GROWTH OF HOSTILITY TOWARDS RAILROADS IN TEXAS

The following is a series of articles on "the Growth of Hostility Toward Railroads in Texas, are written by Walter Splawn, Railroad Commissioner of Texas.—Editor.

Article XIII.

The greatest blunder the railroads made was opposing the election of James S. Hogg for Governor. Their opposition was not so apparent during the first campaign in 1890. In 1892 after he had secured the creation of a Railroad Commission and had set it to work, the railroads sought to destroy him politically. They supported one of their attorneys as the opposing candidate. Although Hogg received a large majority of the votes cast in the primary, the opposition bolted in the nominating convention. The candidate who had the support of the railroads after bolting his party, secured the support of the Republicans. Then followed until the November election one of the most bitter campaigns ever waged in Texas. It was understood that the defeat of Hogg meant the destruction of the Railroad Commission. Hogg was successful and as a result of this campaign, the railroads were greatly discredited. Through this campaign of seven months, a Governor went up and down the state reviewing the achievements of the administration and arraigning the railroads; and it must be remembered that Hogg was a stump speaker of great power. He summed up his four years work in the Attorney General's office: "With the aid of two assistants, the first year of my official term I instituted a series of actions to compel those creatures to obey the law. Within less than three years after a heated contest, the general offices of the railroads were forced to return to points within the state. Their offices, employees, subordinate and cash were brought back to the proper places designated by law, upon their several lines. The companies were compelled to equip their lines, rebuild depots, and perform their services to the public with decency, dispatch and safety. When they organized into an association with one man in control of their traffic scales for the purpose of maintaining high rates and preventing competition, they were enjoined in court and the illegal institution dissolved. When they permitted their tracts to get rotten and out of repair so as to endanger the lives of their passengers, they were compelled to put them into good condition. When they had cold, filthy dens for depots, they were made to construct decent ones. When they ran cabooses instead of passenger cars, they were made to put on good coaches. When they abandoned parts of the road, they were made to construct and operate them. When they obtained lands from the state that did not belong to them for sidings and switches, the powers of the courts were successfully enforced to declare that they could not hold them. When a competing line sought to control a rival by holding its stock, both were enjoined and the wrong prevented. When frauds were practiced on the public by consolidation of competing lines action was brought, combinations dissolved and charter franchises forfeited."

Automobile production may have increased 50 per cent in 1923, but the ability to buy didn't.

It is common to say that children of the present generation are not disciplined like their parents were. But if they were, their parents never admitted it.

CLAUD McCLUNG, Evangelist

What the members expect as the greatest meeting of their history will begin at the Church of Christ on the 4th Sunday in this month, which is the 25th day, and continue over three Sundays.

The preaching will be done by Evangelist Claud McClung, of Fort Worth, given up to be one of the best preachers and speakers in the church of his affiliation. He speaks the gospel in love, but shuns not to declare it just as he see it, and it is said that should one have the fortune of hearing his first sermon, they are apt to hear all of them. He makes friends fast and then holds them.

Traveling with Evangelist McClung throughout the spring, summer and autumn evangelistic campaigns is a singer and composer of note in this State, Tillet S. Teddlie, of Vernon, Texas. His songs are too well known to all the singers in Brownfield and vicinity to need much comment, but you will most likely find several of his compositions in any late religious song book you pick up. He is also a great worker and is no mean preacher himself.

The following is a brief report of a meeting recently held by the pair at Weatherford, said to have been the best ever held by the church at that place:

The report was made by the local minister, and it follows: "We closed a fine meeting here at Weatherford last Sunday night with 42 additions to the local congregation from all sources, and one of the deacons tell us that at least half were baptisms.

Brothers Claud McClung and Tillet S. Teddlie conducted the meeting. They did their work well, leaving the congregation in fine shape. We hope to do greater things in the future as a result of this meeting."

The meeting here will be held at the church building at it is now well seated and more comfortable than the tabernacle, especially at this time of year.

You will find a cordial welcome at this two weeks of religious campaign for the moral and religious upbuilding of Brownfield.

One of the most enthusiastic little bunches that will be in Brownwood for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention, left Brownfield, Monday, under full sail. There was something like 13 cars loaded with about 60 boosters, headed by the "Turkey Trot Band," and we know that Brownfield and Terry county are going to get their full share of advertising at this great convention, whose pre-convention estimate ran as high as 30,000.

Thousands of pieces of literature were carried along to be distributed to West hungry folks that will attend from many states, and we expect to reap a rich harvest of immigration in the future.

Two large trucks with cook, cooking apparatus, food, cots and bedding left Sunday to make camp and have dinner for the boosters on the way Monday. These trucks will serve the Brownfieldites all the way there and back.

While it was not the primary object of the Brownfield bunch to cut any great swath down there, they are nevertheless prepared for some original stunts with the help of the band, and people are going to set up and notice them, even in that huge throng.

All praise to those who have made this trip possible.

BAPTIST CROP PLANTING A GREAT SUCCESS

On the 8th of this month, the Baptist people met to plant 100 acres of cotton, which they are farming this year, as a church. By 8 o'clock a great stream of planters, mules and men were pouring into the field. The final count of the teams revealed the fact that there were 22. Some two or three teams were turned back in town owing to the fact that there were already enough teams on the ground to do the job. There were a number of men who did not belong to the Baptist church, with their teams to assist in the worthy cause.

The Baptist people are grateful indeed for this outside help. At 4:30 in the afternoon the ground was planted and the men were driving out of the field. It was quite a sight to see eighty-six head of stock coming out of the field in a body.

This writup would not be complete without the mention of the happening about the noon hour. About 12:30 a table consisting of a long wagon, was literally loaded with good things to eat. A most splendid pot of barbecue had been arranged and cooked by J. R. Carver and C. L. Brown, and added to this was a fine collection of food prepared by the Ladies Aid.

