights turned on when leaving the house or when retiring. Make this a safe and merry Christmas.

Caring for quilts

With fall at hand and winter on the way, quilts and comforters will be in the limelight as they are taken from storage and put to use.

"Before using a quilt, check its condition, fiber content and age. An heirloom quilt, for example, should not be used on the bed where people will sit or pull on it," explains Dr. Peggy S. Owens, housing and home furnishing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Start with the least complicated and damaging method when cleaning quilts. Owens advises. Airing will remove any musty smell acquired during storage. To remove dust or surface soil, vacuum with an upholstery tool. Cover the quilt with fiberglass screening—but don't vacuum directly on the quilt.

Stain removal is unwise on older quilts because it weakens the fibers. Dry cleaning solvents remove oily stains but are usually too harsh for older quilting fabrics, the specialist warns.

"Wet cleaning must be done carefully. Do not machine-wash or dry line hang a quilt. Soak in a bathtub using a very dilute detergent solution. Rinse several times to remove detergent. Then support the weight of the wet quilt to prevent strain on fabric and stitches. Dry on a bed sheet outside," Owens advises.

Repair any damaged areas to prevent further deterioration.

Store quilts flat or rolled. To protect from dust and light, use a dust cover of well-washed cotton muslin, percale or new tissue paper. Do not store quilts in plastic, cardboard boxes and unsealed wooden boxes, such as cedar chests.

"Folding a quilt for flat storage causes stress on fabric, stitches and batting placement. Fold as few times as possible, placing tissue paper between folds. Fold off-center and in a different place each time to relieve stress on the fabric. Don't stack heavy quilts on top of each other, and don't hang quilts to store," Owens says.

Quilts—new as well as old—require special care and thoughtful use in order to increase their usability and heirloom quality, she adds.

Key to economic recovery presented

Export financing is the key to short-term economic recovery in agriculture, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau told delegates to the TFB's 49th annual meeting in Dallas Monday.

Carroll Chaloupka, wheat, feed grain and livestock producer from Dalhart, said four things are necessary in the long run for agriculture and the nation as a whole to overcome the current recession. These were:

- (1) Farmers must cut production in line with demand.
- (2) Agriculture must find a way to increase farm exports.
- (3) The nation must complete the economic recovery program begun two years ago.
- (4) These things must be solved in a way that will "strengthen and maintain our political and economic system."

The TFB farm leader said the most important action that must be taken is to increase exports of grain, cotton and rice.

He said grain exports could be increased from the current 5 billion bushels to 6 billion bushels a year by developing a credit program that would make short-term credit available to countries who need our products and can pay for them eventually, but who at present have neither the money nor credit.

"This could be accomplished through a U.S. government guarantee of principal and interest for loans from commercial sources to finance food imports," he said. "It is not necessary that government provide the money. The loans would be supplied by commercial banks with the government guaranteeing the loans."

He said the blended-credit program recently announced by the administration obviously had this in mind.

However, he said, the announced program would not be large enough to do the job that is needed. To increase grain exports by a billion bushels would take credit guarantees of from $3 to $4 billion, he explained.

Chaloupka said the government program not only needs more funding, but should be expanded to include additional crops. Commodities now under discussion include corn, wheat, soybean, vegetable oils, tallow, cotton, eggs, poultry and lumber, he said.

"Why not include pork, high-quality beef and variety meats?" he asked.

The TFB leader said exporters have learned that selling meat abroad is not easy. While all farm products are affected by unfair trade barriers, meat is confronted by additional problems of health and sanitary regulations, he explained.

On an optimistic note, he said that export of pork has greater potential than expected.

He said high-level government negotiations are needed to open markets.

"The Japanese consumer should be as free to choose the kind of meat he wants as the American consumer is in his choice of a car," he said.

Chaloupka said that the combination of reducing production by 10 to 15 percent and increasing exports to 6 billion bushels of grain should bring reasonable balance to supply and demand.

"With lower interest rates and inflation of 3 to 6 percent, all of us in agriculture should be feeling much better," he said.

"Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."

