TERRY AT P. S. P. FAIR

GETS FIFTH PLACE IN AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT AND FOURTH PLACE IN BAND CONTEST

Here is the way the counties stood at the Panhandle and South Plains Fair. Fourteen counties exhibited, and the above list gives the standing of the seven highest:

Potter	Garza	Crosby	Lamb	Terry	Lynn	Bailey	What On.
225	235	200	250	210	175	145	Corn and grain sorg
235	235	250	175	225	190	125	Cotton and wheat.
50	45	40	35	35	12	25	Oats and barley.
40	37	45	25	25	12	50	Alfalfa and clover.
30	40	37	40	45	35	37	Peanuts & cowpeas
48	38	50	40	44	42	46	Annual forage crops
50	45	47	40	43	38	36	Fruits
50	40	38	45	42	35	47	Fresh vegetables.
50	35	42	38	40	10	45	Crops not classified.
130	139	132	133	91	112	80	Attractive arrang.
903	889	881	821	800	661	616	Tot. out of 1000 pts.

You will note from the above that Terry county made a score 210 points out of a possible 250 on corn and grain sorghums. We made a score of 225 points out of a possible 250 on cotton (we did not show wheat.) We made a score of 35 out of a possible 50 on oats (we did not show barley.) We made a score of 25 out of 50 on alfalfa and sweet clover. All that we were entitled to, as we did not show the seed of either. We made a score of 45 out of a possible 50 on peanuts and cowpeas. We made a score of 45 out of a possible 50 on annual forage crops. We made a score of 43 out of a possible 50 on fruits. We made a score of 42 out of a possible 50 on fresh vegetables. On crops not included in the regular classification, we made a score of 40 out of a possible 50. On attractive arrangement of the booth we made a score of 91 out of a possible 150. We expect to do better on the last item at Dallas.

Below we give prizes won by Terry county on individual exhibits against all other Plains and Panhandle counties:

First prize on white and black hulled kafir.
Second and third prize on display of corn.

First prize on red corn.
First prize on yellow corn.
First prize on broom corn.
First prize on kershaws.
First prize on watermelons.
First prize on apples.
Second prize on apples.
Third prize on apples.

This was done on a total of just 22 entries.

Below we give the average of the four high bands playing at Lubbock.

There were eight bands in the contest, possibly every one of them older than the Brownfield Band:

Name of Band	Points out of 100
Lorenzo	95
Slaton	90
Lamesa	88
Brownfield	86

Every band in attendance except Brownfield was in full uniform, and while it was understood that uniforms would not effect the standing, it did to a certain extent. The Lorenzo band has a number of old experienced players and numbers about 36. The Slaton band is composed of seasoned players. The Lamesa band is numbered at something like sixty-five members, most of whom were there. All the above are directed by professional band directors and are paid sufficient salaries to enable them to devote their entire time if necessary to the band. The Brownfield band has only thirty in number, of

LITTLEFIELD DEFEATS OUR FOOT BALL TEAM

The boys left for Littlefield Friday morning at 9:30, and were in Littlefield by 1:00 o'clock. The game started at 3:30. The first and second quarters were played without scoring. The third quarter Littlefield made two touchdowns. Our boys did not make their points, so their score was 12.

The fourth quarter, Howard Swan made a run of about 40 yards with the ball and made a touchdown. We tried for all the added points and Walter Bond kicked goal with a drop kick, which gave us 7.

The Brownfield boys did not fight like they expect to the rest of the season.

The team will go to Lamesa Friday the 12th. Let's all go and help them. Watch for more football stuff.

LAMESA BANK LETS CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

The First National Bank has let the contract for an extension of their building, work to begin immediately. The plan calls for an extension west to the Nix building, with second story over the entire length, which will be 110 feet, the contract price being something over $21,000.

The First National Bank has been needing more room for a long time. The building, when completed, will be a credit to the bank and to the town as well. The upper story will afford space for fine office rooms, something badly needed in Lamesa.

The First National Bank started with the town and, as the country developed into a rich farming section and the town grew to be a busy little city, the bank grew and prospered with it.—Dawson County Journal.

WHY PEOPLE DISREGARD AND DISRESPECT LAW

A SPLENDID EDITORIAL THAT IS WORTH SERIOUS CONSIDERATION BY ALL GOOD CITIZENS

The question of law enforcement is uppermost in the popular discussions of the day. Press, pulpit and rostrum are busy telling how it should be enforced and why it is not. Mobs and martial law are so common as to excite little comment. In spite of all the discussions, the mass of the people are indifferent, and if not showing actual disrespect for the law, regard it with indifference and heed it or not as best suits their convenience. To break the law is by no one considered a very grave offense—the offense consists in getting caught and this applies to the moral law as well as the law of the land.

In discussions of the subject in an endeavor to find the cause which underlie the growing disregard and disrespect for the law and those whose duty it is to enforce it, the multiplicity of laws and their interference with the individual in the conduct of their own affairs are most generally charged with the greater part of the blame, after the "general cussedness" of human nature is taken into account. But more than all that is the inequality, with which the law bears on different individuals, and the lightness of its punishment in the same cases and its righteous exaction of the pound of flesh in other cases.

This was well illustrated in a couple of incidents which were reported in one of the Wichita Falls papers a few days ago. In one case a bunch of Jelly Beans and Flappers, to quote the paper reporting the incident, engaged in a "Rucus" in a Wichita Falls restaurant at about 8 o'clock in the morning and after the scene of the battle had been transferred to the street the police attempted to arrest one of the offenders who vigorously resisted with tooth and toe-nail. His friends, both "jelly beans" and "flappers" applauded his efforts. He was one of the bunch and the police let him go and he got in the car and drove away triumphant. This closed the incident the paper states.

The other affair was different. In this case it was a woman who ran afoul of the police—she was charged with participating in a neighborhood disturbance. She evidently didn't "belong" and so she went to jail. When arrested she begged the privilege of taking her baby with her and her request was granted. All night she sat in the darkened detention room and held her babe in her arms and in the morning her case was transferred to the county. Now it appears that the law-makers of the Lone Star State, in the might of their wisdom have enacted a law forbidding the taking of babies to jail or permitting the unfortunate mothers who are under the law's displeasure to keep them with them. (Perhaps they fear they will disturb the murderers and the auto thieves who are awaiting trial.) The woman begged as only a mother can beg, to be allowed to keep her babe with her, but the minions of the law were inexorable. The peace and dignity of the State of Texas must not be damaged by any such wanton disregard of the statute in such cases made and provided, and the child was taken from her and turned over to the tender mercies of some welfare society—the might and majesty of the law was vindicated—the pound of flesh "nominated in the bond" was taken.