The crowd formed a line of battle, and after grace was said by the pastor, a charge was made on the table. So far as the writer is informed the only casualties reported were, K. W. Howell, John Burnett and W. L. Bandy, and it is thought that with careful attention all will finally recover.

To say the least and the most of it, the whole affair went off in a great way.—Reporter.

RURAL TELEPHONE LINES ARE BEING MADE GOOD

Proper maintenance of rural telephone lines—those lines that people in farming communities build for their own use—are being assisted by the larger telephone companies throughout Texas, says the Texas Public Service Bureau.

These lines used to be uncertain and caused much trouble to their owners and users. Proper attention and sometimes a little more cost in the first place made them adequate for their purpose.

A description of a recent meeting at Brownfield held by the Bell Telephone people is indicative of how the rural lines are assisted by the big lines.

The ground floor of the telephone building has been equipped with miniature telephone lines. On these was demonstrated the proper way to string wires, make joints, and connections, and the manner of building and maintaining such lines.

Such meetings are being held all over Texas.

King George of Greece didn't have his hair cut until he got out of the country, for fear of having his throat cut. Reminds us that we put a lot of faith in the barber.

FORD SEDAN BADLY WRECKED FRIDAY NIGHT

Last Friday night, while the light plant was out of commission and the streets were rather dark, Miss Laurine Brownfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Brownfield drove their sedan into one of the concrete turning post near the Brick Garage and turned it half over, which considerably wrecked the car, and broke all the glass.

Besides Miss Laurine was her sister, Lorelle and two little sisters and Miss Jewel Carver. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt, the driver seemingly being hurt worse than any of the rest, receiving quite a number of bad bruises, but we are glad to report her up and going again.

Watch your step, young people for we can spare none of you.

THE SHOWS ARE "POURING IT ON US" THESE DAYS

It has always been said that shows are an index to prosperity, and it seems that they have located a good bunch of prosperity in the Great South Plains and Brownfield country in particular lately.

Week before last Heiner's Comedians were here a whole week with full houses each night in their big tent, and this week a carnival has been going all week with their usual attractions and many catch-penny devices, and the New Orleans Negro Minstrels are to be here tomorrow night.

These show folks have found out where all the money has gone for the past two years and have come out after it and are getting it too.

LIBRARIAN EMPLOYED

Miss Lorelle Brownfield, of the First National Bank, has been employed by the Maids and Matrons Club as librarian through the summer months. Please observe the following library hours: Open each Monday from 4 to 6 P. M. Miss Dora Daugherty will attend the library while Miss Brownfield is on her vacation.

FOURTEEN HOUR LIGHT SERVICE FOR BROWNFIELD

Beginning yesterday, the 15th, the light plant will start operations each forenoon at 10:00 o'clock and run until midnight from this on.

The fact that the present 75-horse power engine is loaded was demonstrated Monday night when the carnival company tied its hundreds of lights on, together with the movie going all the same time. The engine got so hot it had to be stopped and cooled, during which time the mayor ordered the carnival people to cut out about half its lights.

The city council have placed an order for another engine of 100-horse power capacity, but it will not be in for over two months, as the engine people are away behind with orders.

OLD TIMERS NOT ALL GONE

The old timers got infected with proserptitis last winter and indulged in the usual coma of social oblivion, until the last spring sandstorms got to whipping 'em up, which naturally brought thoughts of old times. Also, about this time, it finally dawned on Geo. Tiernan that the local stock law was a success, and his front yard had recently been filled with sand, and Jack and Elwood and himself had removed the picket fence, an ornamental landmark in facier days, to let the sand blow out, but instead on Monday night, May 5th, the same old crowd of old timers, hung their hats on the deer horn and antelope heads, his treasures of the days gone forever, and went around and around in the unforgotten games of 42, about the only past time they have left, but if a smile and a laugh is an index to the heart, it certainly was a happy crowd, whose gaiety was climaxed with cake and punch, and punch and cake, just as Tuesday dawned over the caprock.

To be lost in the surging crowd of new folks on the streets, we wonder "where is at" our friends of yore, but at these well attended gatherings it is a happy relief to see they are not all gone.

The Tiernans came here before the county was born, and he was for ten years sheriff, and a genius in the animal industry, is the only man in biological history to transform a Jersey yearling into a polo horse and sell it.

Sallie never tires of that days work whose low besetting sun, finds the old timers gathering at her home.

It is intended to have these parties every two weeks through the summer and all old timers are just as welcome as me.—Wun-uv-em.

HOW THE STATE CAPITAL WAS BUILT

By an act of the Texas Legislature in 1879, 3,000,000 acres of land in northwest Texas were set aside for the purpose of building a State Capitol; the building was begun in 1886 and completed in 1888. It is typically representative of Texas with its massive granite blocks and pillars, its immense proportions and variety of building material coming chiefly from Texas quarries and Texas forests. The capitol is also the shrine of Texas patriotism, for within its legislative halls hang many historical paintings and portraits typifying the early struggles of Texans for political and economic freedom, while the grounds surrounding the capitol bear monuments of the heroes of the Confederacy and the Alamo.

Good Will

All business has a soul, as well as a body. The body is factory, store or bank, the machinery is goods or fixtures and organization therein. The Soul is the Stamp on the Public Mind.

When that Stamp is impressed by the desire to serve, by faith in the merit of the cause--by courteous, square dealing and a sincere, conscientious purpose to be helpful--the reaction is Good Will.

In the columns of our assets, we are pleased to count the Good Will of our patrons and friends among the most valuable. We cordially solicit and heartily appreciate your business.

