Chamber of Commerce CURRENTS By the Secretary

Cotton Pickers

The Chamber of Commerce has been sending out urgent appeals in behalf of the Terry county farmers for cotton pickers. During the week the following publications were wired to run items calling for cotton pickers for Brownfield and Terry county: Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Dallas News; Waco News Tribune; San Antonio Express. These papers cover the entire State and it is to be hoped that pickers will be directed this way at once. Bell county and one or two of the other dry counties were also wired.

The United States Employment Bureau at Fort Worth was wired and they state that the counties between Fort Worth and the Plains were stopping everything that could be directed west, at least for the present, but also indicated that many pickers would be leaving Central Texas for the West and Plains in two weeks.

We think the City Dads are doing a wonderful work in applying water to our streets. This is especially beneficial during the marketing season when the streets are more susceptible to being cut up and it makes things more pleasant. We should all compliment them on their civic work as they have a payless job, but it should at least not be a thankless one; they will appreciate our thanks. Try them

An appraiser for a real estate loan company recently, after viewing some of Terry county's land offered to loan $7,000 per section on the same. The Chamber of Commerce furnished his company with full and complete figures on the county's development and productivity. The remarkable feature of it is that only a few brief years back loan companies would not enter this field. It is good publicity for this county for them to advertise that now they will loan liberally, for it enables many homeseekers to take what funds they have and with the assistance of long time and favorable loans, obtain a home, and consequently our county more fully developed.

When a town is ahead of the country, the result is a recedure and ultimately a dead town, but when the country develops faster than the town, it means the town must grow. Brownfield is due for more growth, more substantialness, more homes and more business houses. A Dallas man recently invested here and stated that with the territory Brownfield has, its population should double again in five years.

OFFICERS CATCH A MAN MOVING HOUSE

Some two years ago a man took up subscriptions to build what he termed an old folks home in the Wellman community, but so far as anyone ever knew no old folks were ever taken in and offers made investigations two or three times, but as apparently he was on the square, nothing was done.

This week however, word was received here that a house moving outfit from Lamesa was engaged in moving the house off the land to another block of land purchased by the old folks home superintendent for his private use, and Deputy Jim Lewis, accompanied by State Highway Supt. Dick Harbin, who is a special county officer, went down to investigate. They found the movers had the house within about a hundred yards of the line, stopped them, and levied upon the property.

MEADOW REVIEW PURCHASES 23 PRINTING OUTFIT

Editor Harvey Blackstone of the Meadow Review was in the city Monday afternoon, and informed the Herald that he had purchased a printing plant and that in the near future the Review would be published in Meadow. Heretofore it has been printed by the Lynn County News at Tahoka. Editor Blackstone will be much more prepared to give the Meadow people good service with the paper printed at home as he can give more and latter publicity, besides rush orders for job work, and then on top of that creates a payroll in the town they are not getting with present arrangements.

TPA HAVE INTERESTING MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

The Parent Teacher Association met in regular session Tuesday night and we were pleased to find that the teachers did not predominate so heavily, but that more parents were on hand, not that we do not want the teachers, but that we wanted more parents on hand.

It should have been election night for new officers, and indeed two were nominated for president, but inasmuch as the retiring president, Judge H. R. Winston was very ill, no further action was taken by general consent.

Splendid talks were made by Prof. Jackson, and Mrs. W. H. Dallas and Mrs. Joe J. McGowan. Each was fine, and received hearty applause.

Miss Sue Crawford with her low second grade then gave a program that no one but a mummy could witness without laughter. It was a comedy-drama from start to finish, and the very errors themselves caused much merriment.

Miss Crawford stated that the incidents portrayed had actually taken place in her room in the past two weeks.

Discussion of the coming first program of the lyceum course early in November, which the PTA is sponsoring, was taken up, and it was left up to Mr. Fagala to appoint a committee to sell tickets.

A very low price was put on season tickets in order that just as many people as possible see it. Adult season tickets will be $1.50 for the full five programs and $1.00 for children.

Prof. Jackson and Fagala then invited patrons of the school to visit the new high school building especially and see the work going on there any time next week. They asked that this invitation be printed in the Herald and while we are about it, you also have a pressing invitation to come to the next PTA meeting whether or not you wish to join.

JUDGE WINSTON STRICKEN WITH APPENDICITIS

County Judge H. R. Winston of this county was stricken Friday with an acute case of appendicitis, and was advised by his physician to have an operation immediately, but from some cause or another this was delayed until Saturday night, and an examination when he reached the Lubbock Sanitarium disclosed the fact that the appendix was ruptured, and an immediate operation was performed at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

The patient had a bad night Sunday and was reported very low Monday, but more encouraging news was received from the sanitarium Tuesday morning and hopes are now entertained for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foster, of Lubbock, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Young, of Estancia, N. M., visited in the Treadaway home last week.

STYLE SHOW HER LAST WEEK A HUGE SUCCESS

If anyone should say any more that Brownfield is too small to pull a real style show, there will be hundreds to quickly and firmly tell them they do not know what they are talking about for the style show of Thursday and Friday nights of last week was pronounced par excellent by those who had seen them in our largest cities.

Those progressive firms who had a hand in making this first style show a real success were: Collins Dry Goods Co.; Max Winkler; Cruce Dry Goods Co.; Jones Dry Goods Co.; A. B. Cook & Son, and the Rialto Theatre. The ladies and gents wearing apparel, as well as that for the juveniles shown on the stage both nights were not only the latest in styles the markets affords, but the materials shown would suit any pocket book, and ranged from the moderately priced mercerized materials to the pure silks and satins, broadcloths, etc., and coats and suits to suit the tastes of anyone. In fact, after seeing this style show, no one with any reason would think it necessary to leave the city of Brownfield to purchase their fall and winter dry goods.

We also wish to compliment the girls and married ladies who acted as models, for they were at all times at ease, and their movements so timed and arranged as to best display the clothing they wore. This not only showed originality and artistic minds of the models, but the excellent training received at the hands of the show manager, Prof. J. Bert Mitchell, Jr. The effects of the show was also apparent later on in the week, especially Saturday, for people flocked in from every section of the Brownfield trade territory to make purchases of clothing, and many were noticed here shopping from the nearby towns.

It pays to advertise.

WINKLER'S STORE STARTED BIG SALE THURSDAY

The Herald job department was a busy place the fore part of the week getting out a large consignment of two page circulars for the popular local firm of Max Winkler's Dry Goods store, which will be mailed or carried to every section of the trade territory of Brownfield, and those unable to be reached this way will have the privilege of reading the ad in the Herald.

Mr. Winkler has been here something like a year now, during which time he has made many friends and loyal customers by his fair dealing, quality good and reasonable prices. They are expecting you to attend this big fall sale, and are sparing no efforts, prices, or quality of goods to make it worth your while to attend.

All the county and regional fairs of the South Plains section are reporting good attendance and some of the best exhibits ever seen.

OFFICERS GET LARGE STILL NEAR MEADOW

Sheriff F. M. Ellington and deputies raided a place about two miles from Meadow Monday and succeeded in getting a 54 gallon still made from an oil barrel, and two smaller ones of copper construction. It is presumed the people in that section were consuming the stuff faster than he could make it with the smaller outfits, and therefore the large oil barrel was brought into play. Several barrels of mash was destroyed, and several gallons of evidence procured. From the looks of the barrels and fruit jars after they were received here the makers had not taken any course in domestic science or sanitation, but we suppose people who risk their lives drinking bootleg care nothing for the conditions surrounding the making of it, and in fact probably never see the place where it is made, or they would not patronize them.

One man has been arrested to date and is lodged in jail here, and is said to be the same person who was recently tried and acquitted on a charge of making moonshine.

The people here are standing square behind the officers in making raids on these booze joints, and they are going to make it mighty hot for such people in old Terry. We have had several demonstrations recently of the consequences of drunks on this rotten stuff. A more recent one was Sunday when three otherwise fine young men were brought down from Meadow and lodged here in jail, all crazy drunk on some kind of dope with a wollop like the rear end of a mule. One of them had badly battered his father while under the spell of this demon fluid.

How long will our juries permit stuff like this to be made and sold to the youths of our country?

CONTRACT LET FOR OUR SEWERAGE SYSTEM

Contract was let one day last week for the Brownfield sewerage system which when complete will be one of the most modern, as well as one of the largest for a city of Brownfield class in this section of the state and one we will all justly be proud of, and one we hope that will mean that we will have clearer and more sanitary alleys than we now have, thus keeping down fly-breeding places to the minimum, and reduce the possibility of typhoid and other diseases carried by them.

Kirkwood, Whorton & Lee, of San Antonio, were the successful bidders, their bid being $47,841. There were numerous other bidders for the job.

The contract calls for completion in 60 to 100 working days, and work to begin within 60 days from letting of the contract. The contract calls for the building of a disposal plant southeast of the city to take care of a city of several thousand people, and the laying of some 43,581 feet of sewerage mains.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT THE CEMETERY?

We dislike to have to talk as plain as we are going to talk in this article, but sometimes people have to have plain talk put up to them in order to show them their duty. We don't believe there is a more generous hearted people on earth than Brownfield folks, when they are made to see their duty, but sometimes they have to be shown their duty in such an abrupt manner that no one likes to do it, but a newspaper must do its full share of the "dirty" work.

Last spring the people of Brownfield and Terry county who have loved ones resting beneath the sod of our cemetery, and others interested only in a civic way to see that the city of the dead was kept in a respectable condition, contracted with Mr. R. W. Glover to work the cemetery. He accepted the place as caretaker in good faith at the price agreed on, and has rendered good and faithful services. Yet to this good day more than two thirds of the amount promised him has not been forthcoming.

In any line of business when we fail or refuse to meet our obligations, we are at once branded as crooks, and our credit and standing in society is impaired. How much more disgraceful will we be placed in the eyes of people when we fail to pay a debt for services rendered in making more attractive the place where loved ones sleep that long, long sleep?

In conversation with Mr. Glover, he informed us that if those interested would pay him what we agreed to pay and now owe him, he would go over there, cut all weeds, and put the cemetery in fine shape, which would hold it until weeds came again next spring.