...The Veterans Administration is changing home-loan guarantee regulations to make it easier for veterans to obtain local housing programs. There are income restrictions. In the past several years, various local governments have adopted housing programs designed for persons of low and moderate income. Restrictions, such as rights of refusal or agreements to forfeit sale proceeds in the event of default, are imposed to assure that the benefits accrue only to the intended beneficiaries. Amending VA regulations now allows veterans to participate in these programs.

...The pamphlet urges all veterans to gather and keep such important papers as birth certificates, marriage certificates, insurance policies and military records in a safe and handy place for convenient reference and emergencies.

A — No. You meet the age and wartime service requirements. However, you must also meet the income and net worth requirements.

Who's Who 1981-82 named

A total of 10 students from this area have been included in the 16th annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1981-82.

Who's Who, published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois, is the largest high school recognition publication in the country. Students are selected by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon students' performance in scholarship award contests or extracurricular activities.

Final selection is determined on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics or community service. Traditionally, 99% of Who's Who students have a grade point average of "B" or better and 97% are college bound. The 16th edition of Who's Who, published in nine regional volumes, features 363,000 students, or 5% of the nation's 6,500,000 high school juniors and seniors. They represent 20,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the country.

Who's Who students also compete for over $50,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's annual opinion poll of teen attitudes. The book is distributed on a complimentary basis to over 15,000 high schools, colleges, universities, and public libraries throughout the country.

Local students selected for this year's volumes are:
 Floydada — Chris Fulton, Treva Hambright, Sammy Rodriguez, Mysti Younger, Stacy Graham, Penny Kirtley, Susan Turner, Deon Zumwalt.
 Lockney — Elma Molina, Kay Reay.

Social Security News

By Terry J. Clements

Are you a teacher not covered under Social Security? Maybe you aren't a teacher but still work under a Federal, State or local government pension not covered by Social Security. Either way, there is something you may need to know more about. It's called government pension offset.

In 1977, Social Security law was changed to establish the government pension offset. Basically, the law provides that a social security benefit to a spouse or surviving spouse be reduced dollar for dollar by the amount of their government pension.

Are there any exceptions to the rule? Yes, Congress did provide for a "grace period". The offset does not apply if two requirements are met. The first requirement is that at the time of filing for the spouse or surviving spouse's benefit, the individual would meet the eligibility requirements as they were in effect in January, 1977. A person applying for a wife's benefit or widow's, mother's or father's benefit will meet this requirement because there have been no changes in the law since January, 1977.

Mother's and father's benefits are those paid to a surviving spouse of a wage earner with children in his or her care. Examples of benefits that have changed, either because of a Congressional Act or court decision, are husband's benefits, widower's, divorced wife's and divorced husband's benefits.

The second requirement is that the claimant be entitled or eligible for their government pension before December 1982. It is not necessary that a person file for the social security benefit before December, 1982. It is also not necessary for the person to actually retire to meet this requirement as long as a benefit would be payable if the individual were not employed and if an application was filed for the pension before December, 1982. In summary, the government pension offset may affect your benefit as a spouse if you work under a Federal, State or local government not covered under Social Security. This offset reduces your benefit dollar for dollar by the government pension. There is an exception to the law. It is not necessary to file the social security application or retire from the government job to meet this exception.

Let me make one final point. Your Medicare coverage is not affected by this law. The offset reduces the amount of benefit received. Since the individual is still technically entitled to Social Security, this right to Medicare protection is preserved.

You can receive free information or assistance with Social Security matters by calling 293-4371 or visiting the office at 1401-B West 5th Street in Plainview.

$30 million mowing bill trimmed

Texas highway roadsides may not be trimmed as closely next year but a new system should trim a $30 million annual mowing bill.

The vegetation management system, being studied by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT), will still provide for motorists' safety, protect the road surface — and save money.

"The department spent $30 million last year in mowing costs," DHT chief landscape architect Craig Steffens said, "but we still got some irate calls when we let our rights of way get a little shaggy."

He added that savings from that $30 million will go to safeguard the state's multibillion investment in its highways. Steffens said the goal of the vegetation management system is to develop the most cost effective, practical methods and concepts for managing roadside vegetation. "The discontinuance of mowing isn't our objective," he said. "However, the idea that a properly maintained highway needs to be mowed from right-of-way line to right-of-way line isn't necessarily correct."

