OBITUARY

A gloom was cast over our city last Thursday at 7:30 A. M. Dec. 8th when it was announced that J. C. Bohannon had passed away; that his gentle spirit had returned to God who gave it.

After a long seige of suffering, he gave up the struggle and "passed over the river to rest under the shade."

It was a great shock to all of us, while those who watched by his bedside were not so much surprised, very few thought the end was so near.

Mr. Bohannon lived to a good old age, and while the parting was sad, yet we should thank God that he was spared to us so long. He leaves a wife and five children and a host of friends to mourn his departure.

All was done for him that loving wife, children and friends could do, but the inevitable came regardless of our efforts. He was 71 years old, and such an honorable Christian life as his was worthy of imitation. We are certain that the world is better for his having lived in it.

He obeyed the Gospel call at Rule, Texas in Sept. 1900 and lived a consecrated Christian life. He lived in Haskell county 29 years and had many friends there.

Mrs. Bohannon first married Geo. W. Cook who died in 1888. To this union was born five children, two of which are living and attended the last illness of their devoted step-father. They are Charley Cook, of Lamesa and William of this city. Two girls and a boy being dead.

J. C. Bohannon was born in Madison county Alabama, Sept. 28, 1850. He was united in marriage to Mrs. Idella Cook on Jan. 9th, 1880. Four boys were born to this union as follows: Grandville of Dalhart, Texas; Peery of Amarillo, J. C. Jr. of this city, and Forrest who died in Brownfield of flu-pneumonia, Dec. 30, 1918. The three living boys attended the last hours at the bedside of their devoted father.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ by G.B. Glasgow who spoke words of comfort to the bereaved and warned others to prepare for eternity as this subject had done. The Masonic lodge then conducted the body to the cemetery and buried it with Masonic honors.

I would say to the loved ones that if we would live faithful to Christ as he did, we will all be permitted to meet him on the "Shining Shore" where death and parting will be no more.

NOTICE

On Saturday afternoon Dec. 17th, at 3 o'clock, J. W. Baughman will preach on the streets, replying to some criticisms of the ministry and the church.

Law enforcement will be discussed, and you are invited to hear him.

HOUSE WANTED: 4 or 5 rooms, with garden and water; prefer east part of town; will pay in advance. O. P. Morrison at Curry place.

ELDER G. B. GLASGOW AND FAMILY TO MOVE HERE

As announced last week, Elder G. B. Glasgow, of Anson, Texas was here and at Gomez by invitation of the Church of Christ to see if arrangements could be made to get him to locate with the church here and work for the church here and at Gomez.

He preached here the 1st Sunday and Sunday night, and at nights during the week, resulting in five additions to the church, and the congregation well pleased. He preached at Gomez Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night of this week at Gomez baptizing one over there, and the members over there asked for one Sunday of his time.

He agreed to move here during the holidays in order that he would not have to take his children out of school.

There being no houses in town for rent, the church here decided to undertake the construction of one, and a subscription list was started Monday and the good people of the town responded nobly as they always do, and as a result, a pre-charge or parsonage will soon be under way. They are headed for Terry.

TOM LIKES TERRY.

Tom Hargus came in from his trading trip to West Texas Saturday, bringing samples of cotton and corn which he exhibited with much enthusiasm. The corn stalk had three ears and the cotton stalk 30 open bolls. Mr. Hargus traded lands here for 1280 acres in Terry county and expects to leave in his car Monday with his family to make their home out there about eight miles from Brownfield. They have a host of friends in Detroit who while regretting to lose them from this community, wish them well in their new home. And all will heartily welcome them back when they find it to their interest to make their home here again. Mr. Hargus still owns a large quantity of land in this county, and has other large interests here—the Detroit Herald.

