A PEN SKETCH OF PRESIDENT WILSON

I am sitting alone in the room of the president in the executive office, and at the desk I have often seen him set at. I am writing for a few minutes until a document I have prepared for Mr. Tumulty is typed. And as I set here in this quiet place at a time when President Wilson is an invalid, I can but reflect upon the changes in the condition between the time I first knew him at this same desk and this day. Truly, it is an impressive reflection!

Then (1913) all was bustle, hurry, noise, business. One after another, the senators, representatives, diplomats, office seekers, reporters, jostled about, made hasty intrances and early exits, each bent upon his task or purpose. To all alike, Mr. Wilson was most courteous, attentive, considerate. No man could have been more engaging in his personality. He was never profuse and never frigid. His gentleness and quiet, unobtrusive dignity were a complete mask. He allowed each person to know exactly what he chose to let him know. He was a perfect master of his expression. He argued in such conversations, either by keen and interested attention, but by silence, or largely by inquiry or remarks of indirection. Rudeness was foreign to his gentlemanly nature. I believe that his mind was so nearly perfect and his sensibilities so acute that no one ever deceived him, even for a moment. He had an acute sense of humor and all things of thought, sentiment or humor, were absorbed, instanter, as a sponge absorbs water. When he wished one to go, he quietly arose and by some intimation of manner or intonation of melodious voice, he brought the interview to a close.

He was in perfection of his fine powers at that time (1913) and the whole great future for himself and his fellow citizens, and he planned and faced with consummate confidence lay out before him.

Ten years before then and in 1919 made him one of the immortals of the ages. And, today, there is an air of the tomb here. Only his spirit—the air and feeling of him—is here. He is, in the flesh, over at the White House—broken, an invalid—his life and his work behind him, the lengthening, dark shadows ahead. He has broken himself upon the wheel of duty to others. No man since Lincoln has gone through with so much responsibility, so absorbing care, so many or so great problems, such nerve racking experiences, so tremendous tasks. He wanted to make the world better—he did so! He yearned for suffering humanity to reach a higher peak; he lifted up its eyes, held up its head, nerved its heart, lead it to the heights, where it caught its vision of a better life. He lead his own people to universal prosperity, equality of opportunity, to a practical democracy, equality, fraternity, and the vision dimmed the eyes of the world for the first time with tears of tenderness and kindness and longing. So absorbed did he become in his work that he forgot the limitations of human strength and worked until he fell, helpless, a physical wreck.

And he sits today on the veranda at the White House, overlooking the beautiful garden and Mall and thru the vista out on the broad Potomac and across the lovely Virginia hills, his mind clear, his spirit tolerant, his work nearly done; and he must reflect on the utility of much of human endeavor, the frailty of human friendships, the selfishness of much of human relationship, the vanity of human glory, and the tragical cloud that slowly envelopes human life itself. God bless him! Efectionately, Joe Eagie, Congressman of the Fifth Texas District and written October 5th, 1920.

LOCAL CATTLE MOVEMENTS

Seven cars of cattle belonging to H. Fitzgerald of the T2 ranch in Yoakum county, were loaded at Seagraves last Friday, and shipped to the market at Oklahoma City.

T. P. Roach, of Amarillo, purchased six cars of calves from the J. N. Ferris estate recently, and loaded them at Ropes last Thursday, to be shipped to his ranch near Amarillo. This was a fine lot of calves.

Among those who loaded cattle at Seagraves last Saturday, were, Tom Bingham, 2; L. P. Bennett, 4, Emory Haynes, 1 and C. E. Martin, 3. This stuff was all going to the market at Fort Worth.

A special came down Saturday as the regular train had all the cattle it could carry out, and loaded 21 cars for the following local ranchmen: 1 car for Walker & Wood; Jack Bryan 1 car; Dock Windham, 4 Ross Renfro 15. The first six cars named are to go to market at Fort Worth, and the 15 cars belonging to Mr. Renfro are to be put on feed at Sweetwater. C. W. Sherrod of Gaines county, shipped 7 cars Monday to Ft. Worth market. They were loaded at Seagraves.

Boon Hunter shipped two cars from Seagraves or Wellman switch, Wednesday. One car of them were sold to Amarillo parties, and the other one went to Sweetwater to be fed, cotton seed meal and hulls.

