FORTY RESIDENCE UNDER CONSTRUCTION NOW

There never was such a building era in the history of Brownfield as right now, and the end is not in sight. No matter in what portion of town one goes, they see new homes just started, nearing completion, or having the finishing touches added. Most of these, we are glad to report are to be occupied by actual owners, who aim to make this their permanent residence.

However, a great number of them are being built for rent purposes, and despite this, new folks that we have never seen or heard of before come to the Herald office every day to ask if anyone is advertising a house for rent. Sometimes more than one appears in a single day. The mail also bring their share of inquiries, but our answer has to be the same—NO HOUSES to rent.

Apparently many of them are good people and will make as good citizens, but we can't care for them at present.

These people have been used to the papers in the east carrying ads for houses to rent, but rent house owners have no occasion to advertise houses here, for there is a dozen to take them if empty.

TO THE VOTERS OF TERRY COUNTY

I wish to announce myself as a candidate for the office of County and District Clerk of Terry County, subject to the option of the Democratic primaries. I have been in this county 17 years and have served over three years as Commissioner of Pre. No. 2. I have always tried to treat everyone equally and to fill the office to the best of my ability, and if elected Clerk, will try to fill it in the same way.

Earnestly soliciting your vote and influence, I am,

Yours respt.,
Jay Barrett

TO THE VOTERS OF WEICHERS PRECINCT NO. 1

I announce that I will be a candidate for Public Weigher (re-election) for this precinct. I am serving my first term in this capacity and feel that the service and courteous treatment I have given the people entitles me to your consideration for a second term.

I earnestly solicit your vote and influence in the coming July primaries.

Sincerely yours,
W. A. Bynum

J. S. SMITH FOR PUBLIC WEIGHER, PRECINCT 1

We are authorized to announce for Public Weigher of Pre. No. 1, Mr. J. S. Smith, who has had charge of the Farmers' Union yard for some time past.

Those who have had his services this fall and winter know whether or not he knows and attends to his duty, and we ask that you give his candidacy due consideration before casting your ballot.

OBITUARY

On Sunday morning, January 6th, at the sanitarium at Lubbock, Texas, the soul of Miss Vera Sears, of Brownfield, Texas, left her suffering body and took its flight from this earth, back into the presence of God, the creator, maker and builder of Heaven and earth, who gave to her the space and privilege of the rose-bud period of childhood life.

On her going Vera left behind a father, mother, five brothers, one sister and a host of friends to mourn her departure. But her spotless life on this earth and her presence now in Heaven will doubtless bring to all her friends and loved ones a new vision of the brevity of life, and a new anchor and stay in Heaven for higher motives and purposes of life.

J. F. Curry.

The Herald is pleased to have R.B. (Bob) Haynes, of Tahoka, former editor of the Lynn County News over helping to keep 'er coming this week. Bob is not only a versatile writer, but he makes the "skin hang" in the job and ad department as well. He sure did look good to us Monday morning when he drove in, for we were minus a hand.

W. B. Collins, proprietor of the Collins Dry Goods Co., left last week for Oklahoma, where he went on business.

PLAINS BANK MERGES WITH FIRST NATIONAL HERE

It was announced here Monday morning by the officials of the First State Bank of Plains, Texas, and the First National Bank of this city that a merger between the two had taken place, and all the business of the former bank would be transacted at the First National Bank, this city.

The reason given by the directors of the Plains bank for the merger, is that owing to stringent financial conditions prevailing at present, and the small resources of the bank, that a merger with a strong institution like the First National puts them in better shape to efficiently handle the business of their customers. It is also further asserted that most of the stockholders of the State Bank of Plains are also stockholders in the First National Bank, this city, and that the checking accounts of the customers of the former can be taken over by the latter without any "mixups."

Mr. E. B. Free, the popular cashier of the Plains bank for the past several years, will come to Brownfield as assistant cashier of the First National Bank, and thus the Plains and Yoakum county customers will feel that their accounts are still in the hands of old friends, who understand their needs in the banking line.

Messrs. R. M. Kendrick and W. A. Bell, president and cashier of the First National Bank, issued the following statement to the customers of the First State Bank of Plains:

"We, the First National Bank of Brownfield, through its active officers and directors, cordially welcome you to its large family of satisfied customers, and fully believe that you will not have cause to regret the change, and assure you every courtesy to which your business dealings may entitle you, that are consistent with sound banking principles."

The transfer of the business took place Monday of this week.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Instead of the regular chapel services at the school house Tuesday, it was turned into memorial service for the dead Ex-President, Woodrow Wilson, and when 9:45 A.M. rolled around, quite an audience other than school children from the 5th grade up and faculty, were on hand.

First on program was a song by the audience (America) lead by Prof. Rankin, with Miss Mary Shelton at the piano.

Prayer was offered by Rev. C. E. Ball, after which he read a portion of scripture from the Book of Samuel that was very appropriate for the occasion.

He was followed by Judge Geo. W. Neil, who made a very nice talk, admonishing the school children to emulate the example of Wilson to the best of their ability.

Judge O. W. Gillespie, president of the school board then delivered a masterful eulogy of Wilson, stressing his home life and old fashioned Bible raising.

Song—Battle Hymn of the Republic, by audience.

Morgan L. Copeland took up the life of Wilson from the standpoint of statesman and diplomat. His address was well received.

