Chamber of Commerce CURRENTS

By the Secretary

The Chamber of Commerce compiled and tabulated statistics for presentation to the Interstate Commerce Commission on the rail hearing, which opened at Plainview, Texas, on Monday, 23th. These figures were not secured with the object of immediately obtaining another railroad for this particular part of the Plains, but as a concerted action of the South Plains counties and towns to obtain a direct eastern rail connection from the Plains, which would give a 12 hour quicker schedule between points here and Fort Worth and Dallas. It was very kind of the Press to state that Brownfield and Terry county had probably the best showing of statistics for presentation, in its arrangement and form of its brief with reference to development. A copy of this in some of its phases and in condensed form, will appear in the next issue of this paper.

Plainview had the trees around its courthouse nicely whitewashed this week, as well as the trees that line the residence section. It made a very fine civic appearance and caused favorable comment, which reminds us that Brownfield could easily do the same and as tourists are through here every day, our town would be daily advertised and commented on for its civic appearance.

We think it would be a mighty fine thing if the city administration would have the big water hose turned on the streets of the business blocks and then the drags applied. It would fill up the holes, smooth the streets, cool the atmosphere some and then too the last time we did this it immediately rained—lets try this again.

The Chamber of Commerce is preparing a page ad and description of Brownfield and Terry County for the South Plains Fair Catalogue of Lubbock this year. This being donated for Brownfield's use through the cooperation of this Chamber of Commerce with Lubbock in her programs.

It may be dry here, but it's dryer other places—Moral: Stay in Terry.

ONLY THE GRAND JURY CALLED FOR MONDAY

In view of the fact that District Judge, Clark M. Mullican, of the 72 Judicial District, is in San Antonio as an officer in the Citizens Military Training Camp, and the further fact that this district is to be divided in August with a new district Judge and Attorney for the southern portion of the district, only the grand jury for Terry County is to be set to work here next Monday and the petit jury will be asked to reassemble the 4th Monday in August instead, at which time the new district and the new officers will set in motion.

There are a number of cases, we understand, to be investigated, but their trial can be set forward for the new District Court.

USING ICE AS FAST AS IT IS MADE

The local Ice Plant has had to keep turning lately to keep ahead of the local demand, as other plants in this section run short making this plant have to care for everything up and down this line of the Santa Fe.

Mr. Hodges, local distributor, informed us Saturday that they were cutting and selling ice just as fast as it was being taken from the factory. A little better than ten tons of ice was used here between suns Saturday.

Now our good friend, Mr. Wardock, of St. Louis, who told us in the spring that they were building five years in advance of the territory, or that much before it would pay, may have to revise his figures. But the Texas Utilities have had to revise on their estimate of the South Plains so often in the past ten years that they are getting used to it.

SWASTIKA CLUB

The Swastika Club met Monday with Miss Othel Rentfro. After spending a delightful afternoon in doing needle work, dainty refreshments were served to the following: Misses Blanche Brothers, Geneva Brothers, Mildred Hohn, Othel Rentfro, and Jewel Graves.

Putting on a New Edge

BROWNFIELD BOTTLING WORKS MAKING GOOD

One of the very newest industries in our city is the Brownfield Bottling Works, established here some four months ago by Mr. John M. Smith, formerly of Sweetwater. In conversation with Mr. Smith recently he said his business had already reached proportions far beyond what he expected the first year, and was steadily growing. He said he was anxious for the people of Brownfield and trade territory to know that he appreciated their business that had enabled him to make a real go of it the first year.

To show the extent of the growth of his business we gladly submit the following figures of the monthly increase:

April, No. of cases	.....500
May, number of cases	.....800
June, No. of cases	.....1900
July, estimate beyond	.....2000

Mr. Smith informed us that he was thinking of taking in as partner an old friend who is now traveling for a bottling works supply house and who thoroughly understands this kind of business, and if so they would most likely put in a very up-to-date creamery next year.

Help Brownfield industries and Brownfield pay rolls grow by patronizing them. Insist on Brownfield bottled goods.

STORES TO CLOSE HERE AT 6:30 P. M.

Bob Lovelace carried around a petition Tuesday which the local stores were asked to sign, in which they agreed to close their places of business at 6:30 p. m. except Saturday. He reports that only one place of business refused to sign the petition.

This is a move in the right direction and something that all other towns of consequence are already practicing and enjoying.

GIRL INJURED WHEN CAR OVERTURNS ON HIGHWAY

Mae Ward, 19 years old, was dangerously injured yesterday when a light car in which she was riding turned turtle on the Lubbock-Brownfield highway two miles southwest of Ropesville.

She was accompanied by her little niece, age ten years, who was pinned beneath the car with her but who was not injured.

The up-turned car was found by tourists who immediately raised it and extricated the occupants. Miss Ward was unconscious for a while but a physician was summoned and after a hurried examination announced that her injuries may not be fatal—Lubbock Avalanche.

While trying to catch another car on the highway, Miss Cricket Baldrige, of Tahoka, turned her car over, giving her and her young man companion a few minor bruises, one day last week.

TRAIN SERVICE HERE VERY POOR LATELY

For the past two weeks the local Santa Fe trains have been from one to two hours late every day. The train Monday did not arrive until about 8:30 p. m., but that fact can be excused as the engine that started was derailed at Doud, where it was switching material over on the branch under construction.

But the fact the Santa Fe is building a new line is no excuse whatever that the mails and express, not to say inconvenience to the few passengers who patronize the line, be delayed each and every day. The train is due here at 3:00 p. m., and if the train gets here at just any hour after that which may be convenient to the Santa Fe, the schedule might just as well be discontinued for all the good it is. It is only a few miles out from Lubbock to Doud, and it is hard to understand just why the Santa Fe does not put on one of their old engines to handle this construction traffic.

If the Santa Fe was just one little old "jerk-water" out fit, there would be some justice in rendering poor service, perhaps, but as it is not only one of the largest but one of the richest railroad companies in the world, we naturally expect service in keeping with the importance of the company. What if they rendered such service on some of their main lines where they have competition?

Our notion is that our Chamber of Commerce should take this matter up with the Santa Fe people good and strong and if no satisfaction or improvement is made then take the matter up with the Postoffice Department at Washington.

ALL SCHOOL TRANSFERS MUST BE MADE AT ONCE

Those who are contemplating having their children attend school at or in another district this coming term, must make their transfers before August 1, in order that their children may get tuition as long as that amount of state money holds out.

It is our understanding that all children transferred from a short term district to a long term district may have free tuition only so long as the money they bring with their transfer holds out, and then a charge may be made from then on. It therefore is nothing but justice to the district into which you are moving as well as a saving to yourself that you make an effort to get them and their money transferred before the time is up.

Don't expect the big districts into which you pay no taxes, to wholly or even partially educate your children, without making some provision to partially reimburse them.

Dr. W. N. Lemmon was down Sunday, mixing with the large crowds at Tokio.

RECORD CROWDS ATTEND COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION

Despite the fact that Sunday was a scorching, people flocked into Tokio 17 miles west of Brownfield, from all corners of the county, and with a jammed crowd in the tabernacle, and hundreds of cars parked closely around it to cut off what little breeze there was, it was one hot place, for we tried it an hour or two. As late as we arrived, however, there was no more chance for us to get in three that there would be for an evolutionist to get a school in Tennessee. But after one look at the perspiring, wilted looking bunch on the inside, we chose the outside by a big majority.

But despite all this, they were doing some real singing and the bunch appeared to enjoy it, both singers and listeners. But they say singers are a long winded bunch.

At the noon hour the Tokio community were ready with a good feed and despite an unusually large crowd, it is said that Tokio took care of it handsomely. Not only was Terry county on hand in good force but all adjoining counties were well represented, especially Yoakum, as Tokio is only a few hundred yards this side of the county line.

WORK ON COURTHOUSE DELAYED AGAIN

We learned Tuesday that Mr. Morgan, of Big Springs, who has the contract to build the new $120,000 Terry County courthouse, will not be here until next Monday, at which time he wants all those to meet him here who wish work of any kind on the building.

Mr. Morgan was to have been here Tuesday of this week to start operations, but for some unavoidable trouble he has been delayed another week in getting here, but we are sure that he will make every hour tell when he finally gets on the job, and that when the job is finished it will be the pride of every citizen.