We are indebted to Geo. E. Tierman, Association inspector for a good deal of the information above, and we are pleased to say that we will from this one keep the readers pretty well posted on the movement of cattle through the same source.

$190,000.00 AVAILABLE

Austin—One hundred and ninety thousand dollars will be available in 1921 for the fight against tuberculosis and other preventable diseases by the Texas Public Health Association and its affiliated organizations over the State, if the Texas quota is reached in the 1920 Christmas seal sale. This announcement was made by D. E. Breed, executive secretary of the Association.

Of the quota of $200,000 to be raised in Texas, 95 percent will remain in Texas to be used for better health conditions here, while the other five percent will go to the National Tuberculosis Association to carry on its extensive anti-tuberculosis work all over the United States. The other $190,000 will be used to wage the Texas war against the "white plague."

Every county in the State will be given the opportunity to purchase the little seals of good health, said J. W. Butler, of Galveston, Chairman of the Texas Christmas seal sale committee. Chairmen have been secured in nearly every large county of the State to sell Christmas seals, and we hope to complete the organization of many more counties before the opening of the seal sale December 1st. Seals will be mailed out to the few remaining counties which are not organized, so that the people all over the State will be given the opportunity to help in health work, and to place the little seals on their holiday mail.

CANDIES of all kinds at Brothers & Brothers, and they are fresh too.

The Panhandle of Texas, that vast arid area, where even the prairie dog and hoot owls and rattlesnakes "conserve" by all living together in the same hole; that voluminous expanse of "granite rock" upon which it would be the height of the ridiculous to build an A. & M. College; the drouth stricken region where half the people starve to death and the other half migrate, has actually had the affrontery, in the face of all those East Texas politicians had to say about its utter selfishness as an agricultural section, to go and take the first prize at the Wichita Wheat Show in competition with the best that the admittedly great agricultural State of Kansas could produce.

And that was not all! Our exhibit was so noticeably superior, that Secretary Jamison was asked to have it placed on a float styled, "The Horn of Plenty" and it was given a prominent place in the historic parade that was one of the most noteworthy features of the Wichita celebration.

Kansas, it appears, is not afraid to recognize the agricultural accomplishments of the Panhandle of Texas. Only here at home, in our own state, are the wonders of our productive soil derided and ridiculed and that by men who either know absolutely nothing about them or are so prejudiced and hide-bound that they refuse to acknowledge that any good can come from this section.

Year after year, the Panhandle has sent to the Dallas Fair such a collection of agricultural products as could not fail to impress visitors with the growing importance of our rapidly developing agriculture. Our exhibits have called fourth unstinted praise from papers of Dallas and Ft. Worth and other places where the editors attended the show but—they have evidently failed to make any impression upon the splendid soul of the East Texas politician.

So be it. The East Texas hog that has fed and waxed fat with his feet in the trough filled by our progressive citizenship to the very great detriment of our own section, is going to have to be divided up or he will shortly find the trough empty.—Southwest Plainsman.

MORE TRUE THAN FUNNY

An old negro not long ago applied for membership in an extremely exclusive church in an eastern city, but the Bishop of this refined congregation told the old man that his spiritual condition was not satisfactory and sent him home to pray.

After a few days the petitioner again sought the minister and again the bishop said that he was not satisfied and recommended the darkey to prayer. But the next day, back came the old darkey, his face shining. "Well," said the bishop. "How is it with you Sambo?"

"It's alright suh, answered the old darkey. "I prayed to de Lord, and the Lord said, "Go ahead Sambo, and good luck to you. I've been trying to get into that church twenty years myself."—Ex.

HOW EDITORS GET RICH

A child is born in the neighborhood; the editor gives the loud lunged youngster and the "happy parents" a send off; the doctor gets $25 and the editor gets $50.

It is christened; the minister gets $5 and the editor gets $50.

A marriage takes place. The editor pushes his pencil and tells a dozen lies about the "beautiful and accomplished" bride. The minister gets a ten spot; the editor gets $50.

In the course of time she dies. The doctor gets from $15 to $100; the minister perhaps gets another $5; the undertaker gets $75 to $150; the editor publishes a notice of the death, an obituary two columns long, and a card of thanks, and gets $50.

No wonder so many country editors get rich. Have you paid your subscription.