STANDARD RULES FOR FEEDING DAIRY CATTLE

By Livestock and Dairy Specialist, Extension Service, A. and M. College

The dairy cow is a high geared machine, and will not run in low profitably. As a general proposition, every dairy animal should have all the feed of some kind, that it will consume each day. How much of the animal's time you can afford to have it spend in gathering this food from scant pastures, depends partly upon the value of the product produced, and partly on the cost of feed from the barn.

Dairy cows should receive roughage in proportion to their live weight. An ideal roughage ration should consist of one pound of hay and three pounds of good silage per day, for each 100 lbs. live weight. Mixed hay is best, but at least a part of it should be some kind of legume, either alfalfa, cowpeas, peanuts or clover. Good green pastures can take the place of part of the silage. Where neither is available, increase the hay to two or three pounds per day per 100 lbs. live weight.

Cows should have grain feed or concentrates in proportion to the amount of milk and butter produced. They should have grain feed to the extent of one pound of grain to each two or three pounds of milk and butter per day, depending on the stage of lactation and richness of milk, giving each cow a minimum of 8 lbs. per day, regardless of production. Feed dry cows four pounds per day in addition to roughage. As a general rule 100 pounds of feed to a cow before she freshens will produce as much milk as a 150 lbs feed after she freshens when in thin condition. Not every cow in good flesh at freshening time, will greatly increase her daily flow, but she will generally produce a long period of time. Cows that will not respond profitably to this feeding formula should go to the butcher as beef. Rock or block salt should be kept in the feed manger, or else fine salt mixed with the feed, in which there should be one lb of salt to each 100 lbs of feed.

As a general rule the wider the variety of feed in the grain mixture, the better the results in the long run. In Texas most of the protein for the ration should be secured from cottonseed meal. Since cottonseed meal is nearly one half protein, however, only one lb of cottonseed meal to 4 to 6 lbs) of other common concentrates, is necessary to furnish sufficient protein to balance the ration. Beyond the amount necessary to balance the ration, a pound of cottonseed meal is worth no more than a pound of any other concentrates. Cottonseed meal is usually is more expensive so that any amount fed beyond this proportion, causes a loss of difference in the price of a pound of cottonseed meal and something else cheaper. A most satisfactory dairy ration, at the present time, from the standpoint of economy, is corn feed meal (one part by weight) rice bran, two parts, wheat bran two parts, cottonseed meal, one part. In case the animals receive no legume hay in the roughage, 50 lbs of ground alfalfa should be added to this ration to keep up the bone and the mineral salts in the blood. A better ration, though in most localities, more expensive, is two parts of corn, two parts ground oats, two parts of wheat bran, and one part cottonseed meal. If cheaper ground barley may be used to substitute part, or all of either the corn, oats or bran.

Keep in mind that a dairy cow's ration should be amply balanced, succulent, bulky and as cheap a mixture as can be furnished and still maintain the balance of necessary nutrients.

Four Million Acres Withdrawn by Presidents.

Washington.—Public lands, believed to contain almost incalculable quantities of oil, aggregating more than 4,000,000 acres in continental United States, and approximately 25,000 square miles, have been withdrawn from entry by successive presidents since 1869.

This was learned from a further examination of the records of the Department of the Interior, particularly those of the geological survey, which made the original surveys of the oil resources of the properties owned by the government and many of the recommendations which brought about the withdrawals.

This does not mean, however, that all the vast area of oil lands have been set aside for a future petroleum supply for the navy. Apart from the Alaska reserve, only a relatively small part of the acreage has been dedicated to naval use.

This acreage in continental United States is composed of naval reserve No. 1, Elkhills, California, 28,000 acres; naval reserve No. 2, Buena Vista, Cal., 29,341 acres; and naval reserve No. 3 (Taspo Dome), Salt Creek, Wyoming, 9,451 acres. These are the reserves where the government leases to the Doherty and Sinclair interests have resulted in the case now before congress.

The far greater areas of public lands withdrawn from entry are held by the government for general purposes. Some of the property may later be turned over to the navy, and some may be restored to entry and private prospecting permitted upon it.

Withdrawn by Taft.
It was in 1869, during the Taft administration, Secretary of Interior Ballinger persuaded the president to withdraw about 3,000,000 acres of oil lands in Wyoming and California. Subsequent withdrawals took place as follows: October, 1909, 124,000 acres in Utah and 25,550 acres in Wyoming; December, 1913, 37,478 acres in Wyoming; January, 1919, 147,887 acres in California; February, 1919, 448,000 acres in California; February, 1919, 8,128 acres in Wyoming; April 1919, 23,726 acres in Wyoming; April 1919, 307,344 acres in Utah; May, 1919, 419,591 acres in New Mexico, and January, 1919, 3,669 acres in Wyoming.

These withdrawals were all designated as temporary. Soon after they were ordered some question arose as to the authority of the president to take such action, and the matter came up in congress, where action was taken confirming the power of the president to provide for the oil reserves.

All other withdrawals were ordered as time went on, all for the purpose of conserving oil resources of the nation, which happened to be located on government lands. The withdrawals all told, amounted to 2,482,750 acres in California; 57,474 acres in Colorado, 314,720 acres in Louisiana, 419,591 acres in New Mexico, 74,887 acres in Oregon, 591,591 acres in Utah and 25,550 acres in Wyoming.

The first suggestion of a government oil reserve policy for the benefit of the navy was in the form of a memorandum from George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey, to Secretary Taft in 1908, referring to the increasing use of fuel oil by the British navy, and the possibility of the general use of such fuel by naval ships. A similar report was made by Dr. Smith in 1909 to Secretary Ballinger, who took the matter under advisement and later laid it before President Taft.

The Taft order of 1909 followed, withdrawing large tracts of oil lands from entry. Three years later President Taft created the first of the naval oil reserves, now known as Reserve No. 1, in southern California. This was in July of that year and set aside 39,500 acres of land for the exclusive use of the navy.

