Chamber of Commerce CURRENTS By the Secretary

Clean Up!

The Chamber of Commerce is anxious to co-operate with the Mayor and city administration to the end that a designation or proclamation be issued for a general Clean-Up Campaign in our little city. If we could have one such week specified and all co-operate we could do much toward improving its civic appearance. The collection of trash, rubbish and cans and their removal to the dumping grounds, if we could make this city wide, and each business man see to it that the premises adjoining his respective place or shop was brought up in proper condition, it would be a fine thing.

At this particular time of year fevers are common in some towns and localities, but we can have one of the cleanest towns anywhere with such little effort if we but try. The State Board of Health recommends that very simple constructed screen fly traps, baited with vinegar and sugar, be used in our alleys and places where perishable commodities are exposed and in this way eradicate count less thousands of flies in the summer, not to speak of the multiplied thousands these flies would cause by breeding. Brownfield is a clean and healthful little city. Let's keep it that way by co-operating in a clean-up campaign.

Would Be Worth Lots

The Chamber of Commerce is this week filing briefs with Joe Burket, Highway Commissioner at Austin, for the designation of a State Highway from Lamesa through by Pride and Lou to Brownfield. Highway No. 83 ends at Lamesa with no further designation, and the highway from the northeast to us being No. 53, from Lubbock ends at Brownfield. What we want to do is to show the Highway Commission the necessity of a connected highway between here and Lamesa to save our tourists from the southeast the necessity of going by Tahoka to come here and on west. Naturally, if we could get the designation of this gap, it would give us an appropriation from the State to expend on this road from here to the Dawson county line, which would make our farming section in that district and citizenship as good a road as there is in the county to traverse to and from this place, as well as open another avenue of inlet to Brownfield from the Bankhead Highway on the T. & P. via Lamesa, and to the west by Roswell. This application is being approved by R. A. Harbin, who is the State Highway Superintendent on our work now. This does not mean that we have actually accomplished it, but it does not do any harm to try and try hard.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY BURIED AT PLAINVIEW

Lubbock, May 23.—Funeral services for Parke N. Dalton, attorney of the 72nd Judicial District, who died here Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, were conducted at the First Methodist church here Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The Rev. E. E. White, pastor of the local church, Presiding Elder E. E. Robinson, the Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. J. R. Balch, of Seymour, who is pastor of the church of which Mrs. Lacey W. Dalton, the mother of deceased, is a member, conducted the funeral services that were attended by friends from throughout the Texas Panhandle.

Following the services here the remains were carried to Plainview, and services were concluded at the First Methodist church of that city. Representing the lawyers of the district who knew and appreciated the good works of Attorney Dalton, a brief, but impressive address was delivered by Senator W. H. Bledsoe at Plainview.

Interment was made in the Plainview cemetery near the grave of his father, the late Lacey W. Dalton.

Several hundred local citizens and people from all over the district accompanied the remains to Plainview and attended the funeral services at that place.

E. G. Alexander, proprietor of the Alexander Drug Co., left with his family last week for California, where they will spend several weeks. They went by motor car.

TERRY SCHOLASTICS SHOW NEARLY 25 PERCENT MORE

When the common and independent school district of a county show a 25 per cent increase in one year, then the average person in the east part of the state can begin to understand why the Plains section is making such wonderful strides, and also why there is such a crowded condition reported in our schools, and why we are kept busy building additional school buildings. Last year Terry county had 1,917 scholastics, and this year it had 2,350, an increase of 433 in one year, or nearly 25 per cent. Based on the usual way of computing population of 5 persons to each scholastic, Terry now has a population of 11,750, as compared to only 2,349 according to the U. S. census of only five years ago. In other words we now have more school kiddies, in the school age than we had entire population five years ago. There are now only nine common school districts in the county and 11 independent school districts in the county, the following being the number of scholastics in each:

Common School Districts
Needmore	48
Prairie View	90
Midway	36
Pleasant Valley	64
Pleasant	36
Scudday	31
Sawyer	79
Harris	11
Challis	64
Independent Districts
Wellman	82
Tokio	115
Johnson	76
Harmony	112
Hunter	45
Happy	30
Willow Wells	39
Brownfield	627
Gomez	227
Union	256
Meadow	291
Total	2,350

MARRIED

Mr. Dallas Patton, prominent young farmer of the Johnson community, and Miss Erma Wallace, teacher in the Johnson school this year, drove to the residence of Rev. C. E. Ball, pastor of the local Baptist church on the 21st inst, where they were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. We understand they will make their residence in the Johnson community.

Joe Black, former citizen of the Gomez country, but now inventor and manufacturer of several Ford accessories at Chicago and New York, arrived here Saturday for a visit with his mother and sister. Mr. Black motored tru from Miami, Fla., where he spent the winter.

CLAUDE McCLUNG AND HIS SINGER COMING

A letter was received recently from Claude McClung, Evangelist, Weatherford to the local Church of Christ saying that he and Virgil O. Teddlie, singer, would be here promptly on Friday night June 5th to start what he expects to be an even better revival than was held here last year, and he asked them to go the limit in advertising the meeting. He once told the writer that he was kindly like the late Abe Mulkey about advertising. As the story goes, Abe once wrote ahead to a certain city in which he was to hold a meeting for them to "advertise to beat the devil." When these modest Methodist stewards received the message, consternation prevailed, and upon Abe's arrival he was immediately asked to explain such an expression, coming as it did from a minister. As they drove down the street Abe called their attention to the nice display of whiskey bottles in the saloon windows and explained that he meant for them to advertise to beat them. Not a bad idea or a bad expression after all, you will admit.