The building of this structure just at this time will give lots of work to those who really need work on account of poor crops. Pitty but that we could have spent a good sum on our roads. It might have been the means of keeping lots of people here another year that may have to leave, especially those in the dryer sections of the county.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School, 10:00 a. m.
Preaching 11:00 a. m. by Rev. E. E. Robinson, of Lubbock.
Egworth League, 7:30 p. m.
Will be no evening service as the Pastor is in a revival at Tokio.
J. P. Watson, Pastor.

Bert Sheppard was in one day this week and reported that his son Houston and family were touring the west.

SOME SECTIONS OF COUNTY VERY DRY

Most of the crops around Brownfield average very well with last year, and if they get a rain in the near future they will have no cause to grumble much this fall, but from Gomez until one gets nearly to Tokio a pitiable condition exists. The little stuff, or part of it at least, was up but seemed as if it was almost-ready to catch fire from the broiling sun and hot winds of Sunday afternoon.

After one reaches Tokio, they encounter very good crops, and it is said that this obtains for several miles over into Yoakum county, some of the citizens claiming the best crop in years, but like the rest of the state it is spotted.

Returning the south road, by Gomez, the crops seemed to be much better than on the north road, with the exception of the Turner community, where they are needing rain badly.

Besides the hot winds and the hot sun, the editor also got hung up for about an hour on a high middle, and got off the road and in a deep sand bed for another half hour, to make his afternoon one round of pleasure.

While the above crop report for that section is true there are large sections of the county with, perhaps average crops, and if we have rain in the near future old Terry will foot some of us again this fall as sure as you live. And it is not the only dry country, but this is no consolation as it would be better for us in case it should continue dry, if other sections had good crops.

SEVERAL TAKE CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

Mr. Claude Peake, of Lubbock, assisted by assistant Postmaster A. L. Burnett, of this city held an examination at the school building here Saturday the 18th, to fill a place for a new clerk in the Brownfield postoffice.

It is said that it was one of the liveliest contests that has ever been held here. Eight persons, six men and two women underwent the examination.

It will probably be several weeks before it is determined who will be the person, and any one of the three high ones may be chosen.

FAMILY NIGHT AT RIALTO THEATRE A SUCCESS

The largest crowd that has thronged the Rialto Theatre in some time were on hand last Friday night when the management made a concession of admitting the whole family at the price of the parents, or 25c each for the father and mother.

There was an especially good feature and comedy on tap that night and the children's laughter indicated the fact that the small boy was having his ending.

We understand that this was merely a tryout of the matter and that "family night" may be made a permanent feature at the Rialto, as a first class serial will start on Friday night, to be continued each Friday night thereafter, before long.

EIGHT RACING PIGEONS LEFT HERE SATURDAY

Eight fine racing pigeons, belonging to citizens of Springfield, Ill., were released here Saturday morning at 6:00 o'clock by the local Santa Fe depot force, and after a few circles they began their long journey of 1000 miles to the capital of Illinois.

These pigeons had just finished a 500 mile race from another direction from Springfield, and as it was found that Brownfield is just about 1000 miles in an opposite direction, this place was chosen for the starting point of the 1000 mile race.

No word had been received up to here Tuesday noon whether or not any of the pigeons had reached Springfield.

AEROPLANE STORES TO PULL SALE SATURDAY

You are expected to have all your aer-o-plane bonds on hand Saturday, for the third aer-o-plane sale will take place in front of the Hudgins & Knight store, beginning at 4:00 P. M.

These sales have become a fixture in Brownfield, and many look forward to these events, for it not only becomes the means of their obtaining some useful goods without a penny cost, but the amusement of bidding one against the other is worth something.

PROMINENT OKLA. MERCHANT HERE ON BUSINESS

Mr. S. C. Boswell, of Durant, Okla., came in last week on business, as he is interested with the Collins Brothers in the Collins Dry Goods stores here and at Boswell, Oklahoma. Mr. Boswell also has a large store at Durant. Mr. Boswell has always had great confidence and admiration for the great South Plains section of Texas, and seemingly that confidence grows with each visit. He always has a good word for our city and its trade territory and predicts a great future for us.

In speaking of his home conditions he said they were everything but good, as dry weather had prevailed there and seemed to be much dryer than here. Feed crops were gone, he said, and cotton was shedding and was small. The weevils however had been knocked out.

PETITION THAT STAR ROUTE NOT BE PUT ON

Postmaster J. C. Bohanan showed us an order last week from the Postoffice Department at Washington asking for bids on a star route from Brownfield, three times a week, to go some 12 or 15 miles down in the Union community and back up the same road.

Later in the week we learned that scores of names were being signed to a petition asking the department not to establish the route, one reason given being that in a few years when the citizens of that community got a real chance for a rural route this short star route might stand in the way. Also it was explained that inasmuch as the last delivery day of the week was to be Friday, that the people would get mail later as most of them come to town on Saturday anyway.

We might also state that the route was unsatisfactory to our postmaster as he had his heart set on a rural route. Perhaps when we get a little more road work this can be done.

MURDERED TULIA MAN'S BODY IS FOUND BY ROADSIDE

Plainview, July 17.—J. Fred Connor, automobile dealer of Tulia, was found murdered on the state highway between Plainview and Kress, nine miles north of Plainview, early Friday morning. Connor's body was badly mutilated and had bullet holes in it, giving evidence of foul play. He was known to have been driving a sedan automobile which has not been located. Connor's coat was found by the side of a lake south of Plainview on the same highway.

Connor had been to Baird where he had traded automobiles with Dr. A. R. Hayes of that place who formerly lived at Tulia. Connor was returning in the car he had traded from Dr. Hays and had two checks signed by Dr. Hays, one of which was on a Tulia bank. Connor's pocketbook was found on the highway south of Plainview some 15 miles from where the body was found. The pocketbook was found by G. R. Sturdivant, Deputy Sheriff of Hale County, some few yards from where Connor's coat was picked up.

The coat was found by a cotton chopper. The coat had several identification marks. Connor's body had one bullet hole through it right under the right arm and his head had a hole in the back of it which apparently was made by a hard blow with a blunt instrument. It is reported that Connor had been seen between Baird and Plainview riding with two young men in the car which he obtained from Hays, a sedan.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers. Connor is the son of N. G. Connor of Tulia, one of Tulia's founders.

Connor is married by a wife and two children. He was reared in Tulia and was well known over the South Plains. Local officers are working on the case and have made no... Star Telegram.

Discount Sale

Six Good Reasons Why You Should
BUY YOUR TREES AT HOME

1. They are better because we have spent ten years studying and four years growing varieties for this climate.
2. You can get them and set them out the same day.
3. We give personal attention to the handling of our trees such as cannot be done by the larger nurseries that work many green and inexperienced men.
4. They are cheaper because it costs money to put agents on the road, so we are going to give 15 percent discount to everyone in Terry county who places his order before September 15.
5. If you buy from us you may see your money again, as it does not remain long with us.
6. If you have any complaint to make you will know where to find us.

We thank our friends and patrons for their liberal patronage of the past, and hope these reasons will convince you it is better to buy at home.

THE PINK BOLLWORM SITUATION

Efforts to eradicate the pink bollworm in the cotton belt proper apparently have been unsuccessful, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, but a serious danger exists in Western Texas and New Mexico, where the nearness to infested lands across the border and other factors have made successful eradication measures impossible. Because of this danger the Federal Horticultural Board of the department recently held a conference at El Paso, Texas, with State officials, planters and others.

In the Big Bend district of Western Texas there has been such an increase in infestation that nearly every boll of the 1924 crop contained one or more insects. The department thinks that similar increases in infestation will later be found in other districts in that western region.

Because of danger to other parts of the country, the department finds it necessary to take measures against the spread of the pest. It is proposed to further revise Quarantine No. 52 in several important respects. The revised regulations will not permit interstate shipment of cotton seed from a quarantined territory except from such a territory in one state to a contiguous quarantined area in another. They will also prohibit the interstate shipment of lint from infested regions unless it has been given vacuum fumigation after which it may be moved without restriction. The department hopes that its restrictions will be supplemented by state regulations which will not allow the seed from infested territories to move to other parts of the State nor shipments of lint to be made before having been fumigated in the laboratory. Unless such precautions are taken, says the department, there is danger that the insect may get out of control, a result which would nullify the eradication work which, up to the present, has cost the Federal government nearly $5,000,000.

The policy of the Federal Horticultural Board in the control of the pink bollworm was endorsed at the conference of the quarantine officers of the Southern States, New Orleans June 6.

In Louisiana good results have been obtained in eradicating the insect.