New Naval Reserve.
Two months later, upon the recommendation of the Navy department, President Taft created Naval Reserve No. 2, also in southern California, amounting to 29,341 acres. Both tracts were believed to be rich in oil, the richest perhaps of any of the oil lands which had been previously withdrawn from entry by the general order of President Taft.

It was in April, 1915, that President Wilson, upon recommendation of Secretary Lane, decided to turn over to the navy the Taspo Dome area in Wyoming, creating what is officially known as Naval Reserve No. 3. This was known to be rich in oil, and was part of the Salt Creek oil region where vast quantities of oil had been found.

Three times the Taspo Dome tract had been withdrawn. The first time by President Taft in his general order; the second time by President Taft in his second order under the new law, and a third time by President Wilson, when it was found that the navy would need even greater quantities of fuel oil than had been calculated on earlier.

The last order of a president creating a naval oil reserve was that of President Harding, setting aside 15,000 square miles of oil lands in Alaska, an area larger than the entire state of Maine, for the exclusive use of the navy.

Just how much oil there is in the oil reserve nobody knows. Geologists of the geological survey refuse to make any positive estimates. They have found seepage all along the Arctic coast and in many spots inland. Much of this area is totally unknown to man, except as it appears on the map.

Make Helicopter Record

Paris.—A new helicopter record was established at the Issy Le Moulinieux aerodrome, near Paris, by M. Pescara, who remained in the air eight minutes and thirteen seconds. The previous record by Pescara was made in November last, when he flew for five minutes and forty-four seconds. Pescara is confident that he will be soon able to win the prize for first kilometer circles by a helicopter.

New York.—Mrs. Bessy Steinhardt, 316 Sixty-eighth street, Brooklyn, part owner of the apartment houses at 75 Van Alst avenue and 54 Hunters Point avenue, Long Island City, was sentenced to sixty days in jail without the alternative of paying a fine by Justice Salmon Murphy and Kelly in the Court of Special Sessions in Jamaica. She pleaded guilty a week ago to violating the sanitary code in failing to safeguard the health of 200 tenants in her apartment houses and the severe sentence followed a report by probation officers.

HOW TO CONTROL MOTHS IN HOMES

Pests Will Destroy Anything From Clothes to Brushes.

Washington, D. C.—Complete elimination of clothes moths from the home is difficult. They breed not only in wearing apparel, but in carpets, rugs, and upholstered furniture, a single piece of which may often furnish a steady supply of moths to restock an entire house. They can be reduced, however, in any home or establishment by using the control measures prescribed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Persons owning clothing subject to attack can afford to buy chests or cabinets that are very tight in which to store them. Trunks are usually not moth-proof. Red cedar chests when in good condition are among the tightest containers on the market. Such chests keep out the moths, and the characteristic odor of their wood kills any newly-hatched or young moth larvae that may be confined in them with the clothing. Tight chests or cabinets, the walls of which can be made to absorb as much cedar oil as is found in the wood of containers of equal size, are as valuable as cedar chests.

"Clothes moths are the prime offenders among fabric pests," says E. A. Black, entomologist, in a department bulletin.

They Prefer Darkness.
"The common clothes moth is usually seen flying in darkened corners and just beyond range of the brightest rays of the lamp. They prefer darkness.

"The moths, or millers as they are often called, have imperfectly developed mouth parts and could not feed upon fabrics if they desired. Their purpose in life is merely to lay eggs that develop into the worms or larvae, which alone can cause destruction. Nevertheless, every moth killed helps to reduce infestations by preventing more eggs being laid. The moths lay their eggs in and about clothing and other objects subject to attack. From the eggs are hatched the larvae, or worms. Only the worm or larvae of the clothes moth is capable of destroying fabrics.

"There are two very common species of clothes moth. They are the case-making clothes moth and the webbing clothes moth. The tapestry moth is less often found, though it may become destructive.

"The adult of the case-making clothes moth has a wing expanse of about half an inch. Its head and forewings are grayish yellow or buff, with indistinct dark spots on the middle of the outer portions. The hind wings are white or grayish and silky.

"The case-making clothes moth is so named because the larva, for its protection, makes a portable case out of spun silk and fragments of the fabric upon which it feeds. These cases attain a length of from four-sixteenths to six-sixteenths of an inch. The larva almost never leaves its case. The webbing clothes moth is the most abundant and injurious clothes moth.

Bothered by One Type.
During the last few years, practically all instances of severe clothes-moth damage reported by manufacturing plants throughout the North, including Chicago, Boston and New York, have been associated with this species. For years it has been the prevailing species in certain houses in western Massachusetts and southeastern Connecticut, hence it cannot be said that this webbing clothes moth is typically Southern in distribution, although it is often called the "Southern" clothes moth.

"Clothes moths feed upon wool, fur, hair, feathers, and all fabrics manufactured from them. They also relish dried animal matter such as dead insects, including the dead of their own species, and untreated skins, beef meal, casein, etc. In experimental work clothes moths have thrived best upon a diet of bristles, hair, feathers, fur, or raw wool, and not so well upon ordinary woolen cloth used in the making of wearing apparel. Notwithstanding this, the damage they cause to wearing apparel has given them a well-deserved reputation as pests.

"There may be some satisfaction, however, in knowing that if the death rate among clothes moths feeding upon dyed woolen fabrics was as low as among those feeding upon raw wool, and their growth as rapid as when they feed upon bristles, furs and hair, their capacity for destruction would be increased enormously.

"A single piece of hair-stuffed or feather-stuffed furniture may keep a house well stocked with clothes moths for years."

The editor of the Reveille, published in Lin Creek, Mo., grew tired of the merchants telling him it did not pay to advertise, and therefore added to his printing business a well selected stock of merchandise. His printing outfit was small and there was room enough in the building to accommodate the printing outfit and stock of goods. He commenced to advertise his stock of merchandise in a thorough manner, and at this time is the leading merchant, the leading shoe dealer and the leading dry goods merchant in the town. He has not only proved that it pays to advertise but finds that there is more money in the mercantile business and has quit printing, which has been taxing all his energies for several years without the satisfactory compensation now enjoyed.