RE-DISTRICTING ASSURED

Little if any opposition occurred at the Fort Worth State Democratic convention against the plank there adopted favoring State Senatorial Re-districting. The plank was adopted by unanimous vote. Unless all the signs fail, the long and hard fight staged during the past two years by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for adequate representation at Austin, should and will be brought to a victorious close at the next session of the State Legislature. And it will be a great victory, well fought and well deserved to be won.—West Texas Today.

Moreover, the West Texas exhibit has been taken to Houston by Exhibit Manager, J. C. Willis to be shown at the Houston fair and incidently to win another cash prize. The late Governor, John Ireland once said of all Texas laying between the Rocky Mountains and Fort Worth was intended by nature for grazing purposes only. SHOULD WORK BOTH WAYS

The majority of the farmer of this nation have from $1,000 to $100,000 invested in their farms. They produce cotton, wheat, corn, oats and livestock for sale; they are commercial producers. They use farm implements made by manufacturers who produce their implements for sale the same as the farmer grows cotton for sale, and have their money invested in productive plants the same as the farmer. They "arbitrarily" name the price of their products. They must do so or fail. When the farmer goes to buy an implement he must pay an "arbitrary" price for it. When he borrows money, he pays "arbitrary" interest. When he buys something from the store, he pays an "arbitrary" price. When he goes to the gin, he pays an arbitrary price for his ginning. The oil mill pays him an "arbitrary" price for his seed. The cotton buyer pays him an "arbitrary" price for his cotton, the basis of which is made by a system of gambling and combination, conducted by gamblers. Even the bootblack charges an "arbitrary" price for shining shoes. I would like for some one to explain of what material the farmer is made that he should be denied the privilege of doing as other commercial producers do. Knowing that all others depend upon the proceeds of the farmers' products for their existence and prosperity, I would like to know by what reasoning they expect the farmer to support and make prosperous all classes of business and industries by conducting his business along lines which, if followed by those depending upon him, would result in their certain bankruptcy? Without a voice in the price of his cotton, why should any man be foolish enough to expect our farm boys to remain on the farm, or any of those who have left it, to return?—Yeary.

RAILROAD RETURNS ARE NOT GUARANTEED

By the editor of "Earth," a Santa Fe publication.

A good many citizens have the notion that the transportation enacted by Congress early this year guarantees a minimum return of 6 per cent to every railroad. The purpose of this bulletin is to correct that impression.

Following the specific requirements of the new law, the Interstate Commerce Commission divided the United States into four regions for rate making purposes: (1) the eastern states; (2) the Southern states; (3) the central part of the country east of the Rocky mountains, and (4) the territory west of the Rockies. This done, the Commission made a valuation of all the railroads by region, and then established freight and passenger rates, which, in its judgement, would give an aggregate return of 6 per cent on the total value of the railroad property in each region. But no individual road is guaranteed 6 per cent, nor any other rate of return.

The law fixes 5½ per cent as the minimum earnings on which the combined railroads of the region can safely operate, and give the Commission the discretion of raising the minimum rate of return to 6 percent, which was done in a case recently decided.

Competition—one purpose of the law—is maintained in every region, and the railroads will fight for business as before the war. If any railroad fails to secure sufficient business to make 6 per cent on its valuation, it is out of luck, and must look to some other source than the government for direct relief; the law does not give it. If any road make more than 6 per cent, it must split the excess earnings with the government for the creation of a fund from which weak roads may borrow in emergencies. If all of the roads combined in a region earn 6 per cent, the law will be satisfied, and even if some individual roads make nothing at all. If the earnings on the combined railroad property of the region are under 6 per cent, it becomes the duty of the Commission to readjust the rates.

The Santa Fe System lies in the central and western regions, and its property, therefore, is valued in two regions for rate making purposes. Some of the Santa Fe's neighbors made money prior to Federal control and some of them lost. That situation may continue to obtain under the new law. While the earnings for no road are guaranteed, the machinery of the law is supposed to work in such a manner that railroad credits will be improved, and will help the railroad industry generally, and give the public assurance of better service.

The government having taken the roads and used them for its own purposes for 26 months, did, after it got through with them and returned them to their owners, guarantee the earnings for half a year, to allow time for investigation of rates; but that period expired the last of August. The railroads now depend wholly on what they can earn on the rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Another consignment of 28 coops of turkeys were shipped out last Thursday, in fact they are going out everyday. You don't have to depend on cotton exclusively in old Terry—yea! not in any portion of the good old South Plains country. You can raise turkeys, hogs and corn here in abundance, and a man that cannot take this combination and in conjunction with a few good brood and work mare and a half dozen jersey cows and make a living, would die of starvation in the Garden of Eden.