To start matters, the church, under the able leadership of Elder A. L. Burnett will start the song and prayer service, on Monday night, June 1st, and all are cordially invited to come and join in this song and prayer service. No choir; just old time congregational singing like our father and mothers used to sing. We do not believe that anyone can do your part of the worship in song by doing your singing.

Brother Claude writes that he never felt better in his life, and that people everywhere are telling him that he is doing the best preaching of his life, and this is in part verified by the religious press reports of the results in additions to churches where he has held meetings this year.

As usual he will preach a series of sermons all properly connected, and in proper order, and to get the advantage of the run of them it is very important that you hear from the first to the last.

All services at the church building, where good seats, good lights and a cordial welcome await you.—By the Committee.

BROWNFIELD GIRL GETS DEGREE AT C. I. A.

Denton, Texas, May 26.—Miss Mildred Burgess, of Brownfield, a senior in the College of Industrial Arts, is a candidate for the degree of bachelor of science at the graduation exercises to be held June 2. Sixty-six bachelor of arts degrees and 131 bachelor of science degrees have now been applied for according to the registrar.

W. A. Bynum and family visited his sister and family, Mrs. Garland, in Lamesa last Sunday.

FIRE DEPT. RESPONDS TO CALL AT SHOO BUILDING

Some one discovered the boys toilet to be afire near the school building last Thursday, and turned in the alarm. The fire truck made a very quick run for no more practice than they have had, and the flames were quickly extinguished, but not before the building was badly charred.

We understand two or three young men were arrested and charged with starting the fire, and will probably be heavily fined.

Thursdays is also practice day and when the siren rang out in the late afternoon, not a few cars formed in line and put the gas to 'er only to see the truck finally stop, connect on a nearby plug and shoot the water to an imaginary building afire.

It is reported that some were so disappointed that they took some of the volunteer firemen to task for "fogging them," but it is said that Chief Ivey let it be known that he did not care for any parade following them as they were more in the way than any good they might render. It is said that lots of houses burn in volunteer fire department towns like this from having too many bosses at a fire.

CHAUTAUQUA SEASON CLOSED TUESDAY NIGHT

The Cadmean Chautauqua Company closed their engagement here Tuesday night under the auspices of the Brownfield Band, and while most of the numbers were excellent, some of them were little better than cheap vaudeville. Especially was this true of Sunday night's engagement, we are informed, as the writer did not attend Sunday night. Both lectures were good.

The band worked hard to put the chautauqua over and come out of a guarantee of some $575.00, but we understand they lost in the neighborhood of $100, which they will be called upon to put up.

It is our notion that the sooner cities and societies and other organizations quit guaranteeing chautauquas a stipulated amount, just that soon will they begin to come of their own accord like common tent shows, and with their vast advertising and soliciting organizations, put the chautauquas and lyceums over themselves without extra expense to the local people. They are good things, and educational in a way, but why should local communities have to underwrite their success?

Their closing play, "Her Temporary Husband," Tuesday night was one of the best comedy dramas we have ever seen put on here.

J. F. Malcolm, prominent farmer of the Gomez community was in one day last week after farm supplies.

Com. W. F. Stewart recently renewed for his own Herald and that of his mother of Okalona, Ark.

SUCCESSFUL TERM OF SCHOOL CLOSED FRIDAY

Vacation time is here for both the pupil and teacher, as the 1924-25 term of the Brownfield schools closed on last Friday, with what the majority of patrons consider one of the most successful terms in our history. It was also noted for the harmony that prevailed. Of course there are always more or less friction, but there was nothing of a serious nature during this entire term.

Nineteen young men and women satisfactorily closed their four years of high school work and received diplomas, by far the largest class in the history of our schools, yet the senior class next year will be much larger we understand.

Beginning Sunday night, May 17th, the entire week was given over to commencement exercises. On that occasion the commencement sermon was preached by Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Lubbock. The auditorium was soon filled for this service and hundreds had to be turned away, but those who were fortunate enough to get in were well rewarded.

On Monday night, May 18, a splendid program was rendered by the music and expression department to a good audience.

Tuesday afternoon was given over to a mammoth parade the like of which was never seen here before, and one which many probably thought impossible. After the parade the May Queen, Miss Gladys Copeland was crowned amid much grandeur and festivity. That evening at the auditorium the PTA closed their business for this term, capped off with a splendid program by Mrs. Egan's class.

On Wednesday night the 20th, Dr. C. E. Hunt, president of McMurray College, Abilene, delivered the commencement address to the graduates, which was considered a masterpiece. A. M. Brownfield, president of the board of trustees then delivered the nineteen diplomas.

On Thursday night the 7th grade had their graduating exercises, passing from grammar school to that of 1925-26 freshmen in high school.

The music and expression departments again held the stage on Friday night, closing the exercises.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS GET HIGH SCHOOL JOB

Lee Thompson and Roy Wingred local contractors, were awarded the contract by the board of trustees on last Wednesday for the erection of the first unit of the new high school building for Brownfield. Their bid was $24,900.