We have recently printed a lot of Independent School District Inventories for the Gomez District, and still have the forms up. As this is a difficult form to get up and rather expensive, the trustees of other independent districts can save money by ordering while we have it up as only a few minor changes have to be made to make it fit your district.

The "Pioneers" at the Pastime on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week was great, and a large crowd attended both nights. The Pastime is giving great programs all the time.

We printed invitations and cards this week for the graduation exercises of the Meadow High School, for Miss Fay Timmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Timmons of that place. Miss Fay is the only graduate this year, and if we are not mistaken is Meadow's first graduate in the history of her school. This is a great honor, as Meadow's graduates will be legion before many years.

VERMONT WILL HAVE NEW LAKE IN SPRING

Dam to Form Reservoir to Develop Electricity.

Whitingham, Vt.—Spring will see a new Deerfield valley in southern Vermont. Where once a turbulent little river rushed between the mountains and past dwellings, schoolhouses and tiny cemeteries and through tangled forests, a peaceful lake will mirror the great hills.

Finding its outlet in a tunnel which will carry its water to a powerhouse far below, the lake will furnish the power which, transformed into electricity, will travel over many miles of high-tension wires and operate a large number of New England industrial plants.

Engineers of the New England Power company began work in June, 1922, on this hydro-electric project, one of the greatest in the northeastern section of the country.

It involved the building of an earth dam 200 feet in height and said to be the largest of its kind in the world. It involved also the removal of many buildings, the transfer of several cemeteries to high ground, the relocation of the tracks of the Hoosac Tunnel and Wilmington railroad and the clearing of hundreds of acres of timber and brush.

The reservoir above the great dam is ten miles long and covers an area of 2,200 acres. Its estimated capacity is 38,000,000 gallons of water.

The power to be created will be carried over a transmission line for a distance of 76 miles to Millbury, Mass., the center of the company's system. This line will carry 110,000 volts of electricity.

The spring rains and the melting snow on the mountainsides will swell the little river and the huge amount of water that heretofore has gone to waste will gradually fill the reservoir. The engineers figure the new lake will be fully created by April or May.

The dam itself is 1,200 feet thick at the base, 200 feet in height and 1,250 feet across. It covers 18 acres and contains 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth. The railroad has been diverted to run over the top of the dam.

In the whole construction of this project only one man was killed. A workman slipped while digging a three-foot ditch, fell into the ditch and broke his neck.

Landlord's Bonus for Babies Brings Results

New York.—Twenty babies, including a set of twins and a set of triplets, have been born within the last year in the 40-family apartment house owned by Jordan Swenson, at York and Van Vorst streets, Jersey City, and they have cost Swenson almost $800. He told all his tenants a year ago that every baby born would get a bonus, and since then the stork has been consistently on the job. Every boy born gets a bonus of $50 and every girl $25, and no families without children are permitted to lease flats in the building.

Mr. Swenson, who owns a dry dock not far from the apartment house, bought the building a year ago and the first thing he did was to build a two-story baby carriage garage. If the stork continues to be as busy as he has been he expects to have to build an addition to the garage soon. A baby carriage starter has charge of the garage and the carriages now, with more than fifty of them to attend.

MANY RECEIVING DEGREES AT SIMMONS COLLEGE

Abilene, May 12.—There are 94 candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Simmons College this year, this being the largest graduating class in the history of the college. Sixty-six diplomas will be granted at the completion of the work in June, while forty-eight will receive their degrees at the end of the summer session. Girls have the lead in the graduate list, forty co-eds taking degrees in June, and 26 men receiving the A. B. The summer class is evenly divided between girls and men. Several fine arts diplomas will be granted to Simmons students at this commencement.

Seventeen years ago in 1907, Simmons granted her first A. B. degree, only one being given at that time to Rev. W. C. Taggart, now living at New Hope, N. M. Five years later the graduating class had increased to fourteen; while in 1917, ten years later, fifty students received the A. B. degree at the commencement exercises. The classes of Simmons has steadily grown, but the class of 1924 holds the record thus far in the matter of numbers.

The person who thinks the younger generation is going to the eternal bow wows, forgets some of the pranks of an earlier day.

According to a current report, Ben Franklin's picture is on the new $100 bill, but it can't be confirmed in this vicinity.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL

One of the most unique Epworth League socials of the year was enjoyed Thursday evening, May 8th, when a jolly band of thirty Leaguers met at the American Legion Hall, and spent a very pleasant evening in the fascinating game of Bunco. Mr. Carl Herrod, the wide awake president and committee are indeed worthy of praise for this social occasion.

Ice cream and cake were served to the following: Misses Morelle Treadaway, Fay Broughton, Veda Headstream, Elizabeth Downing, Deora Pounds, Mary Shelton, Evelyn Taylor, Mary Griffith, Lena Maude King, Bennie Houze, Ella Sue Houze, Hattie Cash, Eppie Castleberry, Nina Watson, Messrs. Carl Herrod, Rex Headstream, Riley Spivey, Fred Youret, Goode Hardin, C. B. McBurnett, Richard Castleberry, Howard Swan, Loraine Castleberry, Wade Mangum, Jim Youret, Tray Mangum, Roy Herrod, Tom Herrod, J. P. Watson.

The light plant was out of commission about two days last week, on account of a short in one of the coils in the generator. One fellow from Tahoka and one from Lubbock threw up the job, but finally Mr. Raby, of Lubbock got home from Ft. Worth and came down and fixed it up in an hour or two.

Fewer birth and more marriages are noted in New York. Folks seem to be losing sight of the fact that each child counts so much off when you go to fill out your income tax blank.