A woman alone—coming through God only knows what Sloughs of despond, poverty, perhaps ignorance and temptation, of the entanglements of her environments had fallen into the clutches of an "Outraged" law. On her heavy hand fell with crushing force—in her case and no exception could be made—cold, impartial, merciless it reaches forth and took from her her one solace. Oh! the pity of it.

A man beneath the bright lights, surrounded with roosting companions, wasting the God given hours of darkness and repose in unseemly revelry—he too, fell under the displeasure of the law—but he was "too well known to go to jail" and so, after a struggle with the "blue-coats" who had arrested him, he was permitted to depart in a car amid the plaudits of his jelly-bean and flapper companions. Oh the shame of it!

To him the law was a joke—to the woman a monster—to the spectator a farce—and then we wonder why disrespect of the law is growing. Straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel! Freeing a murderer on account of a witness being out of the state or on some flimsy technicality and sending a harmless hobo to the rock pile. Bearing down with crushing force on the friendless and the moneyless, but touching others lightly with a soft gloved hand. Is it any wonder that it is fast becoming a joke to those who read and think? Mob violence, if it is to be put in force in our good land, should be applied to the duty shirking officer, the money-taking jurist and the man who has any part to perform in the enforcement of the law of our land. The lack of principle and backbone on the part of the officer is the prime cause of the disrespect of our laws today.—Iowa Park Herald.

NO RURAL ROUTE YET OUT OF BROWNFIELD

Washington, D.C. Oct. 3, '23. The Postmaster, Brownfield, Texas, My dear Sir:

The inspector who investigated the plan for the establishment of a rural route from your office has been submitted an adverse report because of the small number of families to be benefited and the bad condition of the roads proposed to be traveled.

The inspector reports that the proposed motor route covers roads that have not been declared public and which are subject to discontinuance as roads at the pleasure of the owners. It further appears that there are 19 wire gates along the line of travel of the proposed route which are exceedingly difficult to open and close. The inspector further indicates that at several places water stands in the roads after rains for considerable periods making the roads entirely unfit for use of automobile.

After carefully reviewing all the information submitted by the inspector it is not believed that the present is a favorable time for the further consideration of the case. It appears that there is need for the establishment of service but until the objectionable features noted above have been eliminated it is not believed that the department would be justified in establishing the desired service. If at some later date you can properly certify that all roads have been repaired and the non-automatic gates removed, the question of conducting a further investigation will have attention.

Respectfully yours,
H. H. Bellamy,
Fourth Assistant Postmaster Gen.

The above letter is self explanatory and shows what must be done before we get the rural route.

AN OLD LAND MARK BEING REMOVED

One of the oldest store building in Brownfield, a boxed and sided affair and belonging at present to Mr. M. V. Brownfield, is being dismantled by Johnson Brothers and Gamble this week to make room for a modern brick and concrete, being one of the six new buildings to be erected of the same material on the west side of the square in the near future.

This old building was erected by Arthur Alexander in the early days of Brownfield, the lumber being wagon freighted here from Big Springs. The lumber in this as well as four other wooden buildings to be replaced by brick and concrete are to be used in building dwellings to relieve the congestion of the town some, which of course is more sensible in the owners than let them stand and maybe get destroyed by fire.

Some may shed tears at the removal of these old land marks, but the editor freely admits that he is not that sentimental.

ROSS AND GOOD TAKEN TO DALLAS BY AUTO

Abilene—Tom Ross and Milt Good, under conviction here and at Lubbock in connection with the slaying of H. L. Robertson and W. D. Allison cattle inspectors at Seminole, April 1st, were taken to Dallas early Tuesday, where they will be held in jail pending action on the appeal of their cases.

They were conveyed to Dallas by automobile by a party of officers headed by Sheriff John Bond of Taylor county.

BROWNFIELD TO HAVE A REAL PICTURE GALLERY

Mr. I Walpole, an experienced photographer, is remodeling a building just south of the Higginbotham-Bortlett lumber yard for a photograph gallery, which when completed he will be able to do the very best of photographic work.

Mr. Walpole has had years of experience in the photographic business and does all the latest work in that line, and will be ready for your business probably by the time you read this.

Brownfield should feel proud of its new industry.

CHILD DIES FROM A RATTLESNAKE BITE

Cleo Ruth, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Howard, of the Treadway community, died Monday night from a rattle-sake bite.

Mr. Howard was repairing a fence near the house Monday and his wife and two children had been with him but on returning to the house the little girl didn't go and sat down near the snake. The snake was said to have had eight rattles.

They rushed the little girl here to a doctor, but nothing could be done to save her.—Odonnell Index.

J. E. SHELTON IN CHARGE OF DALLAS EXHIBIT

Messrs. J. E. Shelton and J. P. Crowley and wife, left Tuesday for Dallas, where they will take charge of and arrange the exhibits from old Terry with the help of Mr. Jake Leedy, decorator of Tahoka.

We believe the exhibits are in good hands, for both these gentlemen are Terry county boosters from the start go, and will give a good account of themselves when the time comes for the awarding of premiums.

Also we don't believe that there is another man in the county that more deserves the honor of exhibiting our products down there than Mr. Shelton, for he has worked hard and sometimes alone and unaided to get the products together for the two fairs were are exhibiting at this year. A man with less patients, we believe, would have quit and give up the uneven contest, but he stuck, at a somewhat neglect of his own business.

Hurrah for Shelton!

Several of the county schools have closed for cotton picking.

The Shock is coming. Prepare for it.

Prof. and Mrs. Russell were in the city Monday, shopping.

UNITED STATES IS THE RADIO CENTRAL

The United States is in a peculiarly good situation with regards to wireless. Our location on the globe pre-eminently fits us to be the radio central of the world. Europe and Asia both send us their messages to be forwarded by us in the proper direction, or relayed to South America, as the case may be. London is the heart of the cable, but New York is the central of the radio world.

The Radio Corporation of America has now in operation six direct trans oceanic circuits as follows: One each with Great Britain, France, Norway, Hawaii, Japan, and two with Germany. Any city on the continent of Europe is reached from Radio Central on Long Island. Radiograms travel with the speed of light and from the moment of transmission from Europe until direct typewriter reception in New York City, no hand relaying is involved. It is all automatic. This method was inaugurated by Rado Corporation of America and again illustrates America's leadership in things electrical.

CHICAGO NEGRO POPULATION INCREASING RAPIDLY

Chicago now has more negroes than Baltimore or New Orleans.

Although the northern migration of negroes is ebbing now, negro job hunters have poured into the North all spring and summer, and Chicago has become a "distributing point" from which labor hunters take the negroes for industrial work throughout the middle west.

Conservative estimates is that the negro population of Chicago increased 250 per cent in the past thirteen years, and 100 per cent in the past three years. Some estimators place the present number of Chicago negroes at 200,000. The "black belt" on Chicago's South Side is a mile wide and five miles long, with other colonies in other parts of the city.