Tom and his family have arrived and have done felt the hearty handshake of the pioneers, and the glad words of welcome. Tom has the pioneer blood in his system, and old Red River county need never set any date for his return unless they want to be disappointed. But we do want to admit that we have been mistaken in East Texas editors, for we have said there was not an honest, unselfish man in the bunch, but here is one that nearly changes our opinion. He admits both cotton and corn will grow here, whereas, the most of them confine our prospects to dog ovals and rattlesnakes. But the Herald made one mistake. It states that Tom traded land there for land here. That is not an impossible feat, but almost so. Western people don't want East Texas land, but friend Tom will sell his holding there and do to 'em here as time rolls on for he likes old Terry so well that he come on with that intention. Come to Terry.

CITY MARSHALL BROWN GETS QUANTITY OF MASH

The town was a little surprised on Monday of this week about noon when it was rumored and later confirmed that City Marshall E. Brown armed with a search warrant from J. T. Faucett, J. P., had made a search of a local wagon yard and found two ten gallon kegs of corn mash. If a distillery was ever used, it had been removed.

The proprietor of the yard was arrested and gave bond in the sum of $500 and the mash was destroyed.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Elder J. F. Smith, of Abilene, Texas representing the Abilene Christian College, will preach at the Church of Christ at Gomez Saturday night, Sunday morning, and at the Church of Christ in Brownfield Sunday night at 7:30 p. m. You are invited to hear him.

Commissioner Will Black of Gomez is feeding out about 200 head of yearlings, thus utilizing his own cheap feed crop, and that of some of his neighbors. The steers have just been put on a ration of crushed corn and just a little cotton seed cake, but are already showing good gains.

CANDIES of all kinds at Brothers & Brothers, and they are fresh too.

The Goree stock of goods on the west side of the square was sold at public auction Monday of this week bringing $1,000.

CARD OF THANKS

To our friends whose sympathies were shown in their constant, tender loving attendance during the recent illness of our sainted husband and father, we pour out our hearts of gratitude, and while we bow in humble submission to God's will, we assure you that your loving deeds will be ever associated with the sweetest recollections of our dear husband and father. Also to our physicians, Dr. Lemmon and Dr. Castleberry, do we tender our heartfelt thanks, believing as we do, that his constant, unremitting care was due the ease and comfort of his last hours.

We wish to thank all who contributed floral offerings, and especially to the Masons and their assistance at the funeral service.

May God's choicest blessings rest upon you all.

Mrs. J. C. Bohannon and children

RECIPE

Friday night Dec. 9th, the music, choral and expression puppets of Mesdames Dallas and Stokes gave a recital to a full house.

The pupils knew their parts well and many were small tots of first year music.

The choral girls, both grade and high school girls, sang many beautiful songs. Their encores were both clever and beautiful.

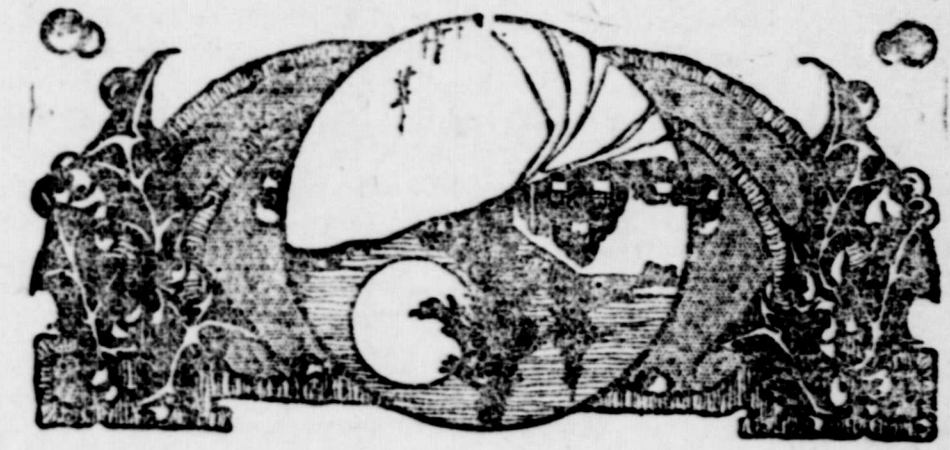

Mrs. Stokes expression puppets recited beautifully. The pupils of Mrs. Dallas did well, also, and the audience seemed to appreciate their part in the program.

