WORD SILENT AS SENTENCE WAS IMPOSED

Will Word, Terry county gunman, who was found guilty by a jury last week of murder in connection with the killing of Dr. S. H. Windham, prominent Terry and Lynn county ranchman-doctor, was sentenced to serve the remainder of his life in the state penitentiary by Judge Clark M. Mullican of the 72nd Judicial Court, Monday morning.

Word showed much interest in the call that was made for him in his cell in the Lubbock county jail Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff U. L. George, who accompanied him to the court room. He showed some surprise at being taken from the county jail but said he didn't care to leave the place for some time yet, and when he went before the judge he showed no willingness to answer the question that was asked him regarding his trial and conviction, but stood silently gazing at the paper from which the sentence was read.

Word is apparently as happy as a child, and is looking forward to his visit to the state penitentiary with anticipations of enjoying the work he will do there, having been told by other prisoners in the jail he will be put to work on one of the prison farms.

He was remanded to jail immediately after the judge read the sentence to him.—Lubbock Avalanche.

SOUTH PLAINS FAIR PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS

At midnight Saturday night the curtain was drawn upon the closing episode of one of the most spectacular four day's expositions ever staged in Lubbock, when the South Plains Fair, which had been attended by more than 15,000 people during the day, was brought to a close.

The Fair opened Wednesday with a record first day attendance, when nearly 10,000 people attended, and for each of the four days their interest in the fair was unabated despite the dust storm that threatened to cut the attendance materially, but which, records of gate keepers show, must have had little or no effect upon the crowd.

The South Plains Fair engaged the energies and entire attention of several hundred prominent local people, as well as exhibitors who were here with livestock, poultry, field crops, and in fact products of every industry of this great section, eagerly doing their bit toward lending prestige and bigness to the well established and growing institution.

The exhibitors remained faithfully through to the last, many of them having remained on the grounds until the last of the long list of spectators filed through the various exhibit halls late last night.—Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

DUCKS AND GESE DESTROYING CROPS IN PANHANDLE

To the West Texas Press:

Upon complaint of innumerable farmers and business men in the Panhandle that wild geese and ducks were destroying the crops of that section and that something should be done to alleviate the situation, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce presented the facts to Governor Neff, with the request that he in turn take the matter up with W. W. Boyd, game commissioner of Texas, and if possible relieve those counties most affected by the pest, from the operation of the game law. In reply there to Game Commissioner Boyd in a communication today had the following to say:

"Replying to your favor of the 13th instant, addressed to Governor Neff, will say that Section 24 of the Game Laws provide that where any wild birds, fowls, or wild animals are destroying crops, the Commissioner is authorized to permit them to be killed, without consideration of open season or bag limits, but the commissioner must be furnished a statement of facts, sworn to by party seeking such permit, with the endorsement of the County Judge.

However, in the case of migratory birds or fowls, such as wild geese or ducks, it would be necessary to obtain a permit from the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

If you wish to get in touch with this department should address letters to E. W. Nelson, Chief, Bureau of Biological Survey, Washington, D. C."

SANDERS PREACHES FAREWELL SERMON HERE SUNDAY

Elder Liff Saunders, of Lubbock, who has been doing work in the capacity of minister for the local church of Christ for the past eighteen or twenty months, preached his farewell sermon here Sunday night.

Bro. Sanders has done a good work with the church here, sowing the seed which was reaped latter by the evangelist in the spring revival. His advice to the church in righteous living and peace among themselves has also been a great blessing.

Bro. Sanders will likely go back to the Lockney church where he labored three years a few years ago. The love and prayers of the church here goes with him.

BAPTIST PASTOR IS LEAVING LAMESA

Last Sunday morning Rev. M. O. Grant tendered his resignation as the pastor of the Baptist church at this place. He has served this church for something like three years. Where he will go we have not been informed.—Lamesa Reporter.

ATTORNEY GENERAL APPROVES WATER BONDS

Word was received this week from Austin by Mayor Joe J. McGowan that our $50,000 water bond issue had been approved by the Attorney General and that the bonds were now in the hands of the lithographers.

The bonds were recently sold at par value to a Houston concern. An engineer representing the firm of Ward Montgomery, of Wichita Falls, will be here next week to start the work of platting the town for the water mains and standpipes, and the other necessary work and duties he finds as city engineer.

The big 100 horse power Fairbanks-Morse engine is already on the road we understand, and will be set up in the next week or two, which will greatly augment the light system and make it possible for scores of new people to tie on who are wanting light and power, as the other engine is already loaded.

T. I. BROWN BATTERS DOWN A TURNING POST

T. I. Brown, local cotton buyer, is a bull on the market. He likes to see the fleecy staple climb, and wants his farmer friends to have every dollar they can get for their cotton—but he is about through bucking concrete turning posts with his car. He says it really hard on the nerves.

Anyway, he beheaded the one on the junction of sixth and Hardin one day recently, and apparently is no worse for the collision.

He informed us that it was either drive into the post or let one of our reckless driving young men ram his car, and he decided the former course would be taking less chances on his life. Reckless drivers should be taught a lesson, for they not only endanger their own lives, but the lives of other people as well.

WILD TURKEY TURNED LOOSE IN PALO DURO

Six wild turkeys, the first of a number expected from the state fish and game department, were received by the Isaack Walton club here yesterday, and last night were turned loose in their new home in Palo Duro canyon at the Harding ranch.

The turkeys were captured in the Davis Mountains near Kerrville. Altogether 73 of the birds will be sent to the Isaack Walton League here, and they will be released in various canyons and waterways of the Panhandle.