Not all the building in this city of negroes inside Chicago's limits are shacks or unsightly tenements, fire-traps, but some of the Michigan Boulevard mansions of the world fair days are homes of negro professional men, business men, etc.

In the majority of negro sections, however, conditions are little better than in Southern "stringtowns." In spite of the fact that the border of the "black belt" is steadily pushing outward, the housing shortage is serious.

Shortage of European labor is given as being responsible of the exodus from the South, as well as the more tolerant attitude of the North, better wages and school facilities.

WELLMAN WARBLINGS

By Sandpiper.

Mr. Joe Surger and family and Mr. O. P. Smith and family attended the Lubbock fair. All report a glorious time.

Song practice Saturday was well attended and was heartily enjoyed by everyone.

Everybody is especially invited to attend the pie supper Saturday night, October 13th. Possibly a song program will be given.

Rev. Stokes, of Gomez, preached his farewell sermon at Wellman Sunday. Rev. Whitley is to fill the appointment hereafter. We have all enjoyed Rev. Stokes' advice very much, and extend a hearty welcome to Rev. Whitley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, of the Dumas community, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burnett.

Several Wellmanites attended the singing at Dumas, Sunday night. All report an enjoyable evening.

Everyone is looking forward with much pleasure to the coming of the Terry County Singing Convention, which will meet with us Sunday, Oct. 21. Everybody invited to attend and you are promised a full day's entertainment.

Mr. G. W. Brooks who has been "missing" a week has just returned, bringing with him a young bride. May much joy and happiness be their lot.

Will write more at another time.

Insist On An Expert Opinion

There are plenty of folks that know something about titles. But the only opinion that is worth anything is the opinion of the man who knows EVERYTHING ABOUT land titles.

One flaw overlooked leaves the title just as hazy as before. In fact, an incomplete abstract, a shallow search, leaves things worse than before; for trusting the incorrect opinion has deceived one into a false sense of security.

This Company offers you the services and the verdict of an EXPERT. Our exhaustive records, our systematized methods, our complete knowledge of the subject, our THOROUGHNESS which lets no facts slip—these are your guarantees. When you have our opinion, you know there is no more to be said.

MARTIAL LAW IS ENDED IN TULSA

MILITARY FORCES ARE QUIETLY WITHDRAWN; TULSA HARDLY NOTICES CHANGE.

121 CASES WERE PROBED

Six Witnesses in Flogging Cases Still Missing as Court Closes Its Inquiry.

Tulsa, Okla. — Martial law, which came upon Tulsa County as a lion on August 14, passed like a lamb in the early hours of the Sabbath of October seventh.

The military force which at one time numbered nearly 500 officers and men, when removed by order of Acting Adjutant General Charles E. McPherrin, consisted of less than a score of enlisted men and four officers. So gradual has been the removal of the troops that Tulsans have scarcely been aware of the decrease of the numbers—until they awoke and found them gone.

Flogging cases unearthed by the Tulsa military commission numbered 121 at the time of the last public statement from the inquiry board dated September 23. Of 30 informations filed by the military in the county or district courts, 14 have reached the stage of preliminary hearing.

Six witnesses who disappeared late in September after having told their stories to the military commission, still were missing without trace as the investigation closed. Lloyd and Floyd Cook, brothers, and their wives, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Golsby, are those missing. They have been sought by the troops in four counties. Then the Golsbys could not be produced in district court to identify testimony before the military regarding the whipping administered by a masked band, five men named in military information were released.

On October 2 when the Cooks failed to appear against men who attacked their homes, burned one house and killed an unborn infant, the trial of James Hyde and Morris Evans was indefinitely postponed.

The Cooks left their homes out in the country following notes of warning saying: "We have been here and you had better leave."

SAYS DEATH LURKING IN HOME BREW

Health Official Warns of Poison in Intoxicants Made in Cellar and Attic.

Chicago.—There is a greater evil in beer "with a kick" than in moonshine whisky, according to a bulletin issued by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Chicago Commissioner of Health.

Both the bootleggers' "real" beer, illicitly manufactured and sold, and the home brew concocted in cellar and attic contain many dangerous poisons, the bulletin stated.

Many automobile accident fatalities caused by intoxicated drivers are due to drinking alleged "real" beer, according to Dr. Bundesen.

Poisonous adulterants have been found in many samples of beer analyzed by the health department, the bulletin said.

Haste and improper methods of brewing produce a variety of poisons in improperly made beer, according to the bulletin. Numerous cases of metal poisoning have been traced direct to illicitly made "real" beer or wine to which a "spike" has been added, Dr. Bundesen said.

Home brew may contain arsenic, lead and copper in sufficient quantities to produce violent illness and even death, he said.

Coolidges Spend Quiet Sabbath

Washington.—President Coolidge spent the quietest Sunday since he entered the White House. In the morning he accompanied Mrs. Coolidge to church. Returning, he went to his office for a few minutes. There were no callers and no afternoon outing.

Opposed to Belligerent Spirit

Geneva.—Associating itself with the efforts of the League of Nations, the International Masonic conference with New York delegates participating, adopted resolutions exhorting the members of Freemasonry the world over to oppose the spirit of belligerency still manifest in many countries. The members were urged to strive to insure respect for international engagements.

Rate Cut Helps Refineries

Washington.—The Interstate Commerce Commission in a decision in the case of the Tidal-Western Oil Corporation et al. vs. the Wichita Falls & Northwestern Railway Company et al. held that the rates on naphtha in tank car loads, from Constantine refinery near Zebel, Okla., to Burk Burnett, Texas, were unreasonable. The commission gave the railroad until Dec. 1 to put into effect new rates on naphtha between the two points, which shall not exceed $11.25 a car.

HARVEY AND CHILD TO QUIT POSTS

Explanation Also That Both Ambassadors Had Reached Agreement with Harding

Washington.—The resignations of Ambassadors Harvey at London and Child at Rome, submitted for private reasons and under agreements reached with the Harding administration, have been accepted, marking the first big change in the American diplomatic service since President Coolidge took office.

Ambassador Harvey will quit his post at the first of the year. Ambassador Child, who is left or is about to leave Rome for the United States, will not go back. None of the other American Ambassadors nor Ministers, the State Department said in making the announcement, has any similar agreement limiting the term of service, so far as known.

The only explanation of the two resignations given in official quarters was that in both cases the Ambassadors had a few months ago reached agreements with President Harding as to the length of time they could continue at their posts. Whether they have deferred their retirement because of President Harding's death until President Coolidge should feel that they could be spared was not disclosed. In both cases there have been intimations, however, that the Ambassadors were finding their positions unduly burdensome in a financial way and that they felt they must give attention to their personal affairs.