The pupils showed patient and careful training by both teachers.

The stage was beautifully decorated with green crepe paper and pretty pot plants.

DEMOCRATS MAKES BIG GAINS.

New York.—Final summation tonight of the result of the recent off year throughout the country, indicated substantial gains for the Democrats in four states—Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia and New York—while municipal ballots in many cities resulted in changing party control.

The outstanding case of state-wide Democratic victory was in Kentucky where that party regained control of the legislature, which was Republican for two years.

In Maryland where the entire lower house was elected, with 27 members of the senate, Democratic control was increased.

In Virginia the Democratic gubernatorial candidate and one state senator lead their Republican opponents by wide margins, which extended to the governor's running mate, and the candidate for congress.

In the New York Assembly, the Democrats increased their representation by 23 seats, although the Republicans, with a total of 90 assemblymen, still retained a wide working margin.

Albany, long regarded as the Republican stronghold in this state will have a Democratic administration for the first time in 22 years.

The Democrats elected their majority candidate, William S. Hatcher, and seized every other berth in the city administration balloted on, including a large majority of the 19 aldermanic seats.

Detroit re-elected Mayor James Couzens, whose campaign was waged on a platform calling for municipal traction ownership, while Cleveland gave Fred Kohler a substantial plurality over Mayor William S. Fitzgerald, Republican, and voted to change to a city manager plan of government for 1924.

It was Kohler, who when dismissed as chief of police by Newton D. Baker, then mayor, told his friends he would some day vindicate himself by being elected head of the city government.

He conducted his campaign without the backing of any organization and without making a speech. Cleveland is said to be the largest city that has adopted the city manager plan.

Foreign Advertising Representative: THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

The Herald man and family, accompanied by Mesdames E. Brown and Grandma Bragg took supper Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Jones who live just south of Gomez. Mr. Jones has passed the three score and ten mark, but he and two small boys made about ten halves of corn and 100 or 1200 bushels of corn this year, besides great ricks of feed, such as sudan, cane, etc. Mr. Jones planned quite an acreage of a well known corn from the east this year and got only a very small yield; about half the yield of the native plains corn, and announced that he would plant only native corn in 1922.

Foreign Advertising Representative: THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

A. P. Stewart, one of the most successful farmers of the Texas country, was in one day recently and said that he was keeping his large corn crop and would feed it to the pigs next summer. He also had a warning to the farmers about buying cotton seed brought in here from the east where boll weevils are rife. He stated that a neighbor of his that has recently arrived from the boll weevil section stated that boll weevils can and will thrive here, and that this simony and bear grass will be just as good places as the weevil will want for harbors.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Young Carlyle Whitburn (known son of a wealthy coal operator) and Dale, the son of the Halfway Switch, in eastern Tennessee, abandoning a life of ease and idleness, determined to make his own way in life. He goes to the mountains, and meets a mountain girl, "Babe", a character of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlisle. Moreland is chief of his clan, which has an onerous duty of the killing of his brother, David Moreland, years ago, owner of rich coal deposits, by a man named Carlisle. Moreland's description of "Carlyle" causes Dale to believe the man was his father.

CHAPTER II.—Dale arranges to make his home with the Moreland family, for whom he entertains a deep respect.

CHAPTER III.—Talking with "Babe" Littleford next day, Dale is ordered by "Black Adam" to leave "his girl" alone. Dale replies spitefully, and they fight. Dale whips the bully, though badly used up. He arranges with John Moreland to develop Dale's coal deposits. Dale sends a challenge to John Moreland to develop Dale's coal deposits next day, in battle. Moreland agrees.