BILIOUS CHILDREN

Black-Draught, Long in Successful Use, Praised by an Arkansas Mother, "Soon Does Its Work."

Marmaduke, Ark.—Speaking of Theford's Black-Draught, which from long use in her household has become regarded as "the family medicine," Mrs. Mary E. Hill, of Route 1, this place, says:

"When the children get bilious, I give them a couple of good doses, and when we have sour stomach, headache, or any liver or stomach trouble, we use Black-Draught. It is an easy laxative, and soon does the work. I certainly think it is one of the best remedies made."

Black-Draught acts on the faded liver, gently, but positively, and helps it in its important function of throwing out waste materials and poisons from the system.

In thousands of households Black-Draught is kept handy for immediate use in time of need. Prompt treatment often is half the battle, and will often prevent slight ills from developing into serious troubles.

HOGVILLE LOCAL NEWS

By Dunk Botts

Zero Peck says when the church goes to give a dinner or supper his wife always agrees to furnish more than her share. Zero has always been a little stingy except back in whiskey times when he could get about half drunk.

Gape Allsop finds that a great deal of the information given him by other people is not so.

The Postmaster, who is regarded as not being as religious as he should be, got a good scolding from the wife the Bear Ford preacher the other day.

Dag Smith told it at the postoffice yesterday that his wife is not near as good a cake baker as her neighbors think she is; that they ought to have to eat some of the cake he eats and they would see for themselves. He says when she happens to bake a good cake she gives it all to the neighbors in order to get bragged on, and when she bakes one of the other kind he has to eat it and let on as though it is very fine.

Gape Allsop says a fellow, in order to keep on good terms with everybody, has to say, "That's all right" lots of time when it isn't.

Dock Mathews has always been afraid he would have some kind of fever and die. He says all his wife's people who have died, died of fever and he is afraid of those hereditary diseases.

Alexander Moseley says if he owned a circus he would try to make some arrangements by which he could keep it in Hogville all the time, as our people seem to enjoy the so well.

Gape Allsop thinks the indications are for a very hard winter, as the hornets' nests are built very low this time. Yesterday, while in the woods on Petunia Ridge, where he had no business, he bumped a very large one with his head. Today his head is sore and very badly swollen, though he is expected to recover. He finds the hornets about the most sensitive and treacherous animal he knows anything about.

Zero Peck says watch the fellow who claims to like his mother-in-law. If he will "tell somethin'" about one thing he can't be believed in very strong. Zero had a mother-in-law one time.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving has ever been a day welcomed because of its feasting, its enjoyments, its happiness. But we must not forget that it is also a day set aside for sober thought and earnest meditation.

At the season of Thanksgiving let us not glance too lightly over the accomplishments of the year, but sort out our good deeds, sift them down and let the inspiration they afford be a standard for further accomplishments in the future.

Let us pay tribute to humanity—to our fellow men—and thank each one in our hearts for his co-operation. As we gaze at the truth of Life, we see success for the individual through co-operation with the masses, and we see what co-operation has meant in the past and will mean in the future.

Community welfare—instead of individual welfare—love: not hate, will further the cause of humanity, and success is at the end of co-operation. It is the desire of this Bank to help smite misery, misfortune and failure. Our fondest hopes is to see Seeds of Success grown where weeds of Failure have fallen and died.

We wish to thank our friends and customers who have helped us to do our mite, however small it may have been, and we join with you in the sacred observance of this Season of Thanksgiving, to show our gratitude to the Giver of all good in a true spirit of Thankfulness.

CONDITIONS DESPERATE

Dallas, Nov. 20th.—Conditions in Armenia at the present time are desperate according to the statement today made by Chas. L. Sanger, of Dallas, State Chairman of the Near East Relief. Mr. Sanger's statement followed the receipt today of two cablegrams from the Near East. The cablegrams were forwarded by Bayard Dodge, son of the National Treasurer of the Near East Relief, now in charge of relief work in the Syria-Aleppo area, and read as follows:

"Armenian refugees pouring into Aleppo from Turkish frontier. Severe weather commencing. Women and children homeless. Emergency work imperative. Present appropriations must continue throughout the winter.