When Ambassador Harvey was last in the United States on a somewhat prolonged leave, it was reported that he would resign and take an active part in the coming presidential campaign, however, State Department officials limited their announcement to the statement that Mr. Harvey was about to retire.

There was no official word available as to successors President Coolidge might send to fill the posts. At the State Department it was not admitted that any steps had yet been taken to sound out the two Governments as to suitability of possible appointees.

Both of the retiring Ambassadors played important parts in the campaign which resulted in the election of President Harding and since entering upon their diplomatic duties they have been prominent figures in negotiations having to do with postwar developments. They have functioned at times as American observers on the allied council of Ambassadors which succeeded the council of Premiers in dealing with peace-treaty matters.

SNAPSHOT IS CLUE IN HEADLESS MURDER

Police Seek Identity of Three Girls in Photo Found on Body

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Investigation of Pittsburgh's headless murder mystery centered around the identity of three girls, a snapshot of whom was found in the clothing of the torso of the white man when it was discovered in the girls' dressing room at the South Side Bathing Beach, situated along the Monongahela River.

A trial of blood led a group of boys to a pile of rocks near the dressing room where a man's head was found, buried more than a foot deep in the sand. Near the spot was found a suit of blood-stained underclothing, leading detectives to believe that the head was wrapped in the garment and carried to the spot.

City detectives admitted they were without a clue until the body has been identified and the identity of the three young women established. A tattoo inscription in Arabic on one arm, language experts declared, was the name "Hassan Mahmud."

Investigation of Belleau Wood

New York.—An investigation of the deplorable conditions of the American military cemetery of Belleau Wood, France, will be demanded of Congress, Edward E. Spafford, New York State commander of the American Legion, says. Commander Spafford in a lengthy statement expressed indignation that a "poor box" is kept at the entrance to the cemetery for the solicitations of funds from foreign and American visitors to maintain the grounds where 2,170 American soldiers and Marines are sleeping their last sleep.

High Court Sustains Contract

Austin, Texas.—In overruling motion for rehearing in Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association vs. Stovall, from Ellis County, the Supreme Court made final its decision, sustaining the form of contracts used by the cotton association. At the previous term the court reversed the lower tribunals and upheld the association.

New Trial is Refused

Waco, Texas.—Former County Attorney Frank B. Tiley of Waco, appointed special prosecutor by Gov. Pat M. Neff, to prosecute those indicted as a result of the liquor raid made by rangers in Somervell County some weeks ago, as a result of which eight-one indictments were returned, announced that District Judge Irvin S. Ward at Meridian has overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of J. C. Pruitt, the first man to be tried.

MEMBERS GERMAN CABINET RESIGN

Despite Fact Germany Gives Up Passive Resistance France Sees Frontier Menace

Berlin.—Dr. Gustav Stresemann and the members of his ministry has resigned from office. President Ebert has called upon the retiring Chancellor to form a new Cabinet.

The Stresemann Government retired from office with the relinquishment of passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland as the only active accomplishment to its credit. While criticism of its usefulness on this score would seem to be not entirely fair, in view of the hopelessly tangled legacy assumed by it as the successor of the Cuno Ministry, the Stresemann coalition in its political composition was such as to preclude in the long run any hope of productiveness in the nature of financial and economic reforms, an account of the conflicting currents which hampered its deliberations.

With a theoretical Socialist in the Ministry of Finance and an Industrialist party man as Minister of Economic, one chronic point of friction was promptly established. It led to the retirement Tuesday of Hans von Raumer, who held the latter post, as he had apparently wearied of carrying on a running debate with Dr. Hilferding on financial and economic dogma.

M. Poincare, the French Premier, is blamed by the German Government and the Reichstag leaders for the collapse of Chancellor Stresemann's coalition government. It Poincare had given the slightest indication of a reciprocal attitude in response to Germany's abandonment of passive resistance official and political quarters believe that Dr. Stresemann's position would have been measurably strengthened, inasmuch as it would have been spared the nationalist onslaught, which not only gained momentum through the unconditional Ruhr surrender, but also from the swiftly collapsing internal situation.

After the Socialist members of the Reichstag rejected by a vote of 81 to 54 the compromise proposed by Chancellor Stresemann on the mooted points of the eight-hour law and modification of the authorization law, its four members in the Cabinet, Dr. Hilferding, Minister of Finance; Schmidt, reconstruction; Sollman, interior; and Badbruch, justice, apprised the Chancellor of their retirement, whereupon the Chancellor convoked the remaining members of the Cabinet for decisive session.

OKLAHOMA ELECTION TAKEN INTO COURT

Walton Obtains Injunction Keeping Board From Certifying Returns

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Gov. J. C. Walton's attack on the legality of Tuesday's election on a constitutional amendment to permit an impeachment session of the State Legislature is in full swing with more than a third of the returns in the State not yet tabulated.

His first gun in the after-election fight was fired when he sought and obtained in State District Court a temporary restraining order preventing the State election board from certifying the returns to the Secretary of State.

Hearing on the application to make the order permanent was set for Oct. 9. Observers on both sides expected a lull in the contest between the Government and the Legislature until then.

The order was granted by Judge Tom G. Chambers Jr., an appointee of Gov. Walton.

In his application, the executive alleged the election was illegal because the proposed constitutional amendments submitted were not properly advertised before the election. He declared that thousands of armed special deputies commissioned by Sheriffs throughout the State had intimidated voters and that this, combined with alleged influence exerted by the Ku Klux Klan had kept more than 200,000 persons from the polls.

Close advisers of the Governor declared the election could not be regarded as a repudiation of him. They said that in the general election of 1922 more than 500,000 votes were cast, while in Tuesday's election they estimated the total vote will not exceed 300,000 when the official count is made.

Expects Big Turkey Crop

Snyder, Texas.—The poultry business is assuming large proportions in Scurry county and many thousands of chickens are sold here every year. It is estimated that there will be 25,000 turkeys marketed here this fall.

Graham Man Slain in Row

Graham, Texas.—G. W. Bishop was shot and killed at the Four Gable Garage, one mile west of town, on the South Bend road. H. C. Walker, proprietor of the garage, was arrested. The men had had some difficulty over a debt, and when Bishop drove by the garage on a truck with his small son, Walker stopped him and shot him twice, it is charged, one shot entering his right temple, and the other the right shoulder.

ANOTHER FIRM SUES ON BOOK CONTRACTS

The Book Company Avers It Will Require 75,000 Books to Furnish Schools This Year

Austin, Texas.—Petition for leave to file application for a writ of mandamus to compel State Superintendent Marrs to recognize the contract made last December by the State Textbook Commission with Charles Scribner's Sons, in the adoption of that company's book, "Fundamentals of Farming and Farm Life," for use in the Texas public schools, has been filed in the Supreme Court by Brooks, Hart & Woodward of Austin, counsel for Charles Scribner's Sons. Relator contends that the adoption was duly and legally made by the Textbook Commission and that the contract is valid in every respect.