CHAPTER IV.—During the night all the guns belonging to the Littlefords and the Morelands mysteriously disappear.

CHAPTER V.—Dale arranges to go to Clinchmount to secure money for the mining of the coal. The two clans find their weapons, which the women had hidden, and line up for battle. "Babe" in an effort to save the fighting, crosses to the Moreland side of the river, and is accidentally shot by her father, and seriously wounded.

CHAPTER VI.—To get proper surgical aid, John Moreland, Ben Littleford and Dale convey "Babe" unconscious to the city. Doctors assure them she is not seriously hurt. Dale, an old friend, Bobby McLaurin, who had married Patricia Clavering, telling his father of David Moreland's coal, the old gentleman's actions convince his son of his father's guilt in the killing of Moreland.

CHAPTER VII.—It is arranged that "Babe" is to stay with Mrs. McLaurin to be educated. Dale, refusing his father's proffered financial aid to develop the mine, interests Newton Wheatley, capitalist, who agrees to advance the money. Dale realizes he loves "Babe."

CHAPTER VIII.—Returning to the Halfway Switch, Dale meets Major Bradley, mayor, and coal dealer, the mountaineers, whom he engages as counsel for his company. Dale attempts to betray the Morelands by selling him the coal deposits, and killing them. Dale is little value. Dale attempts to threaten him, but Dale draws a revolver. Dale is unarmed.

CHAPTER IX.—Goff enlists the aid of a turbulent crowd, the Balls and Torries, to make a night raid on Dale's company. The Littlefords and Morelands agree to forget the old feud and dwell in harmony.

CHAPTER X.—"Babe" returns to her home, feeling she is a burden to the McLaurins. Dale remonstrates, and she decides to go to the city. Dale, in an effort to educate her, sends her to the city. Dale, in an effort to educate her, sends her to the city.

CHAPTER XI.—There is much speculation as to who really killed Ball, the general opinion being it was by Heck, who had constituted himself Dale's guardian.

CHAPTER XII.—Caleb Moreland, son of John Moreland, admits firing the shot which killed Ball, and takes Dale a place to jail. Dale, in an effort to save the mine, continues the development of the mine.

CHAPTER XIII

Sentenced to Hang. Sheriff Tom Flowers and four able deputies rode out Cartersville very early on the following morning. They went to the Big Pine mountain country, and by a scheme that entailed some shrewdness on the part of the chief officer, arrested two Balls and two Torries on suspicion and took them away without their belongings.

The two Balls and the two Torries were lodged in the Cartersville Jail and offered their liberty and exonerated from all blame in the dynamiting affair if they would give the names of the other guilty parties and appear against them. The mountaineers declared stoutly that they knew nothing whatever of the matter, and when pressure was applied they grew sullen and refused to talk at all.

It was Sheriff Tom Flowers that they did know something about it, and he finally ordered that they be kept in a cell on a diet of bread and water until their tongues loosened. At which the Balls and Torries swore loudly and swore that they would rot in jail first—unless their kinsmen came and shot up the town and liberated them by force!

"To me that is proof that you four are guilty," scarily snarled the sheriff. "And if you folks want to try storming the jail, let them. A full company of militia can be rushed here within an hour, at any time, and we'll give your folks all the fun they want."

It may be recorded that the four hillmen never confessed.

Bill Dale, closely shadowed by one lanky Samuel Heck with his inevitable, ever-ready rifle, went among the workers with a cheer that he did not feel. For Caleb Moreland was in jail, and Caleb Moreland was innocent. But there was one shadowy delight for Dale: Hayes was driving the little railroad ahead with all his might and all the might of his men. Hayes was in high favor with those under him; they worked even harder when he was absent than they worked when he was standing over them.