J. H. GRIFFIN

Brownfield,

Texas

Joe Bailey, employee of the Herald left Monday with the crowd for the city of Brownwood, where he will kill two birds with one stone by visiting his mother who lives there and help advertise Terry. Arnet Bynum is taking his place during his absence.

J. M. Marshall, of Lubbock, candidate for District Attorney, was in our city Monday, mixing with the voters. Mr. Marshall paid the Herald a short call while here, and we found him to be a man of pleasing appearance and with ideas and ideals in harmony with good government.

Very few things turn out as badly as the chronic pessimist expected in 1923, but that happens every year.

Hollywood may have reformed, but a lot of motion picture actors and actresses who live there haven't.

Mr. Floyd Bennett and Miss Kathryn Hill, popular young people of Brownfield, went to Levelland, recently and got married. Few people here knew they were married for almost a week after. Floyd "Bigguns" is one of the most popular barbers in town.

ATHLETIC STADIUM IN EXTINCT CRATER

Island of Oahu Once Place of Human Sacrifice.

Honolulu.—Punchbowl, the large extinct crater of one of the volcanoes that formed the island of Oahu and which once was used as a hill of sacrifice by the Hawaiian people, will become one of the largest athletic stadiums in the world if the plans of Maj. William Hoopal, athletic officer of the Hawaiian national guard, are consummated.

The stadium would be almost in the center of the city and would have a seating capacity of 95,000 persons, as large as the present population of the city. Prison laborers have started clearing kiawe and other brush from the sides of the crater and inside the bowl. Improvements also have been started to the one road leading to the top of the crater and efforts will be made to obtain municipal co-operation for the construction of another road.

Punchbowl Now Rifle Range.
Punchbowl, which towers 500 feet above sea level, forms a perfect amphitheater, and, in the opinion of Major Hoopal, could be transformed into a modern stadium at a small cost. It is now owned by the government and is used as a rifle range for the national guard of Hawaii. Its peak is the scene of the annual Easter parade service, which is held before a giant cross.

The last human sacrifice believed to have taken place on Punchbowl is shrouded in mystery, but tradition says that King Kamehameha IV, a heavy drinker, struck his only child during a drinking bout. The child received injuries which caused its death. Kamehameha planned an expiation of his crime. A decree was issued ordering all inhabitants of Honolulu to remain inside their houses that night.

Fire Burns on Sacrificial Rock.
What transpired is unknown, but tradition contends that a fire burned that night on a high rock where the sacrificial pit was situated. A heavy smoke fell and hovered around it, according to the stories of persons who disobeyed the king's order and watched the fire from afar. An old Hawaiian, questioned regarding this incident, said that nobody was known to have been missing in Honolulu after this evening, but that any drunken sailor might have disappeared easily in the darkness and that such a man never would be missed. In 1809 a chief who was captured as an enemy of Kamehameha the Great was known to have been burned at the stake on Punchbowl.

The crater rim measures 1,930 feet across from east to west and 1,700 feet from north to south. The slope from the rim to the bottom of the crater is estimated at approximately 25 degrees. The floor of the bowl is about 200 feet below the rim.

U. S. TO SELL RUGS ONCE OWNED BY CZAR

Valued at $47,000 to Be Auctioned

New York.—Persian rugs, valued at $47,000, will be sold at auction by the bureau of seizures of the customs department to cover unpaid duties and salvage charges. One story is that they were used as hangings in the palace of the late Czar Nicholas, although there is considerable mystery concerning where they came from and to whom they were consigned.

One rug considered more valuable than the others is 54 by 79 inches and is said to be a perfect specimen of the weaver's art. Intwoven in the strands of luxuriant color is a remarkable likeness of the czar, seated on his throne, wearing his saber and full regalia as emperor of all the Russias. The belief that the rugs were used as hangings and not as floor coverings is strengthened by this fact, since it is pointed out that no royal Russian would have walked on a likeness of the czar.

The rugs are in the usual Persian colors, mulberry, red and blue, and are so fine they can be crumpled up almost as though they were silk. The rug bearing the woven image of the czar was appraised at $20,000 by the customs officials. The only identifying mark found on any of the rugs is on this one. In the corner under the czar's left boot, are the initials W. A. R. and "Bagdad" together with some Oriental inscription.

There is an interesting story in connection with the manner in which these works of art fell into the hands of the customs officers.

Three years ago they were sent here aboard the shipping board vessel Masick, which sprung a leak on the way and was salvaged. The rugs were consigned to Peter Deppel and were sent by the bank of Deval, Russia.

Shipping board officials after considerable difficulty found Deppel and informed him that he could have his consignment on payment of his share of the salvage charge plus the import tax, which altogether came to about $8,000. The rugs were valued at $44,000 by the shipper.

Deppel refused to pay the charges and shortly afterward disappeared. Efforts to find him were fruitless and the rugs were removed from the custom house to the seizure room in the army base, Brooklyn. That was three years ago. Recently it was decided to sell the rugs at auction to recover at least some of the losses entailed by the shipping board and to collect the import tax.

"CAT WOMAN" DIES WITH HER KITTENS

Little Old Lady of Brooklyn Succumbs to Gas.

Brooklyn.—The little old lady with all the cats at 100 Crystal street, Brooklyn, passed away, but in her passing she managed to give the neighbors a last bit of mystery to match the measure of her queer life. She was found dead in a rocking chair in her kitchen with six dead kittens near her. Six grown cats staggered weakly about crying as they suffered from the gas turned on in several jets by their mistress.

For several years Miss Jennie Lane has been the mystery of the neighborhood. Some said she was a retired school teacher, but no one knew anything definite. She lived alone and devoted herself to the rescue of stray cats. She never spoke to the neighbors and when the police sought information of her relatives no one could tell anything of them.