Homer Winston then followed and gave a prophecy of an old teacher "in the four room shack across the track" who foretold that the next president of the United States would be a school teacher. Mr. Winston told the children they had the same chance to climb to the top of the ladder that Woodrow Wilson had.

Rev. J. P. Watson then gave an inside view of the spiritual Wilson and his steadfast faith in Jesus Christ. Benediction—Douglas Carver.

John C. Scudday returned this week from Sweetwater where he visited his sons, Roy and Fred and families. He reports that Roy is now enjoying his usual health, and that he saw the big gip plant while down there.

Mrs. Dr. Copeland underwent an operation at Lubbock last Thursday. Last reports are that she is doing well.

George Merritt, who has been gone some time, returned one day recently with a good looking bride.

It would take a long list to hold all the names that have renewed in the past week. Something like 75 have made the editor more than happy and others rolling in daily. Is your name written there?

Who died last Sunday Morning at 11:15 at his Washington home.

ONE OF THE CREST OF THE AGE PASSES

This earthly tabernacle of Ex-President Wilson has returned to dust from whence it came. The spirit has returned to God who gave it, but the influences for good he wielded while on earth will live on and on through the ceaseless ages, and when all us mortals who now populate the earth have gone on, the best men and women of future ages will be teaching their children of the great American who lived during the later part of the Nineteenth and the first part of the Twentieth Century.

"It took our Nation more than a half century to unitedly appreciate the fallen martyr, Abraham Lincoln, but we feel that partisanship will not be strong enough to cloud the matchless Woodrow Wilson for that period, but that a United Nation, of whatever political aspect, will, on the annual birthday of this fallen statesman, stop and pay due respect to that memory of this supremely unselfish humanitarian.

Nor will American be the only nation to do this, for the common peoples of all continents and isles whose part he championed when they were in sore need of a champion, will rise up with us of this nation to pay tribute and homage to the memory of Woodrow Wilson, who used his influence to unshackle more white slaves than all the black slaves Lincoln ever dreamed of.

"Mourn ye, for today a mighty Prince is fallen."

WILSON MEMORIAL SERVICES AT LEGION HALL

A large crowd of admirers of Ex-President Woodrow Wilson, and not a few men that are proud that he was commander-in-chief of the army in which he enlisted and fought; also the Brownfield Band, assembled at the American Legion Hall Tuesday night and the following program was carried out:

Star Spangled Banner was played by the band (audience standing). Post Commander Glen Akers then called on Rev. C. E. Ball, who led an invocation.

The life of Woodrow Wilson was ably handled by Morgan L. Copeland. My Country 'Tis of Thee I Sing—Band.

Duet—Onward Christian Soldiers (Wilson's favorite song)—Misses Eldora Lewis and Ann Hamilton, accompanied by the King Sax-Orchestra.

Woodrow Wilson, scholar and statesman—Homer, Winston. Band selection.

Benediction—Douglas Carver.

Jos. Rady, of Dallart, civil engineer, making paving, waterworks and sewerage his speciality, was here this week on business.

OTHERS RAISE BUMPER CROPS IN OLD TERRY TOO

Burnett Brothers, John and Redge, were among the first actual settlers in Terry county. They have been here perhaps 20 years but still dot on Terry and its possibilities. But, perhaps like lots of the old settlers, they had little faith in it as a cotton country, and devoted their attention until the last few years to corn, feed and live stock. They still raise plenty of feed yet, as the following figures will indicate.

Be it known that these brothers live as brothers ought to, and are partners in every sense. All their checks have been given as "Burnett Brothers" since we have been here, and we have never heard of either one howling that the other was getting the advantage.

This last fall they sold quite a lot of their land to actual settlers and it looks like a real back east neighborhood around them now, except the improvements are all new and usually more substantial than back east.

Here is what the two men and their boys turned off this past year.

Bales of cotton	82
Bushels of corn	3,000
Tons of maize	10
Bins of kaffir and cane	12,000

This is not to count fruits, vegetables, mules, horses, cattle, hogs and poultry. But making a conservative estimate, their farm produced in the neighborhood of $18,000.00 worth of stuff in 1923.

Their cotton averaged better than a half bale per acre, as they had in 100 acres of cotton.

Mr. Easterner, does this look like starvation or a desert?

Frankly, does it?

COCHRAN CITIZENS ARE REQUESTING ORGANIZATION

A petition signed by 81 qualified voters, according to Merton J. Smith of Cochran county, will be submitted to the Commissioners' Court of Hockley county upon their next regular meeting which is on Feb. 11th.

There is no doubt in the mind of Mr. Smith but that the Commissioners of Hockley county will grant the all for an election and organization of Cochran county when they have seen the petition and investigated its merits.

Presuming that the Hockley County Commissioners will grant the request of the petitioners for an election for organization of Cochran Co., the selection of a county seat and officers will be called within 30 days after the meeting of the regular term of the Commissioners' Court of Hockley County. That would be about the middle of March.

Morton and Ligon are the contending towns for the county seat of the county. Several parties have announced their intention of becoming candidates for election to fill the several offices if organization carries.

No doubt many candidates will have their announcements placed in this paper in the next issue and as the selection of good men is the prime objective of good citizenship the voters and readers of this paper will look eagerly to these announcements.—Cochran County News.