The days ran on, and there was no sign of a hostile demonstration from the Balls and Torries. Judging from appearances, they were wholly satisfied with Caleb Moreland's being in jail. Henderson Goff had disappeared. Dale hoped that he was rid of the man for all time, but he wasn't. Goff was not so confident as was Major Bradley that he could establish his innocence in the matter of the dynamiting of the two buildings and the treasure. He wished very much to steer clear of arrest, for reasons of his own, and he was biding his time in a little town in western North Carolina. When the dynamiting affair had blown over, he would go back and try again, perhaps by an altogether new scheme, to get himself into possession of the Moreland coal.

Then there came to the neighborhood a man whom no Moreland, and was forced. "Exactly!" snarled old Ball. "We looked ye for the law, and we hold ye for the law, and we turned ye over to the law; and 'en, by gones, the law turned ye loose the very next day! And 'en the sheriff he comes out here and arrests four of us! If the law won't try ye and punish ye for 'a-shootin' my son Adam in cold blood, by gones, we'll try ye and punish ye for 'a-doin' it. But ye needn't be skeered none at all. Ye'r plumb shore to git justice. I'll promise ye justice."

"Ye've evidently overlooked the fact that another man confessed to the killing, and that that was why they librated me," said Dale.

"It's some cussed frame-up," snarled the leader of the gang. "No man on earth don't like no other man well enough for that. Asides, ye're the one 'at killed my son Adam, by gones, and ye're the one 'at must suffer for it. Right here onder this here walnut tree we're agoin' to hold cot's and have some trial, by judge and jury, and ye'll shore git what's a-comin'."

Bill Dale cut in with some bitterness: "And ye'll be the judge, and your plans have already been laid, and I'm to be hanged by the neck until dead; eh? Well, ye'll pay dearly for it, I promise you. We always have to pay for what we get, you know. The Morelands and the Littlefords will be quick to settle the account. You know that."

"No," old Ball disagreed hotly, "I don't know that!"

He turned to the others.

"Set down, boys. It's the same price as standin'. The jury will please set over that," pointing to his right. "The prisoner and his garts will please set right over that," pointing to his left. "The honorable judge, which same is me, will please set right that," indicating a spot at the base of the gnarled walnut. "The rest," he finished, "will set anywhere they d--n please. Set down, men."

His orders were obeyed. Dale found himself sitting on the ground between two pairs of mountaineers—the so-called jury. To his left was the self-appointed judge, and to his right lounged a score or more of men whose attention was then being turned toward a jug of fiery new whisky that had never been near to a revenue stamp or anything else that was honest. The jug traveled rapidly from one hairy mouth to another.

Old Ball passed the jug to a member of the "jury," and announced: "Well, dammit, cot's open now."

"Kitty, kitty, kitty!" taunted Walt Turner. "Fore little kitty!"

The mockery began. It was ridiculous, and yet it was grim. Adam Ball's father himself furnished most of the evidence; also he acted as prosecuting attorney. Of course there was no counsel for the defense, and it wouldn't have helped if Dale had had a proverbial Philadelphia lawyer on the grounds; all the proof and eloquence and pleading in the world never would have changed. In the slightest degree, the sentence that had been cut and dried for Bill Dale. The mock trial was being held solely because the

MY EXPERIENCE IN THE WORLD WAR

By Homer R. Winston

I wish to correct an error in the last issue as follows: The four hours of shelling cost the government one million dollars per minute instead of one hundred thousand, and the boys were in one hundred yards of the enemy instead of one thousand.

As I told you a few things about the drive, I might go back and repeat a little history so it will be more clear. Just as the attack of Sept. 12th was the first experience of the 90 Div. in offensive tactics, so it was the initial attempt of the American Expeditionary Forces on a large scale operation. Prior to that date, American Divisions, and even corps, had played their parts at critical moments along different parts of the Allied lines. But it was not until the later part of August that the training of all branches had reached a point that made possible the organization of the 1st American Army.