This is the second company to bring suit in an effort to force the carrying out of contracts made by the State Textbook Commissions. The other suit was brought by the American Book Company, awarded the contract for geographies. In this suit, brought in the Federal Court, the contracts were held by Judge Duval West of San Antonio to be invalid.

Charles Scribner's Sons are seeking a writ of mandamus to command Mr. Marrs to immediately carry out the orders and instructions of the State Board of Education; that necessary requisition blanks be sent to the proper school authorities containing the name of relator's adopted book and that upon receipt by Mr. Marrs from school authorities for books, that he immediately order the books sent to the various school districts from the designated depository.

The book company avers that it will require 75,000 books to furnish the schools this year, and that all have been printed and are ready for binding. It further declares that the books are only available for use in Texas and if the contract is not carried out the company will sustain heavy loss.

BALDWIN REVIEWS ENGLISH AFFAIRS

Premier Gives Imperial Conference Sketch of Reparations Problem

London.—Premier Baldwin began his review of the Empire's affairs before the imperial conference recently with a sketch of the history of the reparations problem. It was noticeable that he made no allusions to the British Government's view with regard to the legality or illegality of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

Referring to the conclusion of peace with Turkey, he expressed the belief that the Lausanne treaty safeguarded all the essential interests of the British Empire and brought a spirit of reconciliation to this part of the world.

He then reviewed the steps in the funding of the British debt to America, and said:

"The repayment of this debt is going to call for all our energy, but we considered this course an essential preliminary to restoration of the normal economic life of the world. The debts of the great Nations must be recognized, if the foundations of commercial progress are to stand."

Contemplating the Europe of today, the Premier could find little for encouragement. The size of armies and the money being spent on munitions were greater than in 1914, while economic solidarity had been rent asunder.

Sees Use of Oil as Fuel

Washington.—President Coolidge believes that prevailing prices on anthracite coal will drive people to the use of cheaper substitutes, such as soft coal and oil. The President, it was explained, feels that high prices for any commodity naturally drives consumers to find more economical substitutes. Mr. Coolidge has been told that the use of oil as a substitute for hard coal is spreading extensively. The present price of oil, he has been informed, makes the use of this substitute especially attractive.

Thompson Found Not Guilty

Chicago, Ill.—Freddie Thompson, the "she-man" accused of the murder of Richard C. Tesmer, was found not guilty by a jury which deliberated for three hours.

3,827 Bales Ginned at Rice

Ennis, Texas.—The two gins at Rice have ginned 3,827 bales up to date. It is expected that the total receipts for the season will be around 8,900 bales.

New Member on Bench

Austin, Texas.—When the Third Court of Civil Appeals met for the term, there was a new member on the bench, J. H. Baugh of Ballinger, who resigned as State Senator to succeed Judge C. H. Jenkins when the latter was made head of the codifying commission. The venerable and veteran Chief Justice W. M. Key presided at the opening of the term. He had been ill recently, but is recovering his health, which will be of interest to watch and bar of the State.

Wanted Old-Time Romance

By SILVIA L. BERKMAN

(Copyright, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Sometimes, Lynette, I feel like shaking you, and shaking you hard to get some of those foolish ideas out of your head!"

Jerrold Deane spoke with vehemence and heat. It was evident that this was not the first time the subject had been discussed by the youth and the maiden.

"I have a right to my own views," Lynette insisted stubbornly, "and I won't give them up just because you, with your Twentieth century sophistication, think I'm a few centuries behind the times. I just know that I'm right, and some day I'll prove it to you."

"Lynette, please. Why did you start this thing again? We've talked it over so many times and we always end at the same place. I came out here for a pleasant evening. The evening was all right. The place"—indicating the still, fragrant garden, flooded with silver moonlight—"was all right. Only you had to start that old argument again."

"I started! I think you've been horrid and insulting all evening, Jerrold Deane; and let me tell you now, the more you try to force me from my ways, the more I'll stick to them!"

Jerrold gazed at her pure profile, thrown into sharp relief by a nearby clump of dark shrubbery, the little mouth, always an indicator of her emotions, struggling bravely to maintain a defiant expression, but turning downward at the corners with hurt pride.

She was so slight—so little—so pathetically stubborn, that all his exasperation vanished as he watched her.

"Lynette, dear," he said gently, "I'm sorry I was so rude. We'll go over it once more, just once more, and this time we won't quarrel about it. We'll discuss it just as if it concerned two other persons and not ourselves. Are you willing?"

"Very well," she answered wearily, "but it won't do any good. We've talked it over so many times, starting out with such lovely intentions of a peaceful discussion, but it always turns out the same way. We both get angry and say things we don't mean."

"This time we won't," he told her, still gentle. "Now, dear, you know, 'cause I've told you thousands of times, that I love you better than anything in the world. I've asked you to marry me almost as many times as I've told you I love you, but you always drag in those foolish notions of yours—"

"They aren't foolish, I'll believe what I want, and if I choose to believe that romance still exists I'll believe it."

"There's where the trouble is. You insist that romance is still alive, yet you won't accept it in its present form. Romance still exists. I'm not saying that it doesn't, but it's up-to-the-minute, hustling romance of today, not the Sir Lancelot-and-Elaine form of yesterday in his day before. Why, if you'd only believe it, in one apartment house in New York there's more romance in one week than all the accumulated romances of a year in King Arthur's time."

"But I don't want today's romance, Jerry. I want yesterday's. Damsels in distress—clanking armor—shining shields—tournaments—fair ladies—Oh, I am sure that some day I will find some instance that will prove to you that that ideal sentiment still is."

"Lynette, dear, I hate to make your thoughts seem ridiculous, but can you imagine what would happen to a person if he should come riding down one of our main thoroughfares clad in clanking armor and looking for a damsel in distress? The damsels would laugh at him and the knight would be gently but firmly conveyed to an institution especially founded for those of a deficient mentality."

"Jerrold, you're sarcastic and I hate you when you're sarcastic. You've talked for your side long enough. Now listen to me. Ever since I was a little girl I have believed in these 'foolish notions' and have dreamed about them. From these dreams my ideal was born. I pictured him to myself, Jerry. He is a knight, young and beautiful—so beautiful. I was certain that he would come some day and I still believe he will. I love all the old romance of yesterday as you call it. I love it and I want it more than anything else."

She clasped her slender fingers tightly and turned on him earnest, gray eyes. He could see that her slim little body was rigid with the intensity of her desire. A sudden wave of passion made him tender.