The other cablegram further depicting the suffering and deprivation read:

"Roads from Central Armenia to the Black Sea jammed with Armenian women and children fleeing before the Turkish army, unfed and shoeless. Half naked refugee crowding into Tiflis for possible safety. Urgent appeal to committee to rush food, medicine, clothing.

This unforeseen wholesale emergency amounting to national tragedy greatly increases amount of destitution and places heavy burden upon our Committee, Mr. Sanger stated, and calls for great increase in our relief work, unless we are willing to see thousands of our former allies die in exile for lack of food and of clothing, which we can send if funds are provided.

Nationalist promise safety to orphans, property and refugees under protection of American relief workers, and the fact that such promises were faithfully kept throughout four years of war gives confidence that distinctly humanitarian life saving relief work will continue.

Moreover hundreds of thousands of the orphan and destitute are in areas entirely outside of control of Nationalist forces, and we must redouble our efforts to secure adequate funds

REALLY NO GREAT MYSTERY

Though at First It Did Seem Remarkable Where Those Boy Scouts Were Coming From.

Now there are boy scout stunts and boy scout stunts, but it took a Terre Haute troop to put over the best one. It was at a meet at the First Baptist church, and they were illustrating an early morning at their summer camp, Kinneunapoose. The scenery, except for a small pup tent, was the regular church furniture. But still the audience could stretch its imagination enough to make the scene effective.

The first streak of dawn was announced, and then slowly there emerged from the pup tent a yawning, stretching scout. A wee interval, and another followed him. Another lapse of time, and another scout emerged from the tent. Then came others until there were 12 on the platform, and still others were coming. The audience was almost incredulous with amazement, for, as every one knows, a pup tent is so small that it cannot accommodate more than three boys at the limit.

Then out started the thirteenth, and evidently he was too sleepy, for he jostled the tent so that it slipped away from its mooring, and there back of it was the entrance to the pool for baptism. The youngsters had been concealed in it and used the tent merely as an entry to the platform.—Indianapolis News.

MEANT TO CALL THEM QUICK

Aunt Dinah Had No Idea of Allowance for Misunderstanding When She Rang the Bell.

Aunt Dinah, plantation house reared, went to a nearby town to see a friend. She was very tired, and by a young housewife, who, because of lack of familiarity with modern household, started to ring the bell.

She showed Aunt Dinah her small silver-service bell—there were no electric bells in the old-fashioned house—and told her that when it was rung she must come into the dining room. Aunt Dinah said she understood. A few days later the mistress was seated on the broad veranda with a friend when she heard a tremendous clangor from the direction of the kitchen. It came nearer swiftly and soon identified itself as the sound of a large bell.

Puzzled, the housewife entered the hall and there stood Aunt Dinah, swinging a large dinner bell vigorously. "Why, what on earth is the matter, Aunt Dinah?" she gasped. "Why are you ringing that bell?"

"Well, Miss Mary, I thought dat was the way folks called each other in dis here house. Didn't you show me yo' bell the other day? I found dis one in de cupboard and I wanted you right quick in de kitchen, so I rung hit."

Labor Savers.

At a home in North Delaware street the man of the house gathered two or more bushels of nuts last fall and put them in the attic. His wife spends most of her time at the office with him, so the house is empty every day. However, recently the wife remained home one day and heard a terrific noise in the attic. Investigating she found two squirrels rushing around like mad, trying to get out a closed window. They had gnawed a hole in the roof as large as a grapefruit and had disposed of the whole mess of nuts. The owner said they saved him the trouble of feeding them, for he had gathered the nuts for them.—Indianapolis News.

Miss Annie Johnson, of Belton, Texas, said to be one of the oldest teachers in Texas, now nearly 83, passed through here one day last week on her way home from a visit with a brother over in New Mexico. She spent the night with her old friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lewis.

Large and enthusiastic crowds of movie fans are attending the two serials that are running at the Liberty Theatre each Tuesday night, and of course they wonder all the week how the blazes the hero or heroine are going to escape the trap—but they come back to see.

Some of the stores, in fact most of them are putting out their holiday goods, and the merchants inform us that the kiddies are going to pay less for dollies and toys than they have in a number of years. Watch these columns for announcements.

Terry County will be represented at the State Teachers meeting at Ft. Worth, by County Supt. R. L. Graves, Miss Mildred Hulsey, of the Brownfield Public School, and Prof. H. C. Zorns of the Union Independent.