The new system, to be initially instituted in one maintenance section in each of DHT's districts, will be studied through 1983 for a comparison of costs and labor, Steffens said.

With over a million acres of right of way along the state's 72,000 miles of highways, DHT has a lot of neighbors — and most of them like to see the roadsides as well kept as their property. Steffens said, "We do plan to continue mowing to the right-of-way line adjacent to cultivated, developed and urban areas. But along rangeland and untended property, we don't intend to mow except along the shoulder.

"We hope Texas will understand that we are trying to save their tax dollars by establishing less costly priorities in our mowing operations," Steffens said. "We simply can't continue mowing from right-of-way line to right-of-way line on every highway."

He said preliminary studies indicate the vegetation management system will show an excellent savings and yet benefit desirable native plant life such as wild flowers. But, Steffens cautioned, DHT is not making any great promises of savings until the results of next year's study are in.

Accent On Health

Bats migrating through Texas on route to winter nesting sites may prove a threat to humans and animals if the bats have rabies and fall to the ground.

Recently, two rabid bats were found at a school in Leander, in Williamson County. Luckily, no children were bitten or scratched.

Although the possibility of getting rabies from bats is remote, some simple precautions should be taken, says Dr. Keith A. Clark, veterinarian with the Texas Department of Health's (TDH) Bureau of Veterinary Public Health.

"Children need to be taught not to touch any animal that is acting strangely, and this includes bats," said Dr. Clark. "Sometimes children will find a bat on the ground. They need to know that if they can touch a bat, or any wild animal, it is probably sick and should be left alone." He said pets also should be kept away from bats.

Dr. Clark said 57 rabid bats were identified by TDH laboratories through August of this year. For the same period last year, 48 rabid bats were reported. During all of last year in Texas, 79 cases of rabies in bats were confirmed, said Dr. Clark. "Mexican free-tailed bats appear in Texas by the millions every summer in the habit caves located in the Balcones Escarpment and the adjacent Edwards Plateau," he said. "Before the onset of winter, they migrate to Mexico, Central America and South America. This migration we are witnessing now."

Dr. Clark said bats are very beneficial in controlling insects and should not be considered a public health threat because they generally don't come in contact with people. However, the bat population has increased in the past few years.

Dr. Clark reminded pet owners of the state law requiring that dogs and cats be vaccinated against rabies. "Most people realize they need to vaccinate their dogs," he said. "But unfortunately, they don't think about vaccinating their cats against rabies. It's equally important that the cats be protected."

Conservative religion rewards small town

Editor's Note:

This article appearing in the Lubbock Avalanche Journal Saturday morning edition, November 20, 1982. It is being reproduced by request.

KEENE (UPI) — Police Chief Jack Pack is a Seventh Day Adventist, but has no religious qualms about wearing a gun because he believes the weapon is as much a part of his job as a scalpel is to a surgeon.

"Adventists do not believe in weapons only when it is not part of your job, but in my case it is, like the scalpel is to a surgeon," Pack says. "Both can kill if used wrongly."

Pack says he has never had to use his weapon in this town about 20 miles south of Fort Worth.

That is because no major crime has occurred in Keene for as long as Pack can remember.

The only major crime in the town in recent years that Ann Anderson can recall was a burglary at the LaLoma grocery store.

Mrs. Anderson ought to know. She is the dispatcher on the town's six-man police force.

Like Mrs. Anderson, all the officers on the force are Seventh Day Adventists.

So are members of the town's city council, school board and nearly 95 percent of the 3,013 population.

Keene does not have a saloon. Its schools do not teach the theory of evolution and its young girls are chaperoned when they go out on dates, all in keeping with the strict Adventist doctrine of morality and self-discipline.

The citizens have few complaints.

They have no fear of walking on the streets at night. Most of them are on a first-name basis with each other and problems like drugs and teen-age sex are almost non-existent.

In 1981, there were only 78 offenses. None of them were major and most of them committed by residents from nearby towns, Chief Pack says.

A paradise city in Texas?