The league, which is working with the state in an effort to restock the Panhandle country with wild life, is asking the co-operation of the people of the Panhandle in carrying out this work.

Only by such co-operation can it be done successfully, they say. They ask that no one kill or injure any of the turkeys.—Amarillo Daily News.

HALF INCH RAIN FELL HERE MONDAY A. M.

While quite cloudy when the citizens of Brownfield went to bed Sunday night, they were nevertheless surprised to find rain falling when they arose Monday. This was kept up until about noon Monday and the local government gauge registered a half inch. From one to two inches is said to have fallen in the western part of the county.

The weather still looks unsettled, with an occasional mist falling on this (Tuesday afternoon) and it is very likely that more rain will follow. Cotton picking has been greatly retarded on account of the cloudy and damp weather, and farmers are hoping for sunshine soon. The rains will help fall pastures to some extent it is believed.

PIONEER EDITOR AND MINISTER HERE LAST WEEK

Among the many strangers who are constantly calling on the Herald all most every day now, we appreciated a call one day last week from Rev. R. H. H. Burnett, editor of the Pecos Valley Press, published at Hope, N. M. Rev. Burnett stated that his son was taking the leading end in the paper until recently, when they sold out.

Rev. Burnett was one of the early Methodist ministers of Texas, and assisted the late Abe Mulkey in getting started in the evangelistic work, and was associated with him in some of Abe's most successful revivals.

Rev. Burnett has three cars of mules and several cars of steers and stock cattle he wants to sell.

He also informed us that he was thinking of moving back to this part of Texas.

MARRIAGES

Mr. J. L. McAteer and Miss Sallie Taylor, prominent young people of the Laha community, the first switch south of Brownfield, drove in to the residence of Rev. C. E. Ball, Sunday about 12:30 P. M., and he spoke the words that made them husband and wife. We understand they will continue to make their home in that part of Terry county.

Mr. Simmons, of Plainview, and Miss Mattie Lee, popular clerk at Lewis Brothers & Co., were married last Saturday at Lubbock. We did not learn where the young couple will make their home. Mrs. Simmons is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lee, of near Gomez. Congratulations.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in the sickness and death of our sister. Also for the beautiful flowers. May God's richest blessings rest upon each of you.
Mrs. Ed Wirtz and family.

FOUR YEAR OLD BOY KILLED BY TRUCK TUESDAY

One of the saddest accidents in the history of Terry county occurred on the McGee farm, a few miles east of town Tuesday morning when a truck ran over the little four year son of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Wilson, crushing out his brains. Death was instantaneous.

It seems that the mother and children had just driven up in the car and the little son always liked to ride with his father on the truck, when the little fellow, unknown to his father jumped out of the car and attempted to get on the truck, which was loaded, presumably with cotton, when he fell under the truck with the result stated above.

The body will be carried to their old home in Silverton, where interment will be made.

One consolation worth all earthly possessions can be offered the grief-stricken parents, and it came from the Savior. He said, speaking of little children: "For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

NEW MISSIONARY LOCATES IN BROWNFIELD

At the recent Brownfield Baptist Association at the Central church in Lynn county, Rev. W. F. Markham of Spur was elected missionary of the Association, and has definitely decided to accept the work. While here last week, he in company with Rev. C. E. Ball, local pastor of the Baptist church, paid the Herald a call, and he stated that he would make Brownfield headquarters for his work, and would occupy Mrs. Woolley's residence.

We heartily welcome this splendid family to Brownfield, and hope they may have no cause to regret their coming among us.

The many friends of Rev. J. F. Curry of Tahoka, former missionary, will regret to learn that in giving up this work he is moving so far away. We understand he will do work at Breckenridge, Texas.

JUICE TURNED ON O'DONNELL HIGH LINE

The juice was turned on the power line by the West Texas Electric Co. at Lamesa, Wednesday afternoon, but through some defect in the switch board connections, the service was not continuous until Thursday night when all the business houses and residences connected up enjoyed the first honest-to-goodness electric lights the town ever had.

The fixtures for the street lights have not been installed, there being a delay in the delivery of material necessary for the installation of the lights.—O'Donnell Index.

OBITUARY

Sallie H. Gregory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Gregory, passed to the great beyond Oct 2, 1924. She was born April 7, 1871, near Okolona, in the state of Mississippi, where she lived until 13 years ago, when she came to Texas with her sisters.

She united with the Baptist church at Okolona, Miss., at the age of fifteen, and has lived a true christian life, always ready to help others in any way she could. She was stricken with paralysis when she was 18, but she never lost faith in God. On Saturday morning she called her sisters and asked her to sing "Pass Me Not O Gentle Savior," and she joined in the singing. She was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery, with Rev. C. E. Ball saying a few comforting words to the bereaved.

She leaves to mourn her three sisters, and one brother, A. J. Gregory, Okolona, Miss., Mrs. Edna Elliott, Houston, Miss., Mrs. Rosa Hobson, Waxahachie, Texas, and Mrs. Ed Wirtz, of Brownfield, Texas, the last with who she was making her home.—Contributed.

TERRY WINS 7TH PRIZE AT SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

Dawson county won first place among the agricultural exhibitors at the South Plains Fair at Lubbock and the other prize winners in the counties in the prize class stood as follows:

Randal, 2nd; Crosby, 3rd; Potter, 4th; Deaf Smith, 5th; Lynn, 6th; Terry 7th and Bailey 8th.