"Lynette," he whispered against her soft hair. "Oh, Lynette, why can't you see my way? I can't express my love in the terms of yesterday, because I don't know them. Can't you find in me even the slightest resemblance to your knight?"

She turned to him suddenly and put her hands on his shoulders.

"Jerry, dear, I don't know. Sometimes I almost think you are he. And sometimes I almost think I'm in love with you, but—oh, Jerry, your hair is dark and his is blond."

He put her hands from his shoulders roughly.

"That confounded knight," he said bitterly, "always coming between us. Can't you drop him now? You're ting old enough to put aside all those childish fancies. I love you, but I'm telling you now if you prefer to wait for this make-believe knight, twenty years from now you'll still be Miss Lynette Randall."

"You are positively insulting, Jerrold, and I won't stay out here another minute. Take me to the house immediately."

The tell-tale mouth was again Lynette's undoing. Jerrold looked at the soft quivering lips and once more humbled himself.

"Lynette, Lynette, why can't we agree? But I have a plan, dear, and if you'll only consent to try it we may be happy after all. Will you listen?"

"Perhaps."

"Well, then, I'll give you your knight the next month in which to arrive. If he doesn't come by that time, we'll bury him forever and never resurrect him. He's kept you waiting long enough. Will you promise to do that?"

Lynette thought rapidly. She hated to yield, yet she was growing fonder of Jerrold every day. Then, too, in her secret heart she knew that Jerry was right. She had maintained her ideals lately for the most part through stubborn loyalty.

"All right," she said slowly, "if he doesn't come within the next month, I'm yours."

"And the knight dies?"

"Y-e-s, but I'll hate to bury him, Jerry."

"I'll make it the merriest funeral ever was."

"Then shake on it, to make it a real promise."

"Right-o, little pal. A real promise it is. But even if the old codger does turn up, I won't promise to fade from the horizon."

"I don't believe I'll want you to, Jerry. Sometimes you even outshine Sir Knight."

"Brave little pal. Let's kiss on it."

They did and somehow Lynette felt more reconciled to the possibility of losing her knight.

The last day of the allotted month had come, but with it no knight.

Lynette, curled up in the porch swing amidst a nest of cushions, was reading her favorite volume, "Idylls of the King."

"I wish the knight would come today, kiddy," she told her little, blue-eyed kitten. "I haven't wanted him so very much lately and I'm rather ashamed of being so disloyal, but today, after Jerry's confident conceit last night and this lovely poem, I want him almost as much as before. If he would only come to show Jerry that I am right, I could send him away and be happy with Jerry forever. Do you suppose he will come, kiddy?"

Kitty's soothing purr, together with the lulling motion of the swing, sent Lynette into a light slumber.

She awakened at the sound of footsteps on the porch and looked up with half-opened eyes at an unknown but familiar face. Her knight! She rubbed her eyes like a sleepy child.

He was perfect. Light hair waving back from the broad forehead, classic nose, lips tender yet firm, finely modeled chin—he could not be mistaken.

Through the side of the vine-covered porch she could see the vague outlines of a white horse with something bright in his mane gleaming in the sun. Behind him was another white, indistinct form—perhaps another horse for her. She did not note his clothes—only stared at his face.

"You did come, didn't you?" she said softly. "Now I can show Jerry. I've waited so long for you."

He smiled wondrously, beautifully.

"I know I'm late,—his voice was more than she had dared hope for—but I had a little accident on Greene street."

"But you came just in time."

"I'm glad I'm in time, but I can't stop to talk, ma'am; I'm late now. How much do you want—twenty, or thirty, pounds? I'm the new iceman, you know."

"So he's dead and buried?" asked Jerry that night. "And you held the funeral without letting me dance at it?"

"He wasn't left to be buried," Lynette answered with a laugh. "The iceman blew him into such small pieces that he didn't even come down."

"Be sure to thank the woman for me."

"And when he blew up, Jerry, you blew in and I'm going to make up this evening for all the horrid evenings he's spoiled."

Move a 200-Year-Old House.
A 200-year-old colonial house recently has been transferred from Hanover Four Corners, Mass., to Plandome, L. I.

George A. Richardson, of Plandome, saw the house recently on a trip through Massachusetts and decided he would like to have it. He did not wish to leave Plandome, so he bought the house and gave orders for it to be shipped to him in Plandome. It was carefully taken down and packed in numbered freight boxes.

The house stands today in Plandome exactly as it stood in Hanover Four Corners.—New York Journal.

The head of the firm caught the old boy telling falsehoods. "I'm surprised at you!" he said. "Do you know what they do with boys who tell lies?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "When they get old enough the firm sends them out as traveling salesmen."—Boston Transcript.

We can inherit many things of value to us in this world, but religion or salvation must be won; every man for himself.—Selected.

Governor Jack Walton of Oklahoma has at least learned to turn one trick of the moderns: Passing the Buck.

The Canyon Normal publication, The Prairie, and the Plains Agricultural Journal, published at Lubbock, have both changed from monthly magazines to weeklies. You can't keep the Plains publications from growing right along with the country.

The Plains counties are going to wake up the black-waxy belt at the Dallas Fair again this year. From this on their greatest dread will be that portion of the state once considered the drouth stricken, prairie-dog rattle snake retreat.

What our farmers need now above everything else is dry weather, but cloudy weather predominate. More than 100 bales of cotton per day is now arriving, however. Terry county could use several hundred cotton pickers to advantage right now.

That a county agent is a great asset, few people will deny at this advanced stage of the game, but Terry county has never made a serious rifle for one. However, to be successful in getting our commissioners to employ one, the farmer and stockman must initiate the move, for they are primarily the ones to be benefited. The town man is only secondarily benefited. We believe we would not only be more successful in growing crops and livestock with a county agent, but that he would be able to give us many pointers in selecting our exhibits.

By Sand Bar.

The people of this community are in the cotton patch pretty regularly now-a-days.

E. H. Tandy and Mr. Buchanan, from Tokio, went to Roswell, this week.

F. M. Ellington and family and Mrs. McDowell, went to Snyder, Saturday to visit George McDowell and family, who reside there. Snyder seems to be on the boom with six gins running almost night and day.

The French school started last week with Miss Nina Dunn as teacher and six pupils enrolled. We wish both pupils and teacher a successful school year.

Brit Clare and family attended S.S. at the French school house, Sunday. Mrs. E. H. Tandy visited Mesdames McDowell and Ellington, Tuesday.

Several families from this community enjoyed the fair at Brownfield last Saturday.

Terry County

Terry County is in West Texas, on the South Plains; 40 miles southwest from Lubbock, on a branch of the Santa Fe Railroad.

It is level prairie country, 90 per cent tillable agricultural land; inexhaustible supply of good water at 100 feet in depth.