We understand that their contract calls for all heating and plumbing, which of course includes steam heat, and inside toilets. These contractors have just finished one of the nicest buildings in Brownfield, the Rialto Theatre, and we are sure they will also please the school board and the patrons on this new job.

The first unit calls for six classrooms and a study hall, and the building will never be over one story, but may have unit after unit added as the high school demands. It will be of cream brick with spotted brick as trimming, and will be very beautiful when completed.

T. H. WILSON MOVES TO BROWNFIELD

T. H. Wilson left Monday for Brownfield where he recently purchased a barber shop. He will move his family in the near future. Mr. Wilson has made many friends in Lamesa who will regret to see him leave but we all wish for him prosperity in his new home and if there is a time when he will come back to Lamesa we will welcome him with open arms.—Lamesa Reporter.

FARMERS REPORTING UN- USUALLY GOOD STANDS

On the streets of Saturdays, and at the churches on Sunday before the beginning of services, all one has to do is listen, and he soon learns that the farmers of Terry county have the best stand they ever had, and that it means cotton and all kinds of feed stuff.

In conversation with Dr. W. H. Copeland, recently, he informed us that he had been practically all over the county recently, and that he was almost positive that he never saw more uniform stands of everything in his life. Indeed, the general outlook for Terry county at this time is most promising.

OLD CONFEDERATE SURGEON ANSWERS TAPS

It is with extreme regrets that we are obliged to chronicle the passing of Dr. S. C. Maddux, of Gomez, 92, who was not only one of the most aged men in the county, but one of the most universally respected and esteemed, which occurred at the family residence at about 10: o'clock P. M. Friday night, and was buried at 4:00 o'clock P. M. Saturday in the Odd Fellows cemetery in Brownfield, following funeral services conducted at the Methodist church at Gomez, conducted by Rev. Carmack of Meadow. The Masonic lodge took charge of the body at the family residence and he was buried with the honors of that order.

Dr. Maddux had been very ill for some time due to advancing age, and it had been several months since he was seen on the streets of Brownfield. Up until a year or so ago, the doctor was remarkably active for a man of his age.

Dr. Maddux was born in Howard county, Mo., in 1813 of old Virginia stock, but the family moved to West Tennessee early in his childhood and he made his home in Fayette county in that state until he moved to Texas some 30 or 40 years ago. He studied medicine early in life, and was connected as instructor with one of the first medical colleges in Tennessee. When the Civil War broke out in 1861, he volunteered his services as surgeon in the 13th Tennessee regiment and filled this post faithfully until the end of the conflict, and resumed his private practice immediately after the close of the war. He also at one time served his constituency in the Tennessee Senate, and is said to have offered the first prohibition resolution ever offered in that body. His entire life was devoted to the extinction of the liquor traffic, and lived, not only to see his wishes become state, but a national law.

It was always a great pleasure for the writer to sit at the side of this venerable man and listen to his clear and interesting accounts of the early history of Western Tennessee, as he and the writer were both reared in adjoining counties, and he was able to give us a history of that locality long before the writer saw the light of day. We have known him now for some 16 years, and found him to be the same good humor, and with the same hearty hand shake each time we met him. Dr. Maddux was never satisfied with well doing, and always had a smile and good word for all, no matter what his own physical suffering might be.

Dr. Maddux was a devoted member of the Methodist church, and his intensely religious nature, and his aptitude to pray or teach made him a natural leader in his church. He was also an active Mason, and devoted much time to this order in his younger days.

Deceased leaves an aged and devoted wife and two sons, Spot and Eldridge, besides other relatives and a host of friends to mourn his departure. The world is made better by the lives of such men.

GEO. E. TIERNAN NOW COLLECTOR FOR THE CITY

Geo. E. Tiernan, prominent citizen and former sheriff and tax-collector of Terry county, was recently made city light, power and water collector by the city council. He has taken offices in the Brownfield State Bank building, where he may be found by those who have business with him.

George is not only a good citizen, but will always be found on or near his job, so that those who want him will not have to search all over the city. He is a man that will always listen with patience to any complaint and will give the customer of the city a square deal in so far as he is able to do so.

We understand that he will also act as city assessor.

YOUNG MAN SHOT AT SPARENBERG

On Sunday night near Sparenberg while four young people were returning from church they stopped at the home of T. J. Bradford to let Miss Bradford out of the car when immediately following the car was fired in to and pretty badly torn with shot from a shot gun and what looked to be a 45. The young man driving the car had an arm shot pretty badly and one eye is probably out. The young man bears the best reputation and the family and the young lady in the case are the very best people of Dawson County. It is very difficult at times to get the merits of such cases and we do not know the reason for the tragedy and withhold comment. One thing we will say and that is we wish the friends of all parties regret the trouble for all concerned.—Lamesa Reporter.

Mr. A. C. White, of Young county, who is visiting his son near Meadow, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office one day last week.

Editor Blackstone of the Meadow Review, was down Wednesday and informed us that among the other improvements of his town would be the erection of another modern gin plant and the thorough remodeling and modernizing of the other two. He also feels sure that Meadow will give the road bonds a big majority.

A NEAR JAIL DELIVERY AT CROSBYTON

A jail delivery was narrowly averted here about two o'clock Monday morning when nightwatchman Alexander interfered.

Two prisoners had sawed their way thru the cage and were working on the outer windows when they were discovered by the nightwatchman.