IDLE WIVES CLUB

Mrs. W. A. Bell entertained the members of the Idle Wives Club very delightfully at her home Tuesday, January 22.

Mrs. J. L. Randal, Bowers and Endersen were club guests for the afternoon.

Mrs. Endersen and Mrs. Ray Brownfield received lovely pieces of cut glass as prizes.

At the close of the afternoon Mrs. Bell, assisted by her daughter, Miss Margaret, served delicious refreshments to the following: Misses Smith, King, Miller, May, McGowan, Dallas, A. M. and A. R. Brownfield, Bowers, Randal and Endersen.

J. W. Hatton and family moved in this week from Tatum, N.M., he having recently purchased interest in the Palace Drug Store. Jim's smiling face can be found behind the prescription counter, where he would like to meet his friends.

Dr. M. C. Bell and family moved over yesterday from Plains and are domiciled in one of the Fred Smith houses. The doctor will follow his profession as medical doctor here, and his card will appear in these columns as soon as he finds offices.

NEGRO KILLING OCCURRED AT TAHOKA SATURDAY

A negro killing occurred on the streets of Tahoka Saturday morning of last week when Lynn Bell, an employee of the Sanitary Barber Shop, shot Wilson (Bull) Anderson, employed as janitor of the First National Bank of Tahoka.

According to information received here, the killing occurred over settlement of a washing rack for automobiles, which Anderson had disposed of to Bell for a nominal sum. Anderson claiming that Bell still owed him a small amount on the rack. When the sons of Ham met on the streets Saturday they came to blows, Bell finally pulling a small revolver and emptied the same into the body of Anderson.

(Bull) Anderson had resided in Tahoka about eight years and was a trusty man of his race, according to reports from that place.

Bell was placed in the county jail at Tahoka.

S. M. U. STUDENTS AGAINST BOK PEACE PLAN

Dallas, Texas, Feb. 1.—Students of the Southern Methodist University by a majority of 24 out of 290 votes last have disproved the Bok Peace Plan, which proposes in essence a substitution of the force of public opinion for Article Ten in the present league covenant. The balloting was preceded by two debates on different days, eight students taking part in it.

Among the arguments against the plan was that public opinion was not a force strong enough to enforce the decree of the league. Another argument against it was that the reservations would make rapid functioning impossible by making its action depend upon the will of the Congress of the United States.

Approximately 1200 students heard the debates, of whom a fraction less than one-fourth voted on the subject.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Dalton Lewis sprang a surprise party Monday night on her husband by quietly inviting a few friends to attend a supper at her home, and the surprise didn't stop with Dalton, but included Jim Lewis and Sam Pears whose birthdays came a few days apart.

A sumptuous supper of chicken salads and fruit were served around three luscious cakes, surrounded with lighted candles in sump to the ages of the husbands. After which the guests enjoyed several hours in good games. We are requested not to state their ages.—A Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom W. Smith, of Fort Worth, proprietors of a splendid cafe at 204 Main, were here this week visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Brownfield and other old time friends. Mr. and Mrs. Smith called in person to renew their friendship and get personally acquainted with the editor. They are every inch thorough West Texans.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Brown and little son, James, of Post, were visiting Mr. Brown's mother, Mrs. J. O. Brown, the past week.

JOHNSON NEWS NOTES

By Reporter.

Many of the farmers encouraged by the pretty weather of the past week have started spring plowing.

There have been quite a number of new comers moved into our neighborhood in the last few days, which has added greatly to our school. We gladly welcome them to our community and hope they may find life amongst us both desirable and profitable.

The measles epidemic has about disappeared from our neighborhood.

Mr. Cook has been on the sick list for several days, but is reported to be much improved.

Miss Annie Newsom was carried to Lubbock the past week and operated on for appendicitis. She is reported to be improving rapidly and we hope to see her up again soon, for we know she is anxious to be at her school work again. She is greatly missed by her school mates.

Our box supper at the schoolhouse last Friday night was a success for just a local affair. It netted the school $97. Mr. Wheatly and Mr. McNutt were the auctioneers who sold the boxes. Miss Evadeen Snow won the cake for being the prettiest girl in the Johnson community. The proceeds of the box supper are to be used as an athletic fund to prepare our school for the interscholastic meet in the spring.

Work will begin at once with enthusiasm by both teachers and pupils to have Johnson school make a good showing at the school meet.

Miss Watson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Watson, was down from Meadow last week end visiting home folks. she has a class in music at Meadow.

CHINESE BANDITS REVIVE OLD FORM OF EXTORTION

Outlaws' Threat to Desecrate Graves of Ancestors Brings Money From Rich.

A practice almost as old as China itself—that of extorting money from well-to-do Chinese by threatening to desecrate or by actually desecrating ancestral graves—has been revived by Honan bandits.

Nanyang, in the middle of Honan province, offers an outstanding example of this revival. Once a thrifty town and the home of Chu-ko Liang, famous hero and strategist of the time of the Three Kingdoms, Nanyang has become a bandit stronghold. Virtually all wealthy Chinese have long since left the place to escape extortion. But the bandits still have a grip on them.

By threatening to exhume the bones of their parents or other ancestors, the most sacred things conceivable to the mind of the Chinese, and to burn them or scatter them to the four winds, the bandits are virtually certain of receiving ransom money from these wealthy people. They are just as certain of the money as if they had possession of the victim of extortion himself or of his living relatives.