From what we could gather from our exhibitors they were surprised to be in the winning class at all, for to say the least of them they were given poor support. They were short of funds for decorations, and were given a big set back on points there; also they had to get green sudan and lost 25 points there and another 25 points on beans as weavils were found in them.

The exhibits have been sent to the State Fair at Dallas, and the promoters have been given better support, as a good decorator has been secured to put the finishing touches on the exhibits; and we expect to attract better attention there if we do not get in the prize winning class.

BIG CATTLE SALE BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANK

A rumor was current on the streets, Tuesday, that the Federal Reserve bank had sold all the cattle held by it in the country between and including the country around Carlsbad and Roswell, and one the plains. The buyer is said to be a company headed by Higginbotham, a wealthy merchant.

It is understood that these cattle are those taken under mortgage by the Federal Reserve bank, and are sold to prevent the possibility of feeding them the coming winter. Just how many head are included in the sale and at what price was not given out.—Carlsbad (N.M.) Argus.

FACULTY ENTERTAINED

Last Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Downing opened the doors of their home to the faculty and a number of their friends.

About 25 young people enjoyed the progressive games. Punch was served and victrola and piano music was enjoyed throughout the games. Refreshments of hot chocolate and cake were served at the close of the evening. Minature black cats were used as plate favors, suggestive of Halloween. All expressed themselves as having a delightful evening.—Reporter.

CARLSBAD CAVERNS BELIEVED KNOWN AN EARLY AMERICANS

Washington, D. C.—That the huge Carlsbad caverns of New Mexico, recently discovered, were known to the early inhabitants of America is proved by a skull and other human bones, fragments of matting, and wooden implements found by Dr. W. T. Lee, leader of the National Geographic Society expedition which is exploring the cave. The material has just been examined by experts. They find that the skulls differ from that of the Pueblo Indian and resemble the skull of the cliff dwellers. The bones were identified as those of a man and a woman.

The matting from the caves consists of well woven strings and has the appearance of being of Indian manufacture. The specialists who examined the fragments point out that the occurrence of such material in the caverns does not prove that they were inhabited, since it was customary, even with some nomadic people, to lay away the dead in caves. Such natural shelters also were used by early men as temporary camping places.

The National Geographic Society, through the expedition led by Dr. Lee, is mapping and photographing the caverns and seeking for entrances that will make them accessible to visitors. President Coolidge several months ago set aside the region containing the cave as the Carlsbad Caverns National Monument.

The list of prizes for the agricultural department of the fair will not be published until next issue of the Herald. The delay being caused by the fact that exhibits had to be prepared and placed on exhibit at Lubbock and Dallas, and this has taken up the entire spare time of the secretary. Look for the list next week.

MR DAVIS CARRIES THE FIGHT INTO OHIO

With each successive utterance, John W. Davis strengthens and clarifies his position on the issues of the campaign and adds to the discomfiture of his republican opponents. His is, it is true, following out the line laid down by his opening speech at Clarksburg, but in so doing he is rapidly disarming criticism of that initial effort. Plainly it was not thru any vagueness of his own mind or any desire for evasion that Mr. Davis on that occasion failed to cover the ground as completely as some of his critics thought he ought to have done.

The democratic candidate displays to a most effective degree the characteristic of the thinker, the orator and the political strategist. He has the faculty of anticipating opposition tactics and making the position untenable almost before it is occupied. Mr. Davis' speech before the democratic state convention at Columbus, Ohio, recently, was primarily an answer to President Coolidge's speech of acceptance. With an absence of excess words and a straightforwardness that would have done credit to Mr. Dawes himself, he laid bare the weakness of Mr. Coolidge's case for himself and the republican party. Taking up the president's points in the sequence of their delivery, he reduced to absurdity the administration's claim to "technical skill and broad statesmanship" in its conduct of foreign affairs. But Mr. Davis' talent as a strategist are perhaps best displayed in his treatment of the president's relationship to the investigations and scandals. By refusing to follow the republicans' lead in setting the president apart from the scandals, he strikes at the center of their defense. Mr. Coolidge's own claim to credit for initiating the investigations appear as nothing less than a piece of affrontery when Mr. Davis points to the records, which shows unmistakably—a thing which well informed persons know—that the investigations originated and were carried on in congress without the executive lifting a hand to further until they awoke a public clamor for punishment of the guilty. In contrast to this passive attitude of passive honesty, Mr. Davis cites President Roosevelt's fearless acknowledgement of the chief magistrate's duty to detect and punish official wrongdoing. The republican campaign campaign managers who are attempting to make an issue of Mr. Coolidge's honesty may count themselves fortunate if they do not soon find themselves on the defensive, called upon to prove that their candidate did not actually use his power to hinder and obstruct the work of the investigating committees. Early in Mr. Coolidge's administration the boast was made upon his be-

A good-for-nothing, shiftless old fellow by the name of Joe Minniek was in debt to grandfather, and in order to get what was coming to him and also to help Joe out grandfather engaged him to cut some wood in the timber section about a mile from the home place. Old Joe lived only a mile farther on from grandfather's, but, as it was customary for a day laborer to have his meals included in his wages, he walked over to grandfather's for breakfast.

The family had already finished the morning meal and my mother was clearing the dishes away when the old man came in. Mother promptly prepared the extra meal, and, since it was a mile to the timber she put up a substantial noonday lunch.

After Joe had finished his breakfast he said to mother, "Susan, if you will put the dinner on the table, I will eat it now, for I don't like cold victuals."

Mother did so, and when he had eaten he turned to her and said: "Now, Susan, if you will get my supper for me, I will eat it here and now, and then I won't have to walk all this way back before going home."