Two saws were found and a piece inside the cage by the sheriff's department. One of the prisoners said they had been working for three nights in trying to cut their way out, but would not tell the sheriff how he came in possession of the saws.—Crosbyton Review.

Douglas Maddux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Maddux, and grandson of Dr. S. C. Maddux, of Gomez, was down from Ralls with his parents attending the funeral of the Dr. Saturday. Douglas is now working on the Ralls Banner and aims to make a printer, he says. Douglas was almost reared in this county, and we were made glad to see him and to know that he is making good. He believes his boss is just about the best fellow out, and this alone is sufficient evidence that he is applying himself.

MUSIC AND EXPRESSION STUDENTS IN RECITAL

Friday night, May 22, the music and expression pupils of the Brownfield High School were presented in recital at the school auditorium.

Beautiful readings and musical numbers, which seemed to be appreciated by all were rendered. Very good attention was given despite the fact that the audience became a little noisy and had to be asked to be a little quieter.

At the close of the evening, medals were awarded to Miss Oleta Swain; Miss Robbie M. Hardin, 2nd; Misses Irene Fletcher, Edna Brown and Bernice Miller were close to the winners.—Reporter.

Two of our silver tongued orators were recently called away to deliver commencement addresses the same night. Judge H. R. Winston went to the Meadow school, and Morgan L. Copeland to Levelland.

Soot's Explosive Power

We scarcely think of soot as an explosive yet it is now being used as such, and soot cartridges will blast away coal or rock quite as effectively as dynamite, says Popular Science Monthly.

Of course, the soot has to be prepared for its new purpose, and this is done by soaking it in liquid oxygen. The finely divided carbon of which the soot is made up absorbs large amounts of oxygen, and the cartridge explodes owing to the instantaneous combustion of the carbon in contact with the oxygen.

The advantages of the new explosive are many. It can be made at the spot where it is to be used, and is perfectly safe till the liquid oxygen is poured into the hole where the soot cartridge has been placed. No poisonous gases are set free by the explosion, and if the cartridge fails to explode it ceases to be a source of danger in about twenty minutes, when the oxygen has all evaporated and the cartridge is merely soot.

Thoughtlessness to Blame

So very few people mean to be unkind that it makes you wonder why there should be all the unkindness in the world.—J. E. Butkrose.

Writer Speculates on Possible "Dog Heaven"

Been thinking again. Been sitting scratching my dog's ear and thinking. Nice little dog. She has more sense and more humanity almost than lots of humans whom I have met up with. What a wonderful thing is the love and care of an animal for her young! People have been coming over to see her puppies—three ugly little bull pups, with not much to see but wrinkles, says a dog fancier in Adventure Magazine.

Yesterday they disappeared mysteriously from their nest in the corner of my little barn. I looked round and by and by found them. She had dug a large round hole under the house and there she had taken them. I brought them out to the lawn. She smiled at me, in a superior and motherly manner and promptly lifted one by his hind thigh and bore him away to her newly made nest. In a very few minutes they were all back under the house. Then she came and looked up, smiling at me, and requested me to scratch her under the ear. It would be rather nice if there actually were a dog star, would it not? Where we might in the hereafter meet up with our old dogs and hear just what they had to say.

The complete trust and comradeship that a dog offers to a man is a lovely thing. Too bad so many men are not even fit for the trust of a little valter dog! It is such an unwavering and utter trust. It ought to make a man the better, causing him to sense something of his responsibility to the animal creation. Don't you think so?

It would be rather correct, I think, if in the hereafter there is a dog star in which the dogs will live happily together with all the doggy affairs arranged to suit themselves. Then, perhaps, those humans who in this world have been unworthy of the confidence of their dogs will be led round on chains and fed upon old bones, and occasionally dipped in sheep dip to kill their fleas, eh? Shut in the pot and left there till some dog comes along and agrees to pay for their license?

How's that for an idea, now? Think I'm mad for sure, don't you? Well—maybe I am, but it was the mother of the puppies below my house who put me wise to it. You'd better look out. Maybe you'll have to wear a muzzle yet, in dog star land.

Right of Trial by Jury

Trial by jury was introduced into England during the Saxon heptarchy, mention being made of six Welsh and six Anglo-Saxon freemen appointed to try causes between Welsh and English men of property, and made responsible to the extent of their whole estates for false verdicts. In Magna Charta juries are insisted upon as the great bulwark of the people's liberty. The right of challenging men called as jurors has always been possessed by the accused by virtue of common law.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS SPUDDING IN OF WELL

The spudding in of the oil well last Friday on the M. C. Lindsey ranch, near Cedar Lake in the southeastern part of Gaines county, was watched with interest by a crowd estimated from Seagraves, Seminole, Lamesa and neighboring towns and counties.

The barbecue staged by the Chambers of Commerce of Seagraves, Seminole and Lamesa was carried out as had been planned, with bronch riding, band music furnished by the Lamesa band and baseball between the Seagraves ball boys and the O'Donnell ball team as features of the day.

The well is being drilled under the supervision of J. J. Mundy, operator, and a standard rig is being used. The contract calls for 3250 feet unless oil is found in paying quantities at a lesser depth.

The drilling of this well is being watched with interest by Gaines and Dawson County people, and no doubt this will mark the beginning of one of the greatest oil fields in Texas.—Seagraves Signal.