Moreover, even in the event a captive is killed owing to delay on the part of friends or relatives in paying ransom money, the body still remains to be ransomed to save it from desecration.

It is said there are at least sixty gangs of bandits centering around Nanyang and occupying more than fifty villages in the surrounding territory. The gangs range in number from 600 to 2,000 members each. Each is striving to attain the fame of the infamous "White Wolf," who for years terrorized portions of Honan province before banditry became such a widely recognized profession.

"Wang the Bearded," "Wang the Monk," "Chang the Ninth" are title-assumed by three of the gang leaders. No apparent effort is being made by the military authorities to suppress these gangs.

NUTRITION CLASSES BENEFIT CHILDREN

Improvement in Health and Discipline and Reduction in Underweight Result in Schools.

Twelve hundred and sixty children in the vicinity of Chickasha, Oklahoma, developed sturdy little bodies and healthy alert minds because of the nutrition classes conducted under the auspices of the Grady County Chapter of the Red Cross last year. These children were found to be underweight due to malnutrition, and while in many cases the malnutrition was not due to lack of food but to the wrong kind of food, the results were the same.

Hot lunches of properly balanced diet were put into 17 schools. The children were taught what to eat and how to eat, that is, how much and how many times a day, and were encouraged to eat fruit and vegetables, to drink milk, and to eliminate coffee and tea from their diet, and a health rule contest by which the children were encouraged in the practice of outdoor exercise and personal hygiene and well-ventilated sleeping and living rooms was inaugurated. This all made for a general improvement in health and incidentally a decided improvement in the discipline in the school.

The percentage of underweight was greatly reduced and the parents were so much pleased with the improvement that they are demanding a continuance of the program for another year.

Joe Bailey, who has been the Herald's right hand bower for several months left last Saturday for Lorenzo to take charge of the telephone exchange there for his uncle, Roy Bailey. The Herald, as well as not a few young ladies will greatly miss this splendid young man. Joe is not only dependable, but a real good hand in the print shop.

animals, the great majority of which were thought to have existed only in prehistoric days in Europe, Asia and Africa.

Quarries Rich in Fossils.

"The Nebraska quarries are probably the most extraordinary of their kind in the world, and have proved to be veritable gold mines. They were discovered in 1877 by James H. Cook, an old Indian scout and plainsman, who was then the proprietor of a large cattle ranch at Agate, at present owned by his son, Harold Cook. The quarry occupies two small hills on the Cook ranch, not far from the Niobrara river. Running through these hills is a rich layer of fossil deposit two feet thick, containing thousands of ancient bones.

"The Nebraska state geologist in the early nineties made a survey of the quarry, and the first large fossil collection was taken from it by the Carnegie museum at Pittsburgh. Later, New York's museum began to work the quarry and obtained a considerable fossil collection. The quarry, however, is so rich in deposits that these operations barely scratched its sides and the greater part of the buried treasures today remain untouched.

"The museum workers from time to time open up other cuts which they hope will yield the ancient mammal specimens they covet. Few have any idea of the vast amount of work and care which is entailed in planning and carrying through an expedition which seeks the remains of those ancient beasts in the hope the remains will shed additional light on the dim and distant evolutionary periods of an early world.

Hundreds of "Little Rhinoceri."

"The little rhinoceros, which forms part of the museum's collection, was about the size of a half-grown calf and had two horns side by side at the front of the skull, instead of a single one, or of a pair, one behind the other. His remains are most abundant in the quarry and hundreds of skulls have been taken out by the Carnegie, the American and other institutions. The museum, as it collects from year to year further remains of the little rhinoceros, has the materials now for one or more almost complete skeletons. The animal was known to have roamed over Europe and Asia in its day.

"The giant pig was about the same size as the modern rhinoceros. Little is known of its habits, except that it possessed sharp, powerful teeth, and was well equipped to attack and bite his enemies. Some say he was carnivorous, others that he was a vegetarian. It is probable that he lived on vegetable food, nuts, roots and tubers. He roamed all over the northern world.

"The moropus belonged to the ungulates. He is peculiar in many respects. Especially in his long neck and small head, suggesting a horse, and his deep body and rounded back, suggesting a tapir. His long, stilted legs are suggestive of a giraffe, while his feet are most like a rhinoceros, except that they have great claws instead of hoofs.

May Have Perished in River.

"This animal is extremely rare except in Nebraska quarries. Although his remains have been found in Europe, they have generally been in fragments. A part of a skeleton has been found in France, in China and in India, but nowhere in the Old World have his remains been found in such abundance as in Nebraska. In the last three or four years several of his skeletons have been taken from the quarry and are on exhibition in various institutions throughout the country.

"Scientists are at a loss to account for the remains of these three animals only in the quarry and for the great abundance of their bones there. Various theories have been brought forward to account for the enormous assemblage of their remains and nothing else. In all probability when these animals roamed the continent, the quarry was part of a channel of a stream. One theory is that these beasts venturing too far into the stream got caught in an eddy or strong currents and were thus carried to their death.

"There is another theory that coming to the stream to drink they were caught in quicksands. This might explain why the remains of smaller animals are not found with them, since these could drink from the edge of the waters, while the larger animals were forced to walk into the center of the stream to quench their thirst."