Our duty is plain. We should pay him every cent we owe him for the services already rendered, and then pay him for the work now needed, instead of trying to cinch a bargain getting more work than we contracted for.

But whatever we may decide to do, our idea is to get two or three good ladies to solicit funds for the cemetery some Saturday afternoon when interested people may be in town, and see the town people most any time, or at the same time.

But in all honor bound, let's do something.

NEW ZANE GREY-PARAMOUNT PICTURE ON LOCAL SCREEN

The clash between desperate outlaws and the law-abiding element in the vast cattle country of Southern Arizona provides the parallel of destruction and progress in the building of the West, and is brought out in a colorful, romantic manner in "The Light of Western Stars" the Paramount Screen version of the Zane Grey novel of the same name, which comes to the Rialto Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 14-15.

Filed under the personal direction of William K. Howard, the producer of that cinema epic, "The Thundering Herd," and featuring an all-star cast including Jack Holt, Noah Berry and Billie Dove. "The Light of Western Stars" is essentially an adventurous drama of thrilling action with a compelling love interest that takes the most unexpected turns.

When Holt, renowned for his exploits in the cattle country, makes a vow during a rollicking spree to marry the first girl who alights from the transcontinental train at El Cajon, he little dreams of the exciting adventures that are to follow.

Far across the mountain range, terror has descended upon the peaceful town of Miramonte—terror wrought by Noah Berry, who has ridden in with his bandit followers to pillage and slay. And Holt is to come to death grips with Berry over the girl, Billie Dove, who happens to arrive at the time of Holt's mad-cap vow.

This is the auspicious beginning of the dramatic plot which sweeps along to a pulse-stirring climax through an amazing involving, gun-fighting, kidnapping, cattle-rustling and daring deeds of heroism.

Particular interest attaches to the marvelous outdoor settings inasmuch as the entire production was photographed in the mountains and desert country of Arizona.

Alpine—Fifty thousand pounds of Candelilla wax was shipped from here to New York by one firm. This is the largest single shipment made in several months. The wax comes from a wild plant here and is used in the manufacture of rubber.

WORK ON NEW COURTHOUSE DELAYED AGAIN

All work on the new Terry county court house has been suspended again for the past two weeks, except two or three carpenters who are making concrete forms for the basement. The delay is occasioned it is said from the non arrival of steel.

The contractors say they are going to use day and night shifts when they do get started, and promise to have the building ready by April. On the other hand, many predict that with approaching cold weather and other probable delays, that the building will not be ready before late summer and perhaps January 1, 1927.

In the meantime the commissioners seem to be sitting pretty as they say the county will draw down about $15 per day every day over contract time.

FARMERS HERE RUSTLING FOR COTTON PICKERS

While out rustling for news matter for the Herald early Monday, we encountered several farmers who were in quest of pickers to get out their fleecy staple that is now fast opening and some of it white unto the harvest but it seems that those who care to pick it have never been here, or have not arrived. With another week or two of fair weather, there is going to be a real demand and hard to supply and those who have pickers now had better hold on to them even if they have to feed them thru a few days of bad weather.

If the labor question gets much more acute, a real effort will have to be put forth by the chamber of commerce for laborers, for white cotton is worth much more than dirty or bollie cotton.

Then, too, there is a huge feed crop that is fast ripening and will soon be ready for the harvesters, and it will not only be a shame, but a sin to let it be destroyed or ruined with the vast area south of us without any feed to go on next year.

Cotton is now coming in at a satisfactory rate, there being something between 400 and 500 bales received up to Saturday night, and it is believed that closed on to 1000 bales will have been received here by next Saturday night if the weather remains clear.

LAST BAND CONCERT OF THE SEASON SUNDAY P.M.

The Brownfield Band will give its last open air band concert of the season Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the bandstand in the court square, and those who enjoy good band music and at the same time wish to encourage the band by their presence should be there in full force to wish them farewell to all fresco performances until good old summer comes again.

Director Jno. S. Powell and his boys have given the public some excellent free concerts this summer, which we believe have been highly appreciated, and he informed the Herald to give everybody a pressing invitation to be on hand Sunday afternoon. This, of course does not mean that the band has gone into winter quarters and that nothing more will be heard of them until spring, but on the other hand, if properly supported, will be ready at all times as demand is made to render indoor band concerts. They will, also, during the winter learn a lot of new music and immerse in the spring ready to again surprise the public with a lot of good music.

M & M ENTERTAINED

One of the loveliest parties of the season was given at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. John Randal, Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 29th, when Misses Jefferies, Treadaway, Blackstock, Nancy and Elizabeth Dumas, and Mesdames Arthur Sawyer and H. R. Winston charmingly entertained the Maids and Matrons and their guests. The home was made more lovely by a profusion of garden flowers of white and gold, the club colors, through the entertaining suit. The color scheme was also carried out in the prizes and at each table a plate of white and gold mints. Forty-two was the diversion of the afternoon, and Mrs. Roy Wingerd drew high receiving a lovely white and gold macaw wall vase, Mrs. McBurnett, low, receiving a white and gold salt, pepper and mayonnaise set. White and gold brick ice cream and white angel food cake with gold nasturtiums as plate favors were served to the club members and the following guests:

ODE TO THE ARMY WORM By A. C. Martin.

Ah! wretched devil that thou art,
A blot upon our nation's chart;
Thy life is one of gainless greed,
Destruction is thy only creed.
Thou carest not for all my toil,
My wearied soul from o'er wrong
get moil;
While nurturing the tender plant,
That withers before thy murderous slant.
Just when my hopes were soaring high,
Beneath it seemed a prosperous sky
The burdies sang their sweetest lays,
Glad was I 'twas autumn days,
Me though the winter's chilling blast
Would find me sheltered safe at last;

My heart so yearned as ne'er before,
To aid the stricken and the poor.
My field, no painting could compare,
The master's brush had touched with care;
When lo! beneath each emerald leaf,
Appeared thy form in bold relief,
Thou imp from some dark realm
inane
(Put on thy wings and innocence feign)
Pause! in thy angelic mien,
To view my field a wasted scene.
Curse be on thy feindish soul;
May Phantoms haunt thy wearied goal;
"Could I but half thy curses tell,
The wise would wish thee safe in hell.

42 PARTY

On last Wednesday afternoon at the hospitable home of Mrs. W. H. Collins, a very delightful party was given with Mrs. W. B. Downing as joint hostess.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Collins and escorted to the dining room, where Mrs. Downing served them to delicious punch. The entire house was very tastefully decorated. A number of games were played, after which a contest, "A Farmer's Love Letter," created lots of laughter.

Refreshments of punch, cake, marsh mellow loaf with whipped cream were served. Twenty ladies enjoyed the delightful affair and left wishing the Collins home will be open again soon.—Reporter.

ROTAN MAN BITTEN BY A RATTLE-SNAKE

S. L. Wooten came in last Sunday evening from Rotan, where he went in summons to a message from his son, Shakespeare, had been bitten by a rattlesnake. It seems that Shake was in the field and had reached down to pick up a pole to fix some cotton scales when the snake bit him on the hand. He was in the field by himself at the time, but was in calling distance of a neighbor, who came hurriedly and cut the hand to let off the poison and tied a cord around the arm. He was carried to a physician some 20 miles away. Mr. Wooten brought his son home with him and placed him under the care of a Lamesa physician.—Lamesa Reporter.

Wandering Jew One of Oldest Legends

The story of the "Wandering Jew" is one of those old legends that has been handed down from the ages, and every one is at liberty to form his own judgments as to its truth. As to its origin, tradition says that Kartaphilos, the doorkeeper in the Judgment hall, in the service of Pontius Pilate, struck our Lord as he led him forth, saying, "Get on faster, Jesus," whereupon Jesus replied, "I am going, but thou shalt tarry till I come again." Another legend is that Jesus, pressed down with the weight of His cross, stopped to rest at the door of Abasvererus, a cobbler. The craftsman pushed him away, saying: "Get on! Away with you! Away!" Our Lord replied "Truly I am going, and that quickly, but tarry thou till I come." A third legend says it was the cobbler who hailed Jesus before Pilate, saying, "Faster, Jesus, faster." Still another legend says that Kartaphilos was baptized by Ananias some time after the crucifixion, receiving the name of Joseph. At the end of every 100 years, he is said to fall into a trance and waken up a young man of about thirty. There are also German and French legends about the "Wandering Jew," and many romances have been written on the subject, the most popular, perhaps, being Eugene Sue's story, "The Wandering Jew."

Gas Masks for All Animals in Warfare

Carrier pigeons, horses, mules, dogs and other animals used by the army in wartime will be equipped with gas masks should the United States ever engage in another war in which poison gases are used, according to an announcement made at the headquarters of the Second corps area, Governors Island, the New York Times reports.

The mask for horses and mules consists of a cheesecloth bag which covers the nostrils and upper jaw only. Horses and mules breathe only through the nose, so that it is not necessary for the mask to cover the mouth. Their eyes need no protection against tear gas, as they have no tear ducts. The mask is designed to be carried in a satchel on the breast harness when not in use.

The dog mask is built on similar lines, except that it covers both upper and lower jaws. Carrier pigeons will not be equipped with masks while in flight, but will be protected from chemical agents by a special gas cover completely surrounding their transport cages.

Death in the Waters

The overflow of a river in consequence of excessive rainfall is the most familiar type of flood, but there are many others, says Nature Magazine. Low-lying coasts of the ocean are often inundated by so-called "tidal waves"—which have nothing to do with tides in the ordinary sense of the term.

Some of these waves are due to earthquakes, others to storms. In the Lisbon earthquake of November 1, 1755, 60,000 people were drowned by a wave eight feet high that advanced from the sea.

The most destructive storm waves have occurred along the coast of the Bay of Bengal. The one of October 7, 1737, is said to have risen 40 feet in the River Hugli, sweeping away 300,000 souls. The Calcutta cyclone of October 5, 1864, caused the drowning of 48,000 people.