Mother immediately cooked old Joe's supper and spread it before him. He ate with avidity, and after this third meal he turned to grandfather and said: "Isaac, I never work after eating my supper. Good evening." And away the shiftless old fellow went! Nor did grandfather ever collect the debt.

Little Known About Atom

No one has ever seen an atom although scientific records of today are filled with research information, all of which has been gleaned from studying the performances of groups of atoms. No microscope has ever been invented powerful enough to make an atom or even a large molecule, which is a group of associated atoms, visible, and there is little hope in this direction because the modern microscope, according to those who should know, is about as near perfect as it may be expected to become.

WHAT IS A CONSTITUTION FOR, ANYWAY?

The peak of radicalism—or one of the highest peaks—is to be found in the following plank of the Progressive platform:

"We favor submitting to the people a constitutional amendment providing that Congress may, by enacting a statute, make it effective over a judicial vote."

In other words, Congress may, by mere statutory enactment, make an unconstitutional statute constitutional. This is deliberate subversion of the constitution to the whim of Congress—nothing else.

It is a definite scheme to encourage Congress to act in defiance of the constitution; and, if there is an impartial judicial decision that the constitution has been violated, to set aside the authority of the courts and of the constitution itself, by mere repetition of the Congressional fiat.

Is the constitution worth having, or preserving or obeying? The so-called progressive platform thinks not. The American people have heretofore thought otherwise for a century and a half we have had a constitution and constitutional freedom.—Ex.

GIVE THE BOYS A CHANCE

Interest in the "World Series" is not confined to adults. Many a school boy's knitted brow is only a ruse to conceal his thoughts. Instead of Euclid's propositions, his meditations may be on his baseball heroes and their chances for victory. And why not? Plays, games, and athletics are recognized part of the school's physical education program. These activities offer, without doubt, one of the best opportunities for the development of good conduct and healthful habits. Are their possibilities realized?

The teacher-coach should, by example and attitude, inculcate the ideals of fair play. Pupils should learn to despise everything tricky or mean, to abide by the rules and the spirit of the game, to strive to win by their own superior athletic prowess, and to recognize it appropriately in others. They should learn to be sportsmanlike. This implies, when winners, the lack of undue boasting and, when losers, the first in congratulating their successful opponents.

Well planned athletics contribute immeasurably to physical fitness, happiness, honesty, cooperation, consideration for others, sense of fair play, and character. Each and all of these are worthy goals. Should this highly desirable type of education be confined to the few already physically fit?

Undue concentration on "the team" may well be supplanted by interesting the pupils in the organization and development of a number of play groups and teams within the school. Inter-class games and contests between the school's teams are highly desirable and to be preferred to inter-school contests if both cannot be provided. Well directed participation by the many is essential to the greater good to the greater number. —Exchange.

HAS EXPLANATION OF MYTHS OF LONGEVITY

Pennsylvania Scholar Sheds
Light on Subject.

A Babylonian account of the life of Noah, giving his age at 64,800 years, making the 950 years of Methuselah pale into insignificance, forms the basis of a theory of Dr. Howard Chiera, professor of Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania, designed to account for the extreme longevity of these characters in early history.

In a paper submitted to the Crozer Theological seminary, Doctor Chiera tells of the recent discovery of a four-sided prism in the Sumerian language, giving a list of the kings who ruled in Babylonia from the creation to the time of Hammurabi. The prism gives the names of eight kings who ruled in the 241,200 years (according to the Babylonians), preceding the flood. The prism is now at Oxford university, but the comparison it makes with the lives of the Old Testament patriarchs Doctor Chiera believes "will help us toward filling many gaps in the history of ancient Babylonia."

The eight kings who ruled within a period of 241,200 years is paralleled by another list, discovered, not long ago, according to Doctor Chiera, of ten kings whose rule covered 432,000 years.

"Did the Babylonians really believe that their ancient heroes have lived for such incredibly long periods of time?" Doctor Chiera asked. "They certainly did not."

"But they knew that the world was much older than the date corresponding to 4000 B. C., which was the Hebrew figure. They had historical records going farther back than that date and they pushed the date of the creation as far back as they could."

"But they did not have sufficient historical and traditional records to fill up a gap in their history which would extend into hundreds of thousands of years. To avoid confessing their ignorance of history they had either to invent names for their supposed patriarchs or stretch the lives of the personages they knew, to make them cover the whole period."

"They resorted to the latter alternative as the one which did the least violence to facts. Hence the exceptional longevity of the Babylonian heroes."

"The Hebrews, of course, were confronted by a similar problem. However, they were comparatively late arrivals on the scene. The history of their patriarchs begins with Hammurabi; when Babylonian history was well past the legendary stage. Moreover, the Hebrews did not live among the ruins of the past which would remind them of the great age of human civilization. For their scanty traditions a date of 4000 B. C. for the creation of man was more than sufficient."

"It was therefore necessary for them to multiply the average length of human life; and a multiplication of ten was more than sufficient as witness the 950 years of Methuselah."

"In doing so the Hebrews have probably followed the example of the Babylonians whose traditions they certainly must have known. Otherwise, we might have had a date for the creation of man much nearer to us than 4000 B. C."

Appeals to Boyhood

It's great to be a boy--no matter where you live, but the boys who live in Hamilton, Ohio, know one fine thing about their town that not every fellow can boast of. If you live in Hamilton, you've a chance to get a good baseball, or several of them absolutely free every spring. And what could be finer than that? Bright and early on a nice spring morning each year a certain store in that town gives away 1,000 baseballs. The balls are carried to the roof and the crowd gathers in the street below. Then, says a writer in Good Hardware, the balls are tossed down, one at a time, to whoever's lucky enough to get them.

