This is a good point to bear to bear in mind since those who refuse to order their conduct in accordance with the original plan are foredoomed to failure in this life, which means failure in the life to come. It is to this that we are endebted for bad teeth, appendicitis, tuberculosis, baldness and a majority of the ill which we are inclined to charge to carelessness, or lack of foresight on the part of the

A NEW MENACE TO CATTLE

"Contagious abortion" is the new menace that is confronting the stockmen of New Mexico. For several years past the stock growers have had serious problems to contend with due to drouth and other conditions. but this new menace that is creeping into the stock growing districts, will, if not checked, paralyze the industry. No stockman can afford to buy high priced stock if they are not productive. With contagious abortion in a herd, it is a very unprofitable invest-

Prevention is the point we are aiming at, says the veterinarian of the Agriultural College. If a herd is free from this disease, purchase no new stock unless a guarantee is given that the animals in question have been tested by the agglution and complement fixation methods and have been found free. The blood test is the only accurate means to determine whether the animals are diseased or sound positive reactions have been obtained from the blood of vergin heifers, that show the disease may lurk until until a certain period arrives and then to break out like a spontaneus fire.

In the control of the disease, sanitation is an important factor. All debris should be burned, the aborting animals segregated, and the surround ing premises disinfected.