In the terrible Backergunge hurricane of 1876 the water rose from 30 to 40 feet in less than half an hour during the night of October 31-November 1, and 100,000 persons perished.

One on the Pastor

The good parson was a little absent-minded, and somewhere or other during the day, possibly at the barber shop, he acquired a hat that looked very like his, but belonged to some one else.

That evening he dined out and when the guests were leaving the host accompanied them to the door.

"This is yours, is it not?" said the host, picking up the parson's hat.

"Yes," said the parson, "that is mine."

There was a queer smile on the host's face as he handed over the headgear. For pasted in the crown thereof was a card bearing this legend, meant for all and sundry: "No, my friend, this is not your hat!"

Obedience

I do not know anyone who makes us feel more than Milton does the grandeur of the ends which we ought to keep always before us, and therefore our own pettiness and want of courage and nobleness in pursuing them. I believe he failed to discern many of the intermediate relations which God has established between Himself and us; but I know no one who teaches us more habitually that disobedience to the divine will is the seat of all misery to men.—F. D. Maurice, in "The Friendship of Books."

These Sadder Days

On the whole, these are much sadder ages than the early ones; not sadder in a noble and deep way, but in a dim, wearied way—the way of ennui, and jaded intellect, and uncomfortable of soul and body. Not that we are without festivity, but festivity more or less forced, mistaken, embittered, incomplete, not of the heart. And the profoundest reason of this darkness of heart is, I believe, our want of faith.—Ruskin.

Trade Wind Nothing to Do With Commerce

The best-known wind in the world is the trade wind. It is commonly assumed that the world is connected with trade or commerce, because in the old sailing-ship days mariners used to seek this wind that it might blow them steadily in the right direction, be dependable, and not subject to variation or calm. This is a common error.

In Anglo-Saxon it was the trade wind, a wind with a specific trend, trend or direction.

The trade wind, then, is one of uniform track. In the northern hemisphere these winds blow from the northeast, and in the southern hemisphere from the southeast, about thirty degrees on each side of the equator. In some places they blow six months in one direction and six in the opposite.

The mistral is another famous wind. It is a violent northwest wind blowing down the Gulf of Lyons and felt particularly in the neighborhood of Marseilles. The simoon is a hot, suffocating wind that blows in northern Africa and Arabia. The sirocco blows from north Africa over Italy.

Bees Not Permitted to Roam at Large

In the great plum-growing districts of northern California bees are being caged with the trees to insure pollination of the blossoms with pollen only from other trees of equal quality, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Much less has been occasioned to growers in the past due to cross-fertilization of their pure-bred plums with pollen from wild species and inferior varieties of the domestic fruit, resulting in crops of poorer grade and smaller size. A framework covered with strong mosquito net is built around each tree and a hive of bees is installed in the inclosure when the blossoms begin to appear. Freshly cut flowers from plum trees of equally good grade with the one caged are supplied to the insects each day and from these blossoms the little workers carry the pollen to their home tree. Cages have also been equipped with wheels so that an entire orchard can be covered with the inclosures in a short time.

Romance of Flowers

A great many of the flowers so well beloved bear names taken from human beings and are recorded in classic legends. Take, for instance, the hyacinth and narcissus. "Hyacinthus" was beloved by Zephyrus, but returned the affection so coldly that the latter, in anger, threw the quail (flung by Apollo) so that it hit Hyacinthus on the head, causing his death. In his grief Apollo changed the youth's blood into the flower. Narcissus, according to one legend, fell in love with his own fair image as he saw it reflected in water, mistaking it for the nymph of the fountain. He pined away and died of unrequited love. The flower bloomed from the place where he languished. Crocus is the Greek "Krokos," saffron, to which family it belongs. Saffron is made from the dried stigmata of the purple crocus. The Jonquil gets its name from the Latin word for a "rush," which has similar leaves and flowers.—The Flower Grower.

Gold Mine Rediscovered

A gold mine was recently discovered in Mexico by the presence of cockroaches. The mine was known to the Spaniards in the days of Cortes, who, on account of the number of cockroaches near the entrance, dubbed it Cucaracha, which, being interpreted, is the cockroach. It yielded a steady supply of gold until 1812, and during that troubled year it was sealed up and its site forgotten, though its story was remembered. A young prospector, finding a rock swarming with these insects, recalled the story, followed their trail, and found the mine, which now, after a century of idleness, is again being worked.—Family Herald.

DOGOLGY AND EVOLUTION State Press in Dallas News.

This column's work would be much less burdensome if the things it settles were allowed to stay settled. The present is a dubious generation. It has its doubts about everything. The foundation of the old faiths have been broken up in many places, and the voice of authority snuffles when it ought to thunder. In the case at issue this morning we have an inquisitive and incredulous customer named South Dallasite who is not satisfied with something he saw in this space a week or so ago. The irreconcilables are with us always, and the dull glow of Senator Buroh's discontent has its reflex in the bosom of a myriad discontents throughout the diameter and perimeter of this country. One of them is this South Dallas party. He read in this column that the dog was the direct descendant of the wolf, which evolution distinctly teaches, but he isn't satisfied with that dictum. "The dog carries its tail up, while the wolf carries its tail down," declares our malcontent. He imagines that it is the tail that wags evolution, not evolution the tail. But that is a far-fetched fancy. It is entirely unscientific. Evolution has a contempt for tails. Look what it has done for man's caudal appendage—eliminated it entirely. Physiologists or biologists, with the evolutionary tell us that when man was beginning to get his bearings, and before he got his breeches, he had a tail. Through the thousand processes of natural selection, men with tail found it harder and harder to be selected by discriminating mates. The result was that the Darwinian laws of natural selection and the survival of the fittest performed their perfect work, to the end that there arrived a generation of tailless men. This is not a pretty theory merely. It is pretty, to be sure, but not a theory—it is a fact demonstrated by the evolutionists. They have found the remains of men who had tails, but the tails, unfortunately, were of more fragile stuff and did not survive the main structure. So, admittedly, there is some guess work in the tail theory, but the evolutionists have certainly found fossil remains which prove that a gentleman's spine in the old days was equipped to carry a brush. Considering, then, that evolution eliminated tails from the genus humana, must we not suppose that tails were disdained by evolution? Assuredly. In such case how can the South Dallas customer controvert the wolf-dog decent by submitting the assertion that wolves' tails are pendulous, and dogs' rampants? Even so, it doesn't mean anything. Presumptively any creature with a tail carries it at whatever angle proves to be most restful. Some men carry their chins on their bosoms, while others carry their chins cocked upward. But that doesn't imply that both sort were not descended from Adam's chin, does it? It does not. Dogs evolved from wolves.

NEILL CHILDREN HAVE FOUR GRAND-PARENTS AS GUESTS

Jude Neill's children enjoyed the unique experience last week of seeing their four grand-parents at one time, when Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Neill, of Austin, the Judge's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Powell, of Sinton, Texas. Mrs. Neill's parents, were visiting them. Mr. and Mrs. Neill have spent most of the summer here visiting their daughter, Mrs. W. F. Stewart and the Judge, but returned home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Powell expect to spend the rest of the fall and winter here. Each of the four are between 70 and 80 years of age, and apparently all in splendid health for their age.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU TRADE IN THE OTHER TOWN

We are told that years ago Merkle boasted an ice plant, an oil mill, and a laundry. We are told by citizens residing here now who lived here then, that the reason these enterprises went out of business was because such institutions in nearby cities, larger than Merkle, came here and offered to sell the same products that were manufactured here at cheaper prices. What was the result? The people fell all over themselves to get to patronize the out of town concerns just because they were at the time offering goods at a little saving. Hence the home enterprises were forced to quit business. And the result—Merkle has no such enterprises, no pay rolls that are offered thru such enterprises, and last, today her people are paying the same companies twice as much for such services as she could have then gotten from the home concern. In other words the people, by their desire to save a few pennies then, helped to keep their own town from growing, and in the end themselves are having to pay more for goods manufactured away from home.

Let us say, further, that when the people of Merkle and surrounding country have further extended their patronage to the mail order houses and other out of town concerns, the day is just as sure to come when their own home town will be so small that they will be unable to buy scarcely a single item they need, not even a decent place to buy groceries, and will be compelled to go to the larger places or send to the mail order houses to buy their needs. And then when that day comes they will see and experience prices that will make them shudder to think about. The condition is no dream; it is already happening right here in Texas. For instance, towns within seventy miles of Dallas and Fort Worth, good towns, towns with ten thousand inhabitants, are gradually feeling the encroachment of these cities upon their trade. The firms of the big cities are sending daily their delivery cars right into the heart of these towns with loads of dry goods, groceries, bread, fruit, etc.—Merkle Mail.

Mrs. Jim Miller, of Tokio, was in Wednesday, shopping. On being asked how she liked Tokio, she answered "fine." A lady like Mrs. Miller who has lived in Chicago and other big northern cities, who can make herself useful and likable in places like Tokio, or Brownfield, for that matter, shows a contented mind.

Obsession of Death Made Empires Great

We have taken a brief and cursory glance at a civilization (Egyptian) which, though its qualities were but mediocre, endured for more than four thousand years. It is, with that of China, the longest that history has ever known. For 40 centuries, while the rest of the world was given over to barbarism, massacre, brigandage, rapine and monstrous disorder, it procured for the people who lived under it a happiness and tranquility, security and peace that might well be envied by the people of today who rank among the most fortunate.

What were the forces that kept this civilization together? Obviously and above all, the priestly oligarchy that held the reins, an oligarchy of wise and thoughtful men who jealously guarded their secret; while above them were kings not only by divine right but actually divine, the monarch not being merely the representative of the god on earth, but the god himself, and so concretely and actually god that not one, himself to begin with, for one instant doubted his divinity, of which he was so sincerely, so deeply convinced that he worshipped his own image and did it obsesance.