And it's rumored that never yet has one of the balls tossed into the crowd of fellows below been lost!

Work on Omnibus Top

John Payne's biographer says that all Payne's translation of "The Arabian Nights" was done on the tops of omnibuses, says the Detroit News. "Those were the days of horse omnibuses, and passengers by them anywhere in London must often have looked on with perplexity at the foreign-looking nearsighted man--oblivious of the movements and the roar around him--raising now an Arabic manuscript, now a sheet of flimsy foolscap to his eyes. He boarded the omnibus without troubling where it was going and wherever it chose to carry him and got out only when it refused to carry him any further."

The Lamb County Leader is building a new fire proof building for their plant and adding the latest model typesetting machine and up-to-date press. The South Plains country do grow, alright, but it can never hump along as fast as their newspapers, seemingly.

The initial issue of the Seagraves Signal under the superb management of Bob Haynes, came to our desk this week with about ten five-column pages, brim full of reading matter and well patronized by the business men of that hustling little city. We are glad to exchange, Bob, and we know you are going to build up a great journal at Seagraves, and we believe you have the proper backing.

The American Bankers Association met in Chicago last week, and they seemingly were the most enthusiastic bunch of these usually conservative fellows that have congregated together in a decade. The keynote of their private talk as well as addresses was "prosperity for America." One of them even went so far as to tell a newspaper man he could get all the money he wanted—provided he had the security.

If we were allowed a suggestion to our city council, it would be to let the streets alone rather than do the work as has been done recently. That is, drag all the loose dirt and sand on them and place it in the middle of the streets to be blown into cafes, hotels and business houses. To our notion, all the firm dirt on them are needed right there, and other material hauled in, put on them and then given a good dragging or rolling.

Now comes forth a beauty specialist of New York stating that the flapper is soon to grow a beard. She states that men had no beard until they begin to cut their hair, and she reasons that the flapper is headed for a thick stubble on the chin in a few more years of bobbing. She then appeals to her sect to cut the habit on "the glory of womanhood" argument, stating that no man wants a manish woman. You are the judge, girls.

Another illustration of the bigness of grand old Texas, is that the cotton planter in South Texas is preparing his land for another cotton crop to be planted in three or four months from now, and Amarillo and Canadian received their first bales only last week. Brownfield and these cities are all regarded as being in the Panhandle, but weeks have passed since our first bale was received and nearly 2000 others have been ginned and weighed. Come to Tex—we mean Terry.

Last week was "fire prevention week," but we'll bet a gill of buttermilk that not a flue was examined in this city. Soon fires will be kindled in the stoves, and smoke, flame and gas goes up the old flue that has probably been used for years. No telling how many birds have lodged their nests of inflammable material in the flue, which held the dampness of summer rains against the rusting old joints, and when the fires are built these nests are dry, and the hungry flames lap their tongues through these holes, reach a rafter or singles and a good home goes up in flames. Have you examined your flues?

A special writer in the Dearborn Independent, (Ford's paper) recently stated in an article that Germany was only "fraudently bankrupt." Or to use common American phraseology, she has simple been "busted full handed." She has been banking her gold in nearby foreign countries, and buying gilt edge foreign securities, principally American, which was a mere subterfuge to keep from paying a just indemnity placed against her by the treaty of Versailles. In the meantime her industries and public service institutions are second to no other country on earth. According to this writer the Germans are far from starvation.

In making comparisons of the number of pupils enrolled in the Brownfield public school with those of any other town of like population, that Brownfield probably has the smallest independent school district in area in this part of the state probably. The Brownfield district is literally surrounded with other independent and common school districts, and the trustees have never been adverse to cutting off chunks of territory for the new districts. Their reason for this has been mainly to keep from having to put on trucks, as that has proven very expensive to those districts that have tried it, and somewhat unsatisfactory, besides.

Many of our exchanges have been advocating the attendance at church on "Go to Church Sunday" which was the first Sunday in October. This is all good as far as it goes, but only goes one-fifty-seconds far enough. People should be taught that it is not only their privilege, but a divine command to attend their place of worship, not one Sunday the year, but fifty-two of them. This divine command is somewhat backed up by the laws of our state. Man is a very dependent creature, having to look to a higher power for every breath he takes, every drop of water he drinks, and every morsel of food that passes his mouth, and these are given so abundantly despite his imperfections that he rears back on his "pastures" thrusts his thumbs under his gulluses and poses in a "I own the universe" kind of aspect. Man in his pride is a sorry specimen and the most unappreciative of God's creations, and should be spanked like an unruly boy and sent to Sunday School.

THE MAN WHO FIGHTS WITH HIS BACK TO THE WALL

will fight more desperately than the man who can run away if he wants to. The army that has burned its bridges is more likely to win a battle than if the possibilities of retreat were open. That is human nature.

So with the business organization that has ONE business—it must succeed or perish. If it fails in the one thing in which it specializes, there is not a dozen other things to turn to for revenue. The jack-of-all-trades has not one-tenth as much incentive to work thoroughly as the specialist has. And therefore, when YOU want thorough, painstaking and efficient work—go to the specialist for it. That is horse sense.

We specialize in drawing, abstracts, and no one in these parts is so well equipped to furnish the complete, unassailable truth about the title as we are. If you buy and sell property, we cordially invite you to call on us and investigate our capacity to serve you.