An army, it must be understood, is more than a collection of divisions. In the first place, there must be a staff accustomed to handling large-scale operations. General Pershing, Commander-in-Chief of the A. E. F., himself took command of the army for this first operation. There must be railroads and lines of communication, and depots of supplies of all sorts, and experienced officers, who know how to get those supplies forward to the fighting organizations. There is the aviation service, the tank corps, the long guns of artillery, the special gas and smoke troops, telephone battalions, the increased medical personnel and hospitals and supplies, engineers to rebuild the roads and railroads as the advance progresses, not to mention the hundreds of military police required for traffic control and the evacuation of prisoners, the salvage squads which reclaim ed and saved the debris of battle. In all there were about 216,000 Americans and 48,000 French troops in line, and about 190,000 American troops in reserve.

The First Army (U.S.A.) will cut off the St. Mihiel salient. This sentence of the field order for the operation tersely, definitely, unequivocally stated the mission for which this huge army had assembled on the battlefield.

Among the reasons why this place was chosen for the first "show" of the A. E. F. are: 1st. This was a part of the front set aside as the American Sector. 2nd. The reduction of the salient would definitely relieve the half enveloped position in which Verdun was placed and would free the important double track Verdun-Toul-Belfort railroad, and 3rd. It would prepare the way for further operations.

The scene which the divisional sector presented during those last days of preparations was one that cannot be described with words. One has to see it to believe. There was not a nook nor corner, in the woods, behind the bridge, under the cover of a quarry, that did not conceal a battery of the artillery, a tank, an ammunition dump, a depot of engineering supplies, or perhaps a battalion of infantry. The Hudge Forest de Puvencelle (Forest of Puvencelle) which seemed to cover half the divisional area, was alive with materials of war. A ride down some of the roads that bisected this forest might be compared to visit to a museum, in which had been collected and parked for convenience of inspection all the latest inventions of the military art.

The division historian gives the following credit: "The men to whom should go much credit for valiant service during those nerve-racking days are the drivers of the motor trucks of the 315 train." Of necessity all traffic was under the cover of night. And such nights! The volume of rain which had been falling steadily for weeks, increased as the day approached. The slippery roads were jammed with artillery, trucks, horse transports, automobiles, marching troops, tanks, and on the edges motorcycle messengers bearing important orders, picked their precarious way. Of course no lights were allowed, and the drivers had to follow the muddy, jolty, treacherous roadway as their "sixth-sense" directed them. All would go well until a long string of trucks met, head on, a similar conveyer from the other direction; then in the attempt to make the passage, a truck with its heavy load would stick or go into the ditch, and all traffic would be suspended until the machine could be ejected. Often this was out of the question, and the best that could be done was to push it as far out as possible and abandon it.

Many strange incidents happened in those days, among them was a French officer in order to gain a more advantageous firing position had stationed his men out in No Man's land. The next morning one of the infantrymen (American) moving out to his day post came upon the French Lieutenant, and of course suspected him, and neither could understand the other, and like to have had a spat, but a French Lieut. that could speak English settled the matter.

Some American trench motor crew also slipped through the outpost and calmly took up a position in Fey-En-Hey—then No Man's land and went to sleep.

There was regular services at the Baptist church, Saturday and Sunday at 11 o'clock, but Bro. Heath was unable to preach at night on account of sore throat and hoarseness.

The Christian brethren have commenced the erection of their church, and it will doubtless be ready to occupy within the next month.

Our banker, Earl Cadenhead is now erecting sheds and lots in the southern part of town, and intends feeding cattle this winter.

Liston, the little son of Roscoe Moorehead, was thrown from a horse last Saturday, dislocating his shoulder. Our blacksmith, J. A. Maddox, in three legs, the result of a sprained ankle. Robert Stockton ran his horse through a wire gate and was pretty badly bruised up as a result of the fall. S. W. White is at the sanitarium at Brownfield from a knife wound in the knee. Who will be next?