She made careful preparations for her death, stuffing the windows with cloth and paper, and then she added the touch that marked her strange life. She hung a drapery of black over each front window.

Patrolman Frederick Grote in passing the house noticed the drapery and decided to investigate. He forced the door and came upon the dead woman. He opened the windows and then hurried upstairs, where he found Mr. and Mrs. Vincent and their child, Marie, and William Vincent, a brother, in a stupor from the gas filtering through from the lower floor. They were revived in the open air.

Downstairs the air had revived six of the cats. The others were dead. The six with renewed life set up a cry about the chair in which their mistress rested. The police attempted to drive them away, but they remained, howling. Before Miss Lane's body could be taken to the morgue the agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals were compelled to take four of the cats from the house. Two eluded the searchers, but they reappeared and their cries were heard for hours.

Party Costs Man $5,700; Carried Cash Three Years

Baltimore, Md.—After carrying $5,700 in his pocket for three years William Dimling did some drinking and lost the entire sum, he told Magistrate Rettallata in Eastern police court. The money represented savings of 23 years.

"I met some friends," he said, "and we went to some saloons in South Baltimore and had a few drinks. I had the wallet with my money in it in my hip pocket. The pocket was shut with a safety pin. I took it out only once. I had it when I left and got on a street car. I can't remember any one following me, but when I got home my money was gone. I've only $19 left."

Magistrate Rettallata dismissed the charge of disorderly conduct.

"If you've lost all that money," he said, "your party has cost you enough already."

Calls Lowbrows Just as Smart as the Highbrows

Chicago.—Lowbrows are just as smart as highbrows. This is straight from Prof. H. R. Mayberry, of the psychology department of the University of Chicago, who announced conclusions reached after years of study during which he examined and measured 3,000 heads.

"The real index to intelligence from head measurements is the distance from the ear to the top of the head," Professor Mayberry said. "The greater the distance from the ears to the peak of the dome, the greater the intelligence of the person. Nothing was found to support the theory that you can judge intelligence by the height or width of the forehead."

Franklin Kin Gets Home

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mrs. Caroline Barnes, ninety-one years old, a great-granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, will be removed from the Los Angeles county farm, where she is a public charge, and given a comfortable home in which to spend her remaining days, according to the Los Angeles Advertising club, which will co-operate with other organizations in assisting her.

Jump of $600,000,000 in Farmers' Receipts

Chicago.—Net cash receipts of the American farmers this year will be over $600,000,000 above last year, says the research department of the American Farm Bureau federation. Nearly half is to be credited to the cotton crop.

Interest and taxes will probably be slightly less than last year.

"What the man on the farm gains from now on he can hold for himself," says the report.

ABOUT UNCLE SAM'S BIG PRINTING OFFICE

With fifteen acres of floor space, and with more than 4,000 highly skilled workers, the Government Printing Office at Washington, D.C., is the largest plant of its class in the world. It is also one of the best equipped print shops in the world.

Improvements are frequently being made in the many different departments, and new machinery is continually being installed to keep the establishment up-to-date.

The Government Printing Office is an entirely separate building from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where currency, stamps, government bonds, etc., are made.

At the present time there are 100 cylinder presses operating in this great plant on a wide variety of printed matter, including color work. There are 25 web presses and a number of job presses.

Every working day an average of about 7,000,000 impressions are made on these presses, some of the big orders which are printed every day being 580,000 money order blanks and 4,000,000 postal cards. Each day something like 5,800 jobs are in progress throughout the various departments, while an average of 250 new orders are received every day.

The composing rooms are well equipped with tons of foundry type, 98 linotypes, 100 monotype keyboards, 125 monotype casters, and all the usual cases, type cabinets, proof presses, etc., essential for the work of a modern composing department. More than 6,500,000 ems of type are set up every day.

The bindery is one of the largest departments, and is equipped with modern folding machines, stitchers, punching machines, paper cutters, etc. In a year's something like 75,000 square feet of leather and imitation leather are used.

Every day the payroll of this printing office is $20,000. The total operating expense of the entire plant per average day is $30,000.

The value of the average daily production is about $31,000. During the course of a year more than 40,000,000 pounds of paper are used.

Statisticians tell us that there are fourteen millions automobiles in the United States, but who's going to count them to check up the statisticians.

A MODERN PSALM

My wife is my shepherd; I shall not want; She maketh me to dry dishes, and chop the wood;

She annoys my head with anything she could; She leadeth me with her own name sake;

Yea, though I have business that detaineth me at noon, I fear all evil because of the rolling pin soon.

Her hominy masher, and frying pan comfort her; She prepares a table of crackers and soup;

My stomach is empty. Surely her goodness and mercy shall conquer my life. But still I have to dwell with my wife.—Mrs. H. R. Winston.

MY MOTHER'S KNEE

By Whitney Montgomery. I've had some splendid counsel From poet and from sage, I've found some things worth knowing.

Upon the printed page; But neither song nor sermon, Nor book has taught to me Truths half as sound as those I found Beside my mother's knee.

I think that she was wiser Than all the men of lore, I've found that all her teachings, The soundest wisdom bore; For when her slightest warning, I've treated with disdain I've suffered for my folly.

With sorrow and with pain, And now my son I warn you, Wherever your feet may fare, Life's road is steep and rugged, And set with many snares; But you can make the journey As safe as safe can be, If you'll but mind the truths you find Beside your mother's knee.

Many people have already called to inspect the new Herald building and plant, and all congratulate us on our nice place to work and issue the Herald. As soon as we get a little better straightened out, we are going to give our customers both quick and good quality of service.

Trap shooting is to be revived, due to the decrease in the price of shells, but prices never stopped crap shooting.

WATER SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN OPENED

American Red Cross is Working to Reduce Number of Drownings in United States.