But there were other peoples who were governed by prudent oligarchies and kings who held themselves to be gods, and that nevertheless did not last long. In the Egyptian people, as in the Chinese, side by side with the divine authority that strengthened the social edifice from its base to its crown there existed a certain force that never left them, an authority humbler than the other but more effective, inasmuch as it permeated, saturated, the entire organism; and this was the obsession of death and the adoration of the corpse. Strangely enough, wherever the thought of death is uppermost, persistent, and paramount, life takes a firmer grip, quickens, multiplies, flourishes. The two civilizations that endured the longest, that were the most stable and tranquil of all that are known to us, had the same ideal: a coffin.—Maurice Maeterlinck, in the Forum.

Heat and Lightning

One of the stereotyped statements of the textbooks is that lightning is made visible by the "heating of the air." Just as the filament of an incandescent lamp is made to glow when an electric current passes through it. As no physicist, says Nature Magazine, has ever succeeded in making air luminous by any ordinary heating process, this explanation will hardly pass muster. The real explanation, according to Dr. W. J. Humphreys, must probably be sought in electrical phenomena within atoms of the atmospheric gases rather than in the molecular movements that constitute heat.

Eruption of Mount Pelee

Mr. Pelee is an active volcano on the northwestern side of Martinique, an island in the West Indies belonging to France. Notable eruptions of Mt. Pelee occurred in 1762, 1851, 1902 and 1906. During the eruption of May 8, 1902, a giant rock 1,000 feet high was forced out through the crateral dome. The town of St. Pierre was completely destroyed and between 25,000 and 30,000 people were killed. In the fall of the same year another eruption partly destroyed Morne Rouge and killed about 2,000 people.—Pathfinder Magazine.

He Wasn't Fired

One morning an invoice clerk turned up at his office even later than usual. His employer, tired of waiting for him, had himself gone about the work. The enraged merchant laid his pen aside very deliberately.

"Mr. Jones," he said, sternly, "this will not do!"

"No, sir," replied Jones, glancing over his employer's shoulder, "it will not. You have made these invoices out to the wrong people. Far better to have waited till I came!"

Hester English

Hester English was a Frenchwoman by extraction, and she was eminent for her fine chirography in the time of Queen Elizabeth and James I. Many of her performances are still extant both in the public libraries and in the hands of individuals. She was thought the most exquisite writer of her age. She married, at the age of forty, Bartholomew Kello, a North Briton, and had a son, who was educated at Oxford and was minister at Speckshall, in Suffolk.—Chicago Journal.

Making Real Pearls

Japanese pearls formed by an oyster round a nucleus of mother-of-pearl can now be definitely told from real pearls by spectrography with monochromatic X-ray waves. The mother-of-pearl center in the Japanese pearls produces a definite figure arrangement not unlike the Lane figures, while the real pearl shows a definite unstratified series of rings. The difference between the simple structure of the true pearl and the double structure of the Japanese grown pearl can be immediately recognized.

American Languages

Albert D. Richardson, who traveled in Missouri in the fifties, wrote of the pioneer's vocabulary. "Tolerable," he noted, was one of the most familiar words in the Missouri vernacular. He tells of asking his way:

"Is it a good road from here to St. Joseph?"

"Tolerable good, sir."

He found it "intolerably bad." So, meeting a teamster, he changed the form of the question.

"A bad road from here to St. Joseph, is it not?"

"Tolerable bad, stranger."

Then he asked a negro boy:

"Is it a straight road from here to St. Joseph?"

"Tolerable straight, Massa," was the reply.

But eastern vernacular was as strange to the Missourians. Richardson tells of a native who observed:

"I've lived on the frontier all my life. I know English and the sign language and have picked up a smattering of French, Spanish, Choctaw and Delaware; but one language I can't understand is this infernal New York language!"

He Had an Excuse

A very dignified looking gentleman stopped at a Park Row news stand and purchased two very staid, conservative newspapers and an extremely literary monthly magazine.

He paid for them—but after a moment's hesitation asked in addition for a certain monthly magazine bearing a decidedly zippy title.

It seems that he must have sensed something of the inconsistency of his purchase and felt that some kind of explanation was due—even to so un-literary a fellow as the particular news dealer in question.

"Er—I hope," he said, as he laid down the necessary amount for the magazine, "that you don't think I read this paper. Er—I'm just a contributor."—Monterey News.

"Hobble" Stairway

In a certain building in Skowhegan, Me., is an unusual flight of stairs which have a rise of five inches and a correspondingly narrow tread, looking as if they were made for the convenience of small children. This stairway was built according to the idea of Dr. Henry Leavitt, a dentist in the building. It was the day of the hobble skirt. Clad in a hobble skirt, any woman ascended a flight of ordinary stairs with difficulty and Doctor Leavitt planned the stairs with this style in mind. About the time they were finished, the style passed to await its resurrection, but the stairs still remain—a memorial to a forgotten freak of fashion.

Piano Autograph Book

The head of a music house in Washington lays claim to having a unique autograph "book." His book is a grand piano. On its lid are scratched the names of famous artists who have played there on that piano. Paderewski's name leads all the rest, the date after it being 1896.

Listen girls. Tahoka has a real Duke whether married or single the Lynn County News failed to state, we believe, therefore we infer that he is single. Now is your chance to be a titled lady. He was born in Russia as Duke Nicholas Kregg, and we will not hazard how many more names and titles, but in Tahoka he simply wears the democratic name of N. N. Kregg, and follows photographing for a livelihood. Still want him?

A large hotel company, with large hotels in Fort Worth, Dallas and a few other cities maybe, recently asked the Herald for advertising rates, which were submitted. At that time we really expected nothing from the matter, but they did happen before we expected it. Last week we got a long write up of the announcement of the opening of one of their new 700 room hotels which will be done during the Dallas Fair, amounting to something like $600 worth of pure advertising, and at the same time soliciting us to make our home there during the fair for some $200 to $500 per diem. Neither proposition interested us much. Of course the big dailies got the advertising and the little country weeklies the propaganda.

Well, the show didn't show in this town. It came and it went but it utterly failed to perform. A one night outfit blowed in Monday, camped, but that was all. Their representative was here last week and litterly camouflaged the town with posters, but didn't deem it necessary to pay his respects to the city council, or perhaps even inquire if there were any. In fact that august body was strictly ignored in the matter. But when they arrived Monday they were politely, but firmly informed that they would not be permitted to show in the incorporated limits of Brownfield, and they did not. Most of the little one night standers are in the same class with carnivals, and to our notion should be debarred from showing in any town.

That churches as well as other institutions are waking up to the possibilities of advertising is no longer in doubt. Churches are or should be business institutions in the fullest sense of the word. Their business is saving the souls of condemned man, which is the greatest business on the earth. Some churches are using display advertising in the papers, and still other are using other means to attract the lost to the place where salvation is to be had. Only this week the pastor of the local Methodist church contracted with the Herald to issue for him some hand bills to be distributed on the streets Saturday afternoons. Why not advertise? All other successful enterprises under the shining canopy of heaven advertise. The church must awake to its duty and use every fair means at its command to attract the worshiper.

The melancholy days of the year has arrived, we know, for they have been heralded by one of Editor Smith's melancholy odes. The following from a recent issue of the Lamesa Enterprise is typical and shows he is still pouting about the elections of more than a year ago that most other people had done forgotten:

"A few more months and the great political lights will be flashing on the canvas and we will have another chance to say whom we will have to rule over us, or at least who won't rule over us, but may rule anyway. Well, Ma had one term and according to rule has a right to a second. They have had no ground for impeachment and according to all precedents she will have a second term. Unless we undergo a radical change, we will not go to the polls next time. Some way they don't vote to suit us and we will just let them have Ma another trip if the Klan don't take some stock in the election, we don't know what Ma will do to get by. They say they are out of politics forever, and we have an idea they are or had just as well be."

From the Terry County Herald we note that the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce refused to give a premium to the farmer who brought in the first bale of cotton this season, because the farmer happened not to be doing his banking business in Brownfield this year. The Brownfield Chamber of Commerce may know its business and may be perfectly justifiable, but how on earth does Brownfield ever expect to win that farmer as a customer of their own by this kind of tactics? According to our own narrow way of thinking, that farmer should have been awarded the premium even though he had been a resident of New Mexico, and transacted his banking business with Sears & Bareback.—Ward County News.

It is an easy matter to judge and criticize people who live some 200 miles away and know nothing of the real circumstances, and that is exactly what the News is doing. Perhaps a farmer could get a premium on the same bale elsewhere for all the News knows. Perhaps he lived over in an adjoining county and did all his banking and other business at that county seat town, but learned that his trading point had already received its first bale. Perhaps the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce knew that a good loyal neighbor who does all his business here was at that time rushing to get a bale here next day. Perhaps that farmer who lived out of our trade territory and did no business here and never expected to just happen to want the $104 premium, and was warned not to come expecting it, but took the chance and came anyway in order to get his cotton ginned free and $10 rebated from the ginner. Perhaps there are many other things connected with the transaction that was not printed and that the Ward County News knows nothing about. Judge not less you be judged.

IT DOES NOT APPLY TO ABSTRACTS OF TITLE
 We mean the popular saying "What you don't know won't hurt You."
 It won't hurt you as long as you don't know it, but if it's a cloud on the title, "There'll come a time some day" in the words of the song, when you want to sell your property, and the other fellow (if he takes it at all)—will want a big chunk off the price to offset the cloud.
 At that time you will bitterly appreciate the value of an abstract which shows the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, about your title.
 And you want to be sure that the clouds you know about are All there are.
 No one in this country is so well equipped to furnish the complete, unassailable, unshakable truth about a title as we are. If you buy and sell property, you ought to know us, and we ought to know you.

BIG LAKE OIL REGION RAIDED FOR WHISKEY

San Angelo, Oct. 1.—State Rangers and local officers made the third organized liquor raid of the season near here Saturday. When the round-up was complete, 16 persons were under arrest and more than 1000 quarts of liquor confiscated.

The raids were made at Big Lake and Best, in the Reagan county oil fields, where officers have been attempting to stop the illicit liquor traffic for months. Five women were taken but later released. The men are being held in jail.

Mr. Berry, prominent merchant of Meadow, had business here Friday.

MISS ANN HAMILTON HAS SPLENDID OPENING SAT.