COUNTRY CHILDREN ARE THE HEAVIEST LOSERS

About 20 million of American children have just begun their school year of 1924-25. Each one of them should attend as nearly 200 school days as possible. That is the length of the school term in our best schools. On the average, children are in the school much more than 165 days. For rural schools the term is much shorter. The cost of keeping the schools open will not be less than 1 1/2 billions of dollars. It has been estimated and probably correctly that every day in school is worth from $16 to $17 to a child because he will be able to earn that much in later years. It is fair to say then that 20 millions of children attending 160 days each this coming year represent actual production by the schools of some 50 billions of dollars of potential wealth, nearly 30 times the expenditure for the school's

Not many investments are as good as that or pay such enormous dividends. We could estimate the school day as worth much less than $16 a pupil and still have many times a good justification for all the money we spend on education. But great as the return is we cannot afford to reduce it by keeping the children out of school or by letting them go irregularly. A child ought not to throw away a $16 day for any trivial reason. In a few years he will be compelled to compete with others who have made the most of that day and of as many more school days as they could. It is then good business to keep the school open for as long term and keep all the children in it every day.

Mrs. H. Clay and brother, Mr. Erwin, of Lubbock, were guests of Mrs. Elsie Benton, last week.

TEXAS A GOOD PLACE TO "MARRY A FARM"

If you want to marry a farm, Texas offers splendid opportunities. Over six per cent of the Plainsmen of the Lone Star state have acquired their lands by matrimony, according to the Sears-Rohbeck Agricultural Foundation, based on a survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Texas is almost as good hunting ground for the land-eyed suitor as the five north central states, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota, known as the "Farm by Marriage" group. In these states an average of 8.4 per cent of the farm owners have taken a farm along with a wife. In Kentucky and Tennessee, of the 845 farmers interviewed, 59 owned their farms to cupid.

Of 109 Texas farm owners, 88.2 per cent purchased their farms outright, while 5.7 per cent acquired it by inheritance. This survey included 18,544 acres. For the United States as a whole, 79 per cent of the farm acreage was acquired by purchase, 15.3 per cent by inheritance, 3.3 by marriage and 2.4 per cent in other ways, principally by homesteading. These percentages vary according to location and the type of farming.

As might be expected in an old state like Massachusetts, a higher percentage of farms were acquired by inheritance. Among the 710 transfers examined in that state 228 per cent represented inheritances. Western Nebraska still has many farms occupied by the original homesteaders. Approximately 19 per cent of the farm owners in one section of western Nebraska where these figures were gathered, stated that they were the original homesteaders.

On the 845 farms examined in Kentucky and Tennessee involving a total of 71,495 acres, 81.2 per cent of the farmers had purchased outright, 17.3 per cent had acquired possession by inheritance, less than 1 per cent by gift and none by homesteading.

In the five north central states called the "Farm by Marriage" group, only 6.44 owned a farm by purchase. Almost 25 per cent had inherited their land, while 21 per cent had homesteaded.

Tullie Handlon, of Indianapolis, was killed by a sliver of glass from his automobile windshield, broken by a tomato thrown by an unknown person. The glass pierced an artery in Handlon's throat and he bled to death in fifteen minutes.

Jack Stricklin of the Terry County Herald is kicking about the gins whistling in his town. Says they tie 'er back and give the inhabitants about a thirty minute concert every morning. Our guess is that Jack likes to sleep until seven or eight o'clock and these six o'clock whistles have been disturbing his nap. The News editor himself likes a slumberfest that runs away up into the day, but nevertheless these Tahoka gins are sweet music in his ears. He wouldn't have them silenced for a whole day's nap. They sing of money in the bank, money in the pockets and lots of fivvers for the people to come to town in and spend it, and the News man is hoping that a few dollars will find their way around to his sanctum. Those five Tahoka gin whistles sound good to us, Jack.—Tahoka News.

What good is there in a few more or less paltry dollars to a country editor, when their monotonous tingle has become hateful to his ear. When so much greenback has been folded into his bill book that corns are appearing in the palms of his honest hands, when blisters run riot on his fingers from clipping coupons and scissors I editorials. We ask again, why seek more of the "root of all evil" when the cares of his vaults are worrying him sick in his waking hours and adding night-mare to his mid-summer night dreams? Early hours are for bankers, oil and railroad magnets, and such like, who are trying to make both ends meet, for they can still figure their income taxes in a few days. Still, the six gins of Brownfield are still whistling, and probably think they are disturbing us, but sometimes ding night-mares to his mid-summer ure their income tax in a few days, we are up at that time—not often.

But what gets our "nanny" is the inconsistency of Eldior Hill. Just a few weeks ago he accused us of having the itch, and now he says we are sleepy-headed. Absolutely the two don't get together, Hill.

Sid Lane informed us one day recently that he had purchased a section of land 20 miles from Portales, N. M., and would move on it as soon as he was done gathering. Said he knew everybody here would be glad to know that he was leaving the county and wanted all of them to know it through the Herald. There is, however, one exception to this unanimity of his "bomnuse." The Herald has been collecting a dollar from Sid annually for years, and we are not sure he'll want to spend that dollar with us when he gets to New Mexico.

The "old he" of the household is generally supposed to be the provider for the family, but the Herald madam seems to be doing her part lately. She seems to make periodical raids on the farms of Geo. Tiernan, A. B. Bynum and O. L. Jones, and the editor finds the table well supplied with beans, roasting ears, etc., and a lot of water melons on the porch at any and all times. She either has a good stand in with these farmers and their wives, or knows when they leave home, one or the two, sure.