"Of the habits of the ancient beasts Professor Matthew said little was known. That they filled some useful part in the far distant animal age in which they lived and that they inhabited the New World as well as the Old is shown by the many bones buried in ancient sandstone. He says that it remains to be seen whether further quest will throw any additional light on their origin.

Tennis a French Game.

Tennis is a French game which in the twelfth century was played with ball and bat on horseback. Later the horses were dispensed with. The game was very popular in England in the sixteenth century when rackets first came into general use. Before that the hand was used for batting.

Finger-Prints in Babylon.

A group of valuable historic tablets from the excavations of the city of Babylon, bearing dates as far back as three and a half centuries before the Christian era, was recently secured. Several of the pieces carry the distinct prints of the fingers which molded them over 2,000 years ago.

MANY ANIMAL FOSSILS FOUND

Tooth Proves Ape Formerly Lived in Nebraska.

GIANT CAMEL'S SKULL FOUND

A tooth of a native ape, the only one known to the New World, and the skull and jaws of a monster prehistoric camel have been discovered by the Albert Thompson expedition in Nebraska. The announcement was made recently by Prof. W. D. Matthews, curator of the department of vertebrate paleontology of the American Natural History museum.

In addition to these discoveries, the Thompson expedition will assemble specimens, which, according to Professor Matthews, will form one of the richest collections in the world. It will include the skull and bones of three-toed horses, the fossil remains of the little rhinoceros, the giant pig, and the moropus, or clawed ungulate, all contemporary with animals belonging to the Lower Miocene period. The bones of these animals may have lain buried from 2,000,000 to 20,000,000 years.

The great camel is attributed by Professor Matthews to the Pliocene period, from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 years ago. The prehistoric camel was one-fifth as large again as the modern desert camel and weighed a third more. Other wise, said Professor Matthews, they corresponded in every respect to the modern Bactrian camel and disappeared from this continent about the Glacial period, probably to seek warmer climates.

Ape Period in Doubt.

The ape tooth Professor Matthews regards as an even more important discovery, since, he declares, it shows that apes were at one time inhabitants of America. Professor Matthews is unable to say what period the tooth belongs to without a close examination. He does not think it belongs to the Miocene age, the missing link period between ape and mankind, nor does he believe it will afford evidence which will alter his conviction that this continent was not inhabited by primitive man.

"Mr. Thompson, after six months of excavation work in the Snake Creek fossil quarries in western Nebraska, has shipped this museum eleven cases of fossils and bones of prehistoric monsters," said Professor Matthews. "The specimens are being unpacked and classified at the museum, awaiting his return."

Brer Ground hog, or for our part of the universe, Brer Prairie dog, saw his shadow alright, and has retired for another 60 day nap, but he nearly always sees his shadow here.

Lamesa is to have three sanitariums, according to the Reporter. Too many sanitarium; take too many sick folks to support them, and we don't imagine the Lamesa and Dawson Co. folks are hankering to be sick.

In the national ton litter contest last year, Texas produced 28, and one or two ran nearer two tons than one, and it was not a good hog year either. Come to Terry.

Some of our exchanges have been telling about the richest town lately. —Idalou, in Lubbock county— and of course figured 400 inhabitants of the town to have $1,000 apiece of the 400 thousand dollars on deposit there. It is all right to boost, we believe in it, but had any of these statisticians figured that possibly some of the cotton farmers around that burg may lay claim to some of this wealth?

Oh! yes, it is a better cotton country than Terry? This was the parting rejoinder of a lady returning to the extreme north plains section, on being asked if that was not mainly a wheat country. Well, all we have to say is, they have been a long time in finding it out, for that county was among the first to be settled; was one of the first to receive a railroad, and if they have a gin in the county, it was not built until 1923.

Volume 1, No. 1 of the Cochran County News was received by the Herald the past week. It is a well printed and edited weekly published by the Avalanche Publishing Company at Lubbock, and James L. Dow, is the editor. Few unorganized counties can boast such a weekly journal, if any, and we are glad to have it on exchange. Cochran is now working toward organization, and will soon perhaps be Texas' baby county. We wish them much success.

Our hosts of newcomers were initiated Sunday and Monday with a combined norther and sandstorm that did full justice for a starter, and we imagine they now have a good conception of what one can do, and also a wholesome respect for them. But, brother, hold a tight reign and grit your teeth; it takes a real he-man to stay during the sandstorm period, and you will love old Terry the rest of the time, and her fertile bosom will feed, clothe and educate your family sumptuously every day.

Speaking of cotton as well as chewing the rag about other matters, our advice to the farmers of Terry county would be to be sure and plant enough feed to run the farm—then put the balance in cotton. Lots of feed will have to be shipped in this year as none of the newcomers are bringing any feed with them and very few of our farmers raised more than enough to do them. One farmer told us the past week that he had sold some feed and had enough left to do him three years. He also said that he raised some cotton too. Now this farmer is what some people would term "heeled."

It is a funny thing that our citizens will, without a protest, allow Terry county to be classed with "all others" in the ginner's report of the department of agriculture. A Post citizen, who has some property here, has taken more interest in the matter than we have, and has protested, and a letter from the department to him indicates that a reporter will be appointed. As matters now stand at least 36 counties below Terry in production of cotton had separate reports in the January ginner's report. Terry at the time had ginned more than 8,000 bales and was classed in with all other, while two counties with less than 2,000 bales being Llano county with 1822 bales and Tyler Co. with 1957 bales. These reports are reproduced in the leading papers all over the state, as every paper receives one, and the advertising features mean much to a county.