Miss Ann Hamilton, manager of the Hamilton Dry Goods informed us this week that she was more than pleased with her opening day last Saturday, and wished to thank the people for the generous response to her invitation to buy from her.

The Hamilton Dry Goods, newest of the many splendid dry goods firms located here, opened Saturday morning in the Fred Smith building, north side of the square, and has a very neat, new and clean stock. She has practically been reared here, and has a host of friends and well wishers.

Britt Clare, of Harris, was seen in town, this week.

FEWER FIRES MEANS GREATER PROSPERITY

Fire Prevention Week: Stop fires before they start. Fires can be prevented; the week focuses attention to this. It is the time to start stopping fires—to begin a campaign to last 52 weeks in the year.

A cow in Mrs. O'Leary's barn kicked the lantern that started the great Chicago fire of October 9, 1871. The 54th anniversary of this Fire Prevention week, 1925. Mrs. O'Leary's cow is symbolic of our everyday carelessness which now costs annually 15,000 lives and half a billion dollars.

Most fires are positively preventable. We only need apply existing engineering knowledge, or plain common sense. There is no excuse for a fire starting, or once started, spreading beyond the place where it starts.

Fire Prevention Week is set aside to think and act on preventing, restricting and extinguishing fires.

"But why should I be concerned about fires?" Perhaps you say, "my house and property are insured." Yes, and your butcher, baker and candlestick maker also carry insurance on their property—on their stores and stocks of goods. Everything you buy is insured in every step of its route from producer to consumer. In the price of a suit of clothes, a pound of meat, a loaf of bread, is concealed a tax which is your share of what is paid to replace what fire destroyed.

The insurance company, taking the premium it collects, distributes it to persons who lose by fire. Last year over $900,000,000 was lost by fire in the United States and Canada. Of this you paid approximately $5.00. If all the indirect losses are also included, such as the incalculable loss due to interruption of business, overhead costs in insurance and upkeep expenses on fire protection facilities, the individual burden becomes at least twice the above figures.

Besides the financial considerations fire killed 15,000 people last year, caused untold suffering, unemployment and business failures.

Insurance money may rebuild your house. But how about the lives of your family, your home, your family treasures, and your job? All may be destroyed by fire. Why gamble with these your priceless possessions.

While the fire loss impoverishes us as a nation, every fire is itself local and must be attacked locally. We have three lines of attack against fire—first, preventing it from starting, second, preventing it from spreading, and third, putting it out.

We have control over the physical factors which cause and spread fire. We throw matches and cigaret ends around promiscuously, we are careless with hazardous materials, we build flimsy houses that burn readily, we leave our cities wide open to conflagration, not providing any areas of superior construction as barriers to them; and we are content to let our fire departments get along as best they can, under-equipped and under-manned.

In Fire Prevention Week we should take steps to clean up hazards in our community; to develop care with matches and smokes; to enact ordinances to provide for better building construction and for improvements in the fire and water departments. A cleanup will take care of the hazards as are immediately and easily remediable and while the development of careful habits and improvements in the physical makeup of the community will provide its future salvation from fire.—By J. J. Timmins, State Fire Marshall.

PRACTICAL ANSWER TO PERPETUAL COAL STRIKES

Sooner or later periodical coal controversies will result in one of two things, either government control of mines or the substitution of other means of heat. Either recourse will not be profitable to the coal operators or miners.

Chas. A. Monroe, prominent in the manufactured gas industry, and leading public utility executives whose companies produce gas, are developing an organization to carry on research work to make gas available as fuel to all industrial users.

"Heretofore no one has been able to spend enough time and money to develop the proper appliances for the utilization of gas fuel in industry. As the demand for gas is increasing, the immediate development of such appliances becomes an obligation," says Mr. Monroe.

This is the most practical answer to the coal strike—use some other kind of fuel.

Uncle Bill Howard and wife were the jovial hosts at their farm home at dinner last Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Neill and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Powell, of south Texas, who were Uncle Bill's neighbors in Comanche county 30 years ago. It was a great pleasure to all of these old folks, after wandering so far apart so long to reassemble, especially in good old Terry county.

Mrs. Joe James, of Tatum, N.M., visited Mrs. McChish, last Wednesday.

Scientists See Ending of Niagara's Grandeur

Once more the scientists have been casting a calculating eye upon Niagara Falls. In the news headlines we are told of a situation gaining in gravity on the Canadian side through the recession due to the wearing away of the limestone bed of the river. In a report to the Smithsonian institution, says the New York World, we read that, in effect, the falls are committing suicide and that the speed of the operation increases relentlessly.

However, as we read on in these forecasts we find comfort for wedding tourists and exposition promoters alike. The falls, it appears, have taken 10,000 years to go seven miles in their recession to date. On the Canadian side they are now receding five feet a year, at which rate it will take rather more than a thousand years to score only another mile.

While a thousand years may be but yesterday in the sight of science, it is really quite a space of time in the affairs of commerce and the tourist trade.

Combined Attack of Gulls Drove Off Hawk

Seagulls' victory over a hawk is described by Albert R. Keen of North Devon in a recent issue of the London Times. He says: "I was visiting Lynton recently and from the high cliffs above the sea I witnessed a most remarkable air battle between about a dozen or more seagulls and a hawk. Their organization and method of attack on the hawk was very much like air battles in the World war. The attack lasted for about fifteen minutes, until the gulls had driven the hawk entirely away from their domain where they were nesting and chased him off down the coast for a mile or two. The gulls all together cleverly pounced on him with severe pecks and then the other gulls closed in around it was a very interesting sight."

Leather Retains Strength

That leather of good quality kept for ten years, under ordinary conditions, does not lose more than 15 per cent of its strength was shown by experiments of the bureau of standards. Being stored in the laboratory for a decade was found to be only slightly weaker than new material of the same grade. Indicating that articles made from it would be preserved for an indefinite period if subjected to normal atmosphere, ventilation and light while dampness and sunlight appear to have a harmful effect on the leather. It is believed the results of the studies will enable manufacturers of shoes, luggage and similar goods to alter shipping and storage practices, since such articles may be capable of many years of service even though they might not reach the user until one to three years after they are made.—Exchange.

His Lambs

On the occasion of a special service at a village church the vicar of a large London parish was persuaded to preach. The congregation was naturally an agricultural one.

After the service the London clergyman stopped to speak to a very old shepherd in the churchyard, and asked him how many sheep he had in his flock.

"Three hundred," replied the old man.

"That is nothing," said the other; "my flock is over five thousand strong."

"My word!" gasped the old shepherd; "you must 'ave had a terrible busy time last lambin' season."

Pigeon Aids Identification

A homing pigeon was the means of discovering the identity of a man found unconscious and badly injured at the foot of a steep hill at Woodseats, near Sheffield. On the back of the cycle was found a basket containing homing pigeons, of which the police took charge. All attempts to identify the man by sending out a police description and by an appeal from the Sheffield relay wireless station failed, and recently the police liberated two of the pigeons, with notes attached to their legs. Shortly afterward they received a message from one of the owners of the pigeons, living near Chesterfield, who telephoned information which gave a clue to the man's identity.—Family Herald.

Sugar or Candy

Granulated, lump, pulverized and brown sugars, though differing in texture and flavor, are practically alike in composition. They contain little or nothing but sugar. A pound of candy may be considered the equivalent in fuel value of a pound of sugar. Water which has no fuel value, is used in making candy, but so, too, are chocolate and nut meats, which have higher fuel values than sugar. The proportion of sugar in thick sirups, such as honey and molasses, is about three-fourths of a pound to the pound, and in jellies, jams and rich preserves, about one-half of a pound to the pound.

By Direct Command

They were discussing the advent of their baby sister, but neither could give a satisfactory explanation of the new arrival.

At last the elder boy said: "I know how it was."

"How?" asked his brother.

"Why," he exclaimed, with an air of relief and decision. "God said, 'Let there be Phyllis,' and there was Phyllis."

Concrete Streets in TEXAS

Can you say as Mayor A. A. Hacker of Brenham, Texas, says: "We are proud of our streets. About four years ago we paved all the principal ones in the business district with Portland Cement Concrete, 7 inches thick. There has been practically no expense for maintenance, and it seems to me as though the Concrete gets better with years."

They know in Brenham that there is no excuse for bumpy streets, for under the heaviest traffic Concrete stays rigid, permanent, free from bumps or ruts. Concrete pavement has the maintenance built into it.

Many Texas cities and towns are paving with Concrete because like Brenham they have learned its outstanding advantages through experience.

Concrete streets are also skidproof and they remain true and even through changing seasons.

Our Booklet R-4 tells more about Concrete streets and the experience of many towns which know the profit of having invested in permanent pavement.

PRESIDENT OF UTILITIES
FOR MISSOURI GOVERNOR

According to the Springfield, Mo., Daily Post, the "show me" state is about to draft Hon. I. R. Kelso of Cape Girardeau, Mo., for the next Democratic standard bearer for the office of Governor of that state.

It is said by this paper that this big business man has been very active in public affairs in that state, not to mention charity organization which he headed and raised great funds during the late World War. He is said to have been active as head of the Federated Commercial Clubs in Missouri of promoting good roads and in keeping the citizens from being stung by supply people during the construction of these highways. His big power and light company in south east Missouri was the first to readjust prices at the close of the war, to the chagrin of the other big power and light companies. With these things in view, it is believed that the people of Missouri will forget party affiliations in this campaign, and the common people will support him regardless of their party alignment.

As president of the Texas Utilities Company, Mr. Kelso is interested in Brownfield in their splendid ice plant here, and has visited this city, and made friends here with all with whom he came in contact, who hope him success in his race.

WILL OF THE DRIVER

"A sweeping and effective reform in the driving of automobiles could be effected by the insurance companies by the adoption of a rule which would refuse liability insurance, for a term of years, to any owner of an automobile whose negligence in any manner contributes to an accident resulting in injury to any person.

There is a close psychological bond between liability insurance and unreliability in driving. The man who settles back with the contented feeling that he is "covered" may get careless and reckless, often without realizing it. The man who knows he is responsible for all consequences of his driving is almost invariably careful.