In one formerly infested area it has not been found for four years and in another not for five. This seems to justify release of the State from federal restriction, but scouting the fields will continue and the communities concerned have pledged themselves to take whatever steps are necessary in case the insects are found again.

In New Mexico the counties of Curry, Roosevelt, Lea, Quay and Union are to be released from quarantine. They were quarantined originally because of the possibility that infested seed had been brought in from other parts of the State, but continued scouting has shown no infestations whatever.

Uncle Mose Dumas and family left this week to visit relatives in the San Angelo country.

Washington Victor in First General Election

The first general election in the United States was held January 7, 1789. The Presidential electors chosen met in February to vote for President and vice president.

Each elector voted for two candidates for the highest office, under a provision that the candidate receiving the largest number of votes was to be declared President, while the second choice had to be content with the vice presidency. George Washington received 69 votes and was elected President, while John Adams, with 34 votes, became vice president. Others receiving votes were John Jay of New York, 9; R. H. Harrison of Maryland, 6; John Rutledge of South Carolina, 6; John Hancock of Massachusetts, 4; George Clinton of New York, 3; Samuel Huntington of Connecticut, 2; John Milton of Georgia, 2; James Armstrong of Georgia, 1; Richard Taylor of Georgia, 1; Benjamin Lincoln of Massachusetts, 1.

Before the 1804 election the Constitution was changed so that the electors voted for a President and vice president.

Fanciful Ideas About Lost Tribes of Israel

The kingdom of Israel, established by the ten northern tribes, lasted until Samaria was overthrown by Sargon of Assyria in 722 B. C. At that time 27,000 people were taken to different parts of the Assyrian empire. There are many theories as to what became of the lost ten tribes. Since Jewish monuments were found in China some writers traced them to that land; others traced them to India. Another theory had it that the Anglo-Saxons were their descendants. The general consensus of scientific opinion is that the tribes became absorbed in neighboring nations and thus were not really lost.

Another writer says: "The search for the lost ten tribes has been occasioned by the false conception that the entire population was carried away and yet maintained its ethnic peculiarities, and has been encouraged by fanciful combinations that lack all scientific value."

Pumpkin Sea Story

Years ago a Bath shipowner sailing out of Boston on a foreign voyage took along a great quantity of pumpkins for his crew, but left some of them on the wharf because the steward said he could not use more. They were fed pumpkin so often that the crew became fearfully tired of them so one night a large number of them were thrown overboard without the captain's knowledge. The ship was becalmed and in the morning the captain saw pumpkins bobbing about on the sea. He called the steward and asked him what he knew about them. "I think those are some of the pumpkins we left in Boston that were thrown overboard after we left and they have followed us far as here," said the steward with a grin. Lewis-ton Journal.

Various Leathers

The most important kinds of leather are: chrome, cordovan and patent. Chrome leather is tanned by the aid of chromium salts. Tests made by the government during the World war proved it to be the most durable for shoes. Cordovan or Spanish leather is a soft, fine-grained product that takes a high polish. It derives its name from Cordova, Spain, where it was originally manufactured. At one time it was made from goatskins only, but now it is made from pigskins and horsehides as well. Patent leather was first manufactured at Newark, Del., in 1819 by Seth Boyden, inventor. Pathfinder Magazine.

Covering All the Ground

He is a small town tailor who takes his vacation in Jerks. When things become dull in his place of business, he locks up the store and leaves for a while without saying anything to anybody about it. Being told by a friend that he should have some excuse to give to his customers when he takes impromptu vacations, he printed a large sign which at frequent intervals he places upon the front door of his business place, bearing this legend: "This shop is temporarily closed. Am sick, out of town, attending a funeral or fishing." National Republic.

Lotus in America

Nelumbo nelumbo, the Egyptian or Indian lotus, grows in abundance in a bayou of the Grand river, in Ottawa county, Michigan, and in but few other places in this part of the country. The bayou is about three miles from the village of Spring Lake, a short distance up the river from Lake Michigan, and about 30 miles west of Grand Rapids. Every year brings many visitors to the spot. Incidentally, the American lotus, Nelumbo lutea, also a very rare plant, grows in two localities near Cleveland. Both of them are in the vicinity of Huron, Ohio.

Schopenhauer, whose name became a synonym for pessimism, once compared a human being's pilgrimage in this world to that of a traveler beneath a cloud in a desert—before him there is sunshine and behind him there is sunshine, but always he travels in the shadow of the cloud. Well, isn't it something to have sunshine always ahead and behind?

SARGASSO IS SEA OF MANY SECRETS

Expedition Will Explore Mysterious Region.

As if an enormous giant had put his finger into the sea and stirred it round, the entire North Atlantic ocean slowly revolves in the direction of the clock's hands.

In the center is the Sargasso sea, a gigantic collection of floating islands, made of seaweed and inhabited by countless living things.

Nobody knows how Herodotus, in ancient times, came by the alarming stories he told of this mysterious region, for it is only during recent years that it has been properly charted.

When Columbus and his men were drawn into this oval-shaped vortex, his ship remained out of control for 15 days, and the crew thought they were condemned to perish in a watery prison, closely guarded by seaweed barriers for 200,000 square miles. But a strong wind luckily carried the ship to safety.

Supported in the water by small air balloons, the feathery weeds of Sargasso are mostly olive-brown in color, with blotches of white. The chief source of supply has been proved to be the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea.

Sailors do not like this strange tract which floats, almost like land, on the bosom of the Atlantic. It is reputed to be the home of barbarous fish and the hiding place of mysterious monsters. Animals drifting about on the surface of the sea, with only the scattered cover of moving seaweed, are exposed to many dangers, not only from the birds always hovering above, but from hungry fish lurking in the patches of uncovered sea, which is the loneliest in the world.

To protect themselves, all the living creatures imitate, in a remarkable way, the color of their floating home. One grotesque little animal is conspicuous owing to the disproportionate size of its head and jaws, and resembles the frog fish, sometimes seen near British coasts.

Making its nest of seaweed bound together by long cords of its own manufacture, this singular creature combines all the characteristics of an animal, a fish, and a bird.

A short-tailed crab of the shell-less type swarms on the Sargasso weed and is blotched with white to match the light patches on its surroundings. These and many more peculiar creatures will be examined by Professor Beebe, of New York, who recently set out to explore this little-known region.

A secret ambition of the expedition is to capture a monster squid, a terrifying fish of the cuttlefish family, with black eyes at least 12 inches in diameter and a body 50 feet in length. The body of these giants, one of which the explorers hope to capture, is wrapped in a loose mantle, from an opening in which emerges the evil-looking head with its sharp, parrot-like beak.

This Sargasso monster is the tiger of the ocean, and, like its striped counterpart on land, is said to kill even when not hungry—for the sheer pleasure of killing.

Victoria Invested Wisely

Through the good advice of Disraeli, her chief adviser, Queen Victoria of England, invested in Suez canal stock and was thus enabled eventually to leave additional millions to her children. She also was one of the original owners of a share in the New River Water company which provided the water supply for London. The water shares, originally worth a pound ($5) enhanced in value to where they were worth millions, and even the richest of others like the Rothschilds were forced to be content later with a sixteenth or a thirty-second of a share.

A recently discovered alleged cure of tropical sleeping sickness, the discoverer says, is capable of ridding South Africa of the sleeping-sickness scourge.

Lehar Fox Trot by Whiteman

Time cannot dim the craft of a Lehar. His "Merry Widow" waltz is a dance classic, and this week we find a fox trot by him, "Gigolette," played by Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra on a new Victor Record. It is a rich exotic-sounding number, fulfilling the promise of its authorship. With it is paired "Southern Rose," a pleasant fox trot in the American manner, also by the Whitemans.

This week makes two more for the Benson Orchestra of Chicago, both fox trots without affectations, beautifully played. "Because of You" is smoothly flowing while "The Whole World Is Dreaming of Love" isn't as scharline as it sounds.

Frank Crumit "Ukes" a Pair

Frank Crumit transmits his genial personality to a pair of records this week which will cheer up the dog days. "Lulu's Lady" and "My Sweetie Turned Me Down" are in the latest "hotzy tatz" style, with stringed instruments in the accompaniment.

MAN HURT IN SAND SLIDE AT GRAVEL PIT

W. C. Norwood, an employee of Jim Preston, local sand and gravel contractor, is in a local sanitarium in a critical condition as a result of injuries received when he was caught under a sand slide in the gravel pit in the canyon just beyond the city limits to the southeast, late Monday afternoon.