We are sorry to learn that Lester McPherson and his excellent family are soon to leave us and go to El Paso to make their home. Lester has not been enjoying very good health for the past year, and has decided that the El Paso climate would be of benefit to him.

A. C. Copeland, prominent Yoakum county farmer was in our city last week with a load of poultry. He reports a good cotton crop which he will begin gathering before long. He will market it in Brownfield.

Pawnbroker Has Long Been Known as "Uncle"

Authorities differ as to the origin of "uncle" as applied to pawnbrokers. Some say "uncle" in this sense is a pun on the Latin word "uncus," a hook. Before spouts were adopted pawnbrokers used hooks to lift articles pawned. "Gone to my uncle's," say these authorities, was soon corrupted into "gone to my uncle's," the pronoun "my" being supplied for the sake of euphony, according to the Detroit News. This theory receives some slight confirmation in the fact that a pawnbroker's shop is also sometimes called a "spout." This is because a spout is usually used to lift the articles pawned.

But there seems to be a more plausible theory as to the origin of "uncle" as applied to pawnbrokers. People instinctively try to conceal the fact that they have pawned an article. It is natural for such persons to pretend that money thus obtained is from a rich uncle.

Game Birds

In a certain hotel on Broadway three men who, from their conversation, were evidently fond of sports, were, after exhausting golf, tennis, etc., with the first course, now debating as to which kind of game was the best. A large, impressive individual of the professional type stoutly declared that nothing could be compared to the pheasant, while his companion was vainly trying to impress upon his mind that partridge was the best. Then the other one, more enthusiastic than the rest, decisively announced that quail had no equal, and to prove his point asked the colored waiter to settle the argument.

"Well, sub," came the unexpected answer, "for mah part, I would rathah have an American eagle served on a silvah dollah."—Western Christian Advocate (Cincinnati).

The Test

The loftiest test of friendship—understood as companionship—is the power to do without it. And in this world of external confusions and separations, there is often such need. We do not yield the friendship, but must forego the companionship. Then comes the proof of our capacity for sacrifice, our loyalty, to the highest of all. We turn our faces from each other, but never our hearts, and walk our opposite ways. Gradually the heavens widen and deepen above us; we find ourselves breathing new, yet strangely familiar atmospheres, sweet with the breath of the old affection; we see ourselves—each sees the other—met once more in a Presence which has never forsaken us.—Lucy Larcom.

Ingenious Idea

Mrs. Suburb was always very anxious to do the right thing, and she lost no chance at all of showing her neighbors that she was a real, genuine, dyed-in-the-wool lady.

Recently some new people had moved into the neighborhood, and Mrs. Suburb was discussing them with her daughter.

"Well, Mary," she said, "I suppose we shall have to call on those people. Just take your scissors and cut some sort of hole in one of our visiting cards, will you?"

"Whatever for, mother?" asked Mary. "What will that mean?" "It doesn't mean anything that I know of," replied mother, "but they'll think it does and feel rather small to find out that they don't know as much about society ways as we do."

Why Automobiles Deteriorate

A factory machine is attached to a solid floor, which nearly prevents vibration. Yet it is constantly being adjusted and lubricated. Hence it wears for many years.

An automobile is constantly bumped over rough roads. Yet in spite of this terrible strain, the average car gets much less attention than the factory machine. Hence it depreciates much faster.

BOOTLEGGERS LAUGHING AT THE STARS AND STRIPES

"The bootleggers tell us that they will not obey the Volstead Act and ask us to infer that they will obey some substitute more agreeable to them. The question we should ask ourselves is this, if under a law prohibiting the sale of beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, bootleggers will sell liquors which will not only intoxicate, but will kill, what sort of liquor will these same criminals and law-breakers sell if they are granted the privilege of increasing the alcoholic content, thereby making it more difficult to detect or prosecute the law violations. It is solemnly proposed to enforce the constitutional provision prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor, by a statute permitting both.

SUCCESS HIS BECAUSE HE LOOKED FORWARD

Career of Newspaper Man Points a Moral.

By KEMAL STRAIGHT

On a lonely Kansas farm in the year 1869, a little boy was born. His early childhood was spent in the rugged environment of the then almost unbroken prairie.

Fortunately for him his parents moved to a camp in the Michigan lumber region.

Here the boy attended the primitive public school of the lumber camp. And it must have been at about this period that the youngster made his first forward look. He wanted to be a teacher.

When he finished at the local school, he went to the nearest normal institute and before he was twenty-one his dream had been realized.

This, however, was only the beginning. He saw that as a teacher of a single class, he could instruct but a few at a time.

Could he but talk to the little community in which he lived, how much more good he could do.

He looked forward again. He would study the people, find out what they most needed to know, and talk to them through a newspaper. He would become a reporter. That would be the first step.

His promotion was rapid—it could not have been otherwise—BECAUSE as he attained each position and worked hard to fill it, he looked forward to the next place ahead; and he kept his eyes clearly fixed until the step was taken.

He was still the teacher, the server of his fellow men. But he always pictured larger audiences and more people to listen to his teachings.

He became editor of a prominent Detroit newspaper.

In far New York, Joseph Pulitzer needed help. His newspaper was growing beyond its great chief's waning strength.

He needed a man big enough to wear his shoes when necessary.

He scanned the newspaper field.

Did he find the man he wanted among his well-trained subordinates?

Did he find him among the university graduates that crowded the ranks of newspaper men in the East? NO. He found him in Frank I. Cobb.

How to Get Better Milk Prices

Now is the time to feed a real milk producing ration.