"The tide in the number of accidents and fatalities, increasing daily, will never be turned except by reaching the will of the man behind the wheel. Penalties, regrets, funerals, come at the wrong end of the accidents to be effective preventatives."—Tampa Morning Tribune.

Just what legal restrictions insurance companies might encounter by such a policy is a question. But the suggestion of the Tribune is a good one as the starting point toward accident prevention. Some responsibility required on the part of the driver makes him more careful.

E. G. and E. G. Abbott have just closed a deal for the Cockrell stage line between Lubbock and Brownfield, and Monday morning started running their Lone Star stage over the route.

Abbott Bros. operate stage lines out of Lubbock to Sweetwater, Crosbyton, Spur and Floydada, connecting with the Quanah stage at Floydada, giving direct car connection with Ft. Worth and Wichita Falls.—Lubbock Avalanche.

MARRIED

Henry, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chisholm, of this city, and Miss Lillie Purcell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Purcell, who live six miles north of town, drove to the residence of A. L. Burnett at the Church of Christ parsonage at 10 A.M. last Thursday where they were united in marriage by Elder Burnett.

This happy and popular young couple will make their home in the residence they recently purchased from Frank Martin, Jr.

Paducah—This city has been handicapped for several years by inadequate water supply has solved the problem and has secured a supply of soft water sufficient for a city of ten thousand people. A new reservoir has been installed and new mains laid throughout the city. The water system is municipally owned.

C. H. Hetrick, formerly of Ballinger, came in last Friday to take Mrs. Ella Detrol's place as cashier at the depot.

High Aim in Teaching
Kindness to Animals

Several years ago, writes M. L. H. of the Humane Education Press-bureau, Boston, the well-known American journalist and poet, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, wrote:

"Many times I am asked why the suffering of animals seems to call forth more sympathy from me than the suffering of human beings; why I give more time and effort in this direction of charitable work than to ward any other.

"My answer is because I believe this work includes all the educational lines of reform which are needed to make a perfect circle of peace and good will about the earth.

"A majority of the people who hear about the societies for prevention of cruelty to animals imagine the work of those societies consists in arresting and punishing cruel drivers and in furnishing homes for vagrant animals. But these are only side issues of the main work. The real work is the education of the growing generation in kindness to all weaker and lesser creatures of earth.

"Thoughts are things. Thought is energy—thought is creative power. That is why it is important to direct the minds of human beings to good, kind, helpful thoughts."

It is, therefore, the aim and object of the humane education organizations in this country to instill in the minds of the boys and girls in the schools today the principles of justice, kindness and mercy to all living creatures.

Finest Chinese Teas

Regarded as Dessert

Of course, Chinese do not eat the cream, for the whole cult of cold foods and cold drinks is contrary to their dietetic principles. Many centuries ago when China was swept by cholera one of the sages recommended that the water be boiled, and in order to make the heated fluid more palatable a herb was steeped in it, now known as tea. Hence the development of tea culture throughout the Flowery Kingdom and the ceremonial significance of tea drinking. John W. Harrington writes in the New York Herald Tribune. In the chop suey restaurant ordinary tea is served in pots, just as though it were water, but the superfine teas are in reality dessert drinks, just as a port wine or a champagne was once considered in the days of the three-bottle men. When one is offered after dinner a small cup in which is such tea as "Mist on the Mountain" costing many dollars the pound, one knows that something most complimentary and luxurious is intended.

Amazing Error in Bible

Comical mistakes are not all confined to early Bibles put out by obscure printers. At even so late a date as 1804 no less an institution than the Clarendon press, maintained within the sacred precincts of Oxford university itself, perpetrated what is known as the "near" Bible. In all well-ordered family Bibles, Matthew 13:43 reads, "Who hath ears to hear, let him hear." Hence one can imagine the horror of the meticulous English sages when an edition of the Holy Book came from this press with this particular verse reading as follows: "Who hath ears to ear, let him hear." All of which goes to show that the cockney influence will occasionally make itself felt even within the dignified quadrangle of England's oldest university.—New York Herald.

5000 BALES OF COTTON OPEN IN BROWNFIELD TERRITORY

The report has gone out to the daily press that 5000 bales of cotton are now open in the Brownfield territory, and no matter who sent the report, they are not far off. Indeed by the time this reaches readers that may be a very conservative estimate.

Every effort possible should be put forth to get pickers, not only that the crop may be harvested before the approach of winter, but that the staple may be gathered while it is white and clean and will bring as much money as possible.

Then, too, as stated elsewhere in these columns, we have an immense feed crop to be harvested, and that must take some laborers out of the cotton fields. We simply must not let the feed crop go to waste.

Stamford.—B. M. Whitaker, exhibit manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will open the exhibit program of the organization at the East Texas Cotton Palace at Athens, Oct. 5th. TEXAS UTILITIES CUT LIGHT AND POWER RATE 10 PERCENT

I. R. Kelso, president of the Texas Utilities Co., who lives in St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo., wired the Lubbock headquarters of the company Tuesday of this week to make a cut of ten percent flat reduction in the power and light rates over their entire system in Texas, beginning Nov. 1st, and applying to October bills.

This came as quite a surprise in view of the huge construction just being finished, under construction or planned by them for the immediate future on the South Plains, and only goes to show that corporations doing business on a large scale can do it cheaper if they will.

Rising Star.—The longest continuous asphalt highway in Texas extends from this place to Fort Worth and Dallas. Asphalt is now being placed on the gravel highway from here to Coleman and by January first the entire distance from Coleman to Fort Worth will be asphalt paved. The splendid highway has caused a stage line to route their busses from Fort Worth to San Angelo via Rising Star. Traveling over the Bankhead highway to Cisco.

Not Even One Honest

Man in French Village

Just as New England has its stories of wooden nutmegs, so France has certain classics revealing the tendency of her countrymen to save pennies now and then at the expense of their fellows.

One of the best concerns a popular village priest. The villagers voted amid great enthusiasm to give him a barrel of their best wine for his birthday. Each of the wine growers was to bring a bottle and empty it into the barrel.

On the appointed day peasant after peasant marched up to the barrel, egged the priest, and plunging the nozzle of his green bottle through the bung hole poured its gurgling contents within.

When the last contribution had been made the chairman of the committee made an even longer speech of praise, and drew from the barrel to drink the health of the priest.

To the astonishment of everybody the glass contained only clear water. Each farmer had assumed that the other would bring the wine.

Speed Contests That

Are Not on Record

An exciting contest took place recently between a motorcyclist and an express train along the 500 miles between Sydney and Brisbane, Australia. The lone cyclist won, reaching his destination 20 minutes before the train. A kangaroo raced a train in Australia, keeping alongside the loco motive for three miles, according to Titt-Bits.

Perhaps the most grotesque railway races have been on occasions when members of the crews have had to race their own trains, after having signalled the train to proceed and then being unable to board any of the cars. One man in England gave the "right away" signal and then found the train had gathered speed so quickly that he was unable to board it.

His absence was not discovered until the next station was reached. After several minutes the guard was seen sprinting after the train. He lost the race by 11 minutes. Another guard missed his train, but pursued it on a motorcycle which he commandeered.

Dig Up Martyrs of 1684

An ancient coffin was recently unearthed in the Townhead district of Glasgow which contained the skeletonized remains of a man. The coffin was found some 15 feet behind the well-known Martyrs' monument, which fronts Castle street, a circumstance that gave rise to the theory that the remains were those of one of the three men—James Nisbet, James Lawson and Alexander Wood—who were martyred in 1684. The excavation process has disclosed only one grave, and it is suggested that the remains may be buried near the monument erected in 1818 and renewed in 1862. The three martyrs commemorated by the monument were apparently originally laid to rest in a piece of ground now of triangular shape situated behind James Nisbet street, but no longer marked as a spot of sanctity or sepulcher.—London Mail.

MEADOW GETS FIRST BALE LAST MONDAY

The first bale of cotton for this season was received Saturday but on account of it being too wet it was not ginned until Monday. It was brought in by C. L. E. Miels living 6 miles east of Meadow in the Prairie View community.

The bale was ginned by the Handley Gin Co., and weighed 453 pounds. A premium of $35 was raised by the business men of the town and sold for 23¢ per pound. C. W. Avery & Company being the buyers.

Several other bales have been bro't in since Monday and a good number ginned is expected to be reached by Saturday night.—Meadow Review.

Estelline.—A Chamber of Commerce has been organized here. R. H. Whately was elected president and R. L. Erwin secretary. Two major programs to be worked out at once are incorporation of the city and the building of a larger and better school.

Here's the DIFFERENCE

It is a common practice of motor car dealers to put a quart of oil in the gasoline when the car is run for the first time. That, in crude form is the principle of Motopower. It softens and dissolves the carbon and the exhaust stroke reduced it gradually.

The place where carbon does real harm to a motor is in the valve seats, on the valve stems and under the piston rings. Being a heat resisting oil, Motopower forms a thin film of oil on those parts. Carbon will not stick, the valves will not stick and the result is good compression. This means more power and more miles per gallon.

Exceptional Riding Comfort

The riding comfort of a motor car is not dependent upon its length weight or cost, any more than the comfort of a home depends upon its size.