Norwood was caught between the truck, which he was loading, and the sand slide, his fellow workers said, and was completely submerged under the drifting sands, in which condition he remained for several seconds before his head could be extricated.

Other workers at the pit, realizing Norwood's condition, worked frantically until they had extricated his head from the sand, and the unconscious was revived somewhat by wet clothes. Many minutes of tireless digging was required before Norwood could be removed, however.

First aid was given him from the Rex ambulance and he was rushed to the Lubbock Sanitarium where a thorough examination by the aid of X-ray revealed that Norwood was severely crushed and bruised in the chest and sustained several fractured ribs. Other minor bruises also marked the body.—Lubbock Avalanche.

CITY OF LAMESA WILL HAVE OWN POWER AND LIGHTS

Lamesa, July 16th.—The city of Lamesa has recently purchased machinery sufficient to furnish its own lights, install a white way and have power for its own pumping of city water. Pumping machinery to the amount of $23,050 was purchased.

Two units of Fairbanks-Morse engines were the makes purchased, each unit being 100 horse power. A white way of one hundred ten lights will be installed and lighted with this new machinery.

S. E. Cleveland, Mayor of the city, superintended the purchasing and will have jurisdiction over the installation of all equipment. Other than the engines.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Miss Lucile Blackstock came in Tuesday from Canyon, where she has been taking a special course in the West Texas State Teachers' college summer school. She will enter upon her duties here in September for her third year.

Busy Time on Farm—but Not for Farmer

One day a farmer went to the county fair and his hard-working wife remained at home to see that the farm suffered no loss during his absence. He returned about dark, and coming out on the porch, he inquired:

"I'm tired out, Mary. Is the cow in the barn?"

"Yes, long since," replied the wife. "Is the horse unharnessed and in the stall?"

"Yes."

"Fowls locked up?"

"Yes."

"Wood chopped for mornin'?"

"Yes."

"Be them ducks plucked and dressed for market?"

"Yes."

"Wagon wheel mended and ready to start in hauling wool tomorrow mornin'?"

"Yes."

"Well, then," he concluded with a sigh of relief, "let me have my supper, Mary, and I'll turn in. Farmin' is beginnin' to tell on me."—Country Gentleman.

Simple "Cradle" Used in Placer Mining

In mining, "placer" is a place where deposits of precious metal usually gold, are found near the surface, often in the gravel of river or creek beds. The mineral is obtained by washing the gravel or pay dirt; that is, separating the gold-dust from the gravel and earth with which it is mixed. This kind of mining is called placer mining, and it is in this kind of mining that the miner's cradle is used. The cradle is a simple appliance for treating "pay dirt," earth and gravel containing gold-dust. It consists essentially of a box mounted on rockers and provided with a perforated bottom of sheet iron in which the "pay dirt" is placed. Water is poured on the dirt and the rocking motion imparted to the cradle causes the finer particles to pass through the perforated bottom on to a canvas screen and thence to the base of the cradle where the gold-dust accumulates on transverse bars of wood called "riffles."

Imaginary Land

The name "Hyperboreans" was given by the ancients to an imaginary people, favorites of Apollo, who lived beyond Boreas, or the North Wind. Virgil placed them under the North pole. This favored race dwelt in a terrestrial paradise under a cloudless sky, and enjoyed a fruitful land, unending peace, and perpetual youth and health. The Hyperboreans were said to live in an atmosphere composed of treads of feathers. Herodotus and Pliny both refer to this fiction, but say it was suggested by the amount of snow that fell in those northern regions. The word "Hyperboreans" has been used by anthropologists to designate certain peoples that dwell in the north-east of Asia and the northwest of America, and that cannot be classified either as Mongolians or as North American Indians.—Exchange.

Otherwise Engaged

Rossetti, who painted the now famous rededus at Llandaff cathedral, took so long over them that the dean and chapter became weary of waiting, especially as replies to letters sent Rossetti concerning them were not forthcoming. So one day the bishop of Llandaff, being in London, called at Rossetti's rooms in Blackfriars to ask to see them, and thus discover the reason of their non-arrival and of the painter's silence. But the maid who opened the door there at once informed him that Rossetti was absent and on hearing what the bishop had

Earliest Typewriters

The first typewriter of which there is any record was patented in England in 1714. In 1829 the first American typewriter, called a typographer, was patented by W. A. Burt. In 1841 and 1846 typewriting machines were invented in England which, like many of the early machines, were designed primarily for the use of the blind and so produced embossed characters. About 1867 Charles Latham Sholes began to experiment on the construction of a typewriter, and from this the Remington had its origin. The first crude model was completed in 1868.

Zoo Has Big Food Bill

Choice items on the bill of fare of the animals of the London Zoological gardens during the past year included: 430 horses, weighing 220 tons, fed to the carnivores; 4 tons, 15 cwt. cod-fish, fed to the walrus; 35 tons of herrings and whiting, 1,500 pints of shrimps, 333 gallons of fresh milk, 14,000 tins of condensed milk, 128 pounds of honey, 252 pounds of ants' eggs, 77 pounds of meal worms, 150 bunches of onions, 108 heads of lettuce, and 212,085 bananas. The food consumed in a year cost $70,000.

Keep Sweet

"Suppose you look at the world through a yellow pane of glass," said the late beloved Doctor Jowett. "Why, then you have a yellow world. Suppose you look through a dirty pane of glass. Why, then everything is dirtied. Suppose you look at everything through the yellow pane of jealousy, or the red pane of envy—why, then you disgrace everything. And if you look at things through a sour disposition you will not see anything that is lovely or sweet. The cynical heart has a charmless world."

The woman who always has trouble with her servants is pretty sure to be the woman who hasn't learned the delicate art of paying compliments. The business man who frequently loses a well-trained stenographer right in the middle of his busiest season is the man who hasn't learned the knack of letting his employees know when he is pleased with their work. The club woman who has the reputation of being conceited may not, as a matter of fact, be much of an egotist, but she never gives other women the satisfaction of letting them know that she admires their methods as well as her own. It is a knack worth acquiring.

Reputed to have been left $5,000,000 in a will, the beneficiary has come to court because the sum dwindles to $1,000,000. The opinion of a lot of people as to whether $1,000,000 would be enough for them is not divisible by five.

What has become of the old-fashioned young woman whose most killing verbal weapon was announcement to the effect that he "was not the only pebble on the beach?"

Ink Stains on Carpet

When ink is spilled on a carpet or rug lay on pieces of blotting paper, changing them as often as filled with ink. Now wash the spot with a piece of sponge dipped into milk, squeezing it dry between each application and soaking it full of more milk. When the ink has all been taken out wash the place in weak suds and then rinse with a spongel of clear water. Let it dry without exposure to dust, and it will be difficult to tell where the accident happened.

Rug Buyers Invade Persia

Tardiness Great Evil in Modern Business

Executives of our large business organizations are spending much time and trying all manner of experiments in an effort to induce employees to be punctual.

A wide investigation and search into "the history of being late" shows that "business tardiness" has been creeping upon workers in the United States for many years, and that the problem has assumed large proportions in its effect on company morale, says Thrift Magazine.

Fundamentally, lateness, if habitual and without good cause, is an act of dishonesty on the part of the employee with respect to his relations with his employer.

A few years ago many employers tried the plan of imposing a fine for tardiness, but this did not work satisfactorily, and is no longer resorted to by progressive business organizations.

A new plan has been tried by a number of business concerns and apparently it is working out better than anything previously attempted. In brief, it puts a bonus on punctuality and at the same time establishes an honor roll in the organization.

Easy to Discover the Moral in This Story

It was indeed a lucky day when Harry Raymond of Los Angeles embarked for San Francisco. The steamer was crowded with passengers and there were not enough staterooms to go round. Harry noticed an old gentleman who had no place to sleep, and taking pity on his age, offered to share his stateroom with him.

The old man gladly accepted and the two occupied the room together. Samuel Harrison, Raymond's guest, proved to be a brother of Raymond's mother. Then Raymond learned that another uncle, Henry Harrison, had died, leaving a fortune of about $200,000 to Raymond's mother. But Raymond's mother was dead and Raymond was entitled to the inheritance.