By raising the average of your winter milk deliveries with Cow Chow during the winter months you can expect better prices, and more milk accepted in the spring and summer.

The dairy farmer who brings in twenty gallons a day in the winter and then tries to deliver 40 gallons in the summer, gets the regular price for only 20 gallons, and the surplus price for the other twenty.

The dairy farmer who has a big fall and winter production establishes a high average for himself and gets a good price in the spring and summer on grass for as much milk as he made last fall.

Cow Chow now means more winter milk and more summer income.

Truly here were two great men. And they were great because they could see ahead of them, picture what they should do, what they should do.

Frank I. Cobb saw his vision materialize. He talked to millions, he taught them. He made the world better because he had lived in it. And so can we all.

Not That Kind

Eugene Foster, director of the Indianapolis Foundation, recently was sitting in his office at work. The door stood ajar and he noticed a stranger walk past scanning the painted words: "The Indianapolis Foundation," on the door.

The man walked in and as Foster rose to meet the stranger, was asked: "Say, how are you fixed for cement?"

"How am I fixed for what?" Foster asked.

"For cement," the man replied. "Aren't you in the foundation business?"

"Yes, I'm in the foundation business, but this foundation business does not use cement," replied Foster. —Indianapolis News.

The Chief's Prediction

A peppy young messenger boy walked briskly into the captain's office at police headquarters several days ago with a telegram in his hand. Not deigning to glance at the outstretched hand of the captain, he walked over to Herman Rikhoff, chief of police, and—Wham!—slapped him on the back with all the strength he could muster.

"Hi!" he said, a broad Irish grin breaking over his face.

Rikhoff looked him up and down for a few moments.

"Well, boy," he said, "there's one thing—you'll get along in the world all right." —Indianapolis News.

Data in Corner Stone

When the corner stone of a new hospital now being erected in New York has been set in place, a complete record of modern medicine will be placed in the block for posterity. Molded in the block will be a reel of motion picture film showing doctors performing operations of this period. There will also be a complete set of glass-stained specimens of all known disease-producing bacteria, and ready for scrutiny under the microscope 100 years from now; a collection of drugs regarded as specific cures for diseases and a record of those diseases now regarded as incurable.

Superstitious Darkies

Among southern negroes the list of domestic signs, omens and superstitions are legion. If a cow stops in front of a cabin and bellows it is taken as a warning of death to some inmate. If it bellows twice the party marked for dissolution will die within two days. When a rooster enters the house and crows it's a sign of visitors.

If it crows just outside the door it indicates that the residents will be called away suddenly on a mission.

THE DALLAS NEWS TO OFFER BARGAIN

We are in receipt of a letter from the Dallas News, stating that reduced mail subscription rates will be announced not later than Dec. 1. This will be the first offer of this kind to be made by the Dallas News. This is no doubt good news to many newspaper readers who buy their newspaper by the year.

The News stated it printed more news and more pages during the year just past than any other Texas newspaper. The number of pages exceeded that of the next paper by 1,200. The letter also brought out the fact that the News maintained the highest priced news-gathering organization in the Southwest, its payroll for this class of service being 53 per cent higher than the next newspaper.

According to their statement, the News also maintains ten leased wires which exceeds that of any other Texas newspaper. This news concerning the big Texas newspaper, which has meant so much in the growth of Texas, will be of interest to the entire reading public.

AMERICAN SCIENTIST AND INVENTORS LEAD AGAIN

Just returned from Europe where he remained seven weeks visiting the leading radio engineers and scientists in governmental and private radio circles abroad, David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, says: "I investigated the broadcasting systems of England, France and Germany and met the principal persons, both in governmental and private circles, responsible for the development of radio in Europe. My conclusions are that broadcasting, which was initiated in our own country, has advanced in the United States, both as public service and as an industry, to so great an extent as to make comparisons with European countries almost impossible.

In France, it is just beginning, and in Germany it has hardly begun. In England greater progress has been made than in any other European country, but even there it cannot be said to compare favorably with the United States either as to quality or apparatus manufactured and sold for home use.

"Governmental regulations and restrictions retard the growth of the broadcasting art in Europe, and at the same time deprive the listening public of the freedom, enjoyment, and instructive information available to all in the United States."

Once again the private initiative ingenuity of America gained for the common citizen benefits far in advance of the government owned and government controlled and regulated services in Europe.

J. M. Cheek has been in Jones Co. for several weeks. He returned to his home last week, accompanied by his father-in-law, Mr. Jones, who will spend some time here.

Mrs. J. W. McDowell and granddaughter, Eileen Ellington, spent Saturday night and Sunday with M. E. Ellington and family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Murphey were trading in Brownfield, Saturday.

Several from this community attended the singing at Johnson Sunday afternoon. Singing is a God-given talent which is sadly neglected and which should be cultivated for our own sakes as well as for the sake of giving pleasure to others. We are all musical to a certain extent, so don't wait to be asked but come to the front and do your dead level best and our singing will be something to be proud of and worth coming many miles to hear. If you have never made use of your talents, or have them buried, go dig them up and put them to active service before you are called to account for leaving them lie idle or having them buried. The Johnson and Tokio classes meet at Tokio Sunday afternoon. Come and do your part.

R. C. Cox cut feed for S. T. Murphey and F. M. Ellington, this week. Watermelons are still plentiful and good as ever.

Fifteen minutes a day spent in thoughtful reading along a given line or in definite study on a chosen subject will vastly increase one's fund of knowledge in the course of time. It will ever make a specialist of a person of indifferent education.