Soil—red loamy chocolate loam, ranging from sandy to mixed and tight land; many quarters and halves can be had, all of same or part of either. Land may be bought in any sized tract, $15 to $30 unimproved; $20 to $50 with improvements.

Produces successfully with average and above average yield per acre and per year with Middle Texas and Okla. Corn, cotton and all kinds of feed-stuff, garden truck, and especially fine for apples and other fruits. A splendid country for all kinds livestock, poultry and dairying.

Average rainfall 20 inches. Normal yield of crops is 1/2 to 1 bale of cotton per acre; 40 bushels of corn. Altho the crop of 1922 had less than 8 inches, the average yield was 1/2 bale of cotton and 20 bushels of corn and other crops in proportion, with ample feed for the year. The 1923 crop was doubled in acreage, and will produce 12,000 bales of cotton and large feed crops of all kinds.

County population is now practically 6,000, and Brownfield, county seat has 1,500 all WHITE Americans; good clean society. During the county's 18 years of existence it has never had a killing or other serious crime. Good school and churches in the reach of every community and splendid roads throughout the county. Two transcontinental highways converge here. Modern transportation, communication and industrial facilities.

Mild winters and lots of sunshine; pleasant summers with cool nights.

No Negroes, Mexicans, Mosquitoes, chills, malaria or boll weavils.

Terry county has exhibited at the Dallas Fair more years continuously possibly than any other county of its population and age in the state. It has taken many first prizes in many products each time; taking 21 blue ribbons in 1919, and 10 in 1921; a number in 1922 with keen competition. It has taken many prizes at other fairs; taking first county premium for two years continuously at the South Plains Fair at Lubbock.

We invite you to come. "Plant your feet on higher ground" and get a home while one may be had worth the money.

For further and fuller descriptive matter, address the Terry County Chamber of Commerce.

NO PROBLEM CAN BE SOLVED BY JOKING ABOUT IT

"The cruel and most unfair thing we know about," says the Southern Telephone News, "is the habit of joke comedians, just for the sake of getting a laugh, to harp continually on the idea that all telephone service is slow and careless and that the operators are indifferent and rather prefer giving wrong numbers.

Of such jokes, a banker, of Dallas, Texas, writing in a banking publication, made this pertinent and illuminating comment:

"Many of us have fallen into the error of complaining that the telephone service, because it is faddish. Let a man or woman use the telephone 99 times and get perfect service and then on the 100th attempt fail to get service and the telephone is condemned in nine languages, eight of which are never seen in print.

"We call a man on the other side of town, or the other side of the state, or the other side of the world and talk to him. In doing so we use equipment that cost many millions of dollars; we have two, five or perhaps twenty persons working for us to complete the call; we have an army of a hundred thousand back of the call, keeping the equipment in such shape as to make our call possible.

If we enter a department store, or a bank, and find the place crowded, we line up to wait our turn and think nothing about it, but when we take up the telephone, regardless of the rush hour, we expect to get instant service.

"The jokesmith who hangs his humor on the telephone does the telephone company a great injustice, but the greatest injury is to the public for he encourages premature opinions and superficial thinking.

"No great problem is ever solved until the public gives it serious thought."

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapias

The fairs have come and gone. Nothing left but the memory of the crowds and bands of music and the whirl of the dance. We lost out. Let us try to do better next time.

The return of fair weather has started cotton to moving again and visions of good business ahead make us forget that we had a fair.

There were several land transfers this week. A Mr. Simpson, of Jayton Texas, purchased a section west of town and Mr. Banks, of Jones county, bought a half section of G. T. Mitchell, one and a half miles east of town. Land has also been secured for a new lumber yard. It is also rumored that a new hotel is to be erected across the street from the drug store. So mote it be.

Mrs. Dana Mackey, while driving her car just north of town lost control and went into the ditch. The car turned completely over, crushing the top and breaking the windshield. There were two women and four children in the car but all escaped with a few bruises and a terrible scare.

We have two cases of scarlet fever in our town or rather near town, the past week. Both cases are getting on apparently well at the present writing.

Mr. S. H. Rosson is confined to his bed with an attack of appendicitis.

Pastor Burnett filled the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday and Sunday night. His sermons are always interesting whether you agree with him or not. He seems to be especially wrathful with the Evolutionists and pronounces the whole teaching rot. It is all according to a fellow's point of view. Most of them will compare favorably, mentally, morally and religiously or otherwise with the present leaders of the so-called fundamentalist movement in the churches and will, I opine be able to take care of themselves. There is no danger to the Dear Old Book from the teachings of Evolution, the Nebular Hypothesis, or the thousand and one isms that afflict the churches. The present Fundamentalist propaganda will at least lead thousands to investigate Evolution, who would not have done so but from the present attack from the pulpit.

Truth is mighty and will prevail. The Bible is the best evidence of its own truthfulness. It has been so far able to survive every conceivable attack from within and without and will continue to pilot the weary wanderer on earth, giving him strength, courage and consolation under all difficulties.

It doesn't matter to me whether he first made the blade and then the ear, then the full corn in the ear, Mark 4:23, or He said let there be light and there was light. Through His mighty works we are eternally conscious of His presence and if properly attuned, we hear His constant loving messages.

Around us both day and night is music and song; we do not hear it, but step into the Radio Station and at once a transformation takes place. You are carried away in ecstasy with the wonderful song of some prima donna or listen with rapt attention to a great sermon of some celebrated divine. So my dear friends, get your self attuned to God's Great Message and you will cease frittering away your time on the different opinions as to how God peopled this earth.

Your glass may be purple and mine may be blue.

But while they are filled from the same bright bowl The fool who would quarrel for a difference of hue, Deserves not the luster they shed o'er the soul.

Your article got here Wednesday afternoon again, Aesculapias.—Ed.

How to Get Better Milk Prices

Now is the time to feed a real milk producing ration.

By raising the average of your winter milk deliveries with Cow Chow during the winter months you can expect better prices, and more milk accepted in the spring and summer.

The dairy farmer who brings in twenty gallons a day in the winter and then tries to deliver 40 gallons in the summer, gets the regular price for only 20 gallons, and the surplus price for the other twenty.

The dairy farmer who has a big fall and winter production establishes a high average for himself and gets a good price in the spring and summer on grass for as much milk as he made last fall.

Cow Chow now means more winter milk and more summer income.

WORK

By A. E. Hubbard.

WORK—I am the conqueror of conditions!

I have a homely name. There's no elegance nor varnish to my title.

You can't pronounce my name without thinking of buzzing saws, grinding machinery, escaping steam, and the hum of electricity.

I have fed the world ever since there were people in it. I tilled the first field and planted the first grain.

I made men do things with muscles before they could do things with thought. I put the axes over their shoulders and picks in their hands, and sent them into forest and field.