So is kindness rewarded—not only in romance but also very often in everyday life.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Ants With Pink Parasols

Among the recent acquisitions at the London Zoological gardens, says a newspaper dispatch, is a nest of umbrellas ants that have never been seen before in the gardens. They have had a busy time, because during the journey the ants' apartments became greatly disarranged, but the community soon put them to right again. In their native home in Trinidad the ants are always to be found in the neighborhood of rose trees. They cut off parts of the petals of the roses and carry them to their nests, holding them over their heads like parasols, on reaching home they must eat the petals thoroughly and pile up the resulting mixture in heaps inside the nest. On the beds thus prepared grows a special fungus of which the anture very fond.—Youth's Companion.

As long as the teachers of Brownfield instruct the children of our town that evolution "is just a theory" we can see no reason why we should tear our hair over the matter any more than we would should our teachers instruct our children in the reader grades about "Jack and the Bean Stalk" after explaining it to be purely fiction. But when they go to teaching theory as facts, then we may get all riled up.

The Scopes trial is over, at least as concerns the little town of Dayton, Tenn. and we have nothing new to offer from its conclusion. In fact the big New York and Chicago attorneys, not to say anything about the orator from the Platte, did some foolish things, and ask some real fool questions. Some of the questions asked by Clarence Darrow would compare favorably with some asked by local half-wits on the streets. And his hatred of the Bible and Bryan's hatred of evolution is just about a standoff.

Dr. Jeff D. Ray, of the southwest Baptist Seminary, of Fort Worth, recently filled a pulpit in Dallas and when he spoke he said something. He made it plain that the preacher who took for his subject any modern fad, such as the movies, swimming pools and short haired women, and failed to declare the unsearchable riches of God and the plan of salvation, had missed his calling. He classified all sensationalism in the pulpit as worldliness and foolishness, and he believed such was driving people from the church and its influence. It was one of the most sensible discourses we have read in some time.

One can never go long at a time without encountering one of those guys who thinks his brain is the center of all intelligence in the world and that he and his company have all the money in the world except a few dollars Rockefeller and Ford are allowed to keep on hand. Just such a conceited jackass in the form of a patent medicine peddler showed up in Brownfield last week, told us how much we ought to get for our space and how much he wanted to carry, when, and by whom, and finally announced that they would starve us newspapers to death if we didn't do just like they wanted us to do. O!

course he reserved the right to ask what he wanted for his dope he peddles. No contract was consummated with the Herald, we might announce.

Ex-Governor Neff was interviewed in Chicago a few days ago by a newspaper man who formerly lived in Texas. The said newspaper man has it that Neff said the Ferguson administration would come to a "disgraceful end. Neff denies that he said it. Nevertheless, the purported interview has put tongues to wagging. There is talk of Cullen F. Thomas getting in the race for Governor. The purported interview also put other band wagons in motion. Dan Mooney has a little band wagon. So has Jim Ferguson and others. Lynch has made announcement that he will be in the race for Governor, and his band wagon is gathering occupants all along. Mr. Neff is supposed to be a candidate for the Senate and no doubt wants a lot of people to climb upon his band wagon. Whether he said anything against the Fergusons or not, Mr. Neff started something. —Ward County News.

CASTOR OIL

I don't mind bekin's now and then. An' I can even stand it when My mother calls me in from play To run some errand right away. There's things 'bout bein' just a boy That ain't all happiness an' joy But I suppose I've got to stand My share of trouble in this land. An' I ain't kickin' much—but say, The worst of parents is that they Don't realize just how they spoil A feller's life with castor oil. Of all the awful stuff, gee whiz! That is the very worst there is! An' every time if I complain, Or say I got a little pain, There's nothing else that they can think 'Cept castor oil for me to drink. I notice, too, when pa is ill He gets fixed up with a pill. An' pa don't handle mother rough An' make her swallow nasty stuff; But when I've got a little ache, It's castor oil I have to take. "Come swallow this and right away, Afore I get the chapter read; I don't mind bein' scolded, too, For lots of things I didn't do, But gee I hate it when they say, "Come swallow this, and right away." Let poets sing about the joy It is to be a little boy; I'll tell the truth about my case, The poets here can have my place. An' I'll take their life of toil If they will take my castor oil.—Edgar A. Guest.

TEXAS SCHOLASTIC POPULATION 1,336,500

The new Texas scholastic population is estimated at 1,336,500, an increase over last year of 14,900. The increase in 1924 over the preceding year was 17,000. The exact total will be given the State Board of Education on August 1st, when it makes the annual appropriation of the school fund, which is sure to be $14 this year or a grand total of $18,711,000.

LUBBOCK FAMILY ARE POISON VICTIMS

Funeral services for 8-year-old Loys Hamby, poison victim, who died in a one room home here Wednesday afternoon with five other members of the family lying helpless about him, were conducted at the First Christian Church Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Raymond Hamby, ten years old, brother of the deceased, is believed to be dying at the West Texas hospital where the family was moved immediately following the death of Loys Wednesday, while their father, T. R. Hamby, and three other children are believed to be making some improvement.

All members of the family except Mrs. Hamby and her twelve-year-old daughter were stricken with the peculiar fever which has baffled physicians and which is believed to have resulted from ptomaine poisoning as a result of drinking canned milk.

The father and his eldest son were employed by Marvin T. Warlick, county commissioner on highway work west of Lubbock, while Mrs. Hamby and the children were doing farm work on the Ed Green Farm southwest of here for C. E. Lovelace, manager of the farm, and it was not until Tuesday night that they moved to the one-room home near Lubbock from where they were taken to the hospital following the death of little Loys.—Lubbock Avalanche.

PROPER PENALTIES FOR POTENTIAL MURDERERS

Some days ago an alleged boot-legger, speeding through the streets of Washington, collided with a vehicle belonging to the Roman Catholic Church and killed a nun. Pursuing police captured the occupants of the machine and they are now resting under charges.

This murderous incident not being sufficient to deter the heartless enemies of the country's law, a rum running automobile dashed through Lincoln park, demolished a fountain and imperiled the lives of a score of persons, including women and children. It is said that the car was going at a rate in excess of 60 miles an hour. The occupants were captured.

It should be apparent to orderly citizens who intend to continue to control society that such offenders must be punished very much more severely than heretofore; that boot-leggers are potential murderers and that those who support their activities by buying their product are morally blood guilty. Transportation of liquor in an automobile or other vehicles capable of high rate of speed should be considered an offense so serious as to call for the severest penalty. The one object of the prohibition law is not to punish people, but to suppress the traffic in intoxicants and penalties should adequate for the purpose.

Mr and Mrs. C. C. Morrison, of El Paso, were here last week attending the bedside of Mrs. Morrison's mother, Mrs. I. L. Mann, who was seriously ill. Mrs. Mann is reported to be much better at this writing.

We were not a bit surprised to learn Saturday that G. M. Horn had returned to old Terry after rambling around hunting the good place for a year or two. He brought out a crop from some discouraged brother who

MEADOW PRIESTS

Today, and the past week as well, has been so exhilaratingly hot that I hunted up Dante's Inferno and perused that for a while, until it got too hot to enjoy the discomfort of those who had missed the narrow path. I am not sure that we have much advantage of them while this lasts.

Some say that the recent earthquake is responsible for the high temperature we are having, and others say it is due to increasing the fires of the counsel of Scopes at Dayton. Any way it is very unusual weather for the South Plains and crops are not holding up under its blighting, hot winds.

At this season, in the past, the highways have been crowded with tourists, but for some reason or other travel has fallen off more than half. It may be due to diversion to other highways or it may be due, in part, to drought conditions in all parts of the state.

J. W. King, of Lingleville, Texas, with his family and Dried Martin, of Lameca, and his family, were visitors here the past week. Mr. King was looking out a new home. Both families are old friends of the writer.

The Rev. Alfred Bryant, of Ropes, preached at the Baptist Church here Saturday night. We have known Alfred since childhood and was glad to meet him after many years.

There is a singing school in progress at the school house and the "sol-in-las" can be heard at evening and night. We have many good singers here and hope many more will be added to the lot.

Say, I would like to have that article, sent by some friend of Meadow, editor. I do not take the Record and therefore missed this recent cause of Jack's ebullition. It is fair to conclude that he isn't an "anglophobe." His honor roll of Englishmen reaches the whole number of two: Gladstone and Chatham. Certainly a great pair, and deserve almost anything we could say in their praise. In other fields of endeavor there have been other names we could commend.

Shaw is nothing but an iconoclast. He never found anything commendable in any country—not even his own—and recently insulted France by his caricature of St. Joan.

England has not done all she could or should in the matter of rum runners, neither have we acted as we should to the greater republic to the south of us.