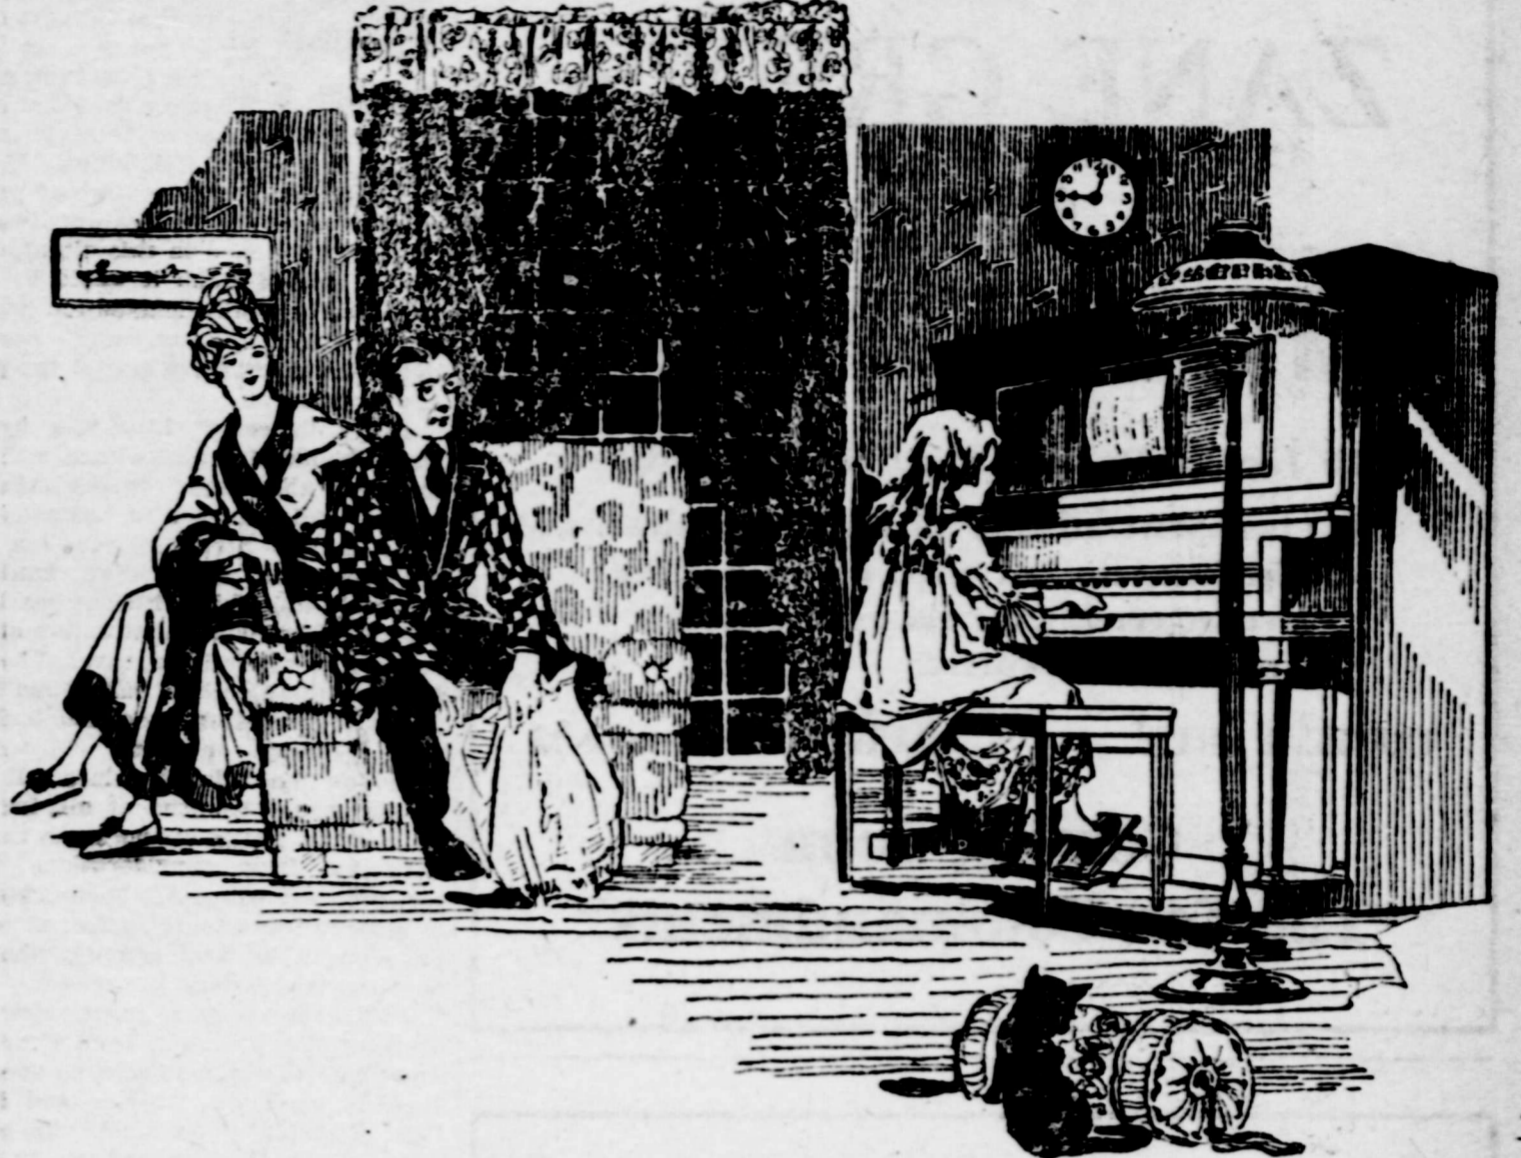

If the seats are deep enough and the proper distance from the floor; if the seat backs are correctly pitched for relaxation; if the upholstery is sufficiently stuffed and there is plenty of leg room; above all, if the springs are rightly designed and of proper length, you will have exceptional riding comfort. Otherwise, you will not.

Dodge Brothers, with characteristic thoroughness, studied and experimented with these details for years. Their findings were ultimately incorporated in the design of Dodge Brothers Motor Car without question now a vehicle that ranks with the first in this vitally important feature.

LUBBOCK, TEXAS

SELL TO THEM WHO CAN DELIVER THE SERVICE

On October 17, the people are to decide whether the city shall sell its light and power plant and ice factory or retain the same. On this day they will also decide whether or not the bonds of the city shall be issued in the sum of $60,000 with which to improve and extend the water system of the city. As we have been informed, practically all members of the city council, with the exception of the mayor, are in favor of selling the electric light and power plant and the ice factory. The News is not at this time expressing any opinion as to whether or not this property is to be sold. If it should be sold we hope that it will pass into the hands of a company with sufficient capital to greatly improve the light and power plant and give the people of the city the very best service. If it should remain in the hands of the city we hope that the city will find it possible to improve the service. We have no criticism of the service being given except in the matter of power. Those of our citizenship who use the power furnished by the city find the service unsatisfactory, due to lack of adequate equipment, we are told. If the citizens decide that the city shall retain the electric light and power plant, we hope the city will immediately set about the task of so equipping the plant that a sufficiently strong and even current may be supplied at all times. If the city should make this improvement, then we can see no good reason for selling the property. Unless the city can give assurance that this will be done, then we are in favor of selling it to some company that will do it. We understand that the electric light and power plant has been a paying proposition and that it brings quite a neat sum of money each month into the city treasury. The ice factory, too, is yielding a satisfactory income, we are told. This being true, we believe that the people buying power should get service, and either the city should give it or should be willing to sell to a company that will give it. Our columns are open to the members of the City Council, the mayor, or any citizen of Tahoka for a discussion of the proposition.—Tahoka News.

THE BANKER-EDUCATOR PLAN TO PROMOTE BETTER AGRICULTURE

By D. H. OTIS,
Agricultural Director, American Bankers Association

Whenever bankers desire to promote actively agricultural improvement in their communities, the state agricultural colleges stand ready to show them the way and to give expert assistance. The purpose of this article is to illustrate the way in which the colleges are getting in contact with the banks, and the kind of assistance they render.

D. H. Otis

As soon as the college has a list of the banks in the state desiring to adopt plans to aid agriculture as indicated by project blanks sent out to all the banks in the state, by the State Bankers Association Agricultural Committee, it gives practical suggestions to each banker on the list as to what he can do to stimulate, organize, and conduct the work in the particular project he has selected. Then either a department specialist from the college or the county agent gets in personal touch with the banker to assist him in an advisory capacity.

Samples of the project outlines are given below to illustrate the details of the procedure the college takes in accomplishing its plan.

College Provides Expert Advisers
In counties with no county agent a list of the banks desiring to carry on a project is sent to a specialist at the state college, according to the project listed. For instance, the banks desiring to carry on the farm accounts project are assigned to the farm management specialist, those desiring to carry on the legume project to the agronomy specialist, those interested in boys' and girls' club work to the junior extension specialist, and so forth.

In counties that do have a county agent a list of the banks and the projects in which each is interested is sent to him with a request that he get in touch with the bankers and help them in regard to the various projects.

The next step by the college is to write to each banker on the list sending him project outlines and informing him that the county agent or a specialist from the college will get in touch with him. If there is no agent in the county this letter reads as follows:

Union State Bank,
Bankville.

Gentlemen—You will find enclosed a brief outline of the farm accounts project in which you have indicated your interest to your State Agricultural Committee and the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association.

I am sure that the specialist from the agricultural college will be pleased to assist you in carrying out the suggestions indicated. We have asked him to get in touch with you.

Director, Agricultural Extension.

The letter to bankers in counties that do have a county agent informs them that he will get in touch with them.

Suggests Things the Banker Can Do
The project outlines sent to each banker give specific suggestions as to the things he can do to organize the work in his project, and the part he can take in carrying out the work. The more simple and concrete these suggestions are the more valuable they are to the banker. Following are samples of such project outlines:

Farm Accounts Project

1. Banker can select group of farmers who can and should undertake the work of farm accounts.
2. Arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for first meeting of the group and select an account book.
3. Assist individuals at their request with information relative to entering accounts and other data properly.
4. Act as or select leader for the group.
5. Assist in checking inventories as a means of securing individual financial statement at close of the year.

Boys' and Girls' Club Work

1. The banker can arrange with the county agent or the specialist from the agricultural college for organizing a club.
2. Plan to present various types of club work at the next meeting and perfect the organization of a local club.
3. Banker may act as local leader of the club.
4. Cooperate with county agent or specialist in annual "Achievement Day."
5. Banker may offer prizes for club work or otherwise assist in financing same.