I did these things before I told them there was power in falling water or in coal. Only when they learned to make the best of conditions that they understood, did I show them other conditions that would help them.

I am KEEPING STEP with you. Through me you become a better man. And any time you try to get away from me, you lose.

I measure a day's beginning and a day's end, and I expect a good account of all the time between.

Your body needs me—and your mind needs me. Some men do not take a dozen steps in an hour, but they work as hard with their minds as other men do with their tools.

You need me as your partner. Everything that is worth gaining is only through me.

Stick to me—don't be afraid of me—make me your best friend—and I promise, on my part, to bring rewards of SUCCESS!

WORK—I am the sure road to happiness.

THE ROADHOG

I had a dream the other night that gave me courage new.

I caught a brief and fleeting sight of one great earthly wrong set right. I only wish 'twas true.

I dreamed I saw a road-hog sent to his eternal punishment.

Right in the middle of a street they tied him hard and fast.

Where all the streams of traffic meet, with driving wheels and plodding feet, and each that hurried past.

Would scratch his shin and bump head, and there he stayed as ages sped.—Ex.

Her Secret Safe

It was late at night. No one seemed to be about and the poor woman was very seasick. She thought if she could only get up to the deck a few minutes the fresh air would do her good. So, in her nightgown, she was crawling up the stairs when she met an equally sick man coming down. She gave a feeble scream of embarrassment. "Don't worry, lady," the man groaned. "I'll never live to tell it."—Capper's Weekly.

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

WHO WAS JAMES ORD?

THE public life of the man whose name was concealed under the palpable alias of "James Ord," commenced when this strange character was sent to Georgetown college, in Washington, with the statement by his guardian, Captain Ord, that "if you had your rights in England you would be some one the very mention of whose name would cause every head to bend. God forgive those who have wronged you, my boy!"

In order to remain close by his charge, the elder Ord secured a position in the Washington navy yard, but it was noted that the allowance which he was able to make to the boy who passed as his nephew, was out of all proportion to his salary as a master mechanic. Young Ord remembered little of his life abroad—though there seemed to be a hazy recollection of a tall and stately woman, sad-faced and dressed in the most expensive of fabrics, who had visited him at intervals during his childhood. In later years, however, he had spent the major portion of his time traveling with his "uncle," and it was only when they came to Washington that the pair settled down for any appreciable period.

Before the youth concluded his schooling at Georgetown college (Captain Ord was taken ill, and, after a sickness as brief as it was mysterious, died while trying to tell the boy the secret of his parentage. "James," he gasped, "I have sworn not to do so, but I must tell you that your father was—" and here a fit of coughing seized him, which prevented his disclosure of the mystery.

Upon investigation of his guardian's papers, Ord discovered that the man had not been his uncle, but was merely a common sailor in the British navy, who, through the exercise of some political influence, had been given the post of dockyard inspector under the Spanish crown. The younger Ord's supply of funds continued unabated and he placed himself under the tutelage of a Maryland priest, who, in addition to teaching him, assisted in the search for the truth concerning his parentage. This search led to the conclusion, unsupported by any direct documentary evidence, that he was the son of George IV of England, born while that monarch was prince of Wales, his mother being Marie Anne Smythe Fitzherbert, whom George had married in 1765.

When Ord was well on in life, he wrote to Mrs. Fitzherbert, but was unable to obtain a reply from her, although he died in the firm belief that she was his mother. This contention was also accepted by the Jesuit fathers of Georgetown college, who, in the centenary history of the institution, mentioned the name of "James Ord, son of George IV," in its list of alumni.

After various adventures in America, including a trip to the far West in search of gold and the accumulation of a considerable fortune on the Pacific coast, Ord was appointed to the bench, and returned to Washington, where he built a handsome home on Pennsylvania avenue. Later, however, he moved to Omaha, where he died at the age of ninety-seven, still strong in the belief that the long-delayed unsealing of Mrs. Fitzherbert's private papers would clear up the mystery which surrounded his birth. These papers formed part of a mysterious packet which Mrs. Fitzherbert, upon her deathbed, requested might be placed in a vault in Coates' bank, London, to remain there until such time as the reigning sovereign of Great Britain might see fit to have them publicly opened.

The seal was finally broken in 1905, by order of Edward VII, but, while the marriage certificate of George, prince of Wales, and the pretty widow was discovered, none of the other documents contained any reference to children alleged to have been born of the union. "James Ord," therefore, must continue to rank with Kaspar Hauser, the dauphin, the man in the iron mask and the other unsolved riddles of history.

Lincoln's Popular Phrase.

The expression in President Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, "government of the people, by the people, for the people," is a literary gem which for several centuries had passed unnoticed until thus used by him, an exchange says.

In the preface of the first complete translation of the Bible in the English language known as the Wycliffe Bible, there is the following: "The Bible is for the government of the people, by the people and for the people." The date of this is, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, about 1382, but cannot be later than the time of Wycliffe's death in 1384. This same authority credits him with being "the founder of English prose literature." This same expression from the Standard Dictionary, under the word "government."

Modern Stars.

Jim—I see that we have quite a bunch of woman football players at this formal dance.

Oscar—How come?
Jim—Look them over. There's a fullback, dress cut down to her waist; then there's Margaret, a halfback, just a trifle more modest. Yes, there's Virginia, the quarterback, she hasn't apparently had a play out nearly yet.

TO THE FAIR SQUARE FARMER"

There has been quite a little confusion about the public weighing. At the beginning it was my intention to charge farmers 10c for weighing and 15c for yardage on a bale of cotton, which was all that it would cost the farmer. The local shippers had agreed to pay me 15c per bale for shipping out their cotton (out of their own pockets.)

A committee of farmers came to me and demanded that I cut 5c off the fee they paid and 10c off the fee for shipping out (which they did not have to pay.) I would have very gladly cut the 5c off for what the farmers had to pay but didn't think it was right for them to demand that I cut 10c off a fee they did not have to pay.

Thus another cotton yard was put in and they started charging farmers 25c, the same as I was charging. Then the farmers who had been led to believe that the new yard would save them some money, brought up the question, "why was it costing them the same as I was charging." Quite a little confusion was caused and so they finally agreed to cut 5c under me. Not wanting one farmer to pay more than his neighbor, I cut to 5c also. As a result the new yard is not saving the farmer one penny.

Now, with due respect to fairness and right, I ask you, have I had a square deal? Is it right to deprive me of what is justly mine? Mine by an almost two to one vote of the people, and especially when it is not making you one penny? Is it right to do so just because you can? Have we not learned that Might is not Right?

Friends, I leave it to the fair-minded judgement of the honest, square dealing people. If I have not done right, I ask no favors, but please give me a fair trial. You be the judge and jury.

Sincerely your,
W. A. Bynum, Public Weigher