Home Minister Goto presented at a dinner at Tokyo two handsome silver enameled vases to Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy and Col. George T. Langhorne as a token of Japan's appreciation of their services in leading the relief work for the earthquake sufferers.

Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods read a telegram stating that there still were $3,000,000 of America's gift unexpended and asking what was needed. Viscount Goto promised to supply the information.

General McCoy estimated the gifts from America by the Red Cross, the army and navy and by private subscription at $20,000,000.

WAITERS WOULD BE PLEASED

Woman's Suggestion Must Be Recorded as Decidedly the Right Thing in the Right Place.

The Woman attended a large semi-public luncheon given by a well-known literary club. It was held in the ball-room of one of our newest hotels and the tickets were $4 a head.

The members and their guests were scattered haphazard at the different tables; there had been no placing and consequently the Woman found herself seated next to a garrulous stranger, who took possession of her every moment.

After the efficient, attentive waiters had placed the finger bowls and the speeches were about to be delivered, the talkative one gathered the attention of the smartly gowned women at the table by tapping on her glass.

"Ladies," she said brightly, "please, please don't let any of us forget the waiters! Let each of us put our 10 cents in the middle of the table."—Chicago Journal.

SHOES OF SKELETON IDENTIFY LOST BOY

Parents of Jersey City Child End Eight-Year Hunt.

Greeley, Pa.—The markings on a pair of child's shoes made it nearly certain that the small skull and other bones found in underbrush not far from Greeley were the remains of Jimmy Glass, the four-year-old boy whose disappearance on May 12, 1915, caused a worldwide search.

Charles L. Glass of Jersey City, father of the boy, washed the clay from the shoes and found the maker's name cut on the bottom of the shoe under the instep. The boy had worn a pair of nearly-new shoes of this make when he disappeared. The only other relics of clothing that were found were rusty metal buttons and buckles from the overalls.

How he came to his death is not known, but it is thought that he had died of fright, exhaustion and hunger after losing his way and wandering through a thick maze of scrub oak, maple and other underbrush. His body was less than 100 feet from a wood road and about a mile from the main road. It was found there by Otto Winkler, who was hunting deer. The bones were all found in a small space between the skull and the shoes, indicating that the body had been undisturbed since his death. The only wild animal that might have attacked him is the bear. It is years since bears have been seen near Greeley, but they are sometimes reported only a few miles from here.

Whole World Combed for Him.
The boy and his parents had been at the Faust farm, Greeley, about a mile from the place where the body was found. Miss Glass left Jimmie playing outside the house when she went to the village to mail a letter. He was gone when she returned. From that day until now no trace of him was found.

The search was carried on first in the village, then among neighboring villages, then all over the United States and finally abroad. The boy's picture and description went all over the world. Positive identifications were made again and again and the parents experienced many times an agony of suspense followed by the disappointment of discovering that the identified child was not theirs after all.

Death From Exhaustion.
Dr. J. H. Ross gave the certificate of death, which he wrote was due to "exposure and exhaustion, being lost in the woods and having wandered from home."

Capt. Joseph Rooney, who has traveled a total of 48,000 miles to look at scores of boys erroneously thought to be Jimmy Glass, said that there was no doubt that the search was now at an end.

"I am still convinced," he said, "that the story told by Edward Faust, the boarding-house keeper, and Fred Lucky, a boy, is true, and that is that they saw two men and a woman in an automobile carry the boy away after wrapping him in a robe. I believe that he must have died, either from exhaustion or from fright, and that they then took him to this place in the woods and planted the body there."

Mother's Mind at Peace.
Coroner J. H. Ludwig said that no inquest was necessary and gave the father and mother permission to take the relics away. They were placed in a square box and carried by Captain Rooney of Jersey City.

On arriving at Jersey City, Mr. and Mrs. Glass were escorted to their home. "We had hoped until the very last," said Mr. Glass, "that the boy would be found alive. Since that was impossible, we are glad that the search is finally at an end."

The mother showed five large boxes of letters which had come to her from every state in the country and many parts of the world. Most of the letters were written by persons confident that they could lead the parents to the missing child. At times the family was trying to follow seven or eight of these false trails at once. Some of the letters were written with such detail and positiveness that the relatives of the boy had their hopes raised to the highest point. Years of crushing disappointment had not taken away their capacity to be tortured in this way, and plausible reports had within the last year caused the mother and father to go through all this emotional stress again.

"My mind is at peace, now," said the mother, pointing at the heaps of letters. "We had hoped so that we would have him again. Since that could not be, it is a consolation to have the body."

Koreans on Increase.

Compared with the census of twelve years ago, these figures show an increase of 4,313,744. Of the total population, men number 9,088,684 and women 8,538,077.

Analyzes Foreign and Domestic Samples for Comparative Values.
The purpose of the crude oil survey at the Bartlesville, Okla., experiment station of the bureau of mines is to analyze crude oils from every field of commercial importance in the United States and foreign countries and publish the results, according to the Department of the Interior at Washington.

The value of this work, the department said, lies chiefly in the methods in which the analyses are made, every oil being run in a similar manner so that the analyses of the various oils are comparable. All fields in the United States, excepting the California fields, have been reported upon. Samples have been received from all foreign fields except the Russian.