Legume Project

1. The banker can get information from county agent or specialist from the agricultural college on the value of alfalfa, soy bean, or sweet clover crops to farmers of the community.
2. Arrange for meeting of interested farmers with county agent or specialist.
3. At this meeting county agents, specialists, or others will discuss:
 - (a) Value of crop.
 - (b) Seed supply and varieties.
 - (c) Methods of handling the crop.
 - (d) Use and disposition of crop.
4. Plan with county agent or specialist meetings and demonstrations on plots or fields.
5. Secure exhibits for community or county fair.

Cow Testing Associations

1. The banker can arrange with county agent or specialist from agricultural college for meeting of interested group of farmers in the community for the purpose of organizing a cow testing association.
2. Banker may act as leader, and with county agent or specialist plan to visit prospective farmers who may join the association.
3. Organize for work and assist in securing testing equipment and other materials whenever necessary.
4. Call meetings periodically to discuss association business and hold picnics or tours.
5. Banker with county agent or specialist may arrange for C. T. A. booth at community or county fair giving testing demonstrations and explaining work of association.

This constitutes the preliminary work by the college which paves the way for constructive work by the bankers in banker-farmer projects.

MY SECOND ANSWER TO THE MEADOW CORRESPONDENT

If I know who our friend is, and I think I do, we regard him as a friend and personally I have no criticism. He is my brother and a fellow citizen with me in this town. But when anyone assails the Baptist church that I am pastor of in a county paper, they will usually find me on the job.

The Baptist Church in the "whereas and resolution" was only registering their protest against the teaching of evolution as a reference to them will show. And the article of the Meadow Correspondent will confirm the truth of the fifth "whereas" that the supporters offer no proof for their position but in its place only ridicule and scorn.

All will notice that he did not try to answer my article on creation, or to give the least bit of proof that it was not true. He accuses us of dragging the church question in the discussion; we did nothing of the kind. The Church has a perfect right to pass resolutions and in his article against the resolutions, he himself stated that the Baptist church as an organization came into existence in the sixteenth century, and it was the question of the origin of the Baptist church that we thought he should have left out of the article, and we think so yet.

Our Meadow Correspondent says his idea about God and the Bible are different from that of Darrow, and that may be true. Evolution is but a theory, and all evolutionists have their own guess about God and the Bible. But he was agreed with Darrow on some things, and no doubt if he had been in Dayton he would have joined company with them who gave the ovation to Darrow.

He says that "if you wish to debate evolution as a solution of life as we find it in the past, and as we find it in the present as deduced from the physical sciences, and leaving out all references to the scripture, I will think it over."

The peculiar thing about all evolutionists is they want to do away with the Bible. If they could eliminate the Bible it would be easier to throw the world into confusion. I would be a wise soldier to go to battle without a weapon, and as a gospel preacher the Bible is my weapon, for it is the word of God, and the "Word of God is the sword of the Spirit." Eph. 6-17. My brother, I would not debate evolution with you and leave out all references to the scriptures, for they are my defense, and the physical sciences, so-called are your defense, you being the witness.

He says it is a long way from John the Baptist to John Smyth. What does John Smith have to do with the origin of the Baptists? Nothing. Anyone who would disregard God's word about creation would have to regard for what he said about the Church, "that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Matt. 16-18. Paul said "Unto him be glory in the church by Jesus Christ throughout all ages, world without end." Eph. 3-21.

To anyone who really wants to believe God's word, these verses prove the perpetuity of the church, whether evolutionists can find the footprints or not.

I am of the opinion that if the Meadow correspondent accepted our challenge to debate the origin, doctrine and practices of the New Testament Baptist, he would have discovered that we could find the footprints of the church down through the past years without Roger Williams or John Smyth having any connection.

This definitely closes our part of this discussion if our Meadow friend is satisfied to quit.

Charles Burnett, Pastor,
Of the Meadow Baptist Church

Roswell, N. M.—A silver fox farm is a new industry near here. It is located on the Roswell-El Paso highway near the Mescalero Reservation. UNEARNED CRITICISM

By FRANCIS H. SISSON
Chairman, Public Relations Commission
American Bankers Association

There has been some disposition to criticize the administration of the country's banking system for the sudden collapse of prices and curtailment of credits in 1920 and 1921, and the subsequent financial difficulties of the farmer. As a matter of fact, whatever blame may attach to bankers must be for the too generous financing, in many cases, of speculative investment in farm property during the period of inflation. If any just criticism could be directed at the manner in which the Federal Reserve System functioned in this situation in the opinion of many it would be that the Reserve banks delayed too long in raising the discount rates. An earlier effort might have stayed the process of inflation.

The collapse of 1920 was by no means confined to agriculture, and was the inevitable sequel to the inflation period. All branches of business suffered in this period of reaction and perhaps none more than banking, against which this criticism has been leveled. The financial situation of the farmer was greatly aggravated by the fact that the high land values and high prices of agricultural products had led many farmers to incur obligations based on the inflated values. If the farmer was victimized at all, indeed, he was the victim of too much rather than too little consideration. The real progress which has been achieved in agricultural finance in recent years lies more in the intelligent distribution of farm credit than in volume.

With agencies now functioning for the provision of ample credits for the American farmer, his enduring success depends upon the wisdom and foresight with which he meets the problems of production and marketing. More than ever before, his activities must be regulated with reference to world conditions, and his profits, like those of the manufacturer or merchant, will reflect the measure of his success in adjusting his activities to these conditions.

Wise Observation

It is my observation that it is always unwise and never desirable to attempt the impossible.—From an Address by the Hon. Cato Sells.

Charity

It is proper that alms should come out of a little purse, as well as out of a great sack, but surely, where there is plenty, charity is a duty, not a courtesy.—Edmund Burke.

Wholly Untrue

"John, dear; dinner's on the table. Now don't rush; take your time and finish reading your story—there's no hurry."—Life.

BANKERS HELP

The banks of Linn County Oregon, are showing more enthusiasm than ever this year in behalf of a county corn exhibit similar to that held last year at the Linn County Fair. Last year's exhibit was the result of a contest for a prize offered by a number of local banks. This was so successful that this year ten out of the eleven banks in the county will subscribe to the effort.

The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association has recommended that a scholarship fund be established for the education of worthy young men and women along agricultural and home economics lines. It is estimated that if each bank in the state were to contribute 25 cents per thousand capital, five to six thousand dollars per annum would be realized.

The Agricultural Committee of the Oklahoma Bankers Association, in its report, recommends that the bankers see that a competent agent is appointed in each county and that he has a degree from some agricultural college. They believe that the agricultural possibilities of the state should be better advertised and that each county bankers association should do some work along that line.

Searcy County Bankers Association, Arkansas, entertained as its guests recently some seventy-five farmers and business men. The result was the organization of the North Central Arkansas Agricultural Association. Its purpose will be to co-ordinate the efforts of the farmers and business men in promoting a better agriculture. Searcy County bankers are giving 100 settings of purebred eggs for distribution to the boys' and girls' clubs in the county.

H. S. Mowrer, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the New Jersey Bankers Association, together with H. J. Baker, director of extension work in the College of Agriculture, made a complete tour of the state this spring, calling on the county agents and agricultural committees of the various county organizations to get a definite line-up on the work done and the plans for the coming year. Ways and means for furthering the program of the state committee were considered at these conferences.

NEW RURAL ROUTE NOW IN OPERATION

We were informed this week by Postmaster J. C. Bohannon that the tri-weekly rural route running south of town was now serving some sixty families and that new names were being added almost daily. Instead of returning to town over the same road as originally planned by the postal department, however, the route goes west from the Union community and returns via the Lahay community.

Mr. Bohannon said he was now working for a route west and north, and he felt sure would get it, and that the very near future would see both routes made dailies.

These routes besides accommodating farmers on them, will somewhat relieve the crowded situation at the local postoffice, it is believed.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Terry County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Lewis Wasson by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 106th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest district to said 106th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Terry County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Brownfield, Texas, on the 3rd Monday in January, 1926, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 23rd day of September, 1925, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 842, wherein Millie Wasson is Plaintiff, and Lewis Wasson is Defendant, and said petition alleging:

That plaintiff is an actual bonafide resident of the State of Texas, and has been for more than a year last past, and resided in the county of Terry for six months next preceding the filing of this suit. That on or about the 3rd day of December, 1911, plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married in the State of Oklahoma, and continued to live together as man and wife until on or about the first day of July, 1923. That plaintiff during the time that she lived and cohabitated with defendant as aforesaid, had four children, to-wit: A girl by the name of Margret-Ester, aged 13; a girl by the name of Ora-Lee, aged 8; a girl by the name of Eletha, aged 5 and a boy named Erchel age 2 years; that during all of said time she conducted herself with propriety, and managed the household affairs of her said husband with prudence and economy, and at all times treated her said husband with kindness and forbearance. But that defendant, disregarding the solemnity of his marriage vow and his obligation to treat plaintiff with kindness and attention, within about two years prior to their separation, commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical conduct toward her, which continued with slight intermissions, until she was finally driven away from her home by defendant and sent away by him together with her said children on or about July 1, 1923. That on divers occasions, while plaintiff lived with defendant, as aforesaid, he was guilty of excesses, cruel treatment and outrages toward her of such a nature as to render their living together insupportable; that during all the time they lived in the State of New Mexico defendant would come home drunk and curse and abuse plaintiff and threaten her with serious bodily harm and injury; calling her vile and indecent names and heaping abuse upon her, and repeatedly threatening to take her life; such abuse and threats finally terminating when defendant forced plaintiff to leave their said home and carry with her their said children; and that in consequence of the cruel and inhuman treatment above mentioned, together with threats aforesaid, and such brutal and outrageous conduct toward her as rendered it unsafe for her to live with him or to remain within reach of his violence, and plaintiff fearing the defendant would follow her up and take her said children away from her came to the State of Texas on the date above mentioned, and since said time has never heard from defendant.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition as the law directs and that upon final hearing the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant be dissolved, for the custody, care and control of said children; for general and special relief in law and equity to which she may be entitled to receive.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Brownfield, this 23rd day of Sept., 1925.

(10-23) Jay Barret, Clerk,
District Court Terry County, Texas