A campaign about to be started in this state is part of a nation-wide effort made by the American Red Cross to prevent drownings. This campaign is conducted under the slogan, "Every American a swimmer and every swimmer a life saver." Locally and nationally the Red Cross is organizing this life-saving campaign. It has expert swimmers and athletes traveling all over the United States organizing groups of swimmers and life savers so that wherever there is a body of water, whether merely an "old swimming hole" or a river, lake or ocean, there always will be a means to make this body of water safe for the public. A complete course in swimming instruction and life saving is given by the class leaders and certificates are presented to those completing the course in any of the classes.

This is one of the twelve "services" offered to the public in the peace time program of the Red Cross and is part of the Life Saving and First Aid Department activity. The First Aid Service, like the Life-Saving Service is primarily to reduce the loss of life from accident. It is designed to educate every citizen so that he or she may be better able to render immediate and intelligent assistance to the injured in case of accident of any kind until the arrival of professional help.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and other similar groups are active in co-operation with the Red Cross in this effort. Public service organizations such as the telephone companies, railroad companies, street railway organizations, gas light and power companies, also, are co-operating with the Red Cross in organizing classes in First Aid work, under the instruction of Red Cross leaders. Miners also are in this group. In the Southwestern Division, which comprises the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, there have been for several years First Aid tournaments conducted by the mining communities, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, other telephone companies, and a number of electric railway and power companies. These have added much interest to the instruction and have broadened the scope of the work.

Police Guard Benefactor From Crowds of "Needy"

Livingston, N. J.—Police are on guard to protect the home of Christian Mueller, wealthy retired noodle manufacturer, against crowds of "needy" men who have presented themselves constantly since Mr. Mueller gave a helping hand to a stranger a few weeks ago.

Mr. Mueller has made substantial gifts of money to those seeking financial assistance. Some of the recipients promised to repay when they secured employment, but Mr. Mueller said the gifts would be discontinued until his experiment had shown the promised results.

Mute's Prize Hen Lays Eggs of Phenomenal Size

Kansas City, Kan.—W. H. Cunningham, poultry producer, near Rosedale, is displaying a carton of eggs averaging 8 1/2 by 7 inches long and middle circumference. Cunningham is deaf and dumb. He called attention in a written conversation to dimensions of eggs laid by Betty, prize buff Orpington hen, belonging to members of a Kansas City, Kan., fire station.

Betty won second prize at the Heart of America poultry show last year.

Films Aid Farmers

Koenigsberg—Young pigs, handled scientifically, can be made to take on weight at the rate of two pounds a day, according to government experts. A film showing how this is done, as well as illustrating the best methods of feeding stock and poultry, has been shown this winter to the farmers of east Prussia.

MEADOW BRIEFS
By Asclepius

After a two week's stay in Erath and Eastland counties, we are happy to be back to the old stand once more. We were agreeably surprised to find the country through which we journeyed to be so well up with farm work and planting going on in regions that had been abandoned during the oil boom of 1918-19. Wheat and oats look fine and unless some disaster overtake them will make good yields.

The last cotton crop with its good prices has put new spirit in the farmers and with ordinary seasons an abundant harvest will be reaped.

The town of Meadow has likewise made some changes during our short absence. We had acquired a new Justice of Peace and a new Constable, and they are erecting a concrete silo on the railroad front to keep offenders against the peace and dignity of the State. It was refreshing to find parties who have in the past helped to pay the fine of an individual for whipping a Justice of Peace, foremost in having this new bastille erected where it will meet the eyes of all on arrival, thus notifying them that we have a place to keep those who may wilfully violate our laws. This is not a criticism but a commendation.

We also found a house ready for the new paper to be issued soon and its editor here ready to commence work; that is, he looks able to do a reasonable amount of manual labor, and we look for a sound mind and a vigorous body. We wish for him and his new enterprise the success it merits and sincerely hope the citizens of Meadow will give him the patronage a home enterprise deserves.

The County Health Officer came up a few mornings since and decided that we had small pox among us and proceeded to tie yellow ribbons on the door posts and fences of a number of our people, and the school board decided to require all children to be vaccinated, who expected to continue attending school. As a result our school is temporarily suspended while vaccination is in progress. Some difficulty is being experienced in securing the necessary amount of vaccine to complete the work so we can't say just when the school will reopen.

Mrs. Cleo Lindsey died at the farmhouse eight miles east of Meadow Saturday night, after an illness of seven days. Her infant of five days preceded her to the grave. She leaves a husband, both parents and three sisters, besides a host of relatives and friends to mourn her demise. She was buried in the Meadow cemetery, Sunday at 12:00 o'clock. The funeral was largely attended.

The infant of H. H. Bolling, living northwest of town was buried here Sunday afternoon. The mother was suffering from small pox.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Harris have a new girl at their home, and this goes a long way in reconciling him to the yellow rag tied on his front gate.

Prof. Zorns is back from Terrell, Texas, where he had gone to be with his father in his last moments. His father passed away Saturday, May 3.

Mrs. Reba Harrington, wife of our druggist, and her son Gaile, are on a visit to her sister at Fort Worth.

CHALLIS BUDGET
By Cotton Planter.

The weather has warmed up and there is a fine season for cotton planting.

Most everyone seems to be in a hurry to get through first.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowers are the proud parents of a new son in their home.

Several of the young people from Challis went over to Pleasant Valley Friday night to a box supper. They report a nice time. They say that Pleasant Valley is a very Pleasant Place to go.

Misses Marie, Fay and Oleta Webber and Lottie Pearl McMullen, visited Violet O'Neal Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Houze entertained the school children Monday night.

Alvis McGee and Ella Sue and Bennie Houze attended church and Sunday School in Brownfield Sunday.

The last report from Meadow is that they have several cases of small pox.

Who's going to be the next president of the United States is not worrying the people half as much as where to find a good parking space.

It isn't taxes that's hurting the country. It's interest.