The workmen also found a carved basalt stele of King Seti I of Egypt, on which is described the Pharaoh's military dispositions in Palestine, and contains the name of Beisan.

10,000 SYNTHETIC OYSTERS PLANTED

Placed in Old Beds by New York Commission.

MARKS SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH

The planting of the first 10,000 "synthetic" oysters was completed recently by the New York State Conservation Commission at Cold Spring Harbor.

Three hundred and thirty million baby incubator oysters were liberated at Oyster Bay and Northport, while experiments are proceeding to cross-breed Blue Points and Lynnhavens, Cape Cods and Jamaica oysters, Greenports and Delaware Bays with the object of creating new types of oysters with more meat, improved flavor and prettier shells.

The 10,000 "synthetic" oysters were made ready for planting by a process developed since 1920 by the state conservation commission. This process is many million times as efficient as nature's method of breeding oysters. A female oyster, the most prolific of all living things, lays from ten to a hundred million eggs in a season. Only about one in a million of these is fertilized and only about one in a hundred million grows up to be an oyster. The artificial method fertilizes nearly 90 per cent of the eggs and promises to enable a large proportion of them to grow to maturity.

Many Oyster Beds Barren.
The system of making a million eggs grow where only one grew before was developed by the state conservation commission to meet a desperate situation in the oyster industry. Since 1910 the production of cultivated oyster beds has been cut in half. Oysters have been harvested faster than they could breed naturally. Thousands of acres of oyster beds have been rendered barren. For example, the revenue of Rhode Island from taxing oyster beds has been cut from $125,000 to $12,000 a year.

The new fully developed process of growing them artificially promises to correct all this, to restock the barren acreage, to produce all the seed oysters that are needed and to grow harder and better strains of oysters. "In 1919 when the commission first considered the plan of growing oysters artificially from the egg the idea was ridiculed," said William Firth Wells, biologist of the state conservation commission, who has been rearing the "synthetic" oysters in a small room in one of the towers of the bridge at Bayville.

"It was something like proposing perpetual motion machines to physicists. Every kind of effort had been made to raise oysters from the egg and they all failed. It was proved by Professor Brooks of Johns Hopkins in 1870 that the oyster eggs could be impregnated or fertilized artificially and made to go through the first stage of their development. But the oyster egg is a thing only one four-hundredth part of an inch in diameter and it is not much larger in its embryonic stage.

Water Cleaned in Separator.
"It is so small that the physical problem of changing the water so as to give the growing oysters clean water and a fresh food supply proved insuperable. The use of filters proved impossible. Anything coarse enough to filter out the impurities filtered out the oysters as well. Anything fine enough to filter out the impurities clogged every time.

"This deadlock continued until 1920. The thing that broke it was the use of a centrifugalizing machine like a cream separator. When the water was beginning to become stale, it was put in the separator. It was feared that the machine whirling at 7,000 revolutions a minute would crush the minute organisms. This was not the case. They struck to the walls of the separator. When the stale water was completely eliminated the future oysters were rinsed out into clean water. Every two days this centrifugalizing process was repeated for two weeks. By that time the larvae had grown thin, transparent silvery shells and were large enough so that fresh water could be introduced and the impurities filtered out without their escaping.

"This process has been developing and improving up to the present and the hatch of young oysters we have just planted is the first large setting we have reared artificially. Next year they will be served on the halfshell to oyster planters in different parts of the coast. They will be small oysters, for it takes four or five years for them to attain maturity, but they will show what can be done artificially."

The discovery of artificial breeding methods may be a greater benefit to Europe than it is to this country. Oysters have been caught faster than they bred practically everywhere in Europe, and have become a luxury. Oysters are the greatest American sea crop, and the annual harvest here is more than four-fifths of the world's annual harvest.

Practice of law in the United States is a gambling game, played between two sets of lawyers, with a judge as the umpire, James Hannibal Clancey, Detroit lawyer, declared during a recent speech at Chicago.

Dyes From Sorghum Husks.
French scientists have found that sorghum husks yield a gum which can be used for dyeing wool, silk, leather and vegetable fibers. The possible colors, which are sun-proof and soap-proof, are various shades of red and pink, gray and dark brown.

Diminishing Death Rate.
The death rate of 1922 was the lowest of any year excepting one in the history of the United States and Canada, according to the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The rate was 8.8 persons in each 1,000 in 1922, while in 1921 the rate was 8.7 persons.—Scientific American.

Old Methods Costly.
Eight to ten billions of francs a year is the total loss due to out-of-date unbusinesslike methods to which the Paris government clings, says the report of the committee on economy; the report is endorsed by President Millerand.

Keeping Fit.
Man in this world is like a traveler who is always walking toward a colder region, and who is, therefore, obliged to be more active as he goes farther north. The great malady of the soul is cold, and in order to counteract this formidable illness he must keep up the activity of his mind not only by work but by contact with his fellow men and with the world.—De Toqueville.

Furniture Oil.

To renovate scratched furniture, mix together in a bottle equal quantities of the best salad oil and vinegar. Shake vigorously, then it is ready to use. Take a small pad or soft rag, dip it into the solution and rub well into the wood until all scratches have disappeared. Then polish with another soft rag. You will be delighted with the result.

Queer Idea of Beauty.