The stopping of boot-legging is strictly a domestic affair, and our own republic has allowed other countries to enforce its own laws. Other countries in which alcohol is sold and used as a beverage, can hardly be expected to regard liquor in the same way as our own.

We are maintaining in our own country, a large body of boot-leggers who dispense it at three dollars a prescription and three to three and a half a pint. So rapidly has diseases requiring whiskey increased that doctors having the permits run out of the number of blanks provided long before they can obtain others. As a consequence any who take sick in the interval are doomed to untimely death.

In the humble judgment of this scribe, the doctor who can practice medicine without whiskey is a very poor doctor with it. If it has any virtues beyond the appetite for alcohol, or as a preservative for certain fruits, I have failed to observe them.

We don't know who he alludes to as the "monkey off spring" guys that perhaps it is the evolutionists. If so they perhaps feel like the writer that a line-up with Jocko is quite as inspiring as a trip with Sambo, and his odoriferous tribe. The lineage of Sambo can hardly be disputed by even the most intense advocate of the cosmogony of Moses.

However, we will not quarrel over these matters as they are likely to remain through the coming centuries. I confess I don't know and will leave it at that.

SONG RECITAL

A courtesy extended to Mrs. J. H. McKinney and her niece, brought together the music lovers of our little town on Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. When a privilege of this kind is before us, we are fortunate indeed.

Mrs. W. H. Dallas arranged a highly classic and artistic program.

Miss Juana Davis, of New Mexico, in whose honor the program was given, was in many respects a most wonderful personage. Her voice, a rare, sweet voice, is remarkable for only a very young girl—truly a gift, for she sings with ease and composure and assurance seldom seen in mature singers. She delighted all as she had the listeners of the radio world last winter. Miss Davis was assisted by the following young ladies of our town: Misses Mary Shelton, Elizabeth Downing, Kathryn Holgate, Louise Watson, Rebecca May, Delores Lynn, Lorena Copeland and Caroline Spencer Lubbock.

Strong Sense of Duty

Made Sailor "Missing"

"Man overboard" stories are usually gossamer. Here is one told by Captain Willis R. M., that affords a pleasant change. The warning was sounded and the ship stopped. Boats were lowered but though a long search was made there was nothing found. The question then arose: Who was the man? Many had seen him disappear but no one could identify him. The captain was not at all pleased. It seemed that the lowering of the flaps had not been properly supervised, and the officer in charge of quarter-deck was "getting socks."

"And all I can tell you," said the captain in conclusion, "is that the blood of that unfortunate man will rest on your head."

Meantime, the order "Hands muster by open list," was piped, and the crew fell in by divisions. But the mystery only deepened, for no one was missing.

At last, up the ladder appeared a search-looking A. B., and addressing the officer of the watch, he said:

"I think, sir, as 'ow the man overboard must 'ave been me. I went over with the flap, sir, but 'eld onto the securing chain, and climbed in again very soon, sir."

"But why didn't you say so?" "Very sorry, sir, but, being in the lifeboat's crew, I had to go away to search for the man overboard!"—San Francisco Atzoban.

Money in Madagascar

Tamatave, principal seaport of Madagascar, is connected with the capital, Antananarivo—or Tananarive, as the French call it—by a narrow-gauge railway, the trains departing three times a week. E. Alexander Powell writes in the Century Magazine:

It takes the night train 16 hours to traverse these 225 miles, this being due in some measure to the steepness of the grade, for the capital is nearly a mile above sea level; but even more, I imagine, to the delays incurred in announcing the names of the stations.

How, I ask you, can a train make good running time if it has to wait for the conductor to enunciate such names as Ampanotoamaizina, Andavakini, menarana, Ankaramamadirakia, Ambohtrandriamanitra? Were the employees of American lines required thus to overwork their vocal cords the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen would make a protest to the interstate commerce commission.

Freak Fruit Tree

In the Transvaal a remarkable tree has been grown as an experiment.

A lemon tree was topped until only three branches remained. Upon one was grafted an orange, upon another a grapefruit, while the third was allowed to remain lemon, with the result that at this time of the year the tree is bearing oranges, grapefruit and a few lemons all at once!

In the early season oranges and lemon fruit are in possession. Later oranges and grapefruit hold sway, while at the end of summer the tree has specimens of each adorning its boughs, combined with the dark and paler green leaves belonging to the different fruits.

Reinhart, the Painter

Joachim Christian Reinhart, German etcher and painter, was born at Hof, in Bavaria in 1761 and studied under Oeser at Leipzig and under Klingel at Dresden, in Saxony. In 1789 he went to Rome, where he became a follower of the classicist German painters, Carstens and Koch. He devoted himself more particularly to landscape painting and to engraving. Examples of his landscapes are to be found at most German galleries, notably at Frankfurt, Munich, Leipzig and Götting.

India's Plague of Rats

A former Indian official says that rats are one of the greatest curses of India. There are hundreds of millions of them, and they cannot be exterminated because of religious beliefs. The Hindu will harry the rat, but will not kill him; the Mohammedan, who does not object to killing, knows that without help he can do nothing. And the evil continues. It is no exaggeration to say that, if the number of rats could be kept down to a reasonable figure, the wealth of India would be increased a fifth.—Youth's Companion

Solomon's Wise Rule

Under the reign of Solomon Israel developed into a commercial nation. Foreign alliances which he made formed the basis of trading relations abroad. He joined in maritime commerce with the Phoenicians, and once in three years sent a fleet from his port at the head of the gulf of Akaba to trade with Obit, presumably on the eastern coast of Arabia, and places on the way. These expeditions brought back gold and oriental riches and vastly expanded the royal coffers.

Eye Stones

Different small, smooth objects were used by our grandmothers to remove foreign substances from the eye, and were known as eye stones. The most common object used for an eye stone is the "operculum" of a small marine shell. This is a small lens-shaped piece of calcareous shell and is put into the inner corner of the eye under the lid. It works its way to and out of the outer corner, often carrying the foreign substance in the eye with it.

COW WITHOUT NAME
COPS MILK RECORD

Presidents are born in log cabins, and alley cats sometimes win prizes at feline beauty shows. But usually pedigrees are demanded of milk cows. However, it has remained for a cow without a name, a somewhat scraggly black and white Holstein, known as "No. 51" in the herd of the Adams Dairy Farm near Kansas City Mo., to break Missouri's monthly milk record.

Coe Pritchett, assistant county farm agent announced today that during the month of May "No. 51" gave 3010 pounds of milk, which was 300 pounds in excess of any monthly record ever made by any cow in Missouri. None of the pedigreed, the milked cows of the state farm at the University of Missouri ever have equalled "No. 51's" record.

MANY HOMES NEED
BETTER LIGHTING

Too many American homes are poorly lighted, says the Eyesight Conservation Council in a recent report made on a national survey of States.

Industrial lighting is still far below modern standards, but it is in homes and schoolrooms that illumination has been most seriously neglected, particularly in view of the importance of good light in the healthy development of growing children.

In a large number of homes the lighting equipment is obsolete and has never been changed to keep pace with modern conditions and requirements, says the report. This failure is attributed mainly to the fact that many houses are rented and the occupants are unwilling to wire for electricity at their own expense, even though they may realize the value of adequate illumination and though in a majority of cases the improvements could be made for a relatively small sum.

In view of the fact that Crosby County now has some few more than 3000 scholastics, the office of County Judge and County Supt. had to be divided, and Mr. B. F. Hicks was appointed first County Supt. by the Commissioners Court of that county in session at Crosbyton.

140 TEXANS ARE INSURED FOR $100,000

At least 149 Texans are insured for $100,000 or more apiece, according to an announcement in the Texas index, just compiled and issued by W. A. Callaway of the Southland Life Insurance Company. The list in the index does not purport to be a full list of all those who are insured for $100,000 or more, only those names having been used where permission has been given. Callaway estimates that least 300 and probably 500 Texans are insured for $100,000 or more.

Houston leads the list with 37 insured for $7,745,000. Dallas runs a close second with $7,111,000 written on 35 lives and El Paso is third with 15 insured for $3,205,000. Other cities having at least five carrying $100,000 or more insurance are: Beaumont, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, and Waco. One of the smallest towns in the state, Telephone, has two men who carry more than $100,000 insurance and the names of two women appear on the list.

Not all the names of policyholders whose lives are insured for $100,000 or more appear in the index," says Callaway in a foreword. "But the list is growing larger every year as the larger policyholders realize that the index is an object lesson to the inadequately insured. It is the forward-looking man only who insures his life. And these men, whatever the sum of their insurance, give permission for the use of their names as advocated of a great system for self help, they are rendering a distinct service to their community as well as their community as a whole.