"Not really, but we like to think so," Pack says. "Much of it, I must say, is because we are a strict denominational city where we don't think of murders and other serious crimes."

The LaLoma burglary in which about $7,000 was taken aroused the town. But those fears have been calmed because it is now believed those responsible were from nearby Alvarado, a town half the size of Keene with no Adventists and twice the crime rate.

The Adventists, one of the fastest growing denominations in the United States, counts more than 500,000 as members in this country and 4 million worldwide.

Although the theology of the group, founded in the 19th century, is solidly evangelical, Adventists distinguish themselves from other conservative Protestants by their belief that the Biblical day of worship is Saturday, not Sunday.

Adventists reject secular education that teaches evolution. They only believe in the Biblical version of creation which explains why no Adventist in Keene attends a public school.

The city's only church is an Adventist church. Non-believers go to nearby Burleson or Cleburne.

Everything in Keene revolves around the Southwestern Adventist College founded in 1893 by a group of the faithful looking for a place to set up an institution in the Southwest to teach children their faith.

Keene was chosen because the land was hilly and nothing much grew on it. As the college grew, so did the town.

Southwestern is now a four-year degree college offering diplomas in computer science, pre-medicine, religion, business and liberal arts.

"Our students come here because they want to go to an Adventist college," says Berney Neufeld, Southwestern's vice president of development and a professor of genetics. "Once that decision is made, the student sticks with it. Many of our students go into the ministry or take up medicine. Very few go to industry because it is secular and it is almost impossible to move up if you are not willing to work on Saturdays."

Sabbath worship on Saturdays is a must among Adventists; hence the heavy emphasis on church attendance.

"I know of few Adventists who will watch the Super Bowl on Saturdays," Neufeld said. "Sabbath worship is extremely important. We expect all our faculty to be church members."

Because of strict indoctrination and religious discipline that begin during childhood, Neufeld said an Adventist youth seldom faces the problems other youths face.

He said his teen-age daughter does not object to being chaperoned on dates although she is free to reject that and other traditions.

"The discipline committee in the college is concerned more about church attendance by students than problems like drugs," Neufeld said.

"You will seldom find a student smoking on the campus. Healthy living always has been a tradition of the Adventists."

He said flesh eating has been found to be unhealthy and that is why half the Adventists in the United States have become vegetarians.

"We moved here specifically for the education of our children in the Adventist faith," said Margie Wilkes, mother of three and the city's tax assessor. "I used to be a Baptist. I converted when I found out I was going to the church on the wrong day (Sunday). We feel the Adventist doctrine is the right doctrine and we want our children to be thoroughly indoctrinated in that."

Those interviewed admit they face public criticism that Adventists tend to isolate themselves from the remainder of the world and seek refuge in their pacifist doctrine.

Cotton Ginning Time in Floydada in 1905

EDITORS NOTE: The following is a nostalgic look at early life in Floyd County. It is from a long-time subscriber (62 years) of the Floyd County Hesperian. We enjoyed it and hope our readers will enjoy it also.

Mrs. W. Boone Hall
(nee Ruth Brown)
Plainview, Texas

My parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Brown and family moved to Floydada in 1905—but had lived in Floyd County prior to that.

My father bought a building from a Mr. Ranft and with a light hard ware store on the first floor and living quarters above, right on town square and situated about where Hale's store is today.

As I recently drove in the country and saw the field of cotton, such sweet memories flooded my soul. In 1905 there was a wooden gin located where Oden's Chevrolet Co. is today in Floydada. In the fall the small wooden gin would fire up ready for the farmers to bring their cotton to gin in their rattling rumbling squeaking wagons.

Side boards had been added to wagon beds—cotton piled high. Often the entire family bedded down in warm cotton and came to town to spend the day and shop - a glorious occasion!

Then the gins burned the cotton feed and burrs. White billowing smoke would cover the little town and all the windows and cracks in the air pollution? Why, it was a thought of. There was something comforting, as something about the aroma.

This was a most happy time for the schools were closed and child would go to fields to pick fluffy cotton.

Now this was the only time families had to make enough to buy their warm winter clothes save a little for the coming time.

The children would love mama as they selected their wonderful exciting event.