Raymond Barrier, prominent merchant of Lubbock and property owner of this city, was here on day last week. He was accompanied by Mr. Wm. Green, Jr., prominent citizen of South Texas, who is a member of the firm of Green & Lumsden, bankers, merchants and ranchmen of Wilson, who own considerable ranch property in this county.

DOLLARS TORN IN TWO

When you send your dollars away from home, it is like tearing them in two. You are getting only a part of the possible benefit which you might receive from them. You may get just as much actual value for them in merchandise, but you are losing all of your reflex benefit which comes from home-spent dollars. Home-spent dollars go toward building up this community, and whatever builds up this community benefits you, be you merchant, farmer or laborer. Think twice before you send your money away.

When a friend informed us recently that a certain town some 75 miles from here had lots of new brick business houses, but most of them were empty, we are reminded of an Alabama citizen who told a friend that a certain place the friend was about to purchase, "had a big orchard, but most of the trees were dead."

In the recent death of Parke N. Dalton, the bar not only lost a good and highly respected member, but the district lost a vigorous prosecuting attorney, who left few if any loop-holes for the escape of the criminal. Indeed, it is reported that he has established a record of 100 per cent convictions during his short tenure in office, a record hard to equal. And in addition to this, his home town, his district, his state and nation loses a citizen whose place will be hard to fill in society.

The Secretary of our Chamber of Commerce is certainly more optimistic than the editor when he says we "have a very clean little town" as compared to others. Either we can't see good or our neighboring towns are mighty filthy places. It seems to us that the allies of Brownfield are just about as filthy as could be found anywhere, and one has to hold their noses to pass thru them or lose their breakfast in the attempt. Even hogs are raised in filthy pens around the square, with tens of millions of flies breeding and raising in them every day to enter the grocery and meat markets despite screens, not to say anything about the hotels and cafes. But we are certainly agreed with the secretary about a clean-up campaign. We certainly need one.

Butte, who ran for governor on the Republican ticket against Mrs. Ferguson, has been taken care of by President Coolidge, having been appointed attorney general of Porto Rico. We don't know how much the position pays, but it is certain there is not much work connected with it, because Porto Rico is only about twice as large as Clay county, tho the population is about a million. Butte polled a vote heavy enough to require that the Republican party in Texas to hold a primary election just like the Democrats have always done which will have the advantage of aiding in keeping the Republicans out of the Democratic primary as they will hardly be able to vote in two primaries on the same day. Now, if local Republicans will boost up their nerves and put out a county ticket, there may be some interesting news all the way thru the campaign from January to November.—Henrietta Independent.

The Herald went up against a real hard proposition this week, when it was called upon to accept or reject a contract for $450.00 of advertising from one of the biggest mail order houses in the United States, to be used in one year. We rejected it. Well, you are a bigger fool than I thought you was, we can hear some one remark. Maybe so, but the Herald has a consistent policy of advocating trade at home, and not only devotes much editorial space to that effect, but jointly with the most successful business men of the town, we devote a page ad each month to that effect. What sort of a town would Brownfield be if everybody sent to the cities after what they eat, use and wear? And so confident are we that this advertising would carry more business away from Brownfield and Terry county, that we did not accept this ad. This mail order firm did not offer to spend $150.00 with us just to get our good will, but because they, like many other big firms are beginning to recognize the country newspaper to be the world's best advertising medium, because it is the most closely read paper to be found.

The bathing pool or Natatorium was well patronized Sunday. Several have asked us what we thought of the bathing pool. To be perfectly plain, at one time we were very much opposed to it, but with times comes the change in things and today every church recommends it and provide it for their young people in their summer encampments and if you are opposed to it you are taking the religious bodies of the country to task.

We often hear people condemn the local bathing pool and yet they belong to churches which make a provision for their young people to do this thing, not here at home but away from home where the restraint of parents is entirely eliminated. We well remember the first contact we had with this question in North-west Texas Conference, when the question of "where the league would spend its summer" outing came up and Wichita Falls was a candidate, and the great lake there was offered for bathing and we opposed it on the grounds that there was to be mixed bathing and we were told in that committee room that we were old fogey and behind the times that was provided at every place, and still went on amirantly report as unfavorable to the location and also the place, since at that time it had saloons. They snowed us under and we came to accept the situation of public bathing with the mixing of the sexes and last Sunday was the first time that I saw a woman, a girl in a bathing suit and the other could tell, with their caps on, which were the women and which the men unless we could get close enough to see the features. So there we are a convert to the brethren of the churches who, at that time we so strenuously opposed. If the bathing is wrong then all the churches have approved a wrong and we guess we can't stand against all this body of good people.—Lames Reporter.

HOP! INDIANS BOW AT VENUS' SHRINE

Idol Called "Talatumsi, Elder Sister of the Dawn."

Years ago, when the ancient Romans, is venerated also by the modern Hopi Indians of the American Southwest, though in a sense that would hardly be recognized by her classic votaries. Dr. J. Walter Fawkes, chief of the bureau of American ethnology, tells of this interesting cult in his account of the use of idols in Hopi worship, in the forthcoming annual report of the Smithsonian institute at Washington.

She is known to the Indians as Talatumsi, the Elder Sister of the Dawn. Her image, made of wood, and wrapped in a ceremonial blanket, is enshrined in a hollowed-out boulder with a flat rock, sealed in with clay for a door. This door is removed in November, every fourth year, when the idol is taken out and carried to the top of the mesa and rites performed near it. The image is regarded with special reverence, and except for the quadrannual service, is kept securely sealed in its shrine.