STORAGE BARN BURN
SUNDAY NIGHT

The mule and storage barn located near the cotton oil mill was destroyed by fire Sunday night at 9 o'clock. The barn was being used by H. D. Hanks, who is a contractor on the branch of the Santa Fe building west from Doud and had stored in it harness and railroad construction equipment which was burned, the total loss being estimated at $2,500 none of which was covered by insurance.

Several head of live stock were in the barn at the time but were lead out of the burning building by the night watchman before they were harmed. The fire evidently started on the lot as a negro told the watchman she had seen a fire there but had thought someone was probably preparing supper and did not investigate further.

The barn belongs to S. E. Cone and was partially covered by insurance.

An alarm was sent in to the fire department and all three trucks responded immediately but the fire had such a headway that their efforts to save the building were futile.—Lubbock Avalanche.

THE TEACHERS INSTITUTE

Every year, for the past number of years, the teachers of Lubbock and from all over the South Plains have gathered here at the opening of the school year for a training and lecture course. This year the South Plains Teachers Institute will take on a broader scope.

Plans are already being laid for it and between 800 and 1000 teachers are expected to be here for it.

The Texas Technological college will open this fall and with its opening Lubbock will begin a career which will no doubt make it an educational center of prominence in West Texas.

The teachers institute is a big thing and it is to Lubbock's advantage to get behind it as a city.

It is good to see the plans formulated at such an early date for a better institute will mean a better school system and a better school system will mean better men and women in the years to come.—Plains Journal.

Reserve Energy Both Mental and Physical

Everyone knows what it is to start a piece of work, either mental or muscular, feeling stale—or cold, as an Adirondack guide once put it is to "warm up" to his job, writes William James in "The Energies of Men." The process of warming up gets particularly striking in the phenomenon known as "second wind." On usual occasions we make a practice of stopping an occupation as soon as we meet the first effective layer (so to call it) of fatigue. We have then walked, played, or worked "enough," so we decide. That amount of fatigue is an efficacious obstruction on this side of which our usual life is cast. But if an unusual necessity forces us to press onward, a surprising thing occurs. The fatigue gets worse up to a certain critical point, when gradually or suddenly it passes away, and we are fresher, than before. We evidently tapped a level of new energy, masked until then by the fatigue obstacle usually obeyed. There may be layer after layer of this experience. A third and a fourth "wind" may supervene. Mental activity shows the phenomenon as well as physical, and in exceptional cases we may find, beyond the very extremity of fatigue distress, amounts of ease and power that we never dreamed ourselves to own—sources of strength habitually not taxed at all, because habitually we never push through the obstruction, never pass those early critical points.

Dancers Occupy Stage for But Few Minutes

A team of dancers who appear nightly in one of the most popular supper clubs on Broadway received a letter from a Park Avenue woman, asking them to dance at one of her parties. The manager of the dancers replied to the letter, stating that the team would be very glad to appear and that their fee was $200.

This brought forth another letter from the matron, who protested that the fee was too high, for the reason that she only wanted the dancers for 15 minutes.

It was this point of view that got a rise out of the two dancers.

"Do you know how many dances we could do in 15 minutes?" asked the feminine portion of the team, who discussed the matter with me. "We could do ten dances—just twice as many as we do nightly in the supper club. Do you realize that it only takes a minute and a half to do each one of our numbers? Even with our pauses between dances and the applause, our whole performance lasts less than ten minutes. And then somebody wants us at cut rates to appear only 15 minutes? It is a laugh, isn't it?"—New York Evening World.

Famous Old Castle

The ancient castle of Lochleven is situated on an island in Lochleven, Scotland. It is famous not only as the place of imprisonment of Mary Queen of Scots, in 1567-68, but also as the scene of her escape May 2, 1568. While there, Mary was compelled to sign her abdication in favor of her infant son, James, and to accept the earl of Murray as regent of the kingdom. An interesting account of these events is given in Sir Walter Scott's novel, "The Abbot." The castle was built in 1257, and served as a royal residence in the time of Alexander III. It was besieged by the English in 1301, and again in 1325. Patrick Graham, first archbishop of St. Andrew's, and the earl of Northumberland, were imprisoned there. The former died within its walls in 1447.—Kansas City Star.

Fruits Save the Teeth

Dentists now come to the front with authoritative statements that fresh fruits are the best desserts for the teeth and that they act as a dentifrice. Pastry and other sweets are well known to be not so good for the teeth. Fresh fruits have a cleansing effect on the teeth, the dentists say, not only because of their cellulose fibers but also because the vegetable acids they contain stimulate a flow of saliva which keeps the mouth clean. Fruit juice in infancy is known to be valuable adjunct to the proper development of the teeth, and continued through childhood to furnish the sweets and keep up the work of keeping the teeth sound.—Kansas City Star.

Hair After Death

According to Draper of Harvard university the following facts have been observed concerning the apparent growth of hair after death: "Incidentally in identification, the question may arise whether the hair or beard grows after death. Authorities differ somewhat, but the weight of authority favors the view that the hair, including the beard, ceases to grow at death. Haller explains apparent growth by the shrinking of the soft tissues around each individual hair. That growth of hair after burial of the body may and does occur in exceptional cases appears to be demonstrated by authentic cases on record."

NEW LAW ON CHILD LABOR QUESTION

It is made unlawful under a law passed by the thirty-ninth Texas legislature, for any person, agent or employee of any corporation or individual to employ a child under 15 years of age in or around any workshop, mill, laundry or in any messenger service in any town of more than 15,000 population, according to the federal census, county attorney Owen W. McWhorter said.

If the last United States census, taken in 1920 is to be used in enforcing the law, Lubbock children do not come under its provisions, since the city was given only a little more than 4,000 population at that time.

Another section of the new statute makes it unlawful for any child under 17 years of age to be employed in any mine, quarry or other place where explosives are used or in any disorderly house or other place known to be operated for immoral purposes. It also makes it a misdemeanor for any child under 17 to be sent with any letter or package to any such disorderly house for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not it is operated for immoral purposes.

Several provisos are attached to the statute. One makes it lawful for the child under fifteen employed on a farm, ranch, dairy or other place where farming and stock raising is pursued. It makes it lawful also for a child over 12, who must work to support a mother, invalid father, smaller children or other dependents to obtain a permit from the county judge upon certification by a physician that the child is physically able to work and when accompanied before the judge by some individual who can make affidavit that the child's labor is necessary to support others. No permit can be issued for longer than 12 months. Those employing children must post them in a public place.

Any child may work between June 1 and September 1, except in or around mines, factories and other places where explosives or dangerous machinery are used.

In no case can any child be made to work more than eight hours in one calendar day or more than 48 hours in any one week. No child shall be allowed to work between the hours of 10 p. m. and 5 a. m. in any case. Children cannot be employed as private nurses, maids or servants regardless of age.

The penalties set for violation of this law, which is classed as a misdemeanor, or a fine of $25 to $200 or 60 days in jail, or both for violation of section one which prohibits employing children under 15 in any place except farming and ranching establishments. Violation of section dealing with employment of children under 17 in immoral places or in places where explosives are used calls for a fine of from $50 to $500 or 60 days in jail or both. The same penalty is set for sending a child to an immoral place for ascertaining if it is immoral.

Violation of the provisions regarding the time each day or week the child may work calls for $25 to $200 fine or 60 days in jail or both.

The law is known as house bill No. 161, chapter 642, General laws passed by the thirty-ninth legislature regular session.—Plains Journal.

PARDONED

A man in Dallas was arrested for driving an automobile while drunk. He was tried in a district court, found guilty and sentenced to thirty days in jail. He appealed the case, and the court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the judgement. He served fifteen days in the Dallas County jail and was then pardoned by Governor Ferguson.

The husband of Governor Ferguson has challenged the people of Texas to criticize the unrestrained use of the pardoning power. In explanation of many of the pardons issued, the people are told that the prisoner was friendless and had served a long time with a good record. In other cases we are told that the prisoner is sick and about to die, or else his family needed the fruits of his labor. None of these reasons were given in the Dallas County pardoning case. So far as the public knows, the prisoner, convicted for driving a motor car while drunk, was not seriously ill, his family was not in dire want, nor had he served a long time. There must have been some other reason. It would interest many to know just why the Governor has extended his pardoning power to include county jail prisoners serving short sentences.—Farm and Ranch.

