THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Another Viewpoint

"Boo hah no fury like a woman scorned!"

That poetic but blunt statement, in itself, would be enough for wanting to keep the ladies of the community on our side, but we have other reasons.

The women of Friona and its trading area have given exemplary support to virtually every worthwhile undertaking of a civic nature that has ever come the community way. They have demonstrated not only their willing- ness, but their ability to lead in civic and charitable drives of every sort.

That is why we so heartily lift the curtain on this week's editorial. It has to do with rummage sales—subject near and dear to the heart of every woman.

We don't mean to tell the ladies of the town that they are doing the wrong thing in conducting those fund-raising activities. The preponderance of evidence on whether they are good or bad things may very well lean toward the positive.

However, we think that it is not unreasonable for us to voice a point that may have been overlooked, and might have a bearing on determining the true value of the sales.

The retail business of Friona, because they are in the community which has as its support, economy almost wholly agricultural, have seasonal trades. Business has peaks and valleys in its way, and each must be met in its own way.

How Much Does It Cost You
when your neighbors
go out of town to buy?

We may think... when one of our neighbors buys a shirt, or a car, or a hot water bottle in the city... that it's nothing to us... unless we happen to be trying to make a living in the shirt, or car, or hot water bottle business here in this community.

But... as a matter of fact... every time a dollar leaks out of local circulation, it hurts everybody who lives around here.

Because... financial anemia is a very contagious disease. Trade volume... the lifeblood of every community... when drained off to invigorate some other place... leaves us weaker, our schools and churches poorer, job opportunities fewer, our own businesses less profitable, our property worth less, our living standards lower, and important help and services less convenient to us.

On the other hand... Prosperity is also contagious. Every single dollar that stays here at home turns over again and again as long as it's here... to account for two, three, or more times it's value in increased local trade volume... to keep every single one of us in better economic health.

It Pays to Buy where You Live

Friona firms are the only business establishments in the world who are genuinely interested in the future of this community where you make YOUR living.

Sorghum Growers Asked To Support Producers Group

If you have a small daughter who wants to work on the farm, and you're considering selling some of your surplus corn, you may want to consider the benefits of membership in a producer organization. Here's why:

1. Profitability: Joining a producer organization can help you maximize your profits. These organizations often negotiate better prices with processors and distributors, allowing you to receive higher prices for your crops.

2. Risk Management: Producer organizations can help you manage risks associated with crop production. They may offer insurance programs, futures contracts, and other financial tools to help stabilize your income.

3. Market Access: Members of producer organizations often have access to premium markets, which can help you reach a wider customer base and increase your visibility in the market.

4. Research and Development: Many producer organizations fund research and development projects to improve crop yields and reduce costs. This can benefit all members by providing them with the latest technology and practices.

5. Legislative Representation: Producer organizations often lobby for policies that support the agricultural industry. This can include legislation that protects farmers' rights and interests.

In conclusion, joining a producer organization is a smart move for farmers who want to optimize their profits, manage risks, access premium markets, and have a voice in legislative matters that affect the agricultural sector.
Farm Bureau May Be Sprayed By Commissioners

Restrictions of the rule, use, and transportation of herbicides in Parmer County is being considered by the county commissioners, who will make a decision on the subject at the regular meeting at 10 a.m. next Saturday. There is a proposal to spray the farm area with 2, 4-D.

Some of this action is designed to reduce or eliminate the possibility of damage to cotton by weeds, a popular weed killer which in numerous instances has been found in cotton fields in Parmer County.

The effect of this will be known to the county commissioners by mid-October. The broadcast spraying will be done on the week preceding the regular meeting.

There has been some criticism from farmers who have cotton in areas where the spraying will be done. However, they are told this procedure will not damage the cotton. They are asked to cooperate in the spraying program.

It's Modern It's Clean All Electric!

Here's what the J. W. PEARSONS, 510 ANGELO CIRCLE, CARLSBAD, N. M., say:

They point out that a busy home requires husband and wife to share in the household duties and to Mrs. Pearson says, "My husband and I do a lot of the cooking. And I enjoy our electric range because it is quick and a lot cleaner. Our electric range gives us a complete selection of controlled heat for any size pan, which is big help for any cook." You'll notice the difference, too, when you start cooking electrically.

The Pearsons beat their water electrically, too. Mrs. Pearson says, "With a family of 6, including a baby, which occasional spurs in so many species of clothes a day, our water heater is overworked, too. We decided to try out the electric range and so far it has been put to use almost daily.

The Pearsons have noted a significant improvement in the cleanliness of dishes and utensils using the electric range. They say that dishes come out sparkling clean without the need for scrubbing.

The Pearsons are just one of the many families in Friona who have made the switch to electric cooking. With the benefits of energy efficiency, convenience, and cost savings, it's no wonder more and more families are choosing to use electric ranges in their homes.

For information on how to switch to electric cooking, contact your local utility company or visit the nearest Reddy Kilowatt office. The transition to electric cooking can be easy and rewarding for you and your family.