Beauty makes use of strange ways for adornment in some lands. Many Japanese women adopt the singular habit of gliding their teeth. In some sections of India part of the teeth must be dyed black before a woman is thought beautiful. The Hottentot women paint the entire body in patches of red and black. In Greenland the women color the face blue and yellow.

SEATTLE HEALTHY CITY FOR BABES

Has Lowest Mortality in the United States.

RATE FOR THE YEAR IS 49

Of the twenty-five largest cities in the United States, all of more than 250,000 population, Seattle, Wash., was the healthiest for infants in 1922, according to infant mortality statistics, just published by the American Child Health association, of which Herbert Hoover is president.
 Seattle's infant mortality rate for the year was 49, which means that that number of infants under one year of age died out of every thousand born. The next four cities in order were Minneapolis, 53; Portland, Ore., 56; San Francisco, 57, and St. Louis, 59.
 The rate for New York city, including all five boroughs, was 75, and for Chicago, second largest city, 85. As well as having lowest rates, where the large cities were concerned, Western states also made the best average rates, when taking into consideration all cities of more than 10,000 population, of which there are 635 included in the report.
 Oregon with four cities within this classification, had the best average rate, 58.6. Nine cities in the state of Washington were second with 58.9; eleven cities in Minnesota, third, with 60.3; twenty-five cities in California, fourth, with 64.6, and five cities in Nebraska, fifth, with 65.3.

The American Child Health association's report has become an annual compilation published to stimulate interest in measures to aid in the reduction of infant mortality the country over. The association is waging a vigorous campaign to arouse parents and teachers to a child health consciousness, and for a nation of healthier babies. Among its efforts are the distribution of scholarships for doctors, teachers and nurses in health work, and instructions, through teaching and literature, for the mother, and for the safe care of children from birth through the school age.

The twenty-five cities of more than 250,000 population ranked by infant mortality rate for 1922 were as follows:

TAKES FIRST HORSE RIDE

School Teacher in Oregon Never Rode in Buggy.
 It was not uncommon some years ago to hear of a man or woman who had never seen a steam engine or electric cars, but the present days it appears that an anthithesis to the rule appears occasionally.
 At a school district in Catherine Creek district east of Union, Ore., Miss Helen Cantine, twenty years old, a school teacher, never rode in a vehicle drawn by horses until recently, when she made a five-mile trip to attend a churivari, being conveyed the entire distance in a buggy. Miss Cantine, who formerly made her home in Portland, enjoyed the ride immensely. Miss Cantine is now taking horseback riding lessons and expects to be proficient in handling the reins within a short time.

BAN ON RABBIT IN GERMANY

Hungry Thieves Take Bunnies Inoculated With Germs.
 Heidelberg, Germany, is passing through a "poisoned rabbit" scare. Stewed rabbit, formerly a popular dish at the students' boarding houses, and also among the professors of Heidelberg university, for the time is banned everywhere.
 All this results from the act of hungry thieves who broke into the medical laboratories of the university recently and made away with two cages of rabbits which had been inoculated with typhoid and other germs.
 Police have been instructed to shoot at sight any rabbit seen at large.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Anaculapins

Friday night witnessed the formal opening of the new school building at Meadow. A very entertaining program had been prepared by the faculty and a large audience was on hand to enjoy the occasion. The demonstration of approval must have been pleasing to those who labored to make it a success.

The exercises were opened by addresses of members of the board of trustees. We were a little late and therefore missed the first talk as he had either exhausted the subject, himself or both before we arrived. This part of the exercises was a feast of love and a flow of soul interspersed with bouquets. The board however, deserve the thanks of the community for their efforts in trying to provide for the growing needs of the school. While not agreeing with them at the time—and I am quite as far from it yet—I can appreciate their unselfish efforts in carrying out the wishes of the majority. That some had visited the board and confessed that they had made a mistake in voting against the bonds is proof that we do not always see the proper way at the time we act. Neither should it detract from their unselfish work that others who voted with them should buck worse than a paint horse with a glass eye when they come to pay their taxes. After the addresses a musical program was rendered and quite a number of recitals by students and instructors. It was in every way creditable to all who took part.

It was announced that a program would be rendered each month during the school term.

That ancient malady called measles received quite a jolt the past week when it tackled Buford Reed. When last seen Sunday evening he was piled up in bed and the measles were piled up on him about three deep. It is rumored now that he has a wholesome respect for them.

A new filling station is being put in just north of the drug store, and a harness and shoe repair shop. Just watch us grow.

We notice with pleasure that Jack intends to stay in the Democratic party. Wise conclusion for the 3K's are to be found most everywhere and in most everything. While I don't know that any near and dear friends of mine belong, I am quite sure I do not intend to leave the party on that account.

Brownfield, Texas

A reader of Los Angeles wants to know what has become of the real estate men of Brownfield, as he says he never sees anything from them in the Herald ad columns. He wonders if they have become rich off the fat of the land and retired.

S. J. Paul, prominent young farmer of Wellman, and Miss Laura Brown, beautiful and accomplished young lady from Anson, Texas, drove to the Baptist parsonage about 4 o'clock on last Saturday afternoon, where Rev. C. E. Ball spoke the words that made them husband and wife.

On Friday January 25 in the county school basket ball contest here, the Johnson team defeated Brownfield 15 to 13, and Meadow defeated Johnson 2 to 9, thus winning the championship of the county.