A SCORNER SPEWS

OUT HIS VENOM

The indictment of Scopes for teaching evolution in violation of the law of Tennessee has caused a great deal of discussion of the theory of evolution, the origin of man, and of the Bible account of creation. This discussion has been carried on in the pulpit, in the press, and even on street corners throughout this country and in Europe.

There are some evolutionists who are devout Christians and who see no real conflict between the theory of evolution and the teachings of the Bible properly understood and interpreted. These are entitled to the very highest respect.

There are other churchmen, many of them preachers, who believe in the theory of evolution and at the same time reject the immaculate conception and the virgin birth of Jesus, the miracles and so many of the other vital parts of the bible that they have no right to be classed as christians at all.

There is still another class of evolutionists who are downright bible's skeptics, agnostics, atheists, who scoff at the bible and insist that it is merely a book of myths and fairy tales and contradictions and absurdities that no intelligent person of this day can believe. They usually assert for themselves possession of superior scholarship and intellectualism, and are in the habit of deriding all who profess belief in the book and faith in its Christ. They sit high in the seat of the scornful.

Among this latter class is George Bernard Shaw, of London, who deems himself quite a scholar and thinker and whose views are expressed in a front page article that appeared in the Fort Worth Record and possibly other American newspapers a few days ago. This article is so grossly insulting not only to every professing Christian but to every real red blooded American that it is amazing that it should be published unrebuked in any self-respecting American newspaper. It starts out with a seemingly deliberate and studied insult to America. "We have always had our suspicions of American civilization on this side of the Atlantic" is one of his first sentences. Then he proceeds to scoff at and ridicule the so-called freak legislation that the poor fools over here in America have been silly enough to enact. His pet aversion seems to be the American prohibition laws. Then he gets this out of his system: "The public Assemblies in America abound in monumental men who have every quality of an imposing statue (including the solidity of head) except in silence. A little more silence on the part of Shaw might be appreciated by folks on this side of the Atlantic. There are many patriotic Americans who think all prohibition legislation is unwise and improper, but they recognize the fact that some of the greatest statesmen in this or any other country believe in the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

Among the American blockheads Mr. Shaw assigns Mr. Bryan a place at the top. He has earned this position in the eyes of Mr. Shaw not only because he is the most distinguished exponent of prohibition but because he is the most powerful foe of the theory of evolution in this country. In fact the crowning proof of America's assiduity, in the mind of Mr. Shaw, is her assertion of belief in the Bible. After ridiculing the account of the creation of man as recorded in Genesis, he delivers himself of this highly intellectual thrust: "For these wildly absurd proceedings, Mr. Bryan and the law givers of Tennessee claim the authority of the Bible. Europe stares half incredulously, yet with a pleasant sense of superiority and wonders how soon the American barbarians will begin to sacrifice their daughters like Jephtha, or their sons like Abraham, on the same authority." Listen again: "The real difficulty about the Bible in America is that, though very few read it, everybody imagines that he knows what is in it. . . . We in Europe know what 'wars of religion' may develop into and how much reason the Roman Catholic Church had and has for insisting that to put the bible into the hands of every fool is as dangerous as to put a gas boom into the hand of a very mischievous child."

So, this wise and erudite champion of "freedom of thought" would take the bible out of the hands of the people because it such a dangerous book. While denouncing Bryan and the Tennesseans as blockheads for undertaking to prohibit the teaching of evolution, this paragon of wisdom would prevent the same people from reading the bible. A bright jewel of consistency for this intellectual Goliath to be wearing!

And thus for several columns he goes on, berating Mr. Bryan and other Americans and ridiculing the Bible claiming that it is filled with contradictions and absurdities from beginning to end.

As primitive and simple-minded as the people of America may seem to be in the mind of the colossal George Bernard Shaw, yet we think it fortunate for America and the World that they are not such as he. The truth of the business is that the fellow who deems himself an intellectual superior is frequently only a scholarly animal that can bray. Folks less scholarly and less intellectual than the great George Bernard have learned enough to know that all modern civilization is due primarily to the bible. Had it not been for the influence of this book which Shaw misrepresents and derides, England never would have had a John Bland, a Milton, a Shakespeare, a Blackstone or a Gladstone. It never would have had a church, catholic or protestant, it never would have had a Cambridge or an Oxford University. It never would have had a preacher or teacher of any consequence. It might have made some advancement over the days of Hagesst and Horsa. It might in fact have developed or evolved into a great and powerful arbitrary empire, as Rome did, without a God, but with thousands of little wooden and stone Gods, with no high moral standards and with corruption and vice a thousand times more rampant than it is today in our brain-soaked sceptical England.

Without the Bible there could have been no America. There would have been a vast country here, indeed but instead of being inhabited by an enlightened and progressive people, with such fine characters as William J. Bryan and Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge and Senator Borah as its political leaders and with tens of thousands of pulpits in which good and able men preach Christ and hold up to the people high standards of living and thinking at least once each week, it would have been inhabited in all probability by barbarians, still dancing their war dances, beating their tom toms and worshipping the unknown God instead of the great omnipotent, omniscient, and yet tender and fatherly God of the Bible.

Suppose that Shaw's ideas should prevail. We would burn all our Bibles except a few which he would leave in the hands of a handful of intellectuals like himself. We would tear down all our Christian Colleges or convert them into infidel institutions. We would demolish every church building in the land. We would banish Christ from America. We would teach our fathers and mothers that it is worse than silly and futile to pray. We would tell our children that sin is a fiction, go and satisfy the lusts of the flesh. We would convert a whole continent into a Hollywood. We would have a wild orgy of lust and vice and crime such as prevailed in Ninevah and Babylon and Rome.

It may be, Mr. Shaw, that evolution will come to be an accepted fact of science among the people; we do not know. It may be that many people will come to regard as figurative some portions of the Bible which they now believe is literally true. It may be that they will never be able to understand some of the seeming contradictions of the Bible. But they will never discard it, Mr. Shaw. America and civilization are doomed if they do. The Bible has given the world its highest and noblest conception of God. It sets forth the highest code of morals, notwithstanding your intellectual pratings that the world have ever known. It lays bare to the individual the sin of his heart. It teaches him that his soul is immortal and that there is life beyond the grave; that sin is to be punished and virtue to be rewarded in the spirit world; that happiness lies in virtue and unhappiness and torture in sin. It teaches men and women how to live and how to die, how to fit themselves for a life in the eternal presence of a holy God.

You may be an intellectual superior, Mr. Shaw, and America may be made up of blockheads but it will be a black Friday for the world the day it accepts your views about the Bible and casts it into the junk heap. In fact America is not going to do it, and we do not believe that your own country England is going to do it. Happy is he, Mr. Shaw, who sitteth not in the seat of the scornful.—Tahoka News.

LYNN COUNTY SHERIFF GETS HIS MAN

P. W. Crawford and his daughter each entered a plea of guilty in the Justice Court here Tuesday afternoon and each was fined $25 on charges of enticing a fifteen year old girl away from the custody of her parents. The parties lived near Wilson in this county. The fines and costs in both cases aggregated more than $1300.

Sheriff Wesley Simpson declares that he certainly earned his money in this case. Complaints having been filed and a warrant issued Sheriff Simpson and Deputy W. M. Lee went to the Crawford residence Saturday night to make the arrest. They had apprehended Crawford and brought him out to the car when it became necessary for the sheriff to go back into the house, which he did, leaving Lee and the prisoner at the car. Evidently believing that he could outrun Lee the prisoner made a dash for liberty. It was raining and the ground was covered with water. Lee gave chase but proved to be not much of a sprinter in mud and water. His feet went from under him while his prisoner went across the field. Wesley Simpson followed the trail, instructing to crank up the Ford and go around the field and head them off. The prisoner and the sheriff evidently made tracks across that field at a pretty lively clip, for when Lee got around on the other side the fleeing prisoner and the pursuing sheriff had already emerged from the field and gone yonder. Simpson fired his gun in the ground a few times and the more he fired the faster the prisoner ran. Finally he had to give up the chase. Sunday he got track of this man and on Monday morning Simpson and constable Van Bates left for Littlefield. Thence they went to Sudan and from there had started for Portales, when they met Crawford and daughter and the minor girl who had been enticed to go with them. The three were brought back to Tahoka and Crawford and daughter were lodged in jail to await the trial. On Monday they indicated that they desired to plead guilty and pay their fines and they did so. Judge Metcalf dropped an extra spoonful of sugar in his coffee Tuesday night.—Lynn County News.