The image of Talatumsi is only one of the many sacred objects of the Hopi. Unlike the Indians of the eastern United States, who made few images, these Indians of the desert make and reverence numerous idols, though they do not regard them as gods but only as images of the gods above the cloud or under the earth. Some of the idols are simple natural objects, like pieces of petrified log or meteoric stones; others are more or less elaborately carved animal or human figures of wood or stone. Many of the stone images are very old, and are held in especial awe.

Doctor Fawkes is of the opinion that the custom of carving was not much developed until after the coming of the Spanish padres. Though the Indians declined to be converted, they adopted the idea of having statues in their own holy places, first added to the simpler natural objects they had revered before that time.

Many of the images are used by the shamans, or medicine men, in exorcising disease. One type of idol, called a "heart-twister," is used when the trouble is supposed to be located in the heart. Most of the heart-twisters are made of stone or wood, deeply carved in a spiral pattern, but there is at least one in use among the Hopi that is made of a fossil sea shell.—From Scientific Service.

Marathon Look Simple

Marathon races get their name from the feat of the great Greek runner, Phidippides, who carried the news of the victory over the Persians from Marathon to Athens. That was about 26 miles, and besides the battle being the turning point in the history of Europe, it was made forever dramatic by the fact that the runner dropped dead on finishing his journey.

That was a mild journey compared with a Canadian episode which has been unearthed by W. J. Healy and described in the Winnipeg Tribune. Jean Baptiste Lagimoniere was a resident at Fort Garry (now Winnipeg) in 1815, when the growing hostilities between the Hudson's Bay company and the Northwest company led to a crisis which called for quick action. Lagimoniere was a man of thirty-five, whose fifteen years in the West had made him a noted hunter and coureur de bois, when Colin Robertson, who was in charge of the stockaded stronghold of the Selkirk settlement at Fort Douglas, asked him to deliver a letter to Lord Selkirk in Montreal.

Lagimoniere set out on foot with instructions to carry the letter as swiftly as possible to Lord Selkirk, informing him of the danger and asking him for help. It was a journey of 1,800 miles through much wilderness, which in some parts was made still more dangerous by the presence of Northwest company scouts. The runner set out, therefore, in the direction of Pembina, as if on a hunting trip, and making a wide circle he traveled by Warroad, Rainy River and Fort William, thence to Detroit. East of Detroit he was overtaken by a mail carrier to whom, being far from the fur traders' capital, he told his mission. The mail carrier then offered to take him all the way to Montreal, provided he were allowed to deliver the letter to Selkirk.

Jean Baptiste told that generous and enterprising mail carrier that he had promised to carry the letter himself to Lord Selkirk and that he would do it unless he died on the way. Then he jumped out of the mail carrier's sleigh and continued his journey on foot.

Montreal was reached on New Year's eve, or two months after the journey was started, and Lady Selkirk joined her husband in the warm welcome to the hardy messenger. Lagimoniere started back in a couple of days with a reassuring message, but near Fort William he was taken prisoner by a party of Indians on the lookout for him on the request of the Northwesters. He was held for some months and released only when Fort William was captured by Lord Selkirk. The massacre of Seven Oaks, a battle between the forces of the warring fur trading companies, occurred that summer at Winnipeg, but peace followed and Lagimoniere lived until 1855.

Principles of Operation---

We believe that a bank should not only be a depository of funds, but indeed a haven where the rich and poor alike can confide their financial troubles, fears and doubts into the attentive ear of their mutual friend and counselor, the BANKER. The Bank, the foundation of all saving, should be solid like the granite, standing the acid test of time, pursuing a conservative but friendly course.

This Bank, like the great oak from the little acorn, of persistent effort and sound business principals has grown. It stands today like the Oak, its many services and ample resources, like the limbs, cast their shadow of protection over those who seek its shelter, a mecca which invites the confidence and patronage of the public.

CATTLE TALE OF DAYS WHEN TEXAS WAS BROKE

"North of 36," the new Paramount picture which opens Monday and Tuesday, June 1st and 2nd at the new Rialto Theatre, is an epic of the stirring and colorful pioneer days that bridged the gap between Indian warfare and America's Industrial birth.

The story takes place just after the Civil War—a story of the greatest of all cattle drives from the plains of Texas to the markets of Kansas, then the far-west terminal of civilization. The tale has an historical as well as a romantic appeal. Miss Wilson, as the young girl who leads her sixteen loyal and devoted cowmen and an immense herd of cattle over an unblazed trail for many hundreds of miles, is a dauntless, courageous character.

There is Jack Holt, the young man who loves her but dare not aspire to her because he is a killer, and who guards her from many perils despite her scorn of him because she believes ruffian Rudabaugh (Noah Beery), commands interest and admiration throughout.

There is the tracking of a murderer, political intrigue, perilous fording of swollen rivers, stampeding cattle, an encounter with Indians, love—the story has all the elements of a stirring picture, with the colorful, picturesque background of the days following the Civil War, when this country was in the throes of a grim reconstruction.

Earnest Torrence, playing Jim Nabours, Taisie's (Miss Wilson) ranch foreman, completes the quartette of featured players in the production.