And what did they buy? A long warm union suits (one pair), heavy black ribbed brogan shoes, warm mackinac knicker bocker pants gathered below knees for dress. Warm ear flaps lined with velvet weather. Mother bought denim and cotton flannel shirts.

The girls selected long two pair union suits, cotton stockings, laced shoes and a net for the bloomers. They were gathered at knees and elastic, how snug they were! caps for the small girls, but for courting girls there were heavenly fascinators.

These fascinators were with fine wool thread in soft pink, blue, orchid and white were buglar in shape and all front was crocheted ruffles and shiny bugle beads. And the girls combed their hair up in style and donned the glistening, hypnotized and fascinated imagine many a marriage proposal offered in this bedazzling manner.

Well, how did we start the wooden gin in Floydada in 1905 up with marriage proposals?

Oh, life was sweet and so good in those far away childhood.

REMEMBER your loved one with a living memorial to Caprock Hospital Auxiliary Fund. Mrs. Ben W. Treasurer.

South Plains News

BY MRS. MURRAY JULIAN
 South Plains, Monday, December 6th:
 Sunday, December 5th, was a wonderful day at the South Plains Baptist Church with several visitors during the morning services, including Dr. and Mrs. Fred and Sarah Howard from Plainview. At noon, the Thanksgiving and Christmas Banquet was held at Fellowship Hall, with turkey, ham and all the delicious trimmings brought from various homes over the vicinity. It was a happy time for giving thanks and of friends and relatives were also at the church for services and the banquet.

 Snow mixed with rain fell here Friday, December 3rd, and the rain melted away the snow which fell in such a beautiful manner for several hours. This was the second snowfall, as the evening before Thanksgiving we had a nice snow. The rural roads have been hard to navigate.
 We are sorry to know about the passing of our old friend, Carl Plumlee, who died Wednesday night, November 24 in a Plainview Hospital. He was a kind, good neighbor, and we send our sympathy and condolences to Mrs. Plumlee and family.
 Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Powell who once lived here in South Plains Community were in Floydada visiting their son, Tom and family in Floydada, and were in the vicinity during Thanksgiving time. They now reside in Howe, Texas. It was nice to hear from them.
 Sylvain Kinnibrugh went for a doctors checkup Tuesday, November 30. He is Dealer to sponsor telecast of rodeo finals

Floydada Implement Co., Floydada, will join Hesston Corporation and more than 1,000 other participating Hesston Farm Equipment dealers across United States in sponsoring the telecast of the 1982 National Finals Rodeo from Oklahoma City.

The two-hour prime time telecast will be aired on a special Hesston Rodeo TV Network and be seen by more than 30 million viewers. The NFR will be telecast in a new format this year in most areas, with the two-hour special airing the same day the rodeo takes place, on a live tape delay.

The program will appear locally on

KCBD, (11), Lubbock, Sunday, December 12, 8-10 CST.

Billed as NFR TELECAST IX, this is the ninth consecutive year that Hesston and its dealers have televised the National Finals Rodeo. The NFR is recognized as the "World Series" or "Super Bowl" of ProRodeo and is the final rodeo on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) yearly circuit.

To qualify for the National Finals, entrants must rank among the top 15 money winners in their respective event for the year. Cowboys who come out on top during the National Finals win the "World Champion" title for that event. World championships will be awarded in bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, team roping, saddle bronc riding, calf roping, bull riding and barrel racing. In addition, the 1982 All-Around World Champion Cowboy will be named.

The telecast will open with a 30-minute "Countdown to Glory," highlighting the first nine performances of the 1982 NFR. This "Countdown" will be immediately followed by 90-minute, same-day coverage of the tenth and Final Championship Performance, exclusively sponsored by Hesston Corporation and participating Hesston Farm Equipment dealers.

Commentary during the "Countdown to Glory" segment will be handled by rodeo announcer Bob Tallman and Red Steagall, country-western recording artist. The final performance will be covered by Bob Eubanks, television game show host; Larry Mahan, six-time World Champion Cowboy; Hadley Barrett, veteran rodeo announcer; and Pam Earnheart, former rodeo queen, who will assist in interviews and coverage of the girls' barrel racing event.