F. B. Reed, of Rodgers, Bell county father of Square Reed, and T. H. Holmes of Crosbyton, were visitors here Monday.

Messrs. Winingham, Carr and Tharp, of Petersburg, Texas, are here looking at the country, and two of them are expecting to settle among us.

Corn is selling here at 32 cents per bushel, and a car is loading at that price.

The Methodist people are gathering supplies for their Orphanage at Waco, and Bro. Nettles is a good corn husker. It is also reported that he is good after chickens.

City Hall, City of Brownfield, November 21st, 1921.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

By the authority vested in me by law and in accordance with Ordinance No. 14 of the City Council of the City of Brownfield, Texas, passed and adopted the 21st day of November, 1921, I, Geo. W. Neill, Mayor of the City of Brownfield, Texas, do hereby order that an election be held within the said city on the 30th day of December, 1921, at the office of the County Judge in the Courthouse of said City, whereas the qualified property tax paying voters thereof may determine if serial bonds of this city in the amount of Sixteen Thousand and no-100 ($16,000.00) dollars, being thirty-two bonds of Five Hundred ($500.00) dollars each, Nos. One and Two due and payable August 1st 1927, and two bonds in their numerical order due and payable on the 1st day of August of each year thereafter until the whole have become due; for the purpose of building, extending and equipping an Electric Light Plant for the City of Brownfield, Texas, and to draw interest payable semi-annually, and due on the 1st day of February and August of each year after the issuance of such bonds and a tax sufficient to meet the interest and create a sinking fund to retire such bonds at their maturity shall be levied; and by virtue of Ordinance No. 15, passed and adopted on the 21st day of November, 1921, by the City of Brownfield, Texas, it was ordered that a proposition be submitted to the qualified voters of this city if serial bonds in the sum of Eighteen Thousand and no-100 ($18,000.00) dollars, being thirty six bonds of $500.00 each, maturing two each year, beginning August 1st, 1927, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, interest, payable semi-annually, on the 1st day of February and August of each year, of this city to be issued for the purpose of Building, Extending and Equipping a Water Works System for the city of Brownfield, Texas, and for the levy of a tax sufficient to meet the interest and create a sinking fund to retire same at their several maturities.

J. C. Green, A. M. Brownfield, A. W. Andersen and Clyde Lewis are hereby appointed to hold such election in the office of the County Judge, in the Courthouse, City of Brownfield, Texas.

Those desiring to vote in favor of issuance of serial bonds in the sum of Eighteen Thousand ($18,000.00) dollars for building, extending and equipping a Water Works system for this city, shall have written or printed on their ballots: "For the issuance of Eighteen Thousand ($18,000.00) dollars Water Works bonds maturing serially and levy of tax to meet the interest and sinking fund." Those opposed to such a proposition shall have written or printed on their ballots: "Against the issuance of Eighteen Thousand ($18,000.00) dollars Water Works bonds maturing serially and levy of tax to meet interest and sinking fund." Those desiring to vote in favor of issuing serial bonds in the sum of Sixteen Thousand ($16,000.00) dollars for building, extending and equipping an Electric Light plant for the city of Brownfield, Texas, shall have written or printed on their ballots: "For the issuance of Sixteen Thousand ($16,000.00) dollars electric light bonds, maturing serially and levy of tax to meet interest and sinking fund." Those opposing same shall have written or printed on their ballots: "Against the issuance of Sixteen Thousand ($16,000.00) dollars electric light bonds, maturing serially and levy of a tax sufficient to meet interest and sinking fund."

And I direct that notice of such election be given for 30 days preceding same by causing copies of this notice to be published in some newspaper in this city, printed in the English language and which has been published and printed for one year next preceding the date of the first publication hereof, and causing this notice to be posted in four public places in said city.

In testimony whereof I have attested these presents and caused the same to be signed by the Secretary of the City of Brownfield, Texas, and attested by the seal of said City, the 22nd day of November, A. D. 1921.