Other big names in the cast are David Dunbar Stephen Carr, Guy

Oliver, Wm. Carroll, Clarence Geldart, George Irving and Ella Miller.

Irvin Willat directed the production which was adapted for the screen by James Hamilton from Emerson's Hough's great novel.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BUY MUCH NEWSPAPER SPACE

Increase in the use of newspaper advertising by public utility companies in the United States was shown in the report made by the costs and results committee of the public utility advertising association in the convention this month in Houston says the Texas Public Service Information Committee.

An analysis of advertising and advertising appropriations made from reports submitted by thirty-two of the larger Public Utilities revealed that these companies now expend 63 per cent of their advertising appropriations in daily and weekly newspapers and indications are that this rate will be increased materially in the future.

The report, presented by E. Paul Young, Chairman of the Committee, says in part:

The amount of newspaper space used by utilities has increased greatly in just a few years. Through the newspaper advertising on security and merchandise activities, the utilities have renewed their appreciation of the value of newspaper advertising. Fortunately this has changed the attitude of many utility operators from the old idea that a utility must advertise in a newspaper in return for its good will, to the realization that advertising money spent in newspapers is more than justified through results accomplished.

Other conclusions reached from the analysis are:

"Utility Companies spend a fraction of 1 per cent gross income while manufacturers spend 3 to 7 and even 10 per cent profitably for advertising purposes. More money will be spent for utility advertising when it is not handicapped by too close departmentalizing. The general improvement in quality of Public Utility advertising is placing the industry on a sound, practical advertising basis. We are not advertising enough. Our general ratio is much too low."

Ancient Land Guards Secrets of the Past

Where next will the seeker after ancient treasure pursue his romantic quest? asks Martin Pugh.

The answer is to be hoped, he continues, in Syria. One of Professor Petrie's ablest lieutenants remarked to me not long ago when we were coasting along the Syrian seaboard: "When the excavator can get at the treasure this country holds, discoveries will be made that will put the wealth of ancient Egypt in the shade," quotes the Family Herald.

"We were passing Tyre. This ancient seagirt port stands guard over secrets which may one day set before us in undimmed colors, the romance of the Phoenician merchant adventurers. Diggers have, so to speak, scratched its surface, but hardly more. All Syria knows the legend that, from time to time, pieces of gold are found on its historic beach—fragments of the wealth its mariners won a score of centuries ago.

"Sidon, too—sleeping peacefully in the midst of its orange gardens and vineyards—has, as yet, yielded little to the searcher after objective history. Yet what wonders must lie beneath that ancient city."

"Relics of a hundred histories—Roman, Greek, Persian, Hittite and Chalchian, and who shall say how many more?—lie, above and beneath the soil, in the country guarded by snow-clad Lebanon.

"Excavators hardly dare disturb the treasure-laden soil of Syria; for the law at present runs but feebly there, and once native cupidity were aroused no ancient site would be safe.

"Yet even scratchings of the soil yield daily relics of successive conquering nations. I myself have turned over, in the dim shop of an old man who buys the petty spoils of grave-diggers, an alabaster image with queer (I think, Cufic) inscriptions, a florin of the last crusading count of Tripoli, and neo-Greek statuettes dug from the mysterious hilltop of er-Rastan.

"Southward, in Palestine, there are ample harvests of historic worth to be won. Already Mount Zion is marked down for investigation. We may learn, ere long, whether the golden vessels of Israel do really lie beneath that magic, hollow-sounding stone in the Harames-Sherif (often wrongly called the mosque of Omar) which is held by Moslems to be the lid of hell.

"Transjordan, with its magnificent amphitheaters and forums—indeed, all that desert which stretches from the Suez canal to the confines of Mesopotamia—has forgotten cities buried beneath its sand, and even the green plain of Sharon may one day deliver up secrets locked in it since the days of Solomon."

When the Two Met

Several days ago, while the noon-tide of pedestrians was sweeping East Washington street, it happened that an unusual number of persons attempted to pass through the temporary arcade in front of the partly completed Selig building.

An ample and rather jovial fat man had elbowed his way almost through the crowd and was breathing a sigh of relief when the unexpected happened. Just as he started to turn from the arcade to the street he ran into a large colored woman of equal size. Both took the count.

"Why don't you put out your hand when you all is goin' to make a left turn?" exclaimed the colored woman as she picked herself up.

The fat man said nothing, but arose and dusted himself off. Before resuming his amble down the street he asked, "Did anybody get the number of that truck?"—Indianapolis News

W. F. Weathersly and little daughter Wilma, motored to Ballinger on Sunday to meet his daughter, Miss Mauryne, who has been with the Western Union at Mission, Texas. Miss Mauryne is just getting up from an operation, and has come home to rest for two or three months. Mr. Weathersly reports good rains from Ballinger to Roscoe, however the crops on the South Plains look better than anywhere from here to Ballinger. He said crops were pretty

SHERIFF AND DEPUTIES SHOOT O'DONNELL BOYS

A regrettable near tragedy occurred Friday night about 10 o'clock near the stock pens when a car driven by Ennis Curtis was fired upon, two of the shots entering the car, one of which struck Homer Cargal in the shoulder, plowed its way thru and struck his hand, making an ugly wound and clipped the end off a finger. The same bullet ripped a furrow thru the neck of Eugene McKinley and passed on out thru the windshield of the car. The other shot entered the car from the side and only missed Curtis by a margin so narrow that he felt the impact as it buried itself in the seat of the cushion. Roy Gaultney was the other occupant of the car. Sheriff Boone Dillard, of Lamesa, Sheriff J. M. Simpson, of Tafoka, and special policeman W. V. Tylbert, of O'Donnell, were arrested and placed under bond charged with the shooting, the bonds of Dillard and Simpson were placed at $2,000 each and Tylbert at $1,000.