Commercial announcements during the telecast will feature the Prime Line of farm equipment available from Hesston Corporation. Also featured will be the 1982 "All-Around Cowboy" belt buckle, available from participating Hesston dealers.

As an added feature, Hesston will air its annual "Salute to Agriculture," a public service message written by a member of the national Future Farmers of America organization.

The seminar was with financial assistance from the G. Rollie White Charitable Trust.

USDA to permit price support loans on substituted grain, soybeans

Farmers who participate in the government's acreage reduction program now will be able to take out government price support loans on grain and soybeans substituted for crops produced on their farms, a high ranking U.S. Department of Agriculture official said.

Previously, only grain physically grown on a producer's farm was eligible for price support.

Everett Rank, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the change was made to allow farmers who participate in acreage reduction programs to take advantage of government price supports without having to transport their grain to areas where grain elevators will accept the grain for storage.

Rank said the change will permit eligible producers to feed or sell grain produced on their farms and place under loan an equivalent quantity of acquired grain stored in an approved warehouse. Commodities that may be substituted include wheat, feed grains, rice and soybeans.

Rank also announced that: — Loans will be based on the rate applicable for the county where the loan grain is stored.

— Producers must obtain approval to place under loan any grain which they acquire before an equivalent quantity they produced is sold or otherwise disposed of.

— Warehouse receipts covering the acquired grain must be submitted to the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office as security for the loan within 15 days after the producer's grain is sold or traded.

Rank said, "The farmer-elected county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee has the responsibility to protect the interest of both the producer and CCC in approving the substitution of grain for loan purposes. Producers who wish to take advantage of this change should contact their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office."

"THE FIRST SANDSTORM"

By W.W.

We saw this giant swirling mess,
Rolling toward us from the west.
Windmills quickly turn, in self defense.
Thistles hung, then jump the fence.
Chickens shelter from the storm
Wash tubs blow from off the walls.
Milk pen calves run for their stalls.
The wind whistles thru' a thousand cracks.
In the pioneers clap board shacks
Soon the sky is black as night.
So the women get the lanterns out to light.
When the men come from mowing prairie hay.
They bemoaned, what happened on this frightful day.
They pondered why, they had come out this way.
But we who live in this land today,
Thank God, that our fathers came here to stay.

Crop insurance to be extended at USDA

Crop insurance offered farmers by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will be extended to more crops in more counties for the 1983 crop year.

Merritt W. Sprague, manager of the USDA crop insurance agency, said the corporation board of directors has approved 823 additional county programs for 1983 crops. A county program is the authority to sell crop insurance for one crop in one county.

"Our agency currently insures 28 crops in 14,498 county programs across the nation," Sprague said. "The additional county programs announced are part of our continuing expansion program."

Crops included in the additional county programs for 1983 are soybeans in 285 counties, oats in 384, potatoes in 44, peanuts in 33, tobacco in 70, peaches in 4 and grapes in 3.

Sprague also announced that the USDA agency will prepare regulations for covering hybrid seed crops in the 1983 crop year. He said the plan will insure seed for producers who are under contract to processors. The new rules will be published in the Federal Register for public comment and review before going into effect.

"These needed programs will allow producers to obtain the risk management protection necessary in today's economic situation. Ultimately, insurance protection against unavoidable loss will be available to nearly every crop producer in the nation," said Sprague.

Search continues for Texas' rural hero

The search is under way for Texas' rural hero of 1982.

The Rural Heroism Award, sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, is presented each year to some person judged to have performed an act of exceptional bravery during a time of crisis, according to Ben Bullard, Council president and assistant safety director of the Texas Farm Bureau.

March 1, 1983, is the deadline for entries to be received by the Rural Heroism Award Committee, Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, P.O. Box 489, Waco, Texas 76703.

The heroic act or human-life-saving deed must have occurred within Texas during 1982 and should be related to farming or ranching operations.

Nominations should include a written account of the incident and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all persons involved. Newspaper clippings and pictures should also accompany the nominations, if available.

The award will be presented at the Monday morning opening general session of the 44th Annual Texas Safety Conference and Exposition, April 25, 1983, at the Shamrock-Hilton Hotel in Houston.