According to Ennis Curtis, the party were driving about town and when near the stockpens the car was stopped and the officers came to it and searched it for booze. After the search the boys drove away but later returned and upon approaching the officers a light was flashed at them, but thinking it was a salute they drove on a short distance and decided to return. When approaching the officers they were commanded to halt, and before the car came to a stop, three shots were fired, two of which left their mark as above stated. The boys were taken to physicians and their wounds dressed, and if no complications arise they will soon be well but disfigured for life.

No statement has been made so far as the Index has been able to learn as to why the parties charged with the shooting fired the shots. Complaints have been made to the officers that booze was being sold to employees of the railroad company camped near the stock pens, and they were there to stop this illicit traffic.—O'Donnell Index.

WILD BILL HICKOK NOT "BAD MAN" TYPE

John Hays Hammond's
Tribute to Westerner

There was "Wild Bill" Hickok. As scout and spy on the Union side in the Civil war he had made a record few men have equaled. As a sharpshooter it is doubtful whether he ever was excelled. Like thousands of others, the war over, he went seeking his fortune in the West. He never accumulated anything to mention.

Quiet, unoffending, he was repeatedly forced to take life, by the law of that day that each man's life and belongings were his to have and to hold—if he could—and as a killer his name stands above those of all the other gunmen the West developed. At the age of thirty-nine he was assassinated from behind his chair where he was playing cards in a saloon.

He had always fought alone, single handed—double handed, to be exact, for he was a two-gun fighter, and terrible with the knife. His total tally of men slain, including some score of Indians, was 85, and there were no Heesian notches on his gun.

For a time Wild Bill was United States marshal at Hays City, Kan., then one of the toughest towns on the frontier. There he had to kill two misfactors while covered by their pistols.

He was elected town marshal of Abilene, at the Kansas head of the old Santa Fe cattle trail, a wild, wild town. Embodied down trail among the cattlemen made up a purse of $5,000, and sent eight gunmen on a train to Abilene to finish Bill off. Hickok got wind of their coming, met the train and ran seven of them out of town. The eighth was killed leaping from the car.

Tiring of a life of unending trouble with his fellow men, Bill gave up official life and moved to Deadwood, S. D., and married. Emerson Hough says, "It was as had a place as could be found in the mining regions. There August 2, 1876, he was shot in the back of the head and killed. The undertaker found that his body was a mass of old bullet and knife wounds.

Once while guarding some horse not his own, he was attacked in a dug out by ten men whom he had refused to join in stealing the animals. Single handed he shot and cut and clubbed to death nine of them; the tenth ran away. Yet, says Hough, so big was the heart of Wild Bill that "for year he supported out of his meager fund the widow of the leader of this gang, one McCandless, as he did the widow of several other men he had been forced to kill. And he never failed to provide at his personal expense decent funerals for the white men he had 'finished.'"

General Custer said of him: "He was a plainsman in every sense of the word, yet unlike any other of his class. His manner was free from all bluster and bravado. He never spoke of himself unless requested to do so. His influence among the frontiersmen was unbounded; his word as an officer was law." General Miles has personally confirmed to me General Custer's estimate of Wild Bill as a man.

This brief sketch of the old West's premier gunman is worthy a place in these pages, I believe, for one reason: to correct an impression that prevails among some millions of well-meaning but uninformed Americans in the cities and elsewhere, that the "killer" of our old mining and cattle days was just a bloody-minded wretch undeserving a marker on his grave.

There were many such, and there were many who were not such. I have entertained with a sense of being honored a number of men of the Hickok type. I would not permit the cheap sneaking, city "killer" of today to sleep on my gravel. In the parlance of the Wild West, I wouldn't "give him hell room."—John Hays Hammond in Scribner's Magazine.

Always Truth Makes Free

It would be foolish to treat with scorn the forecast made by Dr. E. E. Free, editor of the Scientific American, regarding the new civilization which he sees to be likely as the result of a successful attempt to apply practically the Einstein theory of relativity. One may grant that it is somewhat startling in its nature, but then every revolutionary challenge to the world's settled convictions has seemed ridiculous and impossible to most of those to whom it has been first suggested. And the feature of perhaps greatest interest is the fact that his vision springs out of the proof that it is through gaining clearer ideas of the actual status of things in the physical universe that its forces are being harnessed more and more for the service of mankind. In every branch of endeavor, indeed, the truth is what makes free.—Christian Science Monitor.

An Ingenious "Alibi"

The people who are most intolerant physically are often quick enough mentally. Such was the case with the British workman of whom the Teller tells. He was usually late in coming to work, and one day the foreman took him to task.

"It's a funny thing, Jim," he said, "you allus coming in a quarter of an hour behind the time and living next door to the works; while Teddy is allus on time, and lives three miles away."

"There's nowt funny about it," retorted Jim. "If he's a bit late in a morning, he can hurry a bit; but if I'm late, I'm here."—Youth's Companion.
